EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos, relaxed and warm in their new heated dugout, scampered out in the frosty air Saturday night to whip the numbed Winnipeg Blue Bombers 25-7 in the first game of the best-of-three Western Interprovincial Football Union finals.

A biting 15-mile-an-hour wind in a 25-degree temperature sent icy blasts across the snow-covered field but on the Edmonton bench two big heaters, of the type used to keep air force and navy aircraft engines in cold weather, threw waves of warm air over the Eskimos and two huge ducts carried the heat along the gravel-bottomed pen.

Meanwhile, Bombers were taking their beatings huddled under parkas and blankets on a similar uncovered dugout bench.

Edmonton football fans are wondering if it was this new heating system that got quarterback Claude Arnold and reserve quarter Ray Willsey so warmed up that their combined efforts on polished signal calling stopped Bombers cold.

MILES, PANTAGES STAR

Negro seatback Rollie Miles, in for injured halfback Billy Vessels, plunged over for two key majors to spur an almost invincible Eskimo ground attack.

Rod Pantages rubbed brilliantly for Eskimos' other all-star casualty, backfielder Johnny Kwong. Pantages went over for the third Edmonton touchdown, and his accurate toe lifted seven more for an average 53 yards, and two of them resulted in singles.

End Neill Armstrong, former Philadelphia Eagle, caught a five-yard toss across the line for the Winnipeg major with only a minute remaining and Earl Kotchak converted.

The other Bomber point came in the first quarter when Miles bullied back over the line after taking Jack Jacobs' long punt.

Bombers had only 11 plays in Eskimo territory, and came within scoring range only five short-lived times.

Eskimos outrah Bombers 204 yards to 96. Whenever Eskimos have used their right ground offensive to that advantage this season, opposition passing plays haven't made much difference. Bombers beat the Eskis twice in five meetings during the season's regular schedule, and both times with a stronger ground attack.

UNIQUE PROBLEM

NORTHWICH, England (AP)—A disputed goal in a soccer match Saturday gave British football officialdom a problem unique in its history.

The Runcorn team walked off the field after insisting a Witton Albion shot had entered the goal through the net and not fairly. The referee had given them five minutes to accept his ruling that the goal was good.

Rules make no provision for forfeits when a team refuses to finish a game—adding like that ever happened before. The only regulation that could possibly apply calls for a replay if a game is not completed.

Witton Albion, which felt it was leading 3-1 at the time, might not like the idea of starting all over again.

Unbeaten Oshawa Truckmen Edge Memos In Senior 'B' Overtime Thriller

Geo. Samolenko Fires Winner After Memos Blow Goal Lead In Hard-Driving Third Period

By GEO. H. CARVER (Sports Editor)

George Samolenko's blazing wrist-in-high shot in the third minute of overtime gave a blasting senior "B" hockey duel here Saturday night, and gave the Oshawa Truckmen a 4-3 victory over the Belleville Memos.

It was the Truckmen's fourth victory in as many starts and as they top the group ladder with eight points. Peterborough Petes are second with five.

The outstanding work of Lee Colvin, Truckmen goalie, was the deciding factor in the Truckmen's win. The latter, playing in a heads-up battle, staged a consistent top-speed offensive outshot the group leaders 43-40. The first effort was made at Colvin as against six in the first period, were outshot 13-9 in the second but had a 10-6 edge in the third.

Four times flying Memos attackers broke through the stubborn Oshawa defence and four times Colvin the Cool turned them back with a brilliant blazed at a waist-high stinker in the first period that Colvin has yet to see but it banged off a goalpost.

It was fast furious hockey through the entire three-period and the overtime session. It anything the Memos had an edge in territorial play but they lacked the finish and polish of the Truckmen when it came to sets.

Both teams checked like Sends going into every shift although the game was a hard-hitting rugged affair. Only seven penalties were handed out by referees Maurice Walsh and Jim Tromble, four going to the Truckmen.

The Memos "Three-D" line of Duke Edwards, Erwin and Erwin Duncan was the most effective combination on the ice. The trio accounted for two of the Memos three goals and were strong with blast passing plays. Vern Goyer, spearheaded a lighting-like thrust with Jackie Wardaugh and Keith MacDonald to give the Memos their third goal.

Memos ripped in for their first goal in the initial period after fifteen minutes of play when Erwin Duncan tore down the left boards and belted a perfect pass to the "Duke in front of the goalmouth. The pass connected made no mistake. Seconds later Erwin Duncan's long drive close and sailed in on Colvin, but the Truckmen goalie coolly turned his drive aside.

PASSING PLAYS STAND OUT

Vern Goyer was used in a pivot position with Jackie Wardaugh and Keith MacDonald and the big trio came through with a fine driving performance.

The fine passing of the Oshawa front line stood out in the second period but was continually broken up by the hard-working Memos defence of Jack Wade, Bert Taylor, Jud Semark and Doug Hastedt. Jud Fred Nobbs' former Oshawa General, evened the count on a fine three-way passing play with Thaler and Sinden.

Play ripped from end to end with the speed never slackening. Frank Hooper put the Truckmen one up midway through the period to a solo effort a puck along the ice that struck Semarly shades and slid over the goal-line. McBeth and MacDonald drew allowing penalties but no damage was done. Vern Goyer went off for charging with four minutes to go but the hard-checking Memos lines and defence threw out the Oshawa attackers.

The Duncan twins staged a lively passing play early in the last third period to shoot the count. Jake Wade engineered the play from his blueline clipped a short pass to Erwin who in turn fired a long one to Erwin Erwin who made no mistake.

Four minutes later Goyer, Wardaugh and MacDonald flashed down the ice with Wardaugh driving a blast that struck Colvin's pads and bounded out to the side of the waiting Goyer. The big centre slashed it in the net to give the Memos the margin for the second time.

DRAWS PENALTY.

With hard-checking and fine work by Semarly it looked like the Memos were headed for their first victory. Then "Red" Duncan drew a penalty and it was the beginning of the tale of defeat. The Truckmen swarmed to the attack and playing coach Ernie Dickens, one of the outstanding Truckmen, on the ice drove home a loose puck to tie the score.

In the overtime the Memos turned on all their power and swarmed around the Truckmen nets. The Truckmen, too, ripped down ice on counting forays and three minutes had gone when Samolenko blasted home the winner.

Coach Duron yanked Semarly after Dickens drew a belated penalty, but Colvin held the fort.

Forts Reach Football Finals

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's Fort William against either Peterborough or Montreal in the Canadian intermediate football finals.

This came about during the week-end when Fort William downed St. Boniface Legionnaires last year's Dominion champs, 16-12. Fort William now tangles either with Peterborough Orhms or Montreal Lake Shore Flyers Nov. 21 for the Canadian title.

Peterborough won the Ontario title by defeating Oakville Black Knights 7-0 Saturday to take the two-game, total-points series 26-6.

Lake Shore Flyers took the Quebec crown, shading Verdun Bulldogs 14-8 in a closely fought game played in cold, wintry weather. It was the second straight championship for the Flyers.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles figure they will have $500,000-plus to spend for improvements when they pay income taxes, and it will be interesting to see if the rest of the American League clubs may say the same to make a number of key performers available to the Baltimore club.

If it has, and the Orioles are improved sufficiently to get up into the race, everybody will make money and there will be a revival of interest in the league which has been pretty over-loaded. If it has not, then the men who fought to keep the Baltimore back in the big show have been flim-flammed.

Manager Kelly in the form of proven players there is little doubt that the Baltimore Local Browns can climb more than a notch or two at best, no matter how badly their new home fans support them. The potential simply isn't there to smother "miracle of Milwaukee."

MAY BE WRAN

Unless they are given the decent treatment they deserve, the Orioles will go back to operating with only one of the slowest and weakest-hitting sets of athletes of modern record. The Browns stole only 17 bases last season and stretched only 36 hits into triples, both American League records.

The club's poor last in batting with a collective average of .240, and it did not boast a regular who hit even .270. Only it made a total of 131 errors, 29 more than were committed by Washington Senators. It is small wonder that Marty Marion has not been given many owners to let him manage this aggregation another year.

Probably the minimum requirement would be a couple of outfielders who can hit for distance and average and a big - league third-baseman. They could use more, but it still is to be seen whether the league rivals will deal them that much.

GOOD PITCHING

By some lucky chance, the club goes into Baltimore with what looks like the making of a pretty good pitching staff, in Don Larsen and Bob Turley it possesses two of the most talked about young fireballers in the game. With some batting help, Duane Pillette, Dick Littlefield and Ron Gain might round out a fairly formidable group of starters.

Larsen, incidentally, proved himself such a hitter in his first year that there is talk of converting him into an outfielder. A Baltimore product named Ruth once made the transition with some success.

The next best thing the Orioles have is Clint Courtney, the catcher. The spectacled backstop had his best had, a season in which he hit only .251 and drove across 19 runs compared to figures of .288 and 50 the previous year.

FIND WINS CAP

NEW YORK (AP)—Alfred Vanderbilt's Find clinched to victory in the $50,000 added Empire City Handicap Saturday, moved his owner's earnings to near the $1,000,000 mark for the season. Find led from the start.

Find, ridden by Eric Guerin, won by a half length over the Valley Farm's Impasse, with third money going to Mrs. Harry L. Nathanson's Guy.

Canadiens Split With Boston To Maintain Four-Point Lead; Wings Tie Two; Leafs Divide

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

There is a natural temptation today to write down the Detroit Red Wings, the National Hockey League's perennial champions.

Twice this week-end the Wings had to scramble for it to fight against clubs that not even their best friends would rate on a par with the mighty Detroiters.

Instead of gaining on league-leading Montreal Canadiens, held to an even break by Boston Bruins, Detroit dropped into a second-place tie with the Habs and Bruins and have the Bruins breathing down their necks a single point back.

All this resulted from 2-2 ties against the Leafs and New York Rangers in which the five-time league title-holders never held the lead at any stage. Alex Delvecchio saved them in Toronto Saturday night with some last minute prodding time left, Ted Lindsay cut it finer Sunday, tying it up with less than three minutes to play.

But there are signs that the Detroit machine isn't as unbeatable as it appears at first glance.

TWO MORE GAMES

In their 23 starts this season, the Wings have won 16, lost three and tied four. That leaves them four points behind the Canadiens who have an identical 2-1 ratio of wins over Jooses and have played two more games.

The Detroit defensive average of 1.38 goals a game scored against them is easily the best in the NHL. Rookie centre Earl Reibel and his famed line-mates, Lindsay and Gordie Howe, top the league scoring race, with defenseman Red Kelly close behind.

Ted Sloan and George Armstrong were the Leaf marksmen Saturday night. Lindsay fired the first Detroit goal.

In other action Saturday, the Canadiens beat Boston for the first time this season, 5-2, and New York edged last-place Chicago Black Hawks 3-1. The Hawks ordered their second home loss Sunday as the Leafs edged them 2-1, the Bruins blanked Montreal 3-0 at Boston.

SECOND SHUTOUT

Defenceman Tom Johnson, filling in at centre for the short-handed Habitants, scored the winning goal and set up another by Bernard Geoffrion in the Canadiens' home victory. Ken Mosdell, Lorne Davis and Floyd Mogers were the other Montreal marksmen. Leo Labine and Johnny Peirson counted for the Bruins.

Peirson and Labine again did the scoring Sunday, firing their goals less than three minutes apart early in the third period to give the Bruins their second shutout of the year.

A penalty to Reibel indirectly paved the way for Detroit's tying goal against the Rangers Lindsay from the box after serving his sentence, the uncovered puck raced in to blast a shot at New York goalie Johnny Bower.

Johnny Wilson scored earlier for Detroit and Ike Hildebrand and Allan Stanley rounded for the Ranging New Yorkers.

In Chicago Saturday, veteran centre Max Bentley sailed the game away for the Rangers in the third period, setting up Billy (Herd Rock) Dea for one tally and Lorne Howes counted unassisted within 12 seconds of first-period play.

Gerry McNeil posted the main gin-saw in the second period and defenceman Bill Gadsby got the other.

The Hawks' Sunday night loss to Toronto followed a similar pattern. Bobby Hassard gave Toronto the lead in the fifth period and defenceman Tim Horton made it 2-0 early in the third before George Gee put the losers on the scoreboard. It was the Hawks' fourth

Slipping Hamilton Tigers Drop Pair; Mercurys Trim Maroons, Grab Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Tigers, who won their first four games of the Ontario senior schedule, appear to have slipped back to the brand of play that sank them only two games during last season's Ontario Hockey Association playoffs.

The Tabbies, showing a reversal of early form, have dropped four consecutive games. They suffered a double defeat during the week-end—a decision by the Greenshirts in Kitchener Saturday and a beating by the Bulldogs in Windsor Sunday.

In other Saturday games Owen Sound Mercurys climbed into first place with a 7-3 trouncing of Chatham Maroons in Owen Sound. Stratford Indians edged Windsor 5-4 in Stratford and Sarnia Sailors shut out the last-place Niagara Falls 3-0 in Sarnia.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series Saturday Sudbury Wolves defeated North Bay Trappers 8-3 and Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds defeated Fembroke Lumber Kings 7-4. Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians beat the Lumber Kings 8-2 Sunday.

Roy McKay, Gerry Theberge and Dutchmen Saturday. Jack Taylor bagged both for Hamilton.

LATE SURGE

In Owen Sound the Mercurys scored four goals in the final period. Tom Burlington and Bill McLeod picked up a Jacques Beleo fumble on the Western 20 and half Flup Mantz crashed over on second down from the 11. Steve Oneschuck converted both majors.

Ron Stewart, 183-pound halfback from Toronto, scored three touchdowns for the second straight week in the Gaels' triumph. Pete Zarry scored the other while Frank Cecard kicked three singles; Pete Cranston two converts and Wally Major one and Lorne Wriggleworth conceded a safety touch for the other two points.

Marauders, who completed the season with six straight losses, penetrated into Queen's territory only once—on a 36-yard passing play from Joe Kozlowski to Herb Kellock. They fumbled on the next play.

Chicoutimi Tops Quebec League

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicoutimi Saguenens stood alone in first place in the Quebec Hockey League today after outscoring Valleyfield Braves 7-4 at Valleyfield Sunday night.

Quebec Aces, who could have overtaken the leaders, stayed in second spot by dropping a 4-2 decision to Montreal Royals and Ottawa Senators dropped to a third-place tie with the Royals as a result of their scoreless deadlock with Sherbrooke Saints, still the league's cellar team.

In Saturday's games, Chicoutimi beat Ottawa 4-2 in the capital city and Quebec travelled to Springfield and shut out the Indians 3-0.

Comb tallied twice each. Buck Forshaw, Doug Gillespie and Bill Hagen netted the others. Al Plouffe and Bill Lee and Doug French scored for Chatham.

Fred Hildebrand struck three times and Vern Kennedy twice as they were defeated 5-4 by the Indians. Mickey Roth scored twice for the winners and Ken Mosdell, Floyd Mogers, Don Oberholtzer and Billy Reay rounded out the total. Hick Keltanen scored the other goal for the Bulldogs.

O'Connor's first - period goal was all the Sailors needed to beat Niagara Falls Sailors 1-0. KULMAN METS THREE

Sudbury Wolves scored three goals for Windsor. Hildebrand added two with Frank Battaglia, Kulman, Jack Hadd, Lyle Wiseman and Alex Struk now sharing fourth.

Chatham, is at Windsor, Stratford at Niagara Falls, Hamilton at Owen Sound Tuesday.

Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds are at North Bay in the only NOHA action tonight.

APPOINTED RECTOR

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Rev. John Gerard, New Zealander who worked in Ontario tobacco fields in 1926 after graduation and who later worked his way to Britain on a tramp steamship, has been appointed rector of the Anglican churches in the nearby Bishopsway district. Now in St. Catharines, he will assume his new duties early in 1954.

Varsity Blues Blank Mustangs 12-0 As Golden Gaels Trim Marauders 28-0

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three senior intercollegiate football union teams remained in the running for the big nickel with a couple of old rivals, University of Toronto Blues and University of Western Ontario Mustangs, in the favored positions. They are tied at the top of the standings with eight points each, two up on Queen's Golden Gaels.

The Blues rubbed it in on the defending champion Mustangs at Toronto Saturday with a 12-0 decision on a snow-covered Varsity Stadium field before 12,000 fans. At Hamilton, the Gaels kept their playoff chances alive with a 28-0 romp over McMaster Marauders, also on a greasy, snow-sprinkled field and before 1,000 fans.

The week-end activity set the stage of the final scheduled games next Saturday when the Blues and Gaels meet at Kingston and Mustangs and Blues have a home date against the fourth-place McGill Redmen. The Blues have completed their mission into touchdowns.

After a scoreless first half, Varsity went ahead when a bad Western snap sailed 25 yards over the head of Flying Wing Ross Thompson and the ball was gathered up by Toronto on the Western 20. Steve Mandryk hit half Bob Fisher over the short side and Stewart Oneschuk pitched to end Ted Kennedy on the five and the end zoned easily.

Those were the only two Varsity completions in the four tries.

In the fourth quarter, the Blues

Little Benny's Note Book

In school today Miss Kitty handed out the report cards, mine not being the worst I ever got, but pretty near it, and after dinner I said to pop, Hay pop, I wonder how it would feel to have the best report card in the whole class.

Well, if you weren't used to it I imagine the surprize would be almost equivalent to a shock, but sooner or later you would adjust yourself to the situation, because human nature can stand any amount of good news, pop said, and I said, Then how would it be if I got the best report in the whole school?

I believe that happened regularly to Professer Einstein when he was your age, and the single exception that he was weak in arithmetic, pop said. However even if it ever happened to you, the unusualness of the event would cause a great public upheaval, and possibly even a mass meeting of syccologists, sychiatrists, and syko annalists, he said, and I said, Well anyways, pop, from now on I'm going to practice my concentration so all my marks will get better instead of worse, G. pop, how about it I go down to your office with you some time and watch you work so I can learn about good concentration? I said.

The proposition is very flattering, but I'm afraid I'd be finding something under my feet all the time, and it would be you, pop said. And now enough of this beeting around the bush. Hand me your report card, he said, and I said, G. pop, how did you know?

I'm the 7th son of a 7th son, and I have a 6th sense, pop said. Which he has.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Let me tell you one of the gaps between an expert and players of lesser ability. It is a "bepuses" for the numerous safety plays, the safest way of handling certain card combinations.

South is declarer in a spade contract. You will not need any of the cards in the other suits. So I am showing you only trumps that are held in the four hands. Here they are:

NORTH
♠K 7 5 4 3
♥ - - -
♦ - - -

WEST
♠ None
♥ - - -
♦ - - -
♣ - - -

EAST
♠ 7 10 8 6
♥ - - -
♦ - - -
♣ - - -

SOUTH
♠A Q 9 2
♥ - - -
♦ - - -
♣ - - -

This is a combine of cards that advancing players are ready to become acquainted with. How should declarer play them in the safest way? The ruler of spades in his south hand decides him.

He takes the first trick with north's dummy king and returns a spade toward his south hand. Having gone void, east has a trump. He finds out that west is void and that, also, is the unseen rest.

This tells him to finesse the nine in order to take all east's trumps. It is the only way he can pick up all four trumps in east. Not if he has taken the first trick with a south top.

Suppose he took the first trick with south ace or queen. When west shows void, east has a trump trick. A lead from dummy can be covered by east's ten to force the last south top.

If east is void and west has all outstanding four, no play is able to pick them up. And it either opponent has less than four it makes no difference which top starts first.

Thus, the only consideration for such a safety play is when one opponent may have all four. Even then it does not help if the wrong opponent has them. So, occasions for it seem rare.

For as rare as a player may say he cannot be bothered trying to remember it. But this is not the expert way. An expert knows there are 635,013,599 different hands and it may work one in a million. As card hands go, one in a million is not bad odds.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Humphrey Bogart was telling about how he almost did a picture with W. C. Fields and Mae West.

Sound like odd casting? Well, this was in the days when Bogart was playing two-gun menaces in an assortment of pictures.

"It was back in 1940," he said. "And Warners told me to report to Universal and see about a loanout.

"I went over there and the producer told me I was needed for a role in a picture starring W. C. Fields and Mae West. He said it was a great part and told me to read the script.

"The script was fantastic. There would be a scene and then a lot of blank pages. It would say, 'routine to be written by Mr. Fields.' Then there would be some scenes and some more blank pages 'routine to be written by Miss West.'

"I was panicky. I didn't know what to do. So I left the script on the desk, raised a window and climbed out. I left the studio and never heard a word about picture afterwards. To this day nobody has mentioned it to me!"

David Sarnoff, board chairman of RCA and NBC, told an interesting story when he announced the firm's development of magnetic tape for TV recording. In September, 1951, his engineers gave a party to celebrate his 45 years in radio.

"I expressed a wish that they would give me three presents to mark the half-century milestone on my 50th anniversary in 1956," he said. "I asked for: 1. A television picture tape recorder; 2. An inexpensive electronic air conditioner without moving parts; and 3. A true amplifier of light."

So far his boys have produced No. 1, and you can bet they're working like beavers on the other two.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, NOV. 10, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Try to conclude tasks early so as to have time for possible revision. You are as likely as anyone to make mistakes, to be over-confident. Balance budget.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Chart your day first in order to facilitate endeavors. Concentrated effort should then produce results. Hold fast to your own principles but be receptive to new ideas, friendly advice.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Even when there is no particular incentive, a well-planned day often works out well—sometimes better than a day of opportunity lost through bad management. Don't be too ambitious.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Some good influences today but be alert, prepared for possible shortcomings of your plans. Various factors can be helpful or obversive, as you react to them. Keen thinking, action needed.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Take nothing for granted. Both good and adverse influences prevail, causing conflict. Be thoughtful, on guard re: anticipating, but recognizing dangers around you. Intelligent effort will pay.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Be prepared when called on to demonstrate your abilities today. Take charge of new situations enthusiastically. Half-hearted efforts bring poor results. Move toward resolution.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Controversy? Pressure? Remain serene and tactful. Put out feelers to ascertain possible opposition, pitfalls. Be guided by facts, not hearsay. You can come out nicely.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—An excellent period in which to propound your creative ideas, express yourself on business and other matters. You have ability that must be used. Keep trying. Results will come eventually.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—All may not go easy during this uncertain period. Cultivate your inherent assets; put your best effort forward. First know what is needed, then go after it resolutely. You can conquer.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Scrutinize well lest you not recognize a wolf in sheep's clothing. Analyze carefully but don't let situations pass you. Tendencies are conflicting now. Be alert to the good ones.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Avoid extremes at all times. Don't "go overboard" in financial matters. Economize wherever possible. Strive to build. Keep activities on high plane and you will be rewarded.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—This highly active period should be an incentive to your best efforts. Doctors, nurses, merchants, salesmen, gardeners all interests favored. Be guided by both intelligence and intuition.

You're BORN TODAY are endowed with energy, determination, intelligence. Your plant, Mars, denotes power, resilience, strength and act. These assets, properly cultivated, can bring great rewards. Innately daring when you have made up your mind, you never tire of activity. You should try to relax for the sake of health, happiness. Usually reserved and masculy, you may at times be susceptible to flattery. Cultivate your imagination. It is a fine asset.

COMMONS FLARES ADVANCED

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Wednesday the defence program the government will present at the first session of the 22nd Parliament "now in preparation" will be "substantially advanced." Mr. St. Laurent said the cabinet will hold a full-dress debate before the opening on Nov. 12 next Tuesday.

Britain Produces New Tank Monster

This monster tank is Britain's new Centurion which U.S. war minister Anthony Head describes as "probably the most powerful tank in the world." The Centurion will soon face submarine trials with the British army in Britain and overseas. Five details have been released, but the new tank will have better armor and a more powerful engine than the Centurion, the British tank which won high praise from the Allies in Korea and Central Prime Canadian.

Two Engineering Firms Selected For Construction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two engineering firms were named Sunday to direct construction of the New York state half of the $900,000,000 St. Lawrence river power project.

Charles M. Goets, Washington counsel for the power authority of New York, said Sanderson and Porter of New York city, and Charles T. Main, Inc., have been named to the jobs.

New York will join with the Canadian hydro-electric power commission in building the international project which engineers say will increase the power output by more than 12,000,000,000 kilowatt hours of energy per year.

The New York authority has been granted a 50-year license by the federal power commission to construct and administer the U.S. half of the project, which Premier Shipower last Thursday signed an executive order formally designating the New York as the U.S. partner in the undertaking.

Actual construction of the huge project will not begin for several months, however, because of litigation instituted by opponents who seek to bar New York from participating.

The further department Saturday filed with the U.S. court of appeals to give the suits a speedy hearing. The department also filed its arguments on the opponent's petitions for a rehearing on a review of the FPC order granting the license be heard by mid-December.

FINANCING METHODS

Goets, in announcing that the two firms will begin their duties today, said that arrangements have been completed with three New York city investment firms to underwrite the $315,000,000 New York share of the financing.

The firms are Harriman Ripley Co., Lehman Brothers, R. W. Pressprich and Co., and the Union Security Corp.

Goets said that the two engineering firms selected have been two of the underwriters. Each, he said, has had more than 50 years' experience in the construction and hydro-electric generating plants both in the U.S. and Canada.

Cardinal Says 'Iron Curtain' Describes Times

TORONTO (CP) — Paul-Emile Montreal, said Wednesday the Iron Curtain "is not a visible thing and yet it is the most real thing in spite of the 20th century."

Historians will find it difficult to describe our scientific teachers possibly will identify it with the China Wall, he said in an address prepared for delivery before the Canadian Club.

But the Iron Curtain "is an expression which perfectly describes the dividing line between East and West; it does not really correspond to a definite boundaries of nations. It is like a theatre curtain which divides the stage from the spectators, not because it is opaque but simply because it is a visible sign of the difference of feeling which animates men. . . .

CITIES "EARTHLY IDOLS"

"On one side of the Iron Curtain God is declared completely, and on the other faith in God is no longer a living force. The idea of God is kept to avoid the horrors of reconstruction and to give to the mil men to enjoy the goods of this earth in the framework of dicti-

Steel Companies May Find Answer In New Method

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Steel companies, always hunting ways to cut costs, may have discovered, at no lower costs, may find the answer in an improved electrical furnace developed in Canada.

At least one big Pittsburgh utility hopes to sell them on the idea of using electricity. Electric industion heating has been commercial practice for many years but until recently it has been confined mostly to small jobs or surface hardening and finishing.

In the new electric furnace process, heat is applied to the surface of the steel and moves in a controlled inward by conduction—a process requiring several hours for every inch.

West Penn Power Co. now is constructing a pilot plant at Nearly, Uniontown, Pa., with a new-type heating and furnace. Allegheny Ludlum Engineering Co., of Tarentum.

The tests involve support of Allegheny Ludlum, a major current of the kind that West Penn and almost all other utilities can generate.

Company engineers say the induction current can be used to heat all kinds of steel with remarkable speed and economy.

They claim tests indicate that a ton of steel can be heated to forging temperatures (2,300 degrees) with less than 800 kilowatt hours of electricity.

CHEAP PROCESS

Since Pittsburgh district industries buy much of their electricity for less than one cent a kilowatt hour this means that the power cost of reheating steel by this electrical method might be less than $2 a ton.

H. S. Bennett, research director for the Canadian company, thinks induction coils can be built large enough to heat steel ingots of similar large shapes — probably could be installed at a price ranging from $10,000 to $15,000 a ton of heating capacity.

The steel industry now makes millions of tons of steel in electric city furnaces, using electricity as the only source of heat.

But most steel is still made in open hearth furnaces, fired by oil or gas. Each has its advantages but these fools to reheat furnaces after steel is made.

The secret of the new process is the shape and design of the coils that could control that which creates the electrical "heating" field.

Engineers claim the highest weight argines quarters of a ton can be used in induction furnaces to nearly white-hot 2,300 degrees in about 40-50 minutes.

AIR SEARCH FRUITLESS

Clothes Auction Or Strip Tease?

CAMBRIDGE, Eng. (Reuters) — Authorities of famous Cambridge University here are probing a touchy problem with student leaders: When does a "clothes auction" become a "strip tease."

The students claim that they organized a "clothes auction" to raise money for a charity fund.

A shapely college girl known only as Lola-Lola climbed on to a chair in one of the 13th century courtyards last week and offered to auction her clothes.

"Clothes auction, nonsense," charted officialdom, "it was a vulgar strip tease."

But the students held out and consultations are still under way.

Canada's 22nd Parliament Expected to Sit Until June

By JOHN K. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Political observers say the first session of Canada's 22nd Parliament, opening next Thursday and expected to sit until June, will be one of the busiest in years.

Most controversial issues likely will be discussed when government legislation is before the Commons, but other topics will be raised by the three opposition parties. Subjects range from income tax to pensions, exploitation of natural resources to trade, security leaks to health insurance, and relations with municipalities to foreign affairs.

The Liberal government headed by Prime Minister St. Laurent has disclosed the nature of some legislation, including revision of the Bank Act which is made every 10 years, amendments to the National Housing Act and extension of gold-mining assistance. Other proposed measures will be outlined in the speech from the throne read at the opening of Parliament by Governor-General Massey.

IMPORTANT REVISION

Most of the overhauling of the Bank Act will be handled by a committee but Finance Minister Abbott may find difficulty when he is piloting the revision through the Commons.

During the last session Mr. Abbott encountered heavy going when finance portfolio. However, he was persuaded to remain in the post at least until the bank amendments were approved.

May 25 the current has announced the housing act and the Bank Act will be amended in an effort to provide more low-priced houses. He said the legislation will make more mortgage money available for new housing, reduce down payments, lengthen the maximum terms of mortgages and enable chartered banks to lend money on insured mortgages.

Federal subsidies to gold mines will be extended a year, to Dec. 31, 1954, but current rates will not be. Federal subsidies to gold mines will be extended a year to Dec. 31, 1954, but current rates will not be increased. Producing mines have the choice of selling on the free gold markets of the world and foregoing a subsidy or taking the subsidy and selling at the official market price of $35 (U.S.) an ounce.

The revised Criminal Code, unfinished business when Parliament rose last May, also is expected to be passed. Proposed changes have been considered by Commons and Senate committees. However, a special committee or a royal commission may be established to review the death penalty, whipping, hideous and criminal insanity.

VARIETY OF TOPICS

Other possible legislation includes:

1. Revision of the Civil Service Insurance Act, including, some measure of group insurance for civil servants.

2. Salary increases for the prime minister, cabinet ministers, members and senators and parliamentary assistants.

3. Revision of the old age pension fund. Loans to the fund by the government totalled $123,400,000 at the end of October.

4. Approval of a Japanese-Canadian trade agreement now being negotiated.

5. Changes in the Indian Act, possibly granting the franchise to Indians subject to federal election.

Mr. St. Laurent will have the backing of 169 other Liberals, elected at a general election last August. In Opposition benches will be 50 Progressive Conservatives under Hon. George Drew, 23 CCF supporters led by M. D. Coldwell, and Solon Low's 15-man Social Credit group. There are six independents. One seat is vacant in the 265-seat House.

Little Benny's Note Book

Saturday afternoon pop was listening to baseball on the radio, and me came in the living room on her way out with her hat on, saying, William, I want to tell you something. Now I want you to listen, you never hear a thing I say, she said.

My dear, how little you know pop, pop said. As a matter of fact I hang on your words as though they were ropes of pearls, and treasure everyone of them as I would a glittering diamond. The very last thing you said was that I never say a word you say to me, said, and ma said, Well, it's true.

No sir ee, pop said. For instance, your most recent statement was that it's true I never hear a word you say, and the very fact that I remember it is positive proof that there is no foundation to it, he said, and ma said, Now William, will you listen.

But of course, I've never stopped listening; I haven't missed a word, pop said. Your final remark, thus far, was to spk me if I'd listn, he said, and ma said, All rite then pay strict attention. Now what was I going to tell you? Oh dear, now isn't that provoking, you've driven it clear out of my head, she said.

Never mind, my dear, I assure you that the moment you remember what you wanted to say, you'll find me listening with keen attention, as I always do, pop said. I hope you'll find a little consideration in that thought, he said.

Oh, hush and keep quiet, ma said. If I think of it, I'll call you, by I think it's necessary, she said, and pop said, I'll be listening at the telefone, as attentive-ly as ever.

Only it didn't ring.

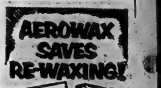
Body Recovered, Four Others Believed Drowned

MT. CLEMENTS, Mich. (AP)—One body was recovered Sunday and four other persons were believed drowned in the wind-whipped waters of the St. Clair river.



The body of John J. Jenky, 37, of Detroit, was found floating near Harsens Island, where the river empties into Lake St. Clair.

Jenky and his brother-in-law, Walter Wells, 28, also of Detroit, went duck hunting Saturday despite 40-mile northeast winds and posted storm warnings. No trace has been found of Wells. Their small boat was found capsized.

Three fishermen who set out in a small cabin cruiser Saturday afternoon also were missing. State police feared what was believed to be wreckage of their boat.

The three were Leo Rambozzi, 28, of Detroit; his son Jerome, 22, and Phillip Price, 26, of Mt. Clemens. The Rambozzis picked up Price and went fishing in Price's boat.

'Away, Damn You' Mossadegh Shouts Striking Lawyer

Iran's Sobbing Ex-Premier Tries to Walk Out of Court

BY DON SCHWIND

TEHRAN (AP)—Screaming, sobbing ex-premier Mohammed Mossadegh today attempted to walk out of a court-martial trying him for his life after a wild, fist-swinging scene climaxed his attempts to disavow his court-appointed lawyer.

Then he clenched into his defence of Mossadegh with a charge that the court-martial was created to try the politicians. He argued Mossadegh should be tried by the country's regular courts, civilian body, instead of army judges.

Mossadegh, 73, has said before that the Majlis should rule whether he violated Iran's laws as prime minister. Political charges must be tried before a civilian jury."

Scientists Say New Polio Vaccine Made With Aid of Sun Tan Helpful

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (CAP)—A new polio vaccine made with aid of purple rays shows promise in its first human tests, Chicago scientists report today.

This vaccine uses polio virus inactivated or "killed" by exposure to ultra-violet light—sun-tan rays—and formalin.

It thus differs from the famous vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk of Pittsburgh. Salk's polio vaccine, scheduled for mass human tests soon, inactivates the viruses with formaldehyde.

The sun-tan vaccine produced antibodies against all three types of polio virus in most of 30 human volunteers, Drs. Albert Sabin, Sidney O. Levinson and H. J. Shaughnessy of Abbott Rose Research Foundation and Michael Schaeffer of Northwestern University Medical School, Chicago, told the American Public Health Association in a prepared paper at its annual meeting.

The 30 included a few persons who before were known to have detectable antibodies against one or more of the types of virus. Usually, they said, these have developed increase in antibodies any of the volunteers had from previous unknown exposure to polio.

The new vaccine is made to render the polio virus powerless to cause sickness, but still keep its ability to help the body produce antibodies against the virus.

The Chicago team say they believe "sun-tan" irradiation of the viruses offers a promising method of doing this.

They said they thought their vaccine still has only a minimal ability to stimulate antibodies, and efforts should be made to step it up either by better methods of growing the virus or by concentration of the virus.

ISRAELI RAID ON ARAB VILLAGE IS DENOUNCED

Big Three Join in UN In Deploring Action

BY TOM HOYE

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The Big Three Monday denounced Israel before the United Nations Security Council for killing 53 Arabs in the Jordan border village of Kibya. But they agreed to hold off the council's debate until both sides have their say.

Israel's chief delegate, Abba Eban, told the council he will plead his government's case when the hearing is resumed Thursday.

Israel, meanwhile, faced another charge today before the council on neighboring Syria's complaint that she is stealing the big-giving waters of the Jordan from Arab farmers by damming the river for an Israel hydro-electric project.

RESUME WORK

Israel agreed, at the UN's behest, to halt work on the Jordan project while the council debated the Syrian complaint. But Israeli sources indicated Monday night that if the council does not take action soon they will resume construction to resume work.

Britain, France and the United States joined in strongly censuring the Oct. 14 Kibya raid and arming Israel to prevent violation of the already - strained Palestine truce. They said the Israeli incident endangered the peace in the Middle East and urged the council to stop trying to justify the incident as a logical act of reprisal to halt the series of guerilla forays by Arabs.

The authoritative Big Three source said Eban's response to the Western censure largely will determine how strong the wording of their resolution on the border killings is to be.

Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb introduced the Big Three package, labelling the Kibya incident a "threat to the security of the entire area."

OUT OF HAND

Jebb deplored the revenge motive which inspired the attack and all the Arab-Israeli border incidents and said they "must be stopped as a vicious circle" which must be stopped before it gets out of hand.

Sir Gladwyn Jebb called on the council the evidence left in Kibya after Israeli forces had made the Kibya attack. His government subscribed to Britain's charge that Israel

Israel has maintained that the raid was carried out by regular defence forces — not the Israeli Army — in reprisal for an earlier Jordan raid on the Israeli hamlet of Yahude in which a woman and two children were slain.

France's Henri Hoppenot also echoed British sentiments, declaring that the Kibya raid had aroused "profound indignation" and "especially comparable to France's sympathy for Jewish victims of Nazi persecution.

Given 30 Days

KITCHENER (CP) — Wilfred Scott Sifton, 21, of Waterloo, a motorcyclist with a record of 15 offences in the last two years, was given and sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $50 when he was convicted on three charges.

Three other charges, of having no driver's licence, careless driving and speeding, were adjourned a week.

Churchill Warns Opposition To Be Cautious Over Trieste

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill, soon to meet with President Eisenhower and French Premier Joseph Laniel in a Big Three meeting, has warned both opposing sides in the Trieste dispute to be cautious in the quarrel over the disputed territory.

In a general review of foreign affairs to the Lord Mayor's Banquet Monday night, Churchill advised extremists on both the Italian and Yugoslav sides to "keep quiet" and "behave" during the tense situation brought on by the British-American decision to withdraw their troops from the occupied territorial zone.

The decision resulted in troop movements by both Italy and Yugoslavia, and deadly violence last week in the form of a machine gun battle.

Churchill referred to "mobs, either Fascist or Communist" as behind the trouble.

BASE TENSION

Generally, the prime minister's speech to the banquet guests "at one time and patience and goodwill" to ease world tension, although he conceded that the world is in an "awful muddle." He cautioned against building "Colossi" on the flame Anglo-American relationship, an apparent reference to criticism in some British quarters of State Secretary Dulles of the United States, and to the U.S. approval of Churchill's prodding for immediate Big Three talks on Trieste.

He made no reference to the policies.

Byrnes Asserts Truman Said He Read FBI Report on White

WASHINGTON (AP)—James F. Byrnes, one-time secretary of state in the Truman administration, testified today that Truman was saying he read with surprise an FBI report linking Harry Dexter White, former high United States government financial expert, to Communism.

Byrnes, now governor of South Carolina, said he suggested that Truman "should have called attention to a higher government post—a nomination Attorney - General Brownell recommended six months made early in 1946 despite an FBI report that White was engaged in Soviet espionage.

Byrnes, former members of Truman's official family said Monday night that they did not recall such a report. But Byrnes said he did recall that Truman had told Truman he was "shocked," and asked when the president intended to do about it.

"The president stated he had not read the report but he also was surprised," Byrnes said.

SURPRISING STATEMENT

At the time Brownell first made the Kreuzatives, Truman said "a surprising thing has just happened." He has also said "it was never proven that White was a spy."

Byrnes and Truman have been at odds over foreign policy for years, and the South Carolina governor has frequently criticized Truman's record.

Legion Asks Govt. to Raise Allowances for 40,000 Vets

OTTAWA (CP) — The 250,000-member Canadian legion today asked the government to raise war veterans' allowances for some 40,000 recipients.

A brief presented to Prime Minister St. Laurent and the cabinet, the legion said the present allowance plan for more veterans' housing assistance has become inadequate.

The legion recommended that the basic rate of war veterans' allowance be increased to $80 a month for a single veteran and to $120 from $90 for a married or married persons. Allowances are paid to 39,000 veterans prematurely aged war service disability pensionabilities have consequently been increased from 30,000 widows and orphans of veterans.

WOULD UP CEILINGS

The legion also urged that ceilings on total pensionable income under war veterans' allowance be increased to $1,200 a year for a single recipient and $2,000 a year for married persons. The ceilings now are around $850 and $1,200 respectively.

The brief said many WWA recipients "are suffering very real hardship under present basic rates and restrictive ceilings on total pensionable income."

The legion's suggested housing plan would permit veterans to build their own homes on small lots as well as on small rural holdings as provided under present Veterans' Land Act.

Initial capital to start home construction would be made available by a revolving fund set up by the government and to be run by the Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. Veterans would take over financing of the home.

LIKE BUILD-OWN SYSTEM

The legion brief made use of the "build your own home" program initiated by the veterans' department. Some 6,000 homes have been built by veterans on small building lots under this scheme. The legion urged that the plan be extended to veterans wanting to build homes on farms.

Many veterans who wanted to build could take advantage of the Veterans' Land Act because family dog.

Crippled Man Battles Ram In Pasture, Dies

SUNDERLAND, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. Charles Wilson told today how her crippled husband was fatally gored by a ram in a pasture on a three-hour battle in a pasture.

She said he was conscious long enough to tell her of his struggle three times "to let him rest a while."

Wilson, crippled in his arms and legs since boyhood, died in hospital Monday night of shock after the attack. He was buried Monday in the village 25 miles east of Peterborough.

GAINS ON HALF-HOUR

Wilson had gone to get his cows, when he was butted from behind by the ram.

Mrs. Wilson quoted her husband as saying:

"The ram drove me to the ground and I wasn't able to get up. I'd go on to him for half an hour. Then my strength gave out.

"I managed to get to my hands and knees and climb on a big boulder. The ram kept charging me.

Wilson was found sprawled over the boulder. Mrs. Wilson said the ram apparently was chased by the

Churchill Coming To Meet Eisenhower

Reds Must Agree Or Call Off Interviews

BY JOHN RANDOLPH

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Indian command today all but abandoned hope for getting the stalled prisoner-of-war explanation program under way again, and told the Communists that any solution is up to them.

"It seems better to face the situation as it is rather than to go on with these interminable stoppages," said Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya, commander of the neutral nations repatriation commission.

TO SEE REDS AGAIN

Thimayya met for four hours Monday night with the Communist high command at Kaesong. He told a press conference he would see them "if and when" and for two or three days.

"It is hoped to meet from Dec. 4 to Dec. 8 and various matters of common concern to the three powers will be discussed."

SCAN RUSSIAN POLICY

The next toughening of Russia's anti-Western policies presumably will rank high among the topics.

Informed U. S. officials said the Democratic-Republican Party is primarily to decide what courses the West should take to meet Russia's latest note, rejecting the Allies' bid to a Big Four foreign ministers' conference in Berlin. That session was to have begun Monday.

At his press conference last week, Eisenhower said the Soviet Union, in its reply, seemed to be trying to prevent "a Big Four conference" by insisting on impossible conditions.

The president added at that time that the Soviet reply "manifests no intention to get together, but an intention to create as many difficulties as possible."

PRISONER EXCHANGE

The Eisenhower - Churchill - Laniel parley was said to have been arranged during the weekend at the British leader's suggestion. Churchill has been known to meet with Eisenhower, but his health has been a projected Big Three meeting in Bermuda last July.

American officials acquainted with the policy matters said Britain's power agreed to the sessions in view of Russia's accelerated tempo here in the Western powers, brushing aside the Soviet Big Four power conference on Germany.

Some sources believe that the blunt, uncompromising tone of the Russia's note may have weakened Churchill's prospects for persuading to meet with Soviet Premier Malenkov, alone if necessary.

Eisenhower, State Secretary Dulles have said they are firmly opposed to any such meeting with Soviet leaders until Moscow first proves its willingness to negotiate.

American officials regard as particularly disturbing Russia's new and repeated assertion that failure to accept Soviet demands will "increase the threat of a new world war."

Hold Hull Man For Wounding Brother and Wife

HULL, Que. (CP)—A 61-year-old tavern keeper today was charged with the shotgun wounding of his brother and sister-in-law.

Police arrested Ernest Laroche early today after his brother, Robert, 52, and his wife, Bertha, 49, were both shot in the head in their bedroom. They are reported in "critical" condition in hospital.

Police said an argument broke out between Romeo Laroche and his brother who with a third brother, Paul, own a tavern here. Ernest left the bedroom of the room and returned with a .32-calibre revolver which he fired into the Ernest Laroche received one wound and his wife two. Theirhird brother called in police after the shooting.

Pint-Sized Hippo Called Pete Finds Phoebe Petite and Sweet

NEW YORK (AP)—Perhaps love at first sight is the right phrase. Pete, the pint-sized hippopotamus, knows if he doesn't last, it's an ear-tingling, mouth-dazzling romance right now.

Pete last September spurned a 700-pound girl hippo brought to the Bronx zoo as his potential bride. She was too overwhelming for the 350-pound Pete.

But the zoo kept trying and now has come up with Phoebe, a dainty 315 pounds of hippo femininity.

Reported a zoo spokesman, of the breathless tones of a, who's dating-who gossip columnist:

"Pete was formally introduced to baby Pete Monday afternoon and

Eden, Bidault and Dulles To Attend Bermuda Parley

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Laniel of France, will discuss the world situation at Bermuda in the period between Dec. 4 and Dec. 8, the White House announced today.

(The French foreign office and 10 Downing St., Churchill's official residence, issued similar official announcements at the same time as the Washington statement.

The White House announcement said the Big Three leaders will be joined in the talks by State Secretary Dulles for the United States, Foreign Minister Bidault for France, and Foreign Secretary Eden for Great Britain.

The statement said it was decided "to hold the three-power conference at Bermuda which was selected for the beginning of July but had to be put off."

Five Are Killed In Philippines On Voting Day

BY DON HUTH

MANILA (AP)—Polls closed tonight in the tension-filled Philippines presidential election after a day of local but deadly violence that left at least five dead and more injured.

Definite results are not expected for about three days on voting for the Philippines new chief executive —either President Elpidio Quirino or challenger Ramon Magsaysay.

An estimated 3,500,000 Filipinos turned out to choose a president, vice-president, senators and 102 congressional representatives.

In troublesome Cavite province, where units in uniform had officially led the streets of Bacoor, less than 19 miles from Manila, after a gun battle that left the city's vice-mayor, his two bodyguards and a driver dead.

The Philippine News Service said the bodies of the four Nacionalistas were slain by local police. The newspaper said Police Sub-Lieutenant Dominador Camerino, was mortally wounded in the battle and died in a hospital.

ARMED MEN

Military investigators were told by witnesses that the killers were supporters of Senator Justiniano Montano of Cavite.

Montano is an ardent supporter of Magsaysay's Nationalista-Democratic party coalition. Camerino was backing Quirino's Liberal party.

The senator and governor, bitter political rivals, are known to have issued arms to groups of men for protection. Montano said last week he would "shoot it out" if Montano or his men appeared in the province on election day. Mayano said he would be there to help Magsaysay.

Quirino has repeatedly accused Magsaysay of being an "fascist candidate" and has charged United States intervention in the election. He has spoken strongly on the theme that a Magsaysay victory would mean the end of the Philippines as a free nation.

Magsaysay scoffed at Quirino's charges and accused the Liberals of power through control of such an extent that the U. S. has lost faith in the Filipinos.

COUNCIL APPROVES STOVE PURCHASE FOR DISASTER TRUCK

Purchase of a two-burner gas stove to be used by firemen for making coffee while attending at the scene of fires, was approved by city council yesterday. Cost of the stove is not to exceed $63.

Alderman Angus Duffy as chairman of the fire committee noted that the stove would be placed in the department disaster truck and would be used for making coffee for firemen while they were fighting fire or standing by at the scene following fires. He said firemen would be able to make their own coffee and sandwiches, thereby quickly saving the cost of the stove.

Transports Under Criticism By Council Members

The city traffic committee will investigate the possibility of bringing in legislation to prohibit transport highway transports from disturbing the sleep of city residents at the rear through the city at night.

Yesterday at city council Geo. DeVuyst, Bridge St. restaurant owner and resident of Highland Ave., asked if council could not do something about the matter. He wanted to know what regulations regarding mufflers transport owners were covered by.

"Surely there is something that can be done about the matter," he said.

The same attitude was taken by Ald. Angus Duffy, who said it was ridiculous that city residents had to put up with the noise of highway transports.

"I don't know what we can do, but something should be done and worked out and enforced to the point where decent sleep might have to miss Belleville if they did not abide by the regulations."

Alderman went on to say that certain transports exceeded the speed limit to the point where they lack good control of their engines. He also charged that schedules set up by transport owners force drivers to drive at fast as 70 miles per hour on the highways.

"We should take a good, firm stand on the matter of truck noise and if necessary we will call the police force to enforce the regulations," he said.

City Solicitor R. A. Pringle said he dabbled if the present anti-noise by-law in the city was good enough to cover noise made by trucks.

Ald. Smith noted that in Belleville there was a particular problem in that firemen with transports in that when entering or leaving the city their driver had to go down or up a hill, thus causing extra noise from exhaust and gears.

He went on to disagree with Ald. Duffy's claim that speeding transport speeds and said that 80 per cent of trucks were technomotor equipped and the driver had to account for any speed over 50 miles per hour. He said if drivers exceeded this speed they lose their $25 a week without pay.

"Then half the drivers are laid off every week," Alderman Smith declares.

Ald. Temple, as chairman of the traffic committee, noted that several centres were considering action regarding the noise made by transports. The matter was left for investigation by his committee.

Prehistoric Stone Knife Found By Wooler Man

TRENTON (CP)—J. J. Way of Wooler found what is believed to be a prehistoric stone knife on his 50-acre farm, nine miles north of here.

Mr. Way said he found the knife 25 years ago but kept it a secret until Monday when it rose to five inches long, three inches wide and a half inch thick at one end. It tapers to a knife-like edge at the other end. The knife weighs 10 ounces and is made of hard shale.

Two flint arrowheads were also found near the spot where the knife was discovered. The arrowheads are 2½ inches long and have a shape similar to that of a milk bottle, Mr. Way said.

Mrs. W. H. Hinkle presided over the meeting in the absence of Miss Leona Riggs.

A vote of thanks and appreciation was tendered Miss Riggs and various other retiring officers and executive members for their absence and untiring efforts during their terms of office for the betterment and continued improvement of the association.

The following persons were nominated for the 1954 executive committee, board of directors, nominating committee and various other posts:

Belleville Man In Historic Gale Forty Years Ago

November 10, 1913, was a day of tragedy in Canadian shipping circles. That day official reports were received at Canada's worst storm disaster, a Great Lakes gale which wrecked two dozen ships and drowned more than 300 seamen.

Marshall Petty, Ivy Tardy Street, Belleville, remembers the occasion well, as evidence which the intervening four decades have done nothing to dim. He was a deckhand on the Acadian, having sailed from his home-town on Hamilton on his first trip on the Lakes. The Acadian was not one of the vessels which foundered but she was driven ashore at Thunder Bay in Lake Huron.

"We were all right" says Mr. Petty. The four-day storm which we battered failed to drive him from his choice of sailing as an occupation. He returned to the lakes in 1914 — but then came the war and like thousands of other young Canadians he enlisted. After the war he turned to another line of employment, railroading. He is now an engineer with the C.N.R. Having resided in Belleville for a dozen years.

Annexation Question Causes Lengthy Council Discussion

Members of the city planning committee met last night to discuss a general plan for annexation of property east of the city, according to a resolution adopted passed yesterday by city council.

The matter of annexation came up a considerable portion of the council session with Alderman Arthur Keegan, as chairman of the planning and housing committee, urging prompt action by the city in taking additional property into the city to provide space for schools and residential and industrial building.

The alderman said that new sub-divisions are already springing up east of the city and that Thurlow township was asking for annexation in order to carry on its rapidly building urban area.

At the same time Ald. Keegan said that a committee should be set up to study the matter.

"We should not annex this small piece of property when the whole area in the Herchimer Ave. district is ready to be annexed," he said.

Mayor Haig agreed with Ald. Keegan that the city must annex in the near future to provide building space. He noted that if sub-divisions are allowed to develop indiscriminately there would be problems of roads, hydro services, water mains and sewers to iron out later. He said that a bulk annexation was necessary.

WOULD SET NO PRECEDENTY

At the same time he did not think that annexation of the Vanover property would set any too serious precedent. He pointed out that a protective council had allowed annexation of the drive-in theatre in the west end of the city.

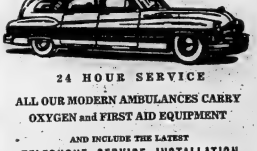
Ald. Countryman declared that annexation of the Vanover property for the specific purpose of allowing for industrial establishment would be "breaking faith" with residents in the area. He said the city had promised these residents there would be no commercialization of the area.

To this Mayor Haig replied that commercialization of the area was going ahead in any event. "We have no control over what industry locates," he pointed out.

Ald. Thomas could not see where the objection was in annexing the Vanover property as it was not Ald. Duffy felt this would be establishing a precedent. He suggested that a committee formed immediately on consideration.

Ald. Tice declared the city was actually "hurting at its own expense" and that the whole general area be taken in now and that residents in the particular area should be protected.

"This whole problem is not pinned on the liquor vote," declared Ald. Bradford. "It is a matter of common sense that annexation will be east and we will have to annex as well as we have no control over Thurlow," Ald. Countryman felt differently. "Don't let's fool ourselves," he said. "The owner of the property has not proposed until the property comes into the city. A liquor vote in a rural area is different than in the city."



The recommendation regarding annexation of the Vanover property was referred to the planning committee for further consideration, while a later recommendation called upon the committee to bring a general plan for annexation in to council.

Youth Shoots First Deer In Glanmire District

MARMORA. — "On Saturday forenoon prior to the snowstorm visiting the district Howard Sebine, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hogarth Sabine of Marmora, shot his first deer, reputedly a four-year-old buck, in the Glanmire district. He and his younger brother, Bill, (who carried no weapon), joined a small local hunting party which thought Glanmire, a prospective good spot for some quarry, before long. Howard spotted a couple of bear cubs crossing an ice-coated small lake. The young nimrod took aim to create a hole in the ice through which the cubs disappeared. He did not learn their ultimate fate for his attention was drawn to a buck standing some distance away in an opposite direction. His aim was sure this time. The cry he was likely to as well as those conveying other hunters had "some time" in negotiating the hills that had to be traversed in North Hastings before he arrived home with his prize, the snow proving quite a handicap.

SHOOTS 336-POUND BEAR

John Terrion, Sr., well-known farmer of Marmora township, secured the largest prize of his life on Monday when with the second shot from his gun he felled a 350-pound female bear. It happened on the farm of James Loveless, his son-in-law, three miles north of Deloro at the time he would normally be having his dinner between noon and one p.m. He had been a member of a deer hunting party with his son, John, and others, at Whetstone Rapids, in another section of the township, but had come to the Loveless farm to watch a runway there as things were not too exciting around Whetstone. The two dogs were with the father and son and it is thought that they had scented the bear and caused her to scale the knoll upon which she furnished an excellent target. It took both men to place the animal on the farm scales to ascertain its weight. It was the first bear Mr. Terrion ever shot in his life. His daughter, Theresa, Mrs. Guy Robson, has her application in for her pelt saying it could be utilized as a good fireplace rug for the new home the Robsons are building on No. 7 highway near the Deloro turn. Other bears have been reported as seen in the vicinity.

Mayor Requests Bay of Quinte Ports Be Made Available For Deep Draught Boats

The importance of deep water transportation in the commercial development of an inland water port has been brought to the attention of city council and the Belleville Chamber of Commerce by Mayor McLean Haig.

In a letter addressed to the local chamber, a copy of which was read at council yesterday, Mayor Haig pointed out that ports on the Bay of Quinte are at a great disadvantage to lake ports because only shallow draught boats can be accommodated.

This reflects in higher boat rates for ports like Belleville and Trenton, where boats drawing only up to 14 feet can enter. As an illustration Mr. Mayor cited the fact that coal freight rate to Belleville was $1.50 ton as compared to about 70c for Kingston.

The reason for the higher freight rate was that only shallow boats can use the shallow draught in the Bay of Quinte, whereas ports there at large number of boats available to deep water ports.

Just how the shallow draught in the bay affected development in Belleville was noted in the fact that a certain firm contemplating a marine storage had been forced to locate in Kingston where deep draught boats can dock.

It was observed that the situation would become more serious with the construction of the St. Lawrence deep waterway.

Mayor Haig in his letter recommended that steps should be taken immediately in dialogue with the proper authorities the possibility of removing shoals in the Bay of Quinte, which would permit larger boats to enter, thus putting Belleville and Trenton on a more competitive basis with deep water ports.

The matter was referred to the city industrial committee.

Youth for Christ Movement Attracts Large Audience

Over 1,000 persons from the city and neighboring centres filled the Collegiate auditorium last evening for the showing of the Billy Graham film, entitled, "Oil Town, U.S.A." which told under the auspices of the Youth for Christ in the Belleville district.

Evan Hedley, of Owen Sound, director of the Canadian Youth for Christ movement, welcomed the capacity audience, and after telling how God was blessing the work, not only in Quebec, but across Canada, introduced Mr. David Barr, of Pennsylvania, personal representative of Billy Graham. Mr. Barr stated that he was most happy to serve the privilege of being "up North," where he found green grass and warmth after driving through 11 inches of snow in the States. He extended appreciative thanks to Miss Marion Craig and to all those young people who had done such a grand job of advertising the meeting, and to Mr. Stapley, also of Pennsylvania, who had charge of the projector.

135,000 WON TO CHRIST

In referring to the previous film, "Oil Town," shown here some time ago, Mr. Barr stated that through it, 135,000 people, including youth and older ones, had accepted Jesus Christ as their personal Saviour, and that every showing of the film was raising up more for Christ's glory.

Following the singing of familiar choruses, "Love Lifted Me," "He Lives", and Dr. Fuller's well-known, "Heavenly Sunshine," by the multitude of voices which filled the hall, the mundane things of the world, were forgotten.

LES MANNING'S CONVERSION

This told the story of an oil magnate, Les Manning, a man shrewd, unscrupulous, whose god was his wealth, whose profligacy had caused the death of his young wife through a broken heart, and who was saved from taking his own life by the timely calling of his daughter on the phone at his sixteenth conference, awakened by seeing and hearing the preaching of the Gospel over the television; his subsequent attending the meeting in Houston, Texas, where 20,000 people had come to hear Billy Graham, whom he had heard on the radio, but not tie, and the final yielding to the Lord of his life, all, as he repents with hundreds of others, the prayer of confession and decision.

Other interesting and moving stories of the film led up to that with the conversion of his daughter, Chris (portrayed by Paul-ine Townsend-Evans), who had been saved at Billy Graham's meeting), and the conversion of her school friend, through the Christian influence of the two friends, and the great conflagration of the oil explosion.

SEVERAL DEDICATE LIVES

Following the close of the film, Mr. Barr gave the invitation for those who wished to dedicate their lives to Christ, to come to the front, and during the singing of "Just As I Am", several who had raised their hands, slowly wended their way down from the gallery, from the side wings of the auditorium, and from the middle section, then to the inquiry room where pastors and Christian workers assisted in making the way back to God clear, and understandable.

The impressiveness of the film more than attested to the quiet reconstancy of the great assembly as they made their way through the exit doors, thus permitting those waiting for the 9.00 o'clock showing to be seated.

Mrs. Kenneth Greeves presided at the piano for the first showing and Miss Grace Valley for the 9.00 o'clock showing.

CAMPBELLFORD

Hunter Puts Own Tag on Deer Of Another Hunter

CAMPBELLFORD — Charged with theft by putting his tag on a deer killed by another, Harry Comsett of 96 Wheeler Avenue, Toronto, was arrested by provincial police on Sunday.

The offence is alleged to have taken place in Methuen township north of the village of Havelock. Comsett was arrested in his truck by provincial constable Arthur Bell and Campbellford, a six-point buck was found in the truck. Bell, on investigation, identified the theft. The deer was returned to its rightful owner.

FOUR CARS DAMAGED.

Two car accidents on the snowy streets of Havelock on Saturday and Sunday damaged four cars but caused no serious injury.

In the afternoon, two cars hit head-on, Mrs. Helen J. Laird, 45, of Havelock, driving east on Highway 7, swung out of a line of traffic to avoid a car investigating head-on into a westbound car driven by Wallace Chesher, 34, of Campbellford, Norwood.

Mrs. Jean Chesher, riding in her husband's car, received a small cut on the forehead and their two-year-old son received a bruise over his left eye. Mrs. Laird was not injured. Both cars had both front ends damaged. Chief Robert W. Hall investigated, assisted by OPP Constable Archie Kelly of Campbellford.

Early Sunday night about 9:15, a car owned by Anthony Yesta of Campbellford and driven by his 18-year-old son, Glenn, skidded into a parked car owned by Benjamin Franklin Pollock, 24, of Havelock. About $250 damage was done to the left rear of the Pollock car and about $150 to the right rear of the Yesta vehicle. Chief Robert W. Hall of Havelock investigated.

India Proposes Big Three, USSR, Canada Confer

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (CP)—India proposed Monday that Canada, Britain, the United States, France and Russia conduct private talks on disarmament.

The proposal was made during the UN disarmament debate by V. K. Krishna Menon who offered the 60-nation UN political committee a watered-down version of the peace plan he outlined in a speech last September.

He suggested that the assembly go on record as expressing its desire for elimination of atomic, bacterial and chemical weapons and all such means of mass destruction.

Fourteen countries, including Canada, have introduced a resolution calling on the UN disarmament commission to continue efforts to reach agreement.

Menon's proposals were in the form of amendments to this resolution.

YIELD NARROWED

In September, Menon suggested the same plan in a face-to-face meeting of the chiefs of staffs of the four major powers—Britain, the U. S., France and the Soviet Union. He wanted them to table their plans.

In his proposal today, he suggested that the disarmament countries—with Canada added—discuss the problem privately because Canada was included because she is a permanent member of the disarmament commission and has a big hand in developing the atomic bomb during the Second World War. In previous sessions, Canada had taken the lead on a number of occasions in proposing disarmament talks.

Observers said today Canada would be willing to sit on such talks if invited, invited in favor of the Indian proposal.

HISTORY ON GLIDES

BRANTFORD (CP)—A Brantford postal history on colored slides is being compiled by Ed Medland for the Rotary Noon-hour Club. He has made 100 photographs of mail, handled between 1902 and 1953, and now is searching for any envelopes of the old Grand Junction Railway Company which are addressed to or from Brantford.

Here to Eternity Is Finely Acted Realistic Drama

"From Here to Eternity" is a motion picture with the impact of a straight right to the jaw. It is not recommended fare for the timid.

Director Fred Zinneman, who scored heavily with the Canal league with "High Noon" has come up with another sure-fire Academy Award contender in a lightly-handled version of James Jones' explosive best seller, which opened Monday night to standing room business at the Capitol Theatre.

"Eternity" is a story of the pre-war U.S. army at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, and is a damning indictment of the peacetime army—anybody's army.

The hero is Private Robert E. Lee Prewitt, a lonely, hard-headed orphan, who loves the army because it is the only home he has ever had. He is transferred into a unit commanded by Captain Holmes, whose chief aim in life is to become a name on the strength of his company's boxing record.

Prewitt, as a ranking middle-weight, who quit the ring because he blinded his opponent in a sparring match, is just what Holmes is looking for to make championship team in the mid-December division finals.

When Prewitt declines to fight the Captain decides to break him with his treatment. The treatment includes an organized but brutal campaign by the company (the rest of the boxing team) extra duty, and all the dirty jobs.

Prewitt takes the whipping without complaint—even scrubbing the unofficial admiration of Sergeant Warden, the tough, hard-boiled professional soldier, who is running Captain Holmes' desk, while the captain romances the lower echelons of Hawaii society. Warden has his own troubles as he is in love with Holmes' wife, who wants him to accept a commission so that she can divorce her husband and marry Warden

LAND REFORM PROBLEMS

In recent years Canadians have witnessed a somewhat unusual development—an exodus of many of the wealthier residents of the country's larger cities to the neighboring countryside. We do not refer to the establishment of suburban communities surrounding expanding urban centres, but to the tendency of many well-to-do people to acquire farms and to reside on them, commuting to office or factory.

Love of the land is thus being exhibited in Canada, as it has been in evidence, down through the centuries, in older lands scattered across the face of the globe.

One may doubt, however, whether the emotion which the country gentleman or city-dweller in turn to the country prompts the Canadian citizen-farmer to buy the nearby peasants' patrimony for the land-loving peasant a picture of an earthly paradise.

Unfortunately, as with so many reforms which appear desirable in theory, it does not seem that such a division is always economically sound. The Italian government, having experimented with such a policy, has discovered that in many cases it often led to decreased production because the units sold to peasants were uneconomic in size.

Here, perhaps, is an instance of a reform which came too late, a reform which might have been adequate in the days when the farmer had no labor-saving devices to assist him are today too limited in size to enable their owner properly to obtain sufficient revenue to purchase necessary machinery.

That does not mean, however, that it is possible to ignore the importance of the land factor as a negligible factor in a workable land policy. Communist Russia, after the revolution of 1917, first divided up the land among the peasantry and then proceeded, more or less gradually, to reverse this policy and establish "efficient" mass-production methods. Despite the harshest of measures which only a totalitarian state can employ, success has not as yet been well have at last met defeat. The Soviet government has reported that agricultural production is in many ways behind the levels of 1928, when collectivization was started.

The Communists do not intend to reverse the collectivization policy. Instead they are starting a new "back to the farm" movement. But the future may well be that it is as impossible to obtain efficient production from a large tract of land when it is being worked by persons who do not own it as it is to attain efficiency from an owner-occupied farm when it is too small to operate.

Here in Canada we may regard ourselves as fortunate that neither phase of the land problem exists.

INVENTIONS MAKE WORK

Employment is a very serious matter, as any unemployed person can readily tell you. Record employment in Canada and the United States for the past 13 years has created a sense of security in the public, but has not completely banished the memories of the dark days of the early thirties. In fact, times have been so good that their very bounty has been interpreted as a sign that the economy can not possibly continue, and a depression is skulking somewhere just around a corner.

In deference to the tender sensibilities of the professional economists, who expect disaster to worry warts we shall avoid the word depress . . from now on. It shall be here-after known as a recession. Some people are even afraid of present prosperity, fearing that it will begin to worry out loud when the possibility of ending the cold war is discussed.

We look about us at the employment picture today we wonder just what the buggy whip makers thought when Henry Ford announced that he would proceed to build cheap and reasonably limousine. As we peer out through our cage of electrical marvels—electric light, appliances, telephone—to watch the birth of the electronics age in the form of television sets and computers, we can help but feel an acute pang for the early sufferings of the tallow dippers, village letter writers, and the pony express, as one by one they fell victim to progress.

The automobile may not be perfect—after all a horse rarely runs out of gas except in the stretch—but it has certainly helped to stimulate employment by the extinction of hostlers. And we are ready to bet that all the people engaged in manufacturing, servicing, and flying airplanes, as well as the engineers and technicians behind the homing pigeon as the chief agent in the carrying of air mail.

All this is merely an attempt to point out that every industrial marvel originally designed to replace manpower in industry has somehow managed to create a still greater need for workers. On this basis we cautiously become too excited about the prospect of mass unemployment by the refining of industrial techniques, or the onset of depression because new production may cease. There are too many things still to be done in the country to worry about lack of work. Great natural resources are crying for development. Consumer goods of all kinds are in great demand, and the basic need for food, clothing and fuel are multiplying as our population expands. The future does not look quite so dark as some pessimists predict.

The navy's most appealing recruiting slogan always ran, "Join the navy and see the world." With merchant fleets of U.S. Steel and Inland Steel installing TV sets in all great lakes ore carriers, the new siren song of the sea could be, "Join the merchant navy and see TV."

The Ottawa Journal complains that the pigeon population on Parliament Hill is increasing, proving what skeptics have known all along, that much of the activity on Parliament Hill is for the birds.

A month ago Dr. Sidney Smith, head of the University of Toronto, urged Canadian university students to become characters. Last week approximately 200 Victoria College students, burned Professor Joseph McCarthy, in effigy. Are there 200 students the sort of characters Dr. Smith was talking about?

This letter is hanged, Professor! Think of fried eggs, scrambled eggs, boiled or maybe a light, fluffy, soufflet"

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE GOLDEN AUTUMN

There is no better name for Autumn than that it is the golden season—the one season of the year that brings to the mind color and beauty, I walked into my study-library today and there was a golden glow of light on the leaves and oaks, reflected from the sunlight upon the very walls of where I spend much of my leisure time.

Ah, and there is far more gold in the beginnings of our Autumn than there is gold at Fort Knox or anywhere else in the world. It has a spiritual quality to it. It touches the heart and is reflected to the face in the closing years of life. The years of happy married life, the Golden Anniversary.

Never shall I cease to wonder at the mystery, the romance, and the gold of the dying year. It celebrates so much of what we all feel at the closing years of one's life creep upon us. In many a sense these are the golden years that we all experience, the richest and choicest of all those that have gone before. Each golden Autumn has its unforgettable memories.

But the glow to me is one of the memories of youth, when we went barefoot and romped among the fallen leaves. Then we were all gloried in the perfume of burning leaves. I can picture my father at my window and note the falling leaves that drop in clusters, so gently, like the snow that we would see later before his orchestra. A spectacle of rare beauty and quiet. And the wind of approaching Winter will have its way with the leaves, but the trees clean and bare, and each leaf will have gone to its nest in the arms of Mother Earth.

What a wealth of free beauty is the privilege of us all! Touring through my native state recently I was thrilled by this golden Autumn, as picture after picture appeared, and I thought of all the scenes that duplicated the same saw, throughout all Canada and the United States. And this rich heritage of anyone who is able to see.

THE TOASTMASTER

Through the dinner he's busy with pencil and pad.
The names of the guests must correctly be had.
The fruit cup, untasted, he pushes aside,
And he takes not a bite of the chicken they've fried.
The toastmaster cannot be bothered with these:
Potatoes au gratin and carrots and peas.

The program is long. He must find time, somehow,
To list every one who should stand for a bow.
There are singers with numbers he has to announce,
Some with words in their titles he cannot pronounce.
There's a humorist downstairs member who has to report,
To whom he must whisper in time: "Get it short!"

Of jokes he has heard he has scribbled a sheet
And must choose the few good ones he hopes to repeat.
Some come without tickets (a matter of time).
He must see that they get them in season for dining.
And at last when he rises his task's undermine.
The toastmaster's pie has been carried away.

Bevanite's 'Reasons'

(Montreal Gazette)

The extremes of anti-American sentiment in Great Britain and elsewhere have always been a little hard to understand. For they have generally tended to hold Russia and the United States at equal arm's length.

Fortunately, an explanation has been given. It has been given by Tom Driberg, member of Parliament for the British House of Commons. Driberg is one of the group that recently forgathered about him, to form his "Bevanite Hunt."

The interesting thing about Driberg's anti-Americanism is that he is willing to give his grounds for his tolerance of Soviet Communism. At the invitation of Time Magazine he was asked to speak light on the subject. In the course of his declaration he gave three reasons why it is dangerous to underestimate the Soviet Union is a totalitarian state, like Nazi Germany. Here are his reasons:

1. Ideological. Communism is Christian heresy, but Nazism was anti-Christian paganism.

2. Historical. Even though there has been much cruelty in Russia, there has been comparable to the calculated horror of the gas chambers and the extermination of the Jews.

3. Geographically and economically, the Soviet Union is far more self-sufficient and therefore not intrinsically expansionist.

The three reasons are worth examining one by one. First, is the idea that Communism is a Christian heresy. Yet it is hard to see how it could possibly qualify as a heresy of any kind. Communism, so far from being a heresy, is a conspiracy. It does not, like a heresy, depend solely on the open tests of truth. As Lenin himself said, the proper instruments are Communist triumph are "any ruse, dodge, trick, cunning, unlawful method, concealments, veiling of truth."

That would be a strange heresy or cult indeed: a Christian heresy if it is unrecognizable.

It is hard to recognize a Christian heresy that seeks to provoke bitterness and bloodshed in every land abroad; which denies all freedom of conscience; which denies the existence of the soul; which maintains camps for forced labor, which oppresses living standards in favor of state ambitions; which prohibits the use of the secret police; which makes even the necessities of life unobtainable without membership in thought and action; which fosters fanaticism, hatred and deception; which habitually violates the spoken and written word; which has paralyzed the whole peace-making machinery of the world.

Then there is Tom Driberg's fact comparison. Russian atrocities are not to be compared to those of the Nazis. Surely this is drawing a fine distinction in degrees of ghastliness. It would be bold man indeed who would declare that the total horrors of the Nazis outweighed those of the Communists. Who shall reckon the weight of horror in the Russian slave camps, or in the Russian hulaks by carrying away his supply of food? In any society, a squirrel may be left to starve by carrying off his hoard of nuts. Who is to estimate the total sufferings and casualties in the Russian famine of 1933? Who is to estimate the degree of disgust and horror felt by the world when it discovered that the total horrors of the Nazis outweighed those of the Communists. Who shall reckon the weight of horror

Rotary Club Assists Family In Distress

The Rotary club, at a meeting in the Hotel Quinte on Monday, realized the sum of $104 from a draw on a basket of supplies. The money is to be forwarded assisting a family who lost all its possessions in a fire recently. Newton Thompson, chairman of welfare, stated that the supplies were presented for the occasion by Mrs. Harry Anderson, R.R. 1, Belleville.

Guest speaker at the meeting was J. C. Finley, city passenger sales manager for Trans Canada Airlines. He traced the development of air travel in the Dominion from 1927 to the present day and previewed a number of the features yet to come with Canada's airlines.

Mr. Finley said that in 1937 much of the development in air travel was restricted to bush flying. It was not until 1939, scheduled skeline routes were opened by Trans Canada. In 1943 the airline was requested by the government to establish a trans-Atlantic service. "Most of our aircraft, the speaker declared, "at that time were converted Lancaster bombers." He said that a trip across the ocean then was not a pleasant experience for passengers.

Following his remarks, the sales manager showed a film which contrasted air travel in the past with travel by air at the present time.

The speaker was introduced by Frank Murray and the thanks of the club were expressed by E. S. Booth.

BIG THREE MONEY

BONN, Germany (CP) — West Germany agreed Monday to let the Big Three powers carry over money they have saved on occupation costs. The United States, Britain and France have underspent by $420,000,000 the monthly $140,000,000 West German appropriation allotted to them.

William Hurst Again President Of Scout Assoc.

The Boy Scouts Association has more than doubled its membership since 1950. This information was revealed at the organization's annual meeting held in Bridge Street Church on Friday. F. M. Sprague, secretary, stated that in 1950 the combined membership of the Cubs, Scouts, Rovers, Leaders and Commissioners was 210. The 1953 census totalled 686.

William Hurst was re-elected president of the organization and the following persons were elected to office in the association: Lt. Col. F. E. Wills, honorary president; O. Owen, vice-president; Chris Leggat, secretary; F. L. Lancaster, treasurer. The executive is made up as follows: R. D. Arnott, C. Hickman, J. Bilsche, A. S. Robb, A. R. Symons, Captain John Wallace, W. Munro, D. McLean, W. J. Doyle, L. Andrews, S. Kerr, Frank Grandame, A. D. Jaslich, E. W. Pollister, Fred Sprague, Robt. Collins, George Carver, Judge J. C. Anderson, Capt. F. S. Brightwell, J. Phillips, Robt. Brown, C. E. Macdonald, George Daly, Capt. Angus Duffy. Past presidents: C. Cameron, M. Button, F. Edwards, A. Simpson, C. Nicholson, A. Lewis. Commissioner, Archie Lewis; A.D.C. Scouts A.D.C., Cubs, P. L. Allcorn.

BY-LAWS AMENDED

An amendment to the by-laws was approved and passed by the association. It proposed that the by-laws defining the territory covered by the association be changed from the city and immediate environs to read, the city of Belleville and immediate surrounding municipalities.

The reason for the change is to take Corbyville and Avondale into the association and leave the way open for Point Anne, Canniffton, Thurlow and Frankford to joint the association if such is their wish.

The general summary of the reports revealed the association to have a successful year. Numerous projects were undertaken during the year and it was the opinion of the executive that these had all been carried out and were a satisfactory conclusion.

F. J. Lancaster, treasurer, declared the association to be in a satisfactory financial situation.

Delegates to the annual meeting to be held on a date and place yet to be set were appointed. President Bill Hurst and secretary, Chris Leggat will attend.

George Hoang reported to the meeting on his trip to the Coronation. He gave a detailed talk and following this showed a number of colored slides taken of the Coronation.

All Prisoners Of Nazis to Get Minimum of $200

Friday was the day poppies were sold in the city. Friday was also the day Larry Murphy, president of Wing 418 of the Air Force Association, went to Ottawa on behalf of all members of the armed forces of Belleville, who were interned in camps during the Second World War.

Mr. Murphy obtained an interview with Chief Justice Thane A. Campbell of the Prince Edward Island Supreme Court, and he has returned with some good news for ex-prisoners-of-war in the city. According to Mr. Murphy, any member of Canada's army, navy, air force or merchant marine who was imprisoned in Europe is entitled to a minimum of $200.

All such claims must be submitted by December 31, 1953, and further information may be obtained from Mr. Murphy at 72-W or J. A. Smith at 3536-R. Both men were imprisoned during the war and both are Air Force veterans. Larry Murphy was an air gunner and was shot down with his crew over Holland. He was hidden by the underground and was in France at the time of his capture. Al Smith of the city assessment department, also was shot down and hidden by the French underground later to be captured a few feet from the Eiffel Tower in Paris.

Pine Street Will Be Extended To Herchimer Ave.

Pine Street will be extended through Churchill Heights to Herchimer Avenue, it was agreed by city council yesterday when purchase of the necessary property to provide a right-of-way was approved. Cost of the necessary right of way will be $1,200 half of which is to be paid by Thurlow township.

Extension of Pine Street to Herchimer Avenue, and also the extension of Victoria Avenue has been recommended by the city planning committee for some time. The Victoria Avenue extension would prove a more expensive matter as residence are now built on what would be the normal route of extension.

Approval Given For Beverage Room Vote

The green light for application to the Liquor Control Board for a beverage room vote in the eastern section of the city annexed some years ago was given by city council yesterday. Council gave unanimous approval of the by-law permitting the application.

The vote would give all residents in the annexed area the right to vote on whether a beverage room would be permitted in the area. A special date would have to be set for the vote which is being asked by Sam Goodman, purchaser of the old county home property.

Council Extends 'No Parking' Regulations

No parking regulations were extended by city council yesterday to cover George Street from Victoria Avenue to Yorin Street.

Alderman Robert Temple as chairman of the traffic committee observed that no parking already was in force on George Street from Bridge to Victoria. "Volume of traffic and the narrow width of the street made the regulation necessary," he said.

"Is there to be no end to bringing in 'no parking' regulations?" asked Alderman Tice when the recommendation was introduced. "It seems all the traffic committee does is to rule out parking on our streets."

"The traffic committee will continue to bring in no parking regulations just as long as they speed traffic and make our streets safer," returned Alderman Temple.

Pupils Live Well At Bowmanville Training School

TORONTO (CP)—Reform school swimming pools, television sets and clothing allowances are giving "graduates" tastes which are too expensive for their parents' pocketbooks, chairman W. J. Stewart of the legislature's reform institutions committee said Monday.

He suggested before the committee that these expensive tastes may be responsible for the fact the 11 per cent of the adult prisoners in provincial institutions have formerly been in the training schools.

Mr. Stewart said he doubts if pupils of any school in Toronto live as well as do those in the training schools at Bowmanville and Galt which the committee visited last week.

W. J. Grummett, CCF House leader, told the committee a prisoner who escaped from Whitby jail and was recaptured showed the jail governor how he had escaped, and got away again for four days.

Forty Years Ago Storm on Lakes Sunk Dozen Ships

TORONTO (CP) — A storm 40 years ago this week wrecked two dozen ships along the Great Lakes and caused the death of more than 300 sailors. First report of it were published Nov. 10, 1913.

The 32-mile-an-hour gale fanned a fire that leaped from building to building in Nipigon and almost destroyed the village.

The storm lasted four days. It was so furious that freighters had difficulty passing through the ship canals at Sault Ste. Marie and more than 100 vessels anchored near Whitefish point, west of the Sault, where some went aground and were broken up.

Ghouls were reported to have robbed the bodies of sailors washed ashore along the lakes. Wreckers combed the beaches to salvage cargo from shattered vessels.

BIG FAMILY

Benjamin Franklin, the American statesman and inventor, was the 15th child in a family of 17.

"Imagine Raggedy Ann taking me to Bermuda!"

"I once had a doll called Raggedy Ann. She had red hair, and a wide, happy mouth. She was just a floppy rag doll, but I loved her.

"One night last summer I decided to make another Raggedy Ann for my niece's birthday.

"In two evenings I finished the doll and gave it to Martha, who is just six. She was so delighted, I made more Raggedy Anns for little girls I knew.

"It wasn't long before several mothers wanted me to make Raggedy Anns for their little girls.

"With the money they paid me for the dolls, I opened a special savings account at The Dominion Bank in our neighbourhood. My savings grew, and I really got interested in being thrifty, because now I had an objective. Mr. Wilson, the manager, calls it my 'Bermuda Vacation Account'.

"Next year, thanks to Raggedy Ann and my Dominion Bank savings account, I'm going to Bermuda for a vacation. Who knows where Raggedy Ann may help to take me in the future!"

If you have a hobby or a spare time skill, it may earn extra money for you too. Keep track of those extra dollars by opening a savings account at The Dominion Bank. Remember, every account at The Dominion Bank is an important account!

The Dominion Bank offers many services. The manager will be happy to tell you about them.

Weddings

GOODMAN—GRAY

A quiet, but pretty wedding took place on Saturday afternoon, October 31st, at the rectory, Carrying Place, when Miss Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Gray, of Roslin, was united in marriage to Mr. Gordon Goodman, of Plainfield, son of Mrs. Clarence Goodman and the late Mr. Goodman. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. C. Bewser of Carrying Place.

The bride looked lovely in her wedding dress of blush rose velvet matching hat. Her only attendant was Miss Clara Gray, sister of the bride, who wore a gray dress with matching accessories.

The groom was supported by Jim Goodman, brother of the bridegroom.

For travelling to Niagara Falls and other points, the bride donned a wine coat.

PALMER—SLINGERLAND

A pretty double-ring wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. R. Purvis on Saturday afternoon, October 31, at 2.00 p.m., when Rita Marilee, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Slingerland, of Roslin, became the bride of John Albert Palmer, son of Mrs. A. A. Palmer, of Picton, and the late Mr. Palmer, in St. Paul's Anglican Church, Roslin. The church was decorated with white 'mums on the altar, while tall standards of yellow and bronze 'mums, asters and potted plants lined the chancel rail. The guest pews were designated with satin bows and yellow 'mums, all of which formed a lovely setting for the occasion.

Mrs. A. Betts, church organist, rendered traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. R. Foster, of Moira, who sang, "O Perfect Love," before the ceremony, and during the signing of the register "I'll Walk Beside You."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her gown of nylon lace marquisette and satin, featuring a collar of seed pearls, full length sleeves ending in points over the wrists. The bouffant skirt was of floor-length. Her fingertip veil of marquisette was held in place with a tiara of seed pearls and orange blossoms worn by her mother at her wedding. She carried a cascade bouquet of red Sweetheart roses, stephanotis and heather. Her only adornment was a pearl necklace the gift of the bridegroom.

The gowns worn by the attendants, who were all sisters of the bride, were of floor-length bridesmaid taffeta, made similarly in colors of the procession and carried a colonial bouquet of yellow 'mums.

Miss Lewis Keller, of Stirling, as matron of honor, in maple panel gown with matching cap and mitts, carried a cascade bouquet of maroon 'mums and pink carnations.

Miss Hazel Slingerland, as bridesmaid, wore a gown of cyclamen with matching cap and mitts, and carried a nosegay of pink and white 'mums and roseburds.

Little Ethel Slingerland, as flower girl, was in cyclamen color with matching cap and mitts. Her nosegay was of pink and white 'mums and roseburds.

Mr. William Marlow, of Picton, was groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. Ray Burnidge, of Port Hope, and Mr. Earl Rose, Corbyville.

Following the ceremony, a reception with seventy guests present was held at the home of the bride's parents. The rooms were artistically decorated with baskets of bronze and yellow 'mums and asters, with streamers and bells in pink and white.

The bride's table was daintily arranged with white damask and centred with a pillared three-tier wedding cake, surrounded with pink bulbs and tall vases of Goldenhaart roses.

The bride's mother received, gowned in wine velvet with matching hat and corsage of red roses and baby 'mums, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore powder blue, with a corsage of pink and white roses and 'mums.

The toast to the bride was proposed by the Rev. T. Purvis, and responded to by the bridegroom, while the toast to the attendants was proposed by Mrs. G. Plaus.

'What Shall I Tell My Child' Topic At H-S Meeting

The monthly meeting of the Ameliasburgh High and School Association was held on Monday evening with about 50 members in attendance. Various plans for the ensuing months were discussed.

Mr. Taylor Franklin, of the Albert College, was the guest speaker of the evening, and favored with an interesting and educational lecture followed by a film entitled "What Shall I Tell My Child?"

Mr. Franklin pointed out that before children could be acquainted with the facts of life, one must be informed himself; then one must answer the children's questions truthfully to satisfy their curiosity in a language which they can understand.

MUTUAL FEELING

It was stated that a mutual feeling of frankness should be established between parents and their children whereby this most important subject can be readily discussed.

There are many pamphlets dealing pertaining to same which can be procured by the H. and S. Association representative. Corby's Library also has a number of good books on the subject.

Mr. Ralph Knowlton on behalf of the H. and S. Association of Ameliasburgh, thanked Mr. Franklin.

The evening was brought to a close with refreshments which were served by Grade Six mothers.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

You Can Make Sweet Yeast Doughs

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

By Mary Moore

There are some skilful cooks and managers in this audience that have taught me plenty. Remember to recline (I'm not from Florence M. T. in next Friday's mail). Stir in 2 cups sifted flour, salt, shortening. With a wooden spoon, mix in 7 cups sifted bread or all-purpose flour—you may need as much as 7 1-2 cups sifted flour to make the dough handle easily. As soon as you have stirred this in knead the dough in the bowl with the hand, turning it over, punching it down, turning it a quarter turn and folding it over and punching down for about two minutes. Turn dough out onto lightly floured board and knead it the same way until it is satin smooth and squeaks—about 24 turns and punches. Clean out your bowl and grease it and return dough to it and cover well and set it to rise in warm place out of drafts—not near a radiator (about 80 to 85 deg. Fahr. is ideal. Let rise until double—about 1 1-2 to 2 hours. Your finger tip will leave indentation in dough when it is doubled. Punch down dough, pulling edges into centre and turn it over in bowl. Let rise again until almost doubled. To make the Orange Rolls: Roll dough in 2 Roll out to oblong 9x18 inches. Spread with Orange Filling: Mix, cook, 2 minutes, and cool until thickened: 1-2 cup sugar, 1 tbsp. cornstarch, grated orange rind, 1-4 cup orange juice and pulp, 1-4 cup butter. Spread dough with about 4 tablespoons of this. Spread remainder of filling in pan about 12x18 inches. Roll dough up tightly, beginning at wide side, and by pinching edges of roll together. Cut roll into 1-inch slices. Place a cut side down in pan lined with filling about 1-2-inch apart. Cover and let rise until doubled—about 35 to 40 minutes this time. Bake until golden at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 25 to 30 minutes. To test for doneness separate a roll slightly with fork to see if it is well baked. At once turn out on tray. Filling runs down over rolls.

If desired, make cinnamon rolls with last half by rolling out and spreading in mixture of 1-2 cup sugar and 2 teaspoons cinnamon, after spreading dough with 2 tablespoons soft butter. Finish same as Orange Rolls, but there will be no filling in pan.

BEAUTY

WINNING BY A NECK

Most women these days take fastidious care of their complexions, but too many of them neglect the care of the neck.

After forty, necks just naturally begin to lose their beauty. They can go into a state of collapse in almost no time. The tissues may soften or fiddle strings will pop out and the poor dear who is so afflicted begins to wonder what she has done: it is what she has not done. Had she been as kind to her neck as she has been to her face it might still be the smooth, satisfactory pillar of her younger days. So, if you are a "thirty girl", cast a weather eye on the future.

The free, daily use of oily cosmetics is a powerful factor in preserving youthful appearance and the gentle manipulations necessary for their application have a toning effect upon the tissues, delicate surface fibers and underlying muscles. They speed up circulation, creates a healthy color.

When creaming your face at bedtime, start at the line of the collar bones. Remember this, of course, you should have a soapy face washing. Massage should always be done on a clean surface so as not to force atmospheric dirt into the pores.

Stroke up and down. Throw your head back, but without tensing the muscles. Stroke from under the chin up to the ear lobes. Then give your neck a good brisk spanking. After treating the facial area, frisk an ice cube over your face and neck. Let the cream remain on over night.

If the neck has started to soften, clasp your hands together at the nape of the neck, move your head from side to side while the hands press into the flesh. The purpose of that is to firm the tissues.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

She's Changed Her Mind . . . Now She Knows She Loves Him

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Last week my ex-fiance came home to our town on leave. Two days after his arrival he telephoned to my home and told my mother he would like to come to see us. So Mother (who never has liked him very much) invited him to come the next day. Sunday, to midday dinner. He came, and during his visit, I asked him for his Army address, as I would like to correspond with him. He didn't ask me for a date, and he went to camp soon, without even telephoning to say good-bye. Do you think I did wrong thing in asking him for his address? (The truth is, when I broke our engagement, I thought I didn't love him, but now I realize I do.) Do you think I should write him first, or should I wait until I receive a letter from him?

Since it was he who "established a beachhead" for the entrance into at least some kind of renewal of friendly relationship with you, it was quite proper and entirely quite natural for you to ask him for his Army address. But also since obviously he "established with great caution," I think your very best bet would be to send him no eager, not to do anything that would appear to be pressing the resuming of even a friendship!

Since you still love him, he doubtless knows you do, and the least suspects you do, and, man-like, would not be at all surprised if you use that address you got to write him, to write him first, to write him at once, to write him with words too-eagerly friendly, and you undoubtedly hurt his pride when you broke the engagement, and, least you recovering any relationship with you, he wants to be given the privilege of doing the pursuing. So write your letter, but write first . . . and give him his chance to do the pursuing. He took the first big step when he telephoned to you, came to see you, and you somehow did all you possibly could, with taste, to be hospitable and friendly to him, when it's his turn!

"The Mothers" Must Confer And Cooperate

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Is it proper for the bride's mother to select the style of dress the groom's mother is to wear at the wedding? Is the floor-length dress what the groom's mother should wear?

H.C.

It is the correct procedure, the expected procedure, that the groom's mother (the woman guest of honor at the wedding) confer with the bride's mother (the hostess of the wedding) as to the costumes they are to wear. "The mothers" wear dresses of the same general type . . . and since they usually stand together in the receiving-line, the colors of their dresses should harmonize with each other. If the bride's mother is to wear a floor-length dress, the groom's mother should wear a floor-length dress. If the bride's mother is to wear a street-length dress (often today's fashion at even very formal daytime weddings) the groom's mother should wear a street-length dress.

The mothers get together on these plans in some way . . . by personally talking together, or by telephone, or by letter. And the groom's mother should most graciously cooperate in every way possible with the plans of the bride's mother.

Employers Hoping to Keep Help Must Brighten Up Their 'Dusty, Fusty' Offiices

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP) — Business men who expect to keep any office help are advised by two experts to brighten up their "dusty, fusty" offices and instal a "lush, posh, atmosphere."

With competition for competent secretaries ever keener, the recent comments of Miss Dagmar Fits-Gibbon, New York advertising executive, to a group of college job-placement officials are likely to make things even tougher for the tired business man.

Advising college officers, Miss Fits-Gibbon chided them for sending beautiful girls off to work in dull offices and recommended they demand the best for their graduates.

TWO HOURS FOR LUNCH

The secretary worth having will demand such things as an electric typewriter, a dictating machine, sofa-rubber upholstered office chairs and two hours for lunch.

But to keep her happy the forward-looking employer is going to have to go even further, says Robert Damiap, president of the Connecticut Telephone and Zelectric Corp., who has devoted much thought to the subject of improving the lot of the pot-so-poor working girl.

Today's secretary deserves privacy for her confidential inter-office conversations, says he. Most secretaris also get frazzled nerves from the old-fashioned "squawk box" inter-communication system, from which the boss' voice may thunder at any moment.

Dunlop recommends installation of the new private line inter-office telephones, by which say member of the office staff may carry on a private conversation with any co-worker, with no danger of eavesdropping by nosey bosses or by a switchboard operator.

PINK PHONES, FLOWERS

The new system was shown at the recent business show in New York and attracted admiring attention from secretaris. The phones come in decorative colors, operate by push buttons.

The employer might create a happy atmosphere by having fresh flowers sent to his secretary's desk every morning, and by repainting the office in her favorite color scheme—say pink, with phones to match.

Of course, the best way of getting a secretary is for the boss to advertise that he is young, handsome, rich and unmarried. But since so few employers meet these qualifications, they must think up other lures.

And it goes without saying that they must never, never, start dictating a letter at five minutes to five.

SEEING IS BELIEVING

TORONTO (CP) — The legislature's reform institutions committee Sunday called at Toronto's Don Jail to check on the handling of week-end offenders. They found 40 behind bars as a result of week-end arrests, instead of the 80 or more usually booked. This was because arrangements had been made to enable minor offenders to obtain bail at police stations.

If You're TIRED ALL THE TIME

Everybody gets a bit run-down now and then, tired-out, hurry-headed, and maybe bothered by backaches. Perhaps nothing seriously wrong, just a temporary toxic condition caused by excess acids and wastes. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys, and so help restore their normal action of removing excess acids and wastes. Then you feel better, sleep better, work better. Get Dodd's Kidney Pills now. SHANNONVILLE W.M.S.

The monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of Shannonville United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Wood on Thursday with 24 ladies and two children in attendance. The president welcomed all and expressed pleasure at the good attendance.

Mrs. Damon Hinchey took charge of the worship service, the theme being, "The Church, the body of Christ." Mrs. Sam Elliott read the Scripture lesson, Ephesians 4, which was followed by a reading by Mrs. D. Hinchey explaining the verses read.

INTERESTING EXIT

A skit which was given by Mrs. Scott; Mrs. Hinchey and Mrs. Elliott proved interesting, showing the value of Christian education through good reading. Thank-offerings and regular collections were dedicated by the president.

Mrs. Gammon, group leader, read an appropriate poem, and Mrs. C. Wood gave an interesting and full report of the fall rally held at Cannifton October 15, for which she received the thanks of the president.

The secretary, Mrs. Robertson, read a card of thanks from the Houston's for the card or congratulation sent them on the arrival of their baby girl, and Mrs. Everett Stratton gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. Hinchey, supply secretary, read a letter from Mrs. Fred Russel and reported that the bale sent recently was valued at $102.50 and contained six quilts and a box of good used clothing. This is a project of the church, the W.A. sharing equally in work and expense of sending these articles for overseas relief.

NOMINATING COMMITTEE

Mrs. S. Elliott and Mrs. C. Wood were appointed a nominating committee to present a slate of officers for 1954, at the next meeting.

Each member is asked to contribute a dollar to help raise the allocation and is to be given to the treasurer on or before the next meeting.

Mrs. Claude Clarke, temperance secretary, gave a good reading on this subject also, many good reasons why the citizens of Tweed should vote against having a beverage room in their town.

Mrs. Ken Juby, Baby Band leader, announced her intention of having a party in the church for the mothers and babies and also children of pre-school age on the last week in November, the date to be set later.

Mrs. Scott thanked the hostess and Mrs. Gammon thanked her group for their hospitality and assistance.

Mrs. Wood and her assistants served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. K. R. Vivian on December 3rd.

The mite boxes are required to be brought in at the December meeting.

Drive to Parliament

One of the few links with pre-war traditions of pomp and formality at the opening of the new session of Parliament Thursday is the open four-horse carriage in which Governor-General Massey will ride for the opening ceremonies. A mounted RCMP escort accompanies the carriage. The carriage is being used for the first time since before the Second World War. (CP Photo).

Minimum of Pomp, Pageantry Will Be Seen at Opening

By JOHN E. BIRD

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—There will be few frills and flounces at the opening of Parliament Thursday. The government, re-elected last August, does not plan to revive many of the traditional formalities scrapped at the start of the Second World War.

An official in the prime minister's office says opening ceremonies will have a "minimum of pomp and pageantry." This rule likely will be followed during the life of the Parliament, expected to be four or five years.

However, Rideau Hall, home of Governor-General Massey, has announced one link with the past will be reintroduced: Mr. Massey will drive to the opening in an open four-horse carriage escorted by a troop of RCMP, instead of in a limousine.

The carriage was last used in Coronation ceremonies on Parliament Hill in June.

WAS GALA EVENT

Before the war, the opening was a gala social event. The speech from the throne was read by the governor-general in the Senate to an audience wearing evening clothes or Windsor or service uniforms. There was a reception later at which debutantes were presented, and a state dinner at Government House.

Nowadays the only social activity is informal receptions held by speakers of the Commons and Senate. The opening will be brightened, however, by pomp hats and evening and afternoon dresses worn by women guests, and by the national costumes of wives of many diplomats.

Mr. Massey will be escorted from the main door of Parliament to the Senate by high-ranking officers of the navy, army and air force. He will wear the special uniform reserved for representatives of the Queen in Commonwealth countries.

The formalities in opening a new Parliament last most of a day. At 11 a.m. Leon J. Raymond, clerk of the Commons, will call members to order and read a letter from the governor-general's secretary announcing that His Excellency will go to the Senate at 3 p.m. to read the speech from the throne.

BLACK ROD'S KNOCK

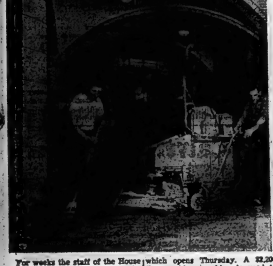
Then Maj.-C. R. Lamoureux, gentleman usher of the black rod, will knock on the main door of the Commons after being given permission to enter, he will inform members that Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret, the deputy governor-general, desires their "immediate attendance" in the Senate.

The commoners will troop to the Senate and stand at the "bar," just inside the main entrance, which no commoner may pass. The deputy governor-general will note that the Commons has no speaker and order members to elect one.

Back in the Commons, Mr. Raymond will rise and point to Prime Minister St. Laurent. The prime minister has said he will propose the election as speaker of Rene Beaudoin, Liberal member for Vaudreuil-Soulanges. Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, is expected to second the motion.

After election of the speaker the House will adjourn until 3 p.m. when the speaker will again read the letter from the governor-general's secretary. Black Rod will hammer on the door and repeat his request for members to go to the Senate. However, this time he will say the request is made by the governor-general.

LED BY SPEAKER



The speaker will lead the MP's to the Senate for a second time. Standing behind the bar they will listen while the speech from the throne, outlining proposed government measures is read in English and in French, and then return to the Commons.

Meanwhile the centre block of the Parliament buildings is being spruced up.

Members' offices are being cleaned and furniture polished. New plumbing is being installed in many sections of the building, and most of the driveway on Parliament Hill has been resurfaced.

Work is still proceeding on repairs to the fire-damaged parliamentary library and to the stonework on the outside of the centre block. A make-shift library for parliamentarians has been set up in the Commons reading room.

Little Benny's Note Book

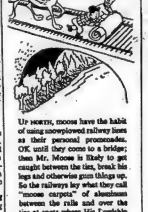
My sister Gladdis and Harvey came over to play bridge with pop and me, and ma and Gladdis started to talk about the best way to make Gladdis's blouse, and ma said, Well, you cant possibly go wrong on one of those House and Table patterns, so it's just a question of the proper material. What do you think of percale? she said.

What do you think of glazed cotton? Gladdis said, and pop said, What do you think of tobacco, Nervy?

What do you think of stainless steel? Harvey said, and ma said, Of course, Gladdis, no matter what you're making, you'll always look smart in denim.

I agree, with reservations, pop said, I mean, the material is always secondary to the art work, so even with denim you want to be sure you have plenty of pleats and pockets and inserts and gussets, he said, and Harvey said, And you want to make certain that the buttons are properly spaced.

Shantung isn't bad, Gladdis said, and Harvey said, Now there I disagree. Always insist on gros de Londres twill, because it is too easily detected, he said.



That's a fact. I'll give you many embarrassing moments, pop said, and so said. But after all, shalty is always dependable.

Not all shalty, pop said. The unready dependable shalty for undecided women is shilly shally, the kind designed by the famous Frenchman, Dilly Dally, he said, and ma said, Oh bother, there's only one way to keep these men quiet. William, haven't you got the bridge table put up yet? she said.

Practically, my dear, pop said. Being the start of bridge.

NIGHT FLIERS

Nighthawks common to many urban Canadian centres are not really hawks, but are closely related to the whip-poor-wills.

Up north, moose have the habit of using snowplowed railway lines as their personal promenades. Off until they come to a bridge, then Mr. Moose is likely to get caught between the ties, break his legs and otherwise ruin things up. So the railways lay what they call "moose carpets" of aluminum between the rails and over the ties at spots where His Lordship may need safe footing.

It just goes to show how aluminum's combination of lightness, strength and resistance to weather comes in handy in the most unlikely places . . . And to explain why, in 1954, our aluminum capacity will be boosted to over a billion pounds a year. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Old Vic Plays To 98 Per Cent Of Capacity

By GLEDOE CURRIE

LONDON (Reuters) — Surprise hit of the London theatrical season is a modest repertory of Shakespeare at the Old Vic.

In its first eight weeks, the Old Vic has not played to less than 98-per-cent capacity. And for the first time in memory, it has played an entire week at full capacity, 1,180, including all available standing room.

So far, it has been the theatre's best season since the immediate post-war years of Laurence Olivier and Ralph Richardson. The present company isn't up to their standard, but the public response is even greater.

The problem is whether the Old Vic can keep it up for five years, during which it plans to present all Shakespeare's plays for the first time.

The present repertory consists of Hamlet, All's Well That Ends Well and King John. The cast is "reliable" now, with no rehearsals due for a month, when Twelfth Night will begin to take shape. The final two plays this year will be Coriolanus and The Tempest.

UNEXPECTED SUCCESS

No one seems to know why the season is so popular, though it did get off to a good start with Hamlet at the Edinburgh festival. It may be the current popularity of the stars: Richard Burton, Claire Bloom, Alec Clunes and less-known Michael Hordern, who is having his first wide success in 16 years' acting.

It may be the nightly change of play, adding novelty for regular play-goers and giving visitors a chance of seeing the entire repertory in a few days.

It may be the prices, one shilling sixpence to 15 shillings sixpence. The Old Vic is owned by the people of London and run on a non-profit basis, largely as a theatrical training ground. It is backed by an annual £30,000 government grant.

Burton's best role is that of Philip in King John, in which Hordern again scores as the support-ment king.

Claire Bloom, who also plays Ophelia, gives the best performance of her career as Helena in All's Well, which director Michael Benthall has turned into more of a fairy tale than anything else. Miss Bloom will play Viola in Twelfth Night.

The program for the second year of the "five-year plan" won't be known till the company is chosen.

Salaries are secret, but run from about £10 a week to about £50 for Burton and Miss Bloom.

SO MUCH MORE DRIVING EASE and SAFETY CAN BE YOURS

You just slip into "high" and go! You can drive all day without shifting . . . manoeuver through traffic . . . stop for red lights . . . glide off again with a smooth, silent surge of power. You soon forget about gearshift and clutch! There's nothing new to learn—if you wish to back up, or need extra power when driving through sand or mud—just shift in the familiar way.

Now you can have the most effortless parking and steering you will find in any car. From the moment you start your Dodge engine, hydraulic power takes over ⅚ths of the steering effort. You can't imagine how easy it is to park—to drive through traffic! —to control your car on bumpy, rutted roads. You can turn the wheel with one finger—even when your Dodge is standing still.

The Dog and the Bone

A DOG was crossing a plank bridge over a stream with a piece of meat in his mouth, when he happened to see his own reflection in the water. He thought it was another dog with a piece of meat twice as big; so he let go his own, and flew at the other dog to get the larger piece. But, of course, all that happened was that he got neither: for one was only a shadow, and the other was carried away by the current.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

TONIGHT'S TONIGHT

The Peterborough Petes, flushed with their recent success over the Kingston Goodyears, and our side, will be here tonight as guests of the Memos. The Memos battling Lady Luck and road goalkeeping in their last three starts are grimly determined that tonight will see them chalk up a couple of points in the win column. And if they come up with the same brand of hockey that characterized their efforts against the powerful Oshawa Trackers here Saturday night they might do just that.

From performances to date no team in this red-hot senior "A" group is selling any other team short. The Memos showed a 100 per cent improvement in their play on Saturday and if they maintain that percentage they're going to make it hot for the rest of the pack.

The Petes, arch-fiendish of Belleville teams in any realm of sport, can be reckoned with to come up with a do-or-die performance since they are only three points behind the league-leading Trackmen of Oshawa. And they're not the least bit fazzy at where expense they mount up the points. They were ousted from the playoffs last year but apparently have not forgotten the taste and have no idea of being missing when the playoff roll is called.

By the same token the Memos are just as determined to break that luck jinx and grab themselves a couple of points from the Littlock crew. Taking it all-in-all tonight's senior "B" tilt should be another thriller.

MINOR HOCKEY!

"Red" Doran's nominal roll of his puck-chasing moppets of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association looks like a miniature telephone directory.

Before the organization smoke clears away some 500 hockey-happy kiddies will be enrolled under the aegis of the BMHA which is affiliated with the Ontario Minor Hockey Association. This number includes the peewee, bantam, midget, juvenile squads as well as the proposed "squirt" and "mite" aggregations.

Nearly 200 excited youngsters turned up at the arena Saturday morning in answer to the registration call for peewees, bantams and "squirts." There were 43 of the latter (under 10 years of age); 110 peewees and 101 bantams on hand, and this number will likely be augmented next Saturday when the various leagues swing into action.

Parents of the young hockey players, as well as clubs and organizations are reminded of the insurance coverage plan which will again be sponsored by the Ontario Minor Hockey Association. All it costs is one dollar per player which covers him up to $1M with ten dollars deductible. Dental injuries are covered up to $25.00.

In order to facilitate collection of the costs of insurance, parents are requested to attach a dollar bill to their offsprings' OMHA certificate so that the youngsters will be covered by the start of play-ball. Recreational Director "Red" Doran will look after the job and forward the premiums to the OMHA. It is highly important that the money be sent in with the certificate.

Jack Christie (that "midnight marauder") genial, hard-working secretary of the OMHA, said in a letter to Doug Patterson, Stirling's ambassador plenipotentiary of the organization, that the OMHA encourages peewee, mite and squirt league leagues and provides crests for the championship team in each loop. But it does not encourage out-of-town play as the players are much too young to be travelling.

Mr. Christie pointed out that junior players will not be eligible for insurance, but they should be signed to OMHA local league certificates. He suggests that it would be better to spread these players through the league, rather than all be on one team, piling up the excess weight against the opposition.

However, Mr. Patterson informs us, he has hopes of persuading the OMHA to include junior players playing in the OMJA insurance coverage.

Incidentally, the 'OMHA Referees' and Coaches' Forum will be held here on Thursday, November 19th in the city hall council chambers. The forum should not be missed by coaches, managers and others interested in minor hockey, especially the referees.

Acting in the role of chief narrator or instructor will be either "Pat" Patterson, OHA referee-in-chief, or Maurice (Moe) Walsh, well known arbiter in these parts. It is expected that at least two of the OMHA executive will also be on hand.

The Ontario Minor Hockey Association has gone to no end of effort and expense to prosper these province-wide clinics and their efforts along these lines can be appreciated by a large turnout. The clinics are highly informative and interesting, and we have yet to discover the bloke who cannot learn something every day. If wolverines all interested to turn out. The younger type of referee should be especially interested because the instruction they receive is backed up with a wealth of practical experience. Remember the date, November 19, 7.30 p.m., at the city hall.

TWO IN ROW!

Gilbert College COSSA senior "B" champions continued their unbeaten march to their second consecutive championship Saturday when they defeated the Peterborough St. Peter's quintet by a 5-4 count in a blinding overtime. The hold-and-hack won its eighteenth consecutive victory in downing the Peterborough team and now has its sights trained on the fast grimshy High Goose line as it prepares to enter the finals by defeating Midland H.S. 23-6 over the week-end.

The date for the championship clash has not been decided as yet, but in all likelihood it will be played either in Grimsby or on the college campus next Saturday.

Have Won Eight Home Tussles But On Road It's Different; Wings Yet to Win 'Away' Tilt

MONTREAL (CP)—Free tip to five National Hockey League clubs: An easy way to get Montreal Canadiens out of first place is to drop a bomb on the Montreal Forum.

The merry Montrealers have played eight games on home ice and have won them all. On the road it's a different story. They have dropped five of seven. They also are the only team in the league that hasn't played a tie game.

Detroit Red Wings, also with eight games at home, won six, lost one and tied one. Boston Bruins, on home ice lost five times and have won four and lost one. But the Red Wings haven't yet won a game on the road, getting three ties in five starts. Away from home the Bruins won two, lost three, lost three and tied one.

The up-and-coming Toronto Maple Leafs are fourth ahead of Boston and tied for second place with Montreal. They have a respectable record both at home and away. In Toronto the Leafs have won three and tied three in seven starts. On the road their record is three wins, three losses and a tie.

LITTLE RUGGED

New York Rangers, scarcely on nodding acquaintance yet with the win column, have won, lost two and tied one at Madison Square Garden. It has been a little rugged on the road—two wins and two ties in nine starts.

It's a dismal record either way for the lowly Chicago Black Hawks. At home: One win, six losses, one two ties; away: one win and five losses.

The harvest of points—two for a win and one for a tie—shows, of course, Canadiens have collected 16 of a possible 16 at home for 100 per cent. Bruins—twelve per centage of possible points for the other clubs are: Red Wings, 81; Boston, 50; Toronto, 44; New York, 38; Chicago, 22.

The over-all percentages of total points for all games are: Montreal, 67; Boston, 57; Detroit, 56; Toronto 57; New York, 35; Chicago, 20.

BOOSTED TOTAL

The new compilation of individual scoring records shows Chanticleer Gerry Blows of the Red Wings has moved into his familiar top place but the real point-grabbing spree of last week was put on by Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of Montreal, Tod Sloan of the Leafs and Ed Sandford of the Bruins. Each collected four points.

The splurge lifted the totals of Geoffrion and Sloan to 14, only two away from the league lead. Gee has piled the 15 compiled by Ted Lindsay and rookie Earl (Dutch) Reibel of Detroit. Sandford's efforts boosted his total to 12 and put him in sixth place.

Geoffrion, Maurice Richard of Montreal and Johnny Peirson of Boston share goal-scoring honors with seven apiece.

Terry Sawchuk of Detroit continues to lead the netminders with a goals-against average of 1.38. The Leafs' Harry Lumley follows with 1.75. Jacques Plante, McGill of Montreal, with 1.93, is the only other goalie with an average better than 2.00.

'Hates America' Never Go Back, Says Turpin

SOUTHAMPTON, England (CP)—British Middleweight champion Randy Turpin has barred his door to a crowd of reporters sent to interview him here and to Queen Mary when he arrived early today from New York.

Manager George Middleton blamed Turpin's state of mind on worry over personal affairs before and after losing his world title fight last month to Bobo Olson.

Turpin is being sued for $100,000 by Adele Tinsley, 35, a pretty New York Negro girl who claimed he beat her. He also is co-respondent in a divorce action brought by a policeman in Lancashire county.

"There is no question of him giving up boxing," said Middleton. "Hot . . . Middleton accompanied putting him in the ring again until his mind is free from worry about his private affairs."

Earlier, sipping tea in the liner's garden lounge, Turpin declared: "America, I hate the place. It suits me fine if I never have to be back—ever."

MANTLE ON CRUTCHES

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—Mickey Mantle, New York Yankee outfielder, got on crutches Monday, another step in his recovery from a knee operation. He hopes to leave hospital this week.

Mantle underwent the operation last Monday for removal of cartilage in his right knee. He injured it in the 1951 world series and re-injured it last July.

Special Rules For Western Grid Playoff

EDMONTON (CP)—The Western Interprovincial Football Union has decided what will be done in the event any remaining game in the conference playoff finals is tied.

Edmonton Eskimos won the first game of the best-of-three series in Edmonton Saturday 25-7.

If the second game is Winnipeg Blue Bombers and a tie and Blue Bombers win the third, a fourth will be played.

If Winnipeg Blue Bombers win the second and force a third game in Edmonton Saturday and this third game ends in a tie, two fifteen minute overtime periods will be played.

If at the end of overtime, the clubs are still tied, a fourth game will be played.

Three Share Scoring Lead In American Loop

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran wingers Ed Slowinski and Gaye Stewart and rookie centre Don Marshall, all of the leading Buffalo Bisons, share the American Hockey League's scoring lead with 22 points.

These three members of Buffalo's high-powered first forward line hold a one-point lead over Johnny McCormack, another teammate. Danny Lewicki of Pittsburgh Hornets is fifth with 20 points.

Slowinski and Parker McDonald, Pittsburgh Rookie, lead the circuit in goals with 11 each.

Larry Cahan of the Hornets is the loop's bad man with 28 penalty minutes while Jacques Plante, Buffalo's goalie, leads his rivals with a 2.33-a-game average.

Gene Roberts Heading For Scoring Title

TORONTO (CP)—Gene (Chop Chop) Roberts, Ottawa Rough Rider plunging and kicking back from Bonner Springs, Kas., is headed for the Big Four scoring championship.

The 29-year-old American, a three-year import and a big factor in Riders' surge to a three-way tie at the top of standings, holds a 15-point lead over Montreal Alouettes' Ray Poole, veteran field goal and convert kicker from New York Giants. Only one week-end of play remains.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show Roberts with 97 points on seven touchdowns, five field goals, 32 converts and two singles against 14 for Poole, who has scored two touchdowns, kicked 10 field goals and 34 converts.

Roberts has scored seven points against Toronto Argonauts Saturday and Poole booted five converts as the Als whipped Hamilton Tigercats Sunday.

LOGAN STILL FOURTH

Avatus Stone, who jumped Chicago Cardinals to play for Riders this season, held on to third spot, picking up a point on a single. Hamilton's Canadian-born Tip Logan held down position on a touchdown and three converts, giving him 70 conversions without a miss. Stone has 69 points and Logan 68.

Ron Stewart, Queen's backfielder, jumped into the Senior Intercollegiate Union lead with a three-touchdown performance Saturday at the Golden Gaels defeated McMaster Marauders 28-6. It gave him 60 points, one up on Toronto Varsity's Steve Oneschuk, who, as previously reported, kicked two converts in Toronto's 12-0 victory over Western Mustangs.

Huge Harness Horse Auction Now Under Way

HARRISBURG, Pa., (AP)—The biggest harness horse sale in the history of States opened Monday with 170 head changing hands in transactions totalling $329,625.

The week-long auction of 225 of the top American pacers and trotters, sponsored by the Standard-Bred Sales Co., continues through Friday.

Best price Monday was $3,400, given by Mrs. Ethel Gray Mac-Ilsamyrille, N.Y., for High Frequency, a five-year-old pacer consigned by Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Farhart of Gloversville, N.Y.

The Farhart's also took in the second best price of the day with Master Flash, two-year-old pacer, going for $3,900 to Billy Haughton of Fultonville, N.Y., leading driver in money and harness races won this season.

Eskys' Snyder Punishes Pachyderms When Not Booting Converts, Goals

BY GRAHAM TROTTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—Arthur Snyder, Edmonton Eskimos' Mr. Precision in convert and field goal kicking, is also a major wrestling attraction when he's not splitting the uprights for the Western Interprovincial Football Union club.

The handsome tackle from Van Nuys, Calif., who set a WIFU record this season when he kicked 31 consecutive converts without a miss in schedule play while finishing fourth in the scoring race, is one of three professional wrestlers on the Eskimo roster.

Snyder, third-year Eskimo Joe Blanchard from Kansas and homebrew Gene Kinisky—both of Edmonton's six tackles—were the darlings of Edmonton wrestling fans this fall—until Oct. 1.

That's the date when football clubs must choose the eight-man American import squad with which they will finish the season. Wrestling was okay with club officials until then but after Oct. 1 they didn't want their stars, especially in the vital tackle position, to risk injury.

"There was no stipulation in our contracts that we quit at Oct. 1," said Snyder, 24. "It was an unwritten agreement we understood."

The six-foot, 214-lush Snyder is as adept at throwing his 230 pounds around in the ring as he is on the gridiron. Although he started his pro grunt-and-groan career only last February, he now is an established main-eventer in the Los Angeles circuit.

He fought five matches in Edmonton early in the football season, losing one to Logger Jack McDonald. But he whipped the rough, tough Logger in two later outings.

Blanchard and Kinisky wrestled on the same cards but the Eskimo pair never opposed each other. Blanchard and Kinisky started wrestling in their college days and Kinisky once almost gave up football for a more lucrative wrestling career.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN
by Elmer Ferguson

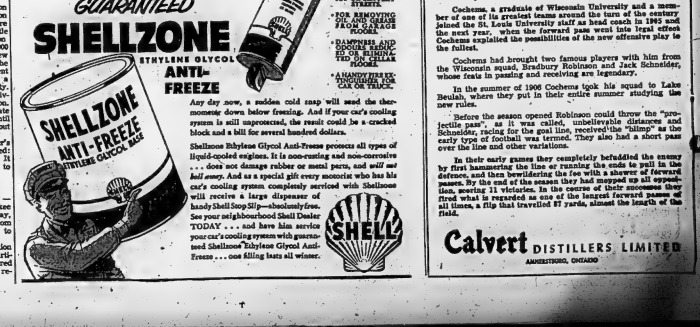
Where would Canadian football be, today, if the forward pass hadn't been adopted in the face of years of bitter opposition from die-hards, in 1913? We guess it would still be a minor sport, with the turf about as important then as all crowds, moderate enthusiasm. Certainly nothing like the gigantic structure which football has become today.

Origin of the exploitation of the forward pass as an offensive measure carelessly designed, is a matter of contention, not that this matters greatly to Canadians who by hundreds of thousands get their thrills from football today. It has been the custom to give it to the late Knute Rockne. His goals all credit for developing the forward pass into the spectacular the play which Canada later borrowed. And 1913 was tabbed as the date.

But that isn't the way we hear the story. Into the Legend of the Forward Pass comes another, and less familiar name, that of Eddie Cochems, former coach of the St. Louis University's football team of 1906-7-8. He is regarded by old timers as the No. 1 pioneer in the field of forward passing.

Cochems, a graduate of Wisconsin University and a member of one of its greatest teams around the turn of the century joined the St. Louis University staff as head coach in 1905 and piled the 9-1 record which was the best in the school's history until the next year, when the forward pass went into legal effect. Cochems exploited the possibilities of the new offensive play to the fullest.

Cochems had brought two famous players with him from the Wisconsin squad—Robinson, a fullback, and Jack Schneider, whose feats in passing and receiving are legendary.



In the summer of 1906 Cochems took his squad to Lake Beulah, where they put in their entire summer studying the new rules.

Before the season opened Robinson could throw the "projectile pass", as it was called, receivable distances and Schneider, racing for the goal line, received the "blimp" as the early type of football was termed. They also had a short pass over the line and other variations.

In their early games they completely befuddled the enemy by first hamstringing the line of scrimmage, the ends to well in the defence, and then bewildering the foe with a shower of forward passes. By the end of the season they had mowed up all opposition, amassing 11 victories. In the course of their successes they fired what is regarded as one of the largest forward passes of all times, a flip that travelled 87 yards, almost the length of the field.

Half-Dozen Confusing Combinations Crop Up in Big Four Grid Games

OTTAWA (CP) — It's a battle down to the wire in the Big Four football title race and virtually any two can look at the race. It's bound to be a nail-biter.

The teams meet next Saturday in the final scheduled games: Montreal at Ottawa and Toronto at Hamilton. At the moment only one thing is certain: Toronto Argonauts, Grey Cup champions last year, won't be in the playoffs.

Montreal, Hamilton and Ottawa now are tied for first place. Just how they will finish, experts on Saturday's scores. There are a half-dozen confusing combinations.

Flyers' dates have been set for Wednesday, Dec. 2, and Saturday or Sunday, Dec. 12 or 13, and Wednesday, Nov. 25, D. Wes Brown, league governor, said Monday. Even if Montreal is involved, the Nov. 25 date will stand for a Sunday game by Montreal. Otherwise the date will be Nov. 22.

While dates are out of the running, much will hinge on how they play against Montreal next Saturday. Agree have set aside that weekend as "Joe Krol Day" and will be trying to win that last one for the retiring "Mr. Football."

MANY POSSIBILITIES

And here's what could happen:

1. Montreal beats Toronto and Hamilton beats Ottawa; Montreal and Hamilton finish deadlocked, setting the team with the most points scored during the season as playing host but the first game and "if necessary—the second."

2. Montreal beats Toronto and Ottawa beats Hamilton: Ottawa and Montreal tied for second place: Ottawa and Montreal play the second game Nov. 25 and the winner takes on Hamilton in the home-and-home, total-point series.

3. Toronto beats Montreal and Hamilton and Ottawa tie: This would throw Alouettes out of the picture with 14 points as against 15 for the other two clubs, and it would be Hamilton and Ottawa in the best-of-three playoff.

4. It could happen that Toronto beat Montreal and Hamilton beat Ottawa. This would leave a three-way tie. In this unlikely eventuality, the two teams with the low scout scoring record would play the sudden-death game and the winner would go into a total-point home-and-home series with the top-scoring team.

5. If Toronto and Montreal tie, Montreal would play the winner of the Ottawa-Hamilton game in a best-of-three series.

Football Claims Same Immunity As Baseball

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Professional football claims the same immunity from federal anti-trust laws as baseball, National Football League counsel said Monday.

Thomas Hart, one of seven defence lawyers for the NFL against government charges that the league's radio and television policies violated the Sherman Act, said he was greatly encouraged by the U.S. Supreme Court decision on baseball.

"Although I have not had the opportunity to read the opinion of the court, it is my understanding that the Supreme Court of the United States has once again decided baseball is a sport and not of business and hence is not subject to the federal anti-trust laws.

"This is precisely the position taken by counsel of professional football some months ago when we argued before the district court here that professional football is a sport and not a business."

Hart said the NFL had asked the district court some weeks ago for a stay in the football proceedings pending the outcome of the baseball case before the Supreme Court and had been denied.

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—Hey, Karl Sands, move over a bit.

There's an Irish lad who will ride in the $65,000 Washington, D.C., International Race Wednesday who has been in the saddle on the Kentucky side since you were in knee high to his first winner.

He's Tommy Burns, another 56-year-old youngster just like you, Karl.

Burns, who got his first winner at Thirsk, Yorkshire, in November, 1911—seven years before Sands was born—is one of the oldest and best known riders in Europe. He'll pilot Mrs. F. L. Vickerman's 1953 Irish Derby winner, Nathoo, in the 1¼-mile International classic at Laurel Park.

"I was certainly pleased when Mrs. Vickerman won a race in New York," said Burns. "We're all pulling for him in his comeback."

Burns, who often rides against the best, figures Nathoo will have a never quit riding. Sands began his career in 1933, and came back at Belmont Park last month.

LONDON (CP) — Sixpence, regarded as probably the fastest two-year-old in Britain, has been sold to Canadian sportsman Max Bell for a reported £20,000, British newspapers report.

Reports said the high-flying Irish filly would be trained in Ireland by P. J. (Paddy) Prendergast for a six-figure Invisible races in Florida next spring.

Sixpence is by Ballogan out of the Panorama mare Daniana, her pedigree thus name inspired by a second-place Hamilton-Montreal tie: Montreal and Hamilton play a sudden-death game Nov. 13 and the winner plays Ottawa Nov. 21 or 22 and Nov. 25 in a home-and-home, total-point series.

6. Toronto beats Montreal and Hamilton beats Ottawa, leaving Ottawa and Montreal tied for second place: Ottawa and Montreal play the sudden-death game Nov. 13 and the winner takes on Hamilton in the home-and-home, total-point series.

7. Toronto beats Montreal and Hamilton and Ottawa ties: This would throw Alouettes out of the picture with 14 points as against 15 for the other two clubs, and it would be Hamilton and Ottawa in the best-of-three playoff.

8. It could happen that Toronto beat Montreal and Hamilton beat Ottawa. This would leave a three-way tie. In this unlikely eventuality, the two teams with the low scout scoring record would play the sudden-death game and the winner would go into a total-point home-and-home series with the top-scoring team.

9. If Toronto and Montreal tie, Montreal would play the winner of the Ottawa-Hamilton game in a best-of-three series.

Eddie Robinson Deal Pawn Of Phillies, Orioles

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Unless a lot of people are wrong, Philadelphia Athletics and Baltimore Orioles soon will make a deal with first-baseman Eddie Robinson as the main pawn.

Earle Mack, a member of the newly-created advisory board which is running the Philadelphia club, had admitted that the Athletics are interested in dealing Robinson to the Orioles. The big first baseman is the Philadelphia's most home runs and batted in 104 runs last season, but his slowness of foot and failure to hit consistently disappointed the management.

Robinson is a native of Baltimore and previously played with the Orioles.

Some of the new Orioles believes the husky slugger would be a drawing card for the Orioles, the perennial manager of the Athletics, who brought Robinson to Philadelphia last winter in a deal that sent Ferris Fain to Chicago White Sox.

WHO CAN HELP

The big question is what do the Orioles have that could help the seventh-place Athletics? Eddie Joost, the former star of the A's, said he isn't interested in trying to sign veteran ball players. But he admitted the need of a catcher, third baseman and outfielder and a proved hitter.

The Orioles are reported to be offering pitcher Martin Stuart, first baseman Dick Kryhoski and infielder Virgil Stephens for Robinson.

The Mack brain trust has indicated that's not enough. Stuart and Stephens have been tried by Baltimore and have failed to get either Clint Courtney, the Orioles' regular catcher, outfielder Roy Sievers or infielder Jim Dyck.

Hamilton Tigers Will Be Minus Star Players

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four football league will play this season without the services of linebacker Quincy Armstrong and half Royal Bailey when they meet Ottawa Rough Riders here next Saturday.

Armstrong went down after a fierce downfield tackle in last Saturday's game against Montreal and was taken to hospital with a badly swollen left knee.

Bailey has a water on the knee condition and is taking treatments daily.

End Vito Ragazzo will show up Saturday wearing a nose guard. It's against the rules to skate in the rough Montreal contest but had it straightened out Monday.

American Girl Scores Fourth Riding Victory

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Carol Durand scored the United States' fourth victory in the international jumping event at the National Horse Show Monday night by winning the Individual Individual Championship Challenge Trophy.

Canada's Shirley Thomas and Pat Smythe of Britain tied for second. There was a four-way tie for third among Lt.-Col. Charles Baker, Jr., of Toronto, Ronnie Mutch of the U.S., Capt. Kevin Barry of Ireland and William Hanson of Britain. Capt. Michael Tuohy took fourth for Ireland.

The Canadians lead in the international competition with five victories. The United States is second with four; the Britons third with three; Ireland is still without a triumph.

$100,000 FIRE

CHATHAM (CP)—A $100,000 fire Saturday night destroyed a farm implement sales building on No. 2 highway just east of the city. Firemen were unable to check the flames in the main building but prevented them from reaching an annex and a near-by furniture store.

$500,000,916 Sunk by Track Patrons In Pari-Mutuel Betting Machines

TORONTO (CP) — Race-track customers poured a record-breaking $500,916 into pari-mutuel betting machines at Ontario tracks in 1953, it was learned today. That was up from the 1952 figure of $41,822,048, the previous high.

This year's figure would have been higher but for a burst of activity by bettors which led to cancellation of the last two days of racing at Thistledown Park near Toronto Saturday and Monday.

The 1953 total came from 157 days of racing, 11 more than the 146 days in 1952.

Racing in Ontario this year was at four tracks—Dufferin, Long Branch and Woodbine at Toronto and Fort Erie in the Niagara peninsula. There was no thoroughbred racing at Stamford park near Niagara Falls, Thistledown at Toronto and Hamilton, which operated in 1953.

The Ontario Jockey Club, which has conducted racing at Woodbine for years, purchased the charters and assets of the Hamilton, Thorncliffe and Stamford tracks in a consolidation move which has as its eventual aim establishment of a new racing plant in the Toronto area. It also purchased the Fort Erie charter and track and embarked on a modernization program there. .

The Orpen interests of Toronto, which own Long Branch and Dufferin, also operated their Ascot charter on the Fort Erie track for one week.

Long Branch, which had 14 more days of racing than in 1952 with a two-week meeting in August, showed the biggest increase in mutuel handle with a total for the year of $10,976,631, up $4,981,638 from the 1952 total of $5,994,992. The Fort Erie meet drew $1,872,070 with a total of $8,203,355 compared with $6,331,286.

Champion's Manager Wants No Part Of Montreal Judges in Savoie Bout

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal's athletic commission today meets the managers of champion Jimmy Carter and Montreal's Armand Savoie to decide whether or not Wednesday night's lightweight championship fight goes on.

Willie Ketchums, manager of the champion, has made it clear he considers said the bout stopped the last spring's non-title fight here before Savoie took the decision over the champ.

Willie wants no part of the judges who made the decision to that scrap. "They're prejudiced; they see one man in the ring," says manager Ketchum, "and I'm going to insist none of them be on the list again."

Willie would also like to see Jack Dempsey as referee, or a referee attached to either the New York or Pennsylvania commissions. He figures a Montreal referee is far from impartial. Maurice O'Connell are senior men on the Montreal commission staff.

LIGHT WORKOUTS

Both fighters had only light workouts Monday. Savoie weighed himself at 134½, Carter 134½ pounds on the weight. The official weigh-in will be at noon Wednesday, after which they'll get medical examination.

During the heaviest part of his training, most of it at a camp in the Laurentian mountains that housed 24 rounds, his handlers report, Carter is said to have engaged in 12 full rounds of sparring partners, but he has 3-three fights in the last couple of months.

Advance sale of tickets was reported at $20,000 Monday night. Promoter Raoul Godbout was hopeful a sell-out of 18,000 seats be reached, which would mean an attendance of around 17,500. Carter has a choice of 40 per cent of the gate or $25,000. Savoie's share is 13½ per cent of the gate.

Beaches Ready For Grid Final

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Balmy Beach, jeopardizing for its first game of their two-game, total-points series against the Toronto Varsity Blues, will put the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union title, and third scoring LL-Col. Charles Baker, Jr., of Toronto, Ronnie Mutch of the U.S., Capt. Kevin Barry of Ireland and William Hanson of Britain. Capt. Michael Tuohy took fourth for Ireland.

The Canadians lead in the international competition with five victories. The United States is second with four; the Britons third with three; Ireland is still without a triumph.

BONSPIEL PLAY

GALT (CP)—Rinks from Brantford, Hamilton, Brumbo and Galt reached the final round of Monday's opening play in the 17th annual Galt bonspiel, first major event of the Ontario Curling association season. The bonspiel ends Saturday.

Will Organize International Basketball Loop

TORONTO (CP) — Alex Fisher, manager of Toronto Nortown Trilbells basketball team, said Monday night an international triple A basketball league in which Trilbells would compete will probably be formed this season.

He said the league would include Williamsville, N.Y., Tonawanda, N.Y., Sloan, N.Y., Niagara Falls, Toronto and possibly Hamilton and Buffalo.

Players May Buy Terriers

GALT (CP)—Two players in the Intercounty Baseball League have shown interest in purchasing Galt Terriers, president Wally Reid said Monday at the annual meeting of the club. Intercounty Association incorporated. The players' names were not disclosed.

He said the sale of the club would be a solution for the association, troubled with high costs in operating the team.

He said the Terriers operated at a loss of $18,370 last year because of a lot of bad breaks, including the collapse of the early season which caused many postponements. Another reason was the high salaries of the players.

Letcher Named Bowling Head

TORONTO (CP)—W. M. Letcher of Port Perry was elected president of the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association at the group's annual meeting Monday.

The Duke of London was chosen vice-president and Ray R. Knight of Toronto was re-elected honorary secretary-treasurer.

The meeting discussed plans for the reception of 30 British bowlers who will visit Ontario in July and August while on their way to the British Empire Games in Vancouver. Matches will be arranged for the champion bowlers from England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales in 16 Ontario districts.

Knight said about $1,800 had been raised by the PLBA. Provincial children's fund during last year.

Legal Action May Be Taken Against Owners

OTTAWA (CP) — The village council of suburban Rockcliffe took a look at a $331 deficit in last week's operations of a bus service there and decided to consider legal action against car-owners who pick up potential bus passengers.

Reeve D. F. Crichton said Monday night giving "lifts" to persons waiting at bus stops resulted in loss of business and indicated poor support of the service.

In recent years, car-owners in the Ayhner area of Quebec have been fined for interference with the public transport system, namely, giving "lifts" to persons waiting at Gatineau Bus Company stops.

—Because it gives people pleasure

We write most kinds of insurance. You might think this is pretty dull doin's.

But we figure what we sell is mainly . . . pleasure.

Insurance gives pleasure to insured people every day because it banishes fear of loss and disaster.

But it gives greatest pleasure when it covers an actual loss. We've seen people who would have been ruined by a fire, burglary, robbery or other loss if they hadn't had insurance written by us. With insurance, they still found life pleasant.

Yes, we like our business.

SALISBURY, England (Reuters) — One of Britain's most modern fighter aeroplanes, the Supermarine Swift, crashed near here today, killing its pilot.

South lands in a diamond contract and west starts with the heart queen opening lead. Does declarer expect to have a grand slam? No more than I expect to have a baby.

Trick one is grabbed by south's heart ace. Trump ace is slapped down and the lone west diamond king drops. It was like finding oil when drilling for water to irrigate cactus.

A club lead toward dummy is successfully trapped by the jack in hand. This is not so surprising. It was a 50-50 chance anyhow. But it gives declarer a chain of horseshoes on parade.

Dummy returns a small diamond and south covers the set seven for a win. A club to the king enters dummy again. A trump back is gathered in by south and he has his contract with a nice.

South cashes two clubs with his ace and eightpoint, sluffing a pair of weak dummy hearts. A small heart is ruffed with the final dummy trump. A spade is lead to dummy's ace.

Cashing the last south trump drops the east diamond jack. West is holding two high spades and the top heart — and this trick starts. He must let go of one. What will he chuck?

He sees in dummy the king and eightspot and another spade. It was chucks a spade, both dummy spades are good. So, this is unfood. If west flings his heart top, south's trey of hearts is good and dummy's king takes the last trick. So, this is ungood also.

What can west do to prevent declarer from taking all 13 tricks? Nothing. Absolutely nothing. The squeeze gets him.

Witness Says Players Decided To Start Brawl

BARRIE (CP)—George Gordon of Collingwood, a goal judge during the hockey game in which Robert Gillies was fatally injured in March, said Monday he had heard Walter Fines tell the Aurora goalkeeper he was going to start a brawl.

Fines, a 19-year-old Aurora defenceman, is being tried on three charges as a result of Gillies' death. He pleaded innocent to manslaughter, grievous bodily harm and assault occasioning bodily harm.

Crown counsel W. M. Thompson charged Fines, checked Gillies, a Collingwood player, into the boards where he suffered fatal injuries.

Gordon said he heard Fines tell the Aurora goalie: "We are going to start a brawl." The netminder replied: "Let's wait until two minutes before the end of the game." Gordon said Gillies was struck about two minutes after the conversation had taken place, the witness added.

Earl Nobes of Collingwood, who was standing behind Gordon at the game, said he also heard Fines' remark.

SICKENING CRASH

Dr. Robert Storey of Collingwood, who was watching the Ontario Hockey Association match in play-off, described the fatal fall as a "sickening crash." During the game, Gordon said, Gillies was struck down

FOR WEDNESDAY, NOV. 11, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — An opportunity for career advancement can materialize now. It is important that you look and act your best. Be sure, however, that all contracts and agreements are in writing...

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Thoughtful consideration of others, fulfillment of obligations stressed. Be prepared to cope with a sudden change by having an alternate plan ready.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Do not complain if things do not go entirely your way now. Benefits assured later to those who work for, earn them. In your charity, pray for those less favorided lately, appreciate your blessings.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — A favorable day for wholesome deeds; gains through honest and intelligent management of affairs, and in service to the public. Selling, manufacturing, etc., need care.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Encouraging Sun and Jupiter aspects link memorable day should benefit all who think of duties and responsibilities as privileges rather than burdens. Guard your money. Happy dodgue in order.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Especially favored this day; writing, photography, reporting, artistic professions generally; journalism, science, agreements, conferences, government jobs. Enjoy free time wisely.

September 23 to October 23 (Libra)—Wholesome pleasure is favored today, but think seriously of the great need for prayer, wisey judgment and sane preparedness. Honest work, business under fine rays generally.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—This day's influences are neither exciting nor restrictive to be guided by needs and opportunity. Personal matters, clubs, hotels, restaurants and religious services favored. Think.

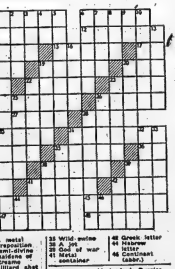
November 23 to December 23 (Sagittarius)—Very favorable influences for your individual interests and all worthy activities. Good rays for money matters and career advancement. New friendships indicated.

December 22 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Friendly rays carried over from yesterday encourage wholesome ambition, valuable cooperation if you are giving zealous attention to your occupational duties.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—The present aspect of Uranus in your horoscope stresses avoidance of extremes, carelessness, haphazard decisions or changes made but for sake of change. Give thought to spiritual welfare.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Neptune's position in your Sign urges temperance in all things. Be moderate in demands and desires and you can have a pleasant,, constructive dy. Some good aspects encourage advancement.

YOU BORN TODAY are usually practical, logical, capable. But you can be too self-assured and rather dictatorial, too. These latter traits, unless controlled, could thwart your potentialities for great success and allenate friends. When living up to your finer characteristics, you can overcome great obstacles, so cultivate patience and moderation in all things.



Birthdate: General George S. Patton, U.S.A.; Thomas B. Aldrich, author.

Hollinger Mines Talk With Union, First in Strike

TIMMINS (CP)—What may be the first break in the long gold mine strike has come with the announcement that representatives of Hollinger Consolidated Mines and of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO) will meet today to discuss issues in dispute.

The joint announcement from the company and the union said:

"A meeting to explore the possibilities of settlement of all issues in dispute at Hollinger has been arranged for Tuesday, Nov. 10, at 1:30 p.m."

Neither the firm nor the union would elaborate.

However, the announcement came touched off a wave of optimism throughout this northern Ontario gold-mining district where some 6,000 men are on strike.

FIRST TALK SINCE JULY

Previously, no other negotiations have taken place since the start July 11 of the strikes which progressively closed eight of the 11 mines in this area.

No talks have been held between the union and the management of Broulan Reef, Hollinger and Preston East Dome, all strike-bound since early in July, nor of Dalnite, mines, affected by the strike.

Hollinger's 1,250 hourly-rated employees walked-out Sept. 24.

Union demands at Hollinger are a "substantial" wage increase, reduction of the work week from 48 to 40 hours and the checkoff of union dues.

Nylon Stockings Should Have Cotton Feet

TORONTO (CP)—Women could avoid many foot troubles by choosing nylon stockings that have cotton feet, a foot expert says.

Dr. Norman Foote of Toronto, executive secretary of the Canadian Association of Chiropodists, said Monday at the associations convention:

"Nylon is an inert substance that is neither animal nor vegetable. Moisture and perspiration must lie on the surface of the foot without being absorbed when apnone are worn."

He said men should keep away from brightly colored socks.

"Colored socks can lead to fungus infections or athlete's foot. Impregnated with normal perspiration, deep dyes account for many of the foot infections found today.

"Active men, particularly, should stick to white, grey or dark shades and avoid the brighter varieties."

Provost Corps Denies Reports

LONDON (CP)—Officers of the Canadian Army Provost Corps were kept busy Monday denying reports that they are raiding the ranks of Scotland Yard.

"We have nothing to do with it," one Canadian officer told reporters checking on a Sunday newspaper story that there is "serious anxiety" at Scotland Yard over the number of promising young detectives resigning to join the Canadian force.

"About 30 men from Scotland Yard have joined us this year," the officer said, "but they have all come as individuals and we have accepted them on their merits. We do not advertise for recruits in any way and are very particular not to use any persuasion to get men from British police or other official quarters.

Meanwhile, a Scotland Yard official said the yard knows of at least 12 men who had resigned since March to join the Canadian Army but that "there is no particular worry over their resignation." However, the yard is understaffed by some 3,500-4,000 men.

Reports of better pay seem to be the main attraction for the young men from Scotland Yard. As probationers, they receive $24 a week from Scotland Yard while the Canadian Army offers $96 a month —about $3 a week—plus room and board.

Find Maine Child Hunt for Sister

BLAINE, Me. (AP)—Search today in freezing temperatures for a thinly-clad, bet girl of 11 was spurred by the finding of her five-year-old sister more than 12 hours after both strayed from their home Monday.

About 100 persons combed the thickets near the home of Judson Cray for his elder daughter, Faye.

Faye's sister, Elaine, was found about midnight a mile and a half from home, suffering from exposure in her light dress. Her condition was not considered serious.

The elder girl became separated from Elaine in woodchip that began before noon Monday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional tax fraud investigators said Monday that top treasury officials intervened in tax cases which resulted in a revenue loss to the federal government in excess of $10,000,000. The report was made by a House of Representatives ways and means sub-committee in covering more than two years of investigation and hearings.

Canada's Air Division

Canada's air contribution to NATO is a complete jet fighter division, the first in Canada's history. The four wings in the division are at North Luffenham, Eng.; Gros Tenquin, France, Zweibruecken, and Baden-Sollingen, both in Germany. The Canadians would feel the main burden in the event of an invasion of Western Europe. This map shows the location of the wings, some of which are only a few minutes jet flying time from Russian-built MiG's. — (CP from National Defence.)

Canada's Air Contribution To NATO Is Complete Jet Fighter Division in France

By BILL BOOS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

METZ, France (CP)—Canada's air contribution to NATO is a complete jet fighter division, the first in Canada's history.

Its headquarters are at storied Chateau Mercy-les-Metz just outside this fortress town adjacent to the disputed Saar. It has four fighter wings, each of three F-86 Sabre squadrons, and an air materiel wing based in England to supply it with equipment from Canada.

No. 1 wing is at North Luffenham, England, because its intended base at Marville in northern France will not be ready for a year. No. 2 wing is at Gros Tenquin, a 45-minute automobile run from Metz. No. 3 wing is in Germany at Zweibruecken on the other side of the Saar. No. 4 wing is at Baden-Sollingen, south of Weisbaden.

RANKS WITH BEST

Commanded by Air Vice-Marshal Hugh Campbell of Ottawa, the formation comes pride that:

1. It has been praised by senior commanders as one of NATO's finest air formations.

2. For a long time it was the only fighter force in Europe able to meet the Russian-built MiGs, only 13 minutes' jet flight away.

3. Next year it will have new Canadair Sabres which will outperform Sabres only recently secured by NATO's British and United States formations. Also, its squadrons will be strengthened to 25 from 16 fighters each, an increase of 108 in the planes.

4. If Western Europe were invaded tomorrow, the main burden would fall on the Canadians.

5. Canada is the only NATO member which has met all its commitments, and on time.

HIGH OBJECTIVE

At divisional headquarters and bases in France and Germany, I heard these points repeatedly from officers and men.

Air Vice-Marshal Campbell said:

"Canada's objective is to have the most efficient air force on the continent. We have the best equipment on the continent and excellent personnel."

This does not mean all is rosy in the division or that its operational fitness came smoothly.

Two of its three continental airfields were unserviceable in September and October.

Since August workmen have been trying to remedy deficiencies of Gros Tenquin. Even when the present work is finished, the runway will be dangerous during the wet season—November to March. Gros Tenquin's aircraft have been flying from Zweibruecken.

Barely a week after its formal transfer to Canada in September, cracks were discovered on No. 1 wing's runway at Baden-Sollingen. Flying was halted and RCAF authorities called on the contractors to correct the faults. A composite squadron of Sabres from the wing went to North Luffenham to train. Training was provided on the continent for other pilots.

OTHER DIFFICULTIES

No. 3 wing, overcrowded at Zweibruecken by air and ground crews from Gros Tenquin, also had tacked onto it the training schools for the entire division. Then it was told to plan on becoming the European terminal for the RCAF's No. 438 (North Star) squadron based at Dorval, Que.

There is dissatisfaction among pilots and flight-control officers with French electronic equipment in the division's control towers. In due course, it will be replaced by a Canadian product.

Pilots in the rank of squadron leader say their Canadian-built direction-finding equipment is inferior to the British cathode-ray direction finder used by British formations here and No. 1 Canadian Senior officers, however, say that Canadian equipment is adequate and dian wing at North Luffenham for the moment.

But the air division's morale is high.

Indicative is the spirit at Gros Tenquin where the RCAF met its greatest difficulties with continental contractors. Appalling living conditions of last winter fused a determination to glitch in and see it through.

This winter will not be overcomfortable at Gros Tenquin, but it will be more tenable than last. Married men have moved their families into trailer camps on the station. Self-help groups of officers and men work together in spare time, digging ditches for water pipes and stringing power lines.

Story of Agent With French Underground To Be Told

CALGARY (CP)—The story of George DePre, Calgary business man who was a British intelligence agent with the French underground during the Second World War, is to be told in a book by Quentin Reynolds, United States war correspondent.

DePre, as a French half-wit, did notable work as a spy with the Maquis and suffered torture at the hands of the German Gestapo.

Born at Poona, India, in 1903, the son of a British Army officer, DePre graduated from Cambridge with an arts degree. Later he came to Canada to serve with the Hudson's Bay Company, freighting mail, merchandise and passengers in the western Arctic—by dog sled.

ENLISTED WITH RCAF

War broke out seven years after DePre had moved to HBC's head office in Winnipeg. Shortly after enlistment in the RCAF he was chosen to study at a British spy-training school in Oxfordshire, England.

Until he was parachuted into France in 1940, DePre learned radio operation and maintenance, acquired a general knowledge of the systems of the French Maquis, then aiding the escape of Allied airmen who had been forced down.

His room mate at the school was a half-wit Briton from whom DePre adopted all the mannerisms of the feeble-minded. His conversation was to be almost incoherent, and the most he was called upon to write was "Je ne sais pas,"—"I don't know."

Four days after landing in France, DePre went to work as a garage sweeper in a small village, the name and location of which still is a secret. He became Paul Couchette, French half-wit.

Couchette worked for two years in the garage, used mostly by Germans and then was taken to Hamburg to work in a submarine factory.

ARRESTED BY GESTAPO

After 18 months in the factory he was allowed to work his way back to the French village. On the way, he was picked up by an Allied plane and slipped back into the role of Couchette. George DePre, hospital patient suffering from the effects of German torture.

While engaged in underground activities, DePre and 19 others were arrested by the Gestapo for questioning. Among the group was a young seven of the Maquis.

DePre says that for two days and three nights, alternate hour-long blasts of hot and cold air were forced into their cells through gratings.

After this softening-up process DePre was taken upstairs for questioning. Two Gestapo men seized him and his index finger was clamped in a vise. A third man kicked him, and when he fell to the floor his finger was quickly broken.

Questions regarding the Maquis produced only a babbled "Je ne sais pas." A day later, he again faced his tormentors.

HOT WATER TORTURE

This time he was strapped into a chair with a pad of paper, with instructions to write the answers to questions fired at him. Before him were three electric elements on which were tubes of water. The first was set at a low heat, the second at medium, and the third was set at high.

A clamp was used to force open his mouth, and the water from the low burner was poured down his throat. The quetches brought only the French negative.

Finally, boiling water was poured into the half-wit's mouth but the result was still the same. He was taken to his cell and stayed there while his tongue peeled and his teeth fell from dead tissue.

Of the seven Maquis arrested by the Gestapo, none betrayed his comrades, DePre said. Three of them, including the half-wit, got the "full treatment." One of them died, and the vocal cords of another were paralyzed by the scalding water.

Today, DePre no longer resembles the starved and disfigured man picked up on the French countryside. French manager for a chemical firm, he is a member of the local boy scout council, and has undergone plastic surgery to restore damage done by the torture.

Express Shipment Of $11,000 In Small Bills Taken

KAPUSKASING (CP) — An express shipment of $11,000 in small-denomination bills was stolen Saturday night while on its way from the Bank of Canada in Ottawa to the Kapuskasing branch of the Imperial Bank.

The theft became known Monday night with the arrival of special investigators of the Canadian National Express.

It was learned that the money, in $5 and $10 bills, was missed after the train which brought it from Ottawa pulled out for Hearst, 26 miles to the west. A phone check with Hearst showed the package of money did not reach there.

Body Taken Home

ROSE BAY, N.S. (CP)—The body of Capt. William Himmelman, 53, who drowned Friday when thrown overboard by a lurch of the dragger Cape Sambro, was brought to his home here when the vessel docked Monday.

He is survived by his widow and two sons, William Jr. of Sarnia, and Donald, Waterloo.

Remembrance Day . . .

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS ago tomorrow the "Cease Fire" command ended World War I. And on that day we honored those who died to give us peace. Added to that honor roll are those who gave their lives in the second great world conflict. It is not enough this Armistice Day to honor the brave dead of two wars by bowing our heads in prayer.

TODAY THROUGHOUT our world angry voices are thundering without reason and threats, like lightning, break and crash over the people's heads . . . clouds scud along the horizon, sometimes building up to frightening thunderheads . . . Yet, the eternal stars are there — stars of Hope, of Faith, and of Love, now dimmed or hidden by the clouds — now breaking through with a clarity and brilliance and strength that will not be denied.

MAY THESE stars be seen and followed by the wise men of all nations, and may they light the path to peace, with goodwill in the hearts of all men—a warm welcome for their neighbor — and a deep desire for friendship between nations — and a determination to achieve lasting peace.

CPA Is Refused Licence For Air Cargo Service

Montreal-Vancouver Flights Fail to Get Ottawa's O.K.

The application, heard first by the air transport board last February, was opposed by Trans-Canada Airlines, which holds a monopoly on east-coast passenger and cargo service in Canada.

In rejecting CPA's application for the present at least, the cabinet followed the transport board's recommendation but not previously made public.

The board said that, by the application by CPA would involve a major change in air policy, and added it believed such a major change would not be in the public interest at this time.

CPA's proposal had been for a cargo service to be flown between Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver with intermediate stops permitted but excluding local traffic rights between Montreal and Toronto.

EVIDENCE

The cabinet, in addition to its study of the evidence presented to the air transport board, heard direct representations from CPA and TCA Oct. 30 and 31. The cabinet said it was "impressed" by this evidence:

"1. High elimination of air transportation equipment and facilities through lack of long-term unit costs and remunerative rates for transportation services at reasonable level."

"2. Even in countries where all-cargo air services have been established, carriage of goods by planes enjoyed only a minor fraction of the economy and mail profits a higher utilized of equipment and facilities than would otherwise be possible.

TCA MEETS DEMAND

"3. In the Canadian transcontinental air services the equipment and facilities of Trans-Canada Air Lines have thus far met the demand for all-cargo services."

"4. In order to attract additional traffic, rates would have to be substantially reduced in July 1952. Early in 1953 TCA announced further reductions "to shoot or below the level proposed in Canadian Pacific Air Lines application." Indeed ordered more aircraft which "can be put into operation provided satisfactory transcontinental air cargo service at fair and reasonable rates can reasonably be expected to be developed in the proximate future."

"5. The Canadian Government has licensed to operate all cargo services which have been found to be necessary to secure and have been granted increases in rates. . . ."

"6. Competition has been found in essential air cargo services in Canada. Such competition would tend to tempt to achieve greater efficiency, lower costs and charges and better service, but rather over-expansion and expensive facilities with division of traffic between amongst competing carriers leading to heavy losses to the carriers, shippers and taxpayers alike."

Hockey Player Not Guilty Of Manslaughter

BARRIE (CP)—A young hockey player was acquitted Tuesday night of a manslaughter charge arising from the death of an opponent who skated into the boards during a hockey game in Collingwood last March 4.

A jury which deliberated 45½ hours also cleared the player, 19-year-old Walter Pines of Aurora, of charges of assault causing bodily harm and of common assault.

Evidence was that Robert Gillies, 17, of Stayner, received a fatal skull fracture when he struck the boards during an Ontario Hockey Association Junior C playoff game between Aurora Bears and Collingwood Greenshirts.

Pines, who played for Aurora, was accused of sending Gillies against the boards during a scrabble near the Collingwood net late in the third period.

Mr. Justice Dalton C. Wells of Osgoode Ontario Supreme Court hoped the trial had taught "one a lesson." He said he did not disagree with the jury's verdict but he hoped Pines "does not become one of the father hockey players" is no longer in this world.

SERIOUS MATTER

"It is not a light matter," he said. "I hope you will treat it seriously as the rest of your life."

Earlier, Pines, testifying in his own defence, said he did not intend to injure Gillies.

"We were playing hockey that was hard, but not dirty," Pines said.

John Druery of Aurora, official timekeeper at the game, testified that Gillies would have been injured, even if he no one had touched him, because he lost his balance as he raced for the puck.

"It was going to be a toss-up whether Gillies or Pines would get to the puck first," Druery said. "Pines, a fast player, was travelling at a high speed. I could tell there was going to be an accident.

"Gillies more or less lost his balance because of the crowd. He was in when stooping down to get the puck. He would have been hurt even if no one had touched him. It was a chain reaction collision."

George Gordon of Collingwood, a goal judge, testified earlier that he heard Pines tell Aurora goalkeeper Ken Burke that he planned to "start trouble" early in the game. Pines denied using the word "brave" and said he did not intend to injure anyone.

Shot in Chest By Five-Year-Old

REDBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — A sawed-off rifle in the hands of five-year-old Ronald Hall brought the family reunion into near tragedy Tuesday.

As the family greeted Thomas Chester, 72, home after several months at an isolated construction camp, Robbie took the gun his brother had placed on a couch and accidentally shot Mary Chester, 17, in the chest.

She was taken 18 miles to North Bay where doctors said her condition was "good."

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (CP)—Two brothers and a sister were among recruits in the army recruiting station here. John, George and Mary Baliger then left for St. Johns, Nfld., their home town, for selection into a trade for further air force training.

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: A weak disturbance moving across southern Ontario is causing cloudy skies and scattered showers here today. 2 CREW MEMBERS DIE IN CRASH OF JET FIGHTER

Wreckage Scattered Along Ottawa River

PORTAGE DU FORT, Que. (CP) Two crew members died in the crash of a CF-100 jet plane near this town 30 miles west of Ottawa Tuesday night.

Though the RCAF declined to give any details immediately, reports of the all-weather jet was found scattered over a quarter-mile area along the bank of the Ottawa River.

The jet, on a training flight, apparently exploded in the air about 9 p. m.

Constable W. H. McNally of the Ontario Provincial Police said he saw what he first thought was "a flare" in the sky to the northwest as he patrolled highway 17 between Arnprior and Renfrew, Ont.

GOUGED DEEP HOLE

Two other eyewitnesses, Clayton Hall and Peter Hials, said they saw an explosion in the air over Portage du Fort. They reported a "blinding flash of lightning."

The plane struck on the farm of George Stewart. An eight-foot hole was gouged out only 15 feet from the farmhouse. Two of two parachutes were found among the wreckage.

The plane was from No. 445 (Fighter) Squadron, based at Ottawa. Names of the two crew members were withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

A detachment of soldiers from Petawawa Military Camp, 20 miles downstream from the wreck scene.

UN Agrees to Air Korea Atrocity Charges by U.S.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The UN General Assembly today agreed to air American charges that Communist North Koreans committed atrocities against UN prisoners.

The vote in the 60-nation body was 53 to 5 with two abstentions. The Soviet bloc countries unanimously opposed the move.

The resolution, fighting to prevent UN publication of a documented American report of mass murder which liquidated almost 30,000 prisoners including 6,113 Americans, said the UN General Assembly has the report was an attempt to "foment war hysteria and frustrate armistice negotiations."

Small Egg for Denmark Causes Quite a Fuss in British Commons

LONDON (Reuters)—Conservative Sir Herbert Williams threw an egg at the Labor benches in the House of Commons Tuesday night.

But like almost everything else, the egg splattered over the green carpet between the government and opposition benches. Williams was as surprised as anyone—he thought it was a china egg.

Amid laughter, a Labor member asked if it was a present for a member to throw eggs.

The speaker solemnly said: "It is quite out of order in this chamber, different from some political meetings, thinking it was a phoney, retrieved it and threw it back across the floor.

discreetly covered it with an agenda paper.

The first appeared during a debate on food, when Williams was questioning imported Danish eggs. Labor member Norman Dodds, Labor M.P. for Dartford, took the egg out of his pocket and asked: "Have you seen the small eggs from Denmark?"

Dodds pretended to throw it at Williams but instead walked across the floor to hand it to Conservative Gerald Nabarro. Nabarro carefully placed it on the floor and rolled it partly out of sight.

Executive Appointments to Belleville Hospital Building Fund Announced

Executive appointments to the Hospital Building Fund were announced today by the County of Hastings executive committee.

In accepting the appointment E. P. Bernstein stated that he welcomed the opportunity of being able to assist in this great hospital project which will benefit the community at large. "Funds amounting to $1,250,000 are now being sought for a new 100-bed unit addition to the Belleville General Hospital. Of this total $600,000 is being sought in the city," Mr. Bernstein said that the broadest possible coverage in Belleville is necessary to ensure attainment of the goal.

THREE DIVISIONS.

He said that the Belleville executive committee is divided into three divisions, Commerce and Industry which is responsible for approaching Belleville business firms and company employees; The Men's Division, which is responsible for the solicitation of individual men in Belleville in the medical staff of the hospital, other professional people, and organized groups; The Women's Division which is responsible for approaching individual women, nurses and clubs and organizations.

In accepting his appointment Lee Grills emphasized the importance of county-wide participation in the fund. He pointed out that the percentage of people using the hospital is fairly equal in both city and county. The urgent need for hospital facilities in our community is well known to all of us and I urge county residents to support the Fund to the fullest possible degree."

Col. Vanderwater said that city and county people alike must work together in this great project to protect the well-being of ourselves, our families and our neighbors. He stated that committees were now in the process of formation in key populated areas in the county. He strongly urged that county people accept this challenge by both offering their voluntary assistance in speaking on behalf of the Fund in their own communities and by bringing the expansion program to a quick and successful conclusion by giving adequately.

SAMARIA DOCKS WITH CANADIANS HOME FROM REICH

850 Officers and Men Disembark at Quebec

By PETER BUCKLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—A total of 850 officers and enlisted men arrived today aboard the liner Samaria after two years service with the 27th Brigade in Germany.

Troops started filing down the gang-plank shortly after docking. Small knots of relatives of the soldiers waited around the wharf for their husbands, sons and fathers to disembark.

Mrs. Harold Nowe of Fredericton waited for three hours for her son, Cpl. Bernard Nowe, who was scheduled to disembark on the last trip.

When the plight of the elderly lady was made known, army officers pushed the corporal to the head of the line and he raced down the gang-plank to greet his mother. He grabbed her and lifted her up in his arms to plant a solid kiss on her cheek. She could only say, "My son, my son."

FEW WERE SEA-SICK

Pacing among the troops was their commanding officer, Lt.-Col. G. M. C. Sprung, 40, of Ottawa.

Col. Sprung said in an interview that the men are "obviously happy to be back."

Weather on the Atlantic was rough but the ship was good and very few were sea-sick.

Asked about relations of the Canadians with the Germans in Hanover where the Canadians were based, Col. Sprung said:

"When we did meet the Germans we got on well with them. Of course, we were out on manoeuvres most of the time—for weeks at a stretch. I should say relations were generally good."

"The group would organize a dance and pass word around in the nearby farms and business offices to invite single girls. Dinners and New Year and Christmas parties for the children all improved relations between our men and the Germans."

Mail from received word before leaving for Canada that they would be on leave until Jan. 1 next year. Most were grateful for the general 55-day leave.

Cpl. Carl Courtney of Picton, Ont., found the long leave a "pretty fair deal."

Union Demands Stress Needs of Union Itself

TORONTO (CP)—A labor relations expert said Tuesday night union demands are coming to emphasize the need of unions to sell rather than the immediate requirements of the membership.

Eric Taylor, who has been chairman of several conciliation boards in Toronto, said that over a period of years the make-up of the union membership changes but the union itself remains. It had survival qualities, the need it required continuity and time in which to plan.

Montreal Airmen Save City Hall From Serious Fire

$2,000 Damage to Staircase Done by Tuesday Eve Blaze

Two young Montreal airmen, 18-year-old Jan Audet and 21-year-old J. Prooovost were credited Tuesday night with saving the century old Belleville city hall from possible destruction or serious damage by fire after flames were spotted racing up the main stairway of the building.

Although they were complete strangers to the city the young men entered the city hall and, taking down the hoses, turned on the water and kept the flames under control until arrival of firemen. Damage to the city hall by fire and smoke was estimated by Fire Chief Gerald Vance to be in the neighborhood of $2,000.

The flames on the stairway of the city hall were spotted about 10.15 by several passersby. Almost immediately two airmen walked past and while the alarm was being phoned in to the fire hall, tried the front door and finding it unlocked, raced in to the building to assist in fighting the flames.

"We didn't know where the switch was to turn on the lights, but we saw the fire low in the wall by the flames on the stairway," one of the airmen reported.

FIREMEN PRAISE AIRMEN

Firemen praised the two young men, saying that they stuck to their task until the arrival of the fire department.

"Had the fire contained undiscovered for a few minutes longer the flames would have eaten through the partitions of the stairway and saving the building would have been a difficult task," the fire chief stated.

Firemen said the blaze apparently started at the bottom of the stairway between the railing and the stairway wall. By the time the fire was brought under control it had burned upwards to the landing overhead where railings were charred and blistered by the heat.

The heat of the blaze was so intense that paint and varnish on the opposite partition of the stairway was blistered and peeled. Smoke filled the upper hallway and the council chamber.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

City officials were unable to say what could have caused the blaze. A meeting of the Belleville Canoe Exchange had been held in the council chambers earlier in the evening.

The fact that there are double doors at the entrance to the city hall underlines the nature of the blaze to get a greater start than otherwise would have been the case. The double doors partially block the view of the stairway from the street and the flames would have to be quite severe before they could be seen.

Firemen said there was little water damage to any part of the stair railing was destroyed, several feet of the bannister and also the one wall of the stairway was charred black.

Fire Chief Vance took no chances with the nature of the blaze was discovered and quickly ordered extra equipment to the scene. Crews with the flames being held partially under control by the time the first truck was out in a few minutes after the call of firemen.

The two young airmen, transferred to No. 8 R.D. only last week, were visiting Belleville for the first time, having stopped here on their way to Montreal. They were taking a walk after the movies when the fire was spotted.

Historic Relics Linked to Nelson Are Stolen from English Museum

MONMOUTH, England (Reuters) Police sought today to recover unharmed priceless historical relics linked to admiral Lord Nelson, which were stolen from a museum here.

Their greatest fear is that the thieves will melt down the treasures for their gold content. Their intrinsic value is about $6,000, but historically no price can be set on them.

The biggest single loss was 94 golden guineas reputed to have been found on Nelson's body when he was wounded fatally at the Battle of Trafalgar. They were melted into a gold cup and a replica of his tomb.

Also taken was a sword presented to the admiral by the King of Naples also is missing. The jewels were removed some years ago and replaced with paste stones as a safety measure.

A complete showcase containing 75 gold brooches, medals, rings, pendants and watches was stripped, of its contents. Museum authorities said many important items were left untouched.

Princess Agrees To Transfer Regency Rights

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret agrees to transfer her regency rights to the British throne to the Duke of Edinburgh, the House of Commons was told today.

Home Secretary Sir David Maxwell Fyfe said he was authorized to state that "Princess Margaret shares the desire of the Queen that the statutory provisions should be amended so that if a regency should become necessary the Duke of Edinburgh should be regent."

A LIMITED CASE

Fyfe added, however, that the proposed amendment to the 1937 Regency Act is confined to the duke as a "limited exception."

If the duke as acting monarch should die, then Princess Margaret would become regent, he declared.

Under the proposed amendment, submitted to Parliament a week ago, the duke's wife and Princess Margaret would become regent—Acting Monarch—in case the Queen died before her son, Prince Charles, reaches the age of 18. Prince Charles will be five on Saturday.

Maxwell Fyfe was moving second reading—approval in principle —of the Regency Act amendment.

ATTEE RAISES BILL

Labor party leader Clement Attlee quickly endorsed the amendment, saying that the Duke of Edinburgh as the Queen's husband should be "the natural guardian of the children and the natural regent if such a misfortune should befall the Queen and her children."

He added it is "quite clear there was no question of excluding Princess Margaret who is very fully qualified to perform the services of the regency."

Kiwanians Observe Ladies' Night With Party at Masonic Temple

Representatives of most of the city and district service clubs were in attendance at the Kiwanis club's annual "Ladies' Night" held Tuesday night in the Masonic Temple.

Frank Creegan, club president, was master of ceremonies and chairman for the evening.

Many presentations were made throughout the program, the most outstanding one being the donation of a $500 cheque to the Kiwanis club by the Kiwanis Queens organization. Alasdair Murray, president of the Queens made the presentation to Mr. Creegan.

Past president Everett Fairman presented Mrs. Frank (Vera) Creegan with a gift on behalf of the Kiwanians and the presentation made a presentation to Mrs. Murray, also on behalf of the club. Each of the ladies present received a gift. Presentations were awarded by Art Wilson to Mrs. Fairman. Rud Punchard and Bill Wills.

MUSICAL PROGRAM

Lt. William Brown of the Salvation Army at Tweed rendered three vocal selections during the program. He was accompanied at the piano by Clifford Templer. Other singing was under the direction of Harold Carruthers and Vic White.

The ladies of Massassaga cooked and served a delicious chicken supper complete with all the trimmings. They were thanked by the Rev. Sidney Gandier of Bridge Street United Church. A toast to the ladies was proposed by Art Gee and responded to by Allaneen Murray.

Introduction of guests was done by president-elect Lawrence Kelly.

ANNUAL BANQUET

President Creegan in delivering the president's annual report, listed the club's accomplishments to date in 1952. He commented on the ladies' annual banquet held at the first of the year and the annual inter-service club gathering. The president said he would like to see both these projects on next year's agenda. He also remarked upon the formation of the Trenton Kiwanis club which was organized in 1950. Drawing attention to the district conference held at Elgwin Inn, which he and Bill Slade attended, he noted as further prestige to the club the elevation of Mr. Slade to the post of district-governor.

Other successful projects of the club listed by the president in his report were the inauguration of the World Travel and Adventure Series, the recognition of Belleville Kids Day by the club; work of the welfare committee in treating the residents of the Old Peoples' Home to a movie once each month; the formation of a sick and visiting committee and the fact that 12 different organizations had made use of the Kiwanis Centre in one month free-of-charge.

AWARDS FOR SERVICE

Four "presidents' roses" were awarded at the conclusion of the program. The awards went to the wives of Kiwanians who had made notable contributions in the way of service during the year. Awards were made to Mrs. Stan Slade (Gertrude) McKenna, Mrs. Grace (Jack) Wood, Mrs. Don (Eva) Cline and to Lorne McDougall for his wife Doris who was unable to be present.

Following the dinner, dancing was held in the club floor. Warham's orchestra supplied the music.

Survey Team To Standardize Hose Couplings

A survey team working through the Ontario Fire Marshal's Department was in Belleville to make a survey for the standardization of all fire hose couplings in the city and district.

The survey will include all equipment of the city fire department as well as fire fighting equipment at industrial plants in the area.

Following completion of the survey a special crew of workmen will be set up in a central shop and will standardize all hose couplings as designated by the survey.

Standardization of hose couplings was recommended following the war as a means of insuring fire fighting efficiency of the various fire departments. Where standardization is completed fire departments will be able to go into other centres to assist at fires with the assurance that all hose couplings will fit.

Cost of the standardization is to be borne jointly by the provincial and federal governments.

Friendly Hermit Of The Humber Killed by Car

TORONTO (CP)—The friendly hermit of the Humber, who stalked, made skunk oil and lived on the stars for a few dollars a year, is dead. .

Arthur Kelly, 63, was killed by one of the cars he hated.

More than 30 years ago, Scholes and civilization's "clocks, radios and fast cars," and headed for the bush north of Toronto. He came out of isolation Monday night to attend his brother's funeral in Toronto.

A car hit him as he walked home. He hated cars. He thought people lived too fast. He lived in a tiny shack, which he rented from a farmer for $1 a year.

There he played the guitar, painted, fished and made the skunk oil which he sold for $1 a quart to clients in Canada and the United States. It was used by stablehands to rub down horses after races.

A former track star who ran in the 1920 Olympics in Belgium, he was a cousin of the late Lou Scholes, champion sculler. He served in the Sportsmen's Battalion in the First World War and in 1928 he defeated the late Tom Longboat, famous Indian runner, in a race at Peterboro.

'Some Progress' Made to End Gold Mine Strike

TIMMINS (CP)—A joint union-management statement said "some progress" was made Tuesday in talks to end a strike of 1,350 workers at the Hollinger gold mine here.

Then acting, first between the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) and officials of a mine since a wave of strikes left more than 5,000 miners idle in the Porcupine gold fields, was adjourned to Saturday. No details of the talks were disclosed.

As negotiations opened, hundreds of Timmins district citizens attended special church services to pray for a settlement.

Before the talks began, officials of Canada's second-biggest gold producer and the union said in a joint statement it was a "meeting to explore possibility of settlement of all issues."

The talks were held at the local level without senior officers of the union or company. The company delegation was headed by E. A. Perry, general manager; the union group by Leo Bebie, area supervisor, and John Bethell, local president.

The mine, with 1,350 workers, is the biggest employer of labor in the area. The union went on strike Sept. 16 for higher wages, a reduction in the work week to 40 from 48 hours, and the check-off.

Hollinger was one of the last of the eight mines in the area to be closed by the strike. The first were Brouian Reef and Hallnor July 11. Others are Preston East Dome, Dubnite, Aunor, McIntyre, and Conlaurum.

British Teachers Ban Cowboy Garb For U.S. Children

HUNTINGTON, Eng. (Reuters) United States children tramped into the village school here today minus their fancy cowboy suits and six-shooters.

The British teachers banned the wild west garb worn by children of United States Air Force personnel "because of the grounds that it made the school yard into something like Custer's last stand."

The teachers don't object to cowboy dress as such, but to the disorganizing effect it has on the usually-mild-mannered English children.

"A few children dressed as Hopalong Cassidy and Roy Rogers result in a lot of whooping and racing round the playground," one teacher said. "Several of the smaller children have been frightened by the fancy girls have been upset and frightened."

'The Battle of The Curbs' Enters It's Fourth Round, Mayor Votes to Break Tie

TRENTON (Special)—The battle of the curbs entered the fourth round here last night with Mayor R. E. Whitley casting the deciding vote in a show of hands sanctioning a by-law governing the removal of obstructions from town property.

At an earlier meeting a resolution requesting the by-law passed with a 4-3 majority.

Last night the voting among councillors was deadlocked until the mayor handed the favored the legislation. Earlier, councillor Reg. Armstrong approved the resolution. His change of mind last night forced the mayor to decide the issue.

For the by-law were councillors Cliff Gunter, James MacDonald and Eben James. Opposing, it were: councillors Robert Smillie, Ron MacPherson and Reg. Armstrong.

Those voting disapproval contended that the by-law was premature and would stir up trouble. They appealed for recommendations to the town engineer from the Planning Board and the Traffic Committee.

UNDER FIRE.

The bylaw, under fire from businessman Gerald Weaver, represented by a Belleville and Trenton lawyer, was designated as bylaw 8621. It was read first, second and third times last night and final approval came after three hours of speeches and arguments, providing council room dreams and dom witnessed in the century old history of civic administration in Trenton.

Mr. Weaver was one of the three citizens of Trenton to receive a letter from the town solicitor H. E. Park, advising him to remove curbing on a town road right-of-way within 10 days or else the town would remove the curbing and look to him for the cost of removal. He was given until this coming Monday to oblige.

SENATOR COMPLAINS

Senator W. A. Fraser, who complained about several citizens violating their civic rights, pressed the town fathers to legislate, maintaining that he intended to remain as the "watchdog of town property."

In congratulating the mayor and councillors who voted for the by-law covering obstructions the Senator commented: "The power of the wealth does not overcome constituted authority."

Ken Ross, counsel for Mr. Weaver asked for the privilege to address council on his client's behalf.

Senator Fraser objected, complaining that the lawyer was out of order.

"I believe the town solicitor is here to advise council," said the Senator.

Town solicitor Park advising council said he could see no reason why Mr. Weaver should not present his views. Mr. Weaver replied: "I have engaged Mr. Ross and Mr. Rod Campbell to talk for me."

ARMED WITH COUNSELS

Senator Fraser interrupted: "I contend Mr. Weaver is absolutely out of order. Other citizens don't come here armed with counsels. Continuing he observed that a counsel had no right to address council on the legality of the by-law. You are not paying for advice from somebody else. You are paying Mr. Park. Mr. Weaver should be the one to address council.

Lawyer Ross pleaded for equality and fairness for Mr. Weaver.

Senator Fraser retorted, "I'm not dealing with politeness and fairness. I'm dealing with order in council."

Councillor James offered suggestions. He said, "I don't think we are arguing on a point of law. We are here to deal with the affairs of the town."

DEBATE CONTINUES

Lawyer Ross, interjecting, said: "I am here to present a gentleman's case. It is common practice all over the empire for a counsel to talk to council. I don't see anything wrong with that."

Lawyer Ross maintained his client was entitled to ask council to vote on the by-laws. "I am not here to tell council to speak to you," Senator Fraser again protested that Mr. Weaver's counsel was out of order.

Mr. Weaver jumped up from his chair to the side of his solicitor. "Sit down." Don't get excited. Don't get your blood pressure up," remarked the Senator seeing Mr. Weaver.

Councillor Smillie intervened, requesting time to ask Mr. Ross if he intended to present facts or law to council.

At one point Lawyer Ross walked in between Senator Fraser and Mr. Weaver, standing at the time addressing council from the audience. This gesture caused considerable to break out with laughter and comments.

APPEAL MADE

Mr. Weaver appealed to council to permit his case to remain in place. Mr. Ross, above, pointed out that Mr. Weaver would give the town an agreement for a quit claim deed to the land he had curbed if council granted council that passing the by-law suggested discrimination and would create a legal deal of trouble.

Observed Senator Fraser at this point: "I suggest you either get rid of the town solicitor or the by-law."

Town solicitor Park explained that under the Treasury Titles Act council had a right to pass the by-law. Lawyer Ross said: "The only thing is, is it a good thing to do?"

MAYOR GIVES WORD

Mayor Whitley revealed that he had given his word that he would protect the property of Trenton for future generations.

"I will resign from office when I find it is impossible to fulfill my promise."

Mr. Weaver wanted to know if the ten feet of police he received would still be in effect. He was advised that the letter had not been withdrawn.

Councillor Armstrong figured that the letter should be withheld under the circumstances.

Councillor Gunter criticized Mr. Weaver for not approaching council or the Works Department for permission to erect a curb.

"I went ahead because my neighbor told me he had tried in vain for four years to get the town to build him a curb," Mr. Weaver explained.

Mayor Whitley told Mr. Weaver that council would have advised him properly had he approached them with his problem.

"The engineer advised us to-night that we need every inch of McColl Street."

50 STREETS NEED WIDTH

"I submit there are 50 streets that need width," Mr. Weaver replied.

Councillor MacDonald, saying he was concerned about the traffic carry-off at the west end of the town along McColl Street, asked Mr. Weaver if he held the same concern.

Mr. Weaver suggested that the town pay for the curb and he would give them a deed for it.

Assisted by Lawyer Ross he distributed pictures among the councillors showing a number of violations on the King road allowance. He pointed out that last month council authorized paying part of the cost of a curb and sidewalk protecting it 15 feet out in front of the new liquor store on Division Street.

Councillor Gunter advised Mr. Weaver that the town acted on a recommendation from the town engineer who advised locating the installations.

During a discussion when Mr. Weaver asked Councillor James to answer a question Councillor James rapped Mr. Weaver for calling him abusive names on the street earlier in the day. "I've been abused in a very dreadful manner," he insisted.

Councillor Smillie asserted that he was not prepared to support the bylaw, because he did not know what the repercussions would be. "If this by-law is passed at the present moment those people (meaning violators) would have no alternative but to remove installations."

SHOULD GO THROUGH.

In casting the deciding vote, Mayor Whitley stated: "I am of the opinion it should go through. It won't hurt anybody."

Senator Fraser was permitted to express his views. "Just let there won't be any misunderstanding to vindicate my position and the roll I am playing here tonight and intend playing in the future. I don't want you to forget it was my honor and responsibility to sit where you are sitting tonight. He recalled how citizens' intervention to protect town property had benefited the town in the past. "It is my interest that the assets of Trenton are conserved for the people of Trenton," he said. He repeated that the Right of Possession Act gave cause for litigation in an attempt to remove an old iron building sitting on town property for 60 years. The Senator's plea was interrupted by an irate listener who shouted: "Sit down and shut up, we didn't come here to listen to you." The Mayor was called to restore order and asked the audience if they wanted to hear the Senator. Those who signified their desire for the Senator to continue apparently did not include listener who was heard to comment: "Let them stay and listen, It's only blather anyway."

The Senator contended that if Mr. Weaver used reason he would consider he had made a mistake and show willingness to rectify it without having to employ lawyers. "I feel sorry he has committed dollar signs to bedood the issue and place mayor and council in the embarrassing position he did tonight? No man has benefited more than that man with the progress of Trenton. He's not satisfied to become wealthy. He apparently is satisfied with something that doesn't belong to him."

The Senator concluded on a warning note. "I assure you that people are not going to walk away with town property."

LET US STRAIGHTEN OUT THE LABELS

The brave man who would delve into semantics, the science of the meaning of words, must be blessed with brains, possessed of perseverance and armed with a vast amount of technical knowledge.

Politics, whether or not it can be considered a science, is a tricky business, too.

Mix semantics and politics and you have a brew that is good for a mammoth hang-over if not treated with proper respect. Unfortunately this hang-over can cause misery all proportions. In no realm of human endeavor is it so necessary that we understand the same thing by the same words as when we are dealing with the machinery by which we are governed.

One might be pardoned for thinking that at least we could arrive at a common conclusion on one minor section of this field, the designation of the names of the parties which vie for our votes. Unfortunately, these names, in many lands, are highly deceiving. Nor is Canada free from this handicap.

This week, when another parliament starts its first session, might be a good time to survey the Canadian field and to resolve that, before another Federal election rolls around, we will endeavor to do something about getting the right labels on the right parties.

First consider the Liberals. Unfortunately there is not much chance that anybody can persuade them to change their label, since for two solid decades it has been inseparably linked with power. Conversely, on the other hand, there is not much reason to demand a change as with some of the other parties. It is true, of course, that the Liberal party holds office largely as the result of support from the province of Quebec, in many ways the most conservative province in Canada. But it is also true that in some respects in Quebec and in many respects in the other nine provinces the Liberals frequently act as if they were Liberals.

We next come to the Progressive-Conservatives, formerly the National Conservative party and before that the Liberal-Conservative party. The last-named label the party acquired quite honestly early in Canada's history as the result of Conservatives supporting Confederation. The term had become rather confusing, however, by the thirties and it is to the credit of the party's leaders that the word Liberal was finally discarded. It is also to the credit that the party can claim equal credit for its acquisition of the word "National" to replace the discarded "Liberal." This appeared in connection with the wave of patriotic surge of patriotism which accompanied the outbreak of the Second Great War. Of course, if this was its object, it failed.

John Bracken and the word Progressive joined the Conservatives at the same time, with the short-lived "National" label being tossed-into the ash-can to join its "Liberal" predecessor. Some people have always thought about the word "Progressive"—scoffe hold it a rank misnomer when associated with the word "Conservative" and others regard this as a quite natural pairing. But even among the latter group the word has its opponents, who maintain that the word is at the worst insulting and at the best needless, since every true Conservative is, by the very fact of being conservative, possessed of a progressive outlook. We think, however, that most of those of all shades of opinion ought to be ready to agree that the use of the term "progressive" in association with the Conservative party in Canada is somewhat misleading by reason of there having been, in the twenties and thirties, a large group of men and women who called themselves the Progressive label and who were certainly not conservatives.

It would be fitting, we think, if the Conservatives became plain Conservatives.

Next we come to the C.C.F. First we must explain what words those initials stand for.—Co-operative Commonwealth Federation. Now there is no dispute about those words being confusing, not because they definitely mean anything which the party is not, but because they could so easily mean so many things which the party is not. The letters C.C.F. were chosen because Co-operative Commonwealth Federation is a clumsy mouthful. This clumsy mouthful was given preference over the much simpler term Socialist when the party was founded during the depths of the depression. The opponents of the C.C.F. maintain that this was a bare-faced attempt to camouflage the party's true intentions, coupled with a double-edged effort to become associated in the public mind with the Co-operative movement and the British Commonwealth. C.C.F.-ers will protest that the party was only endeavoring to escape the results of some of the distortions and misrepresentations being heaped on the word Socialist at that time,-including associations with Hitler's National Socialists, who were not Socialists at all. The student of Canadian affairs may have a little doubt that all C.C.F.-ers in the thirties were actually Socialists, but they were hard put to doubt that the party is a Socialist party today. It should say so, in its fit official name.

Next we come to the Social Crediters. Straightening them out is a tangled job. There are times when the statements by the leaders of the party sound most anti-social and anti-Christian to nobody, but for the life of us we cannot think of any title which would provide an adequate description.

As for the Labor-Progressives, the use of this term by the Communists is an insult both to organized labor and to progressive-minded citizens of every party. The best thing can be said for it is that it seems to indicate that its members are ashamed of the term Communist, a feeling which is shared by the members of all other Canadian political parties.

DAHLIAS

Now, black the dahlias lie
Beneath the killing frost.
Some doubting passer-by
May think that life they've lost.

"Dead," he may say of them.
"That's the end result.
Dead every leaf and stem.
The frost has killed them all."

But every toe I'll keep,
Since greater faith have I,
Knowing they merely sleep,
'Til winter passes by.

And when shall come the spring,
Replanted they will be
Anew for blossoming.
Again with strength alive.

Harmonious Cut-Throat

(Manchester Guardian)

It is just 100 years this month since Gerard invented the first process of a "shaving machine", the invention of which North Shields genius named William Johnson, who confidently predicted that it would soon put the barbers out of business.

In form it resembled a dentist's chair from the head of which sprouted an arrangement of small grinders, each holding four razor blades set at an angle of 60 degrees with camel hair brushes between. Gerard passed it through the cylinders, which, revolving rapidly, were supposed to lather and shave in one operation.

"The machine is put in motion," announced Gerard, "whereupon the weight of the patient, the seat gradually giving way, causes him sinking with him until he reaches the ground, when the operation is completed."

To distract the "patient" (or perhaps as known his cries) as he lay supine beneath the whirling cylinders, Gerard drew attached to and driven by the cylinders continuously a toy "self-moving air-sling" throughout the operation.

This mild-century essay in the machine proved, not surprisingly, a commercial failure.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

PROMISES OF PEACE

The Bible teachings regarding war are ambiguous. All through the Bible there are promises of world peace, and the impression is made that when the world comes to an end, there will still be war and rumors of war.

This would appear to mean that man can have no lasting peace as he is willing to work for and maintain. When Christ was born, the angels sang "Peace on earth good will toward men." Any good will on the part of individuals will insure peace. As long as there are "dogs in the manger" and as long as man is more selfishly anxious to get than to give, there will be no peace in a household, an office, a mill, a city, a nation, or a UN.

There is no reason why we should not have a thousand years of peace, or 2000 or 10,000. If there continues that long. The Bible nowhere says, declare unequivocally that at the end of the world, just before Judgment Day, there will be no peace along the pathway of appeasement. Peace demands, above everything else, character and purpose. When nations demand their rights and respect the rights of others, peace results—and never under any other conditions.

Says Women Smart Sex

(Timmins Daily Press)

What we have always suspected has been put into words by an eminent heart specialist, Dr. William G. Leaman, Jr., of Philadelphia. "Women," he says, "are smarter than men."

And just to make the place of it sure, a little further on he tells us that women are the weaker sex. In that way they can lose more blood and stand more shock than a man.

Dr. Leaman must be an old married man himself; otherwise he could not speak with such authority despite his professional status. What married man, even one of retirement status, does not know the ill-the woman is smart? He'll find out quickly enough if he stays out late and brings in that old bromide about staying up with a sick friend.

Women display their cleverness early in life, especially in their days of courting. It is generally accepted that the man pops the question, and takes a measure of credit for reaching the all-important decision. But who prompts him and leads him to that point? The little woman of course but she does it with such finesse, with such artistry that the poor lad goes through life thinking he is the big boss.

Man's inherent inability to grow old gracefully is indicated by one other fact, doctor's statements that a man beyond 50 can't resist the temptation to brag about his age. This is the sole urge, to prove they still have the stuff, which he claims.

That is the only assertion with which we will take exception. The average man does not like to show his years, but will do so by taking short of cramping through his hair, or by other devices used in work.

But he'll give the blonde next door the gate and even if he's over 40 and feels 20, he says) or play a good round of golf and not get out of bogs nicely and his waistline is trim, while his glowering wife sits comfortably in a nearby rocker.

The doctor is probably right about women being the smart sex and he must now add one by the statement for fear of reprisal. But what married man would want to deny it? He feels his wife is the smartest little woman in the world.

In Praise Of Worrier

(Hamilton Spectator)

One of those pulsing surges of warmth came to us the other day when we saw that Dean Inge was still very much alive, and still worrying about the world. The gloomy dean," as he has been known for the past 30 or 40 years of disturbed life on earth, is better than ever. Another columnist (Bernard Shaw once said he was the greatest living writer in England) has let us in on the secret that being of worriers and we hope he will not be offended by being in his does he will bring a sort of left-handed comfort to those who are often regard worry as a legitimate art which has a great deal less effect on human affairs than the listening or the decline of manners. Dean Inge's worry is not unlike that of logists started turning their microscopes on germs in the hope that worry in peace. He simply moved in a pleasantly dark fog without the slightest idea that they were tracting blood vessels, adrenal glands, thyroid glands and the pancreas and the imminence of thrombosis.

A lot of bright things have been said about worry, but of all the bright ones we have heard, not one of it around—the most infuriating is the "relax!" type of remark. If the intelligence is, we suspect, a leading cause of high blood pressure and cancer. It is the one insurance against relaxing. True this is dubbed an age of restlessness and sleepless pills, so there would have to be expert studies made of insomnia, part of the worry pattern. What is the worrier's reward? Can't sleep for worrying about what will happen to them if they don't sleep. One could formerly try and count sheep, or shift pleasant imaginings to the pleasurable parts of one's anatomy, but of the thoughts of the duodenum or viscera and the like.

Listen to this: "In fright, shock or anger, the small end, or duodenum of the bowel becomes as paralytic as peristaltic waves become more pronounced, and the whole bowel and fistful. If the emotion is severe enough, the duodenum becomes so tense that digestive juices cannot pass through and digestion stops. The whole body's digestive sides also get all stewed up. All the while the heart I am told is pounding out around the back aspects of the sternum of those shirt-front shops. I take the new shirts, with the long, flaring points of the collar and the tie, and the shirt man chop them off. Then, in a few years, the style changes and we have to buy new shirts, with long, flaring collars and begin into voice again. I lay in stock.

Away back in 1910, say, I saw a college boy, pork pie hats camp in for a brief, goofy period. They didn't last long. But long enough for me to form a habit. And I have worn pork pies ever since. It was a long wait this time, but only about 1980, maybe, they began to become popular, and you see them everywhere now. I'm glad I've got one available hat. It doesn't blow off in a wind. It has no brim to speak of. It is the one to take up space on a shelf or a hatrack. You never have to worry about knocked over your nose getting into a car. And besides, I've had it for years and have had that nobody ever tries to steal it. I haven't had to worry about it. I've come to take in forty years. Now that they are popular, popular, I'll have to buy a purple one.

My father taught me as a boy that the really happy man is the one who has all his important possessions right in his pockets. That is why bums, hoboes, clergymen and soldiers are much happier than he said. Never own anything you can't carry in your pockets. So for years I have worn jackets and overcoats that consisted largely of pocket space, to pack around my light, snug, svelte and—tapp clothes for men, as haberdashery types may have fet a little out of it. But do you know what I see in the haberdashery shops these days? Norfolk jackets! Belt, shoulder-straps, saddle pockets and all!

Freighters Luxury Ships

(Fort Arthur News Chronicle)

There has been considerable talk and comment, to the accompaniment of mourning, during the past few years about the disappearance of the luxury liner cruise ship from the Great Lakes.

It isn't exactly true.

In some respects it has merely been a form of substitution which provides the cruises for a privileged and exclusive class, who not only get the opportunity of travel but are paid for it.

It is in the accommodation, services, rates of pay and conditions of employment on the big new freighters, so many of which have been added to the bulk carrying fleet in the past few seasons.

No longer is the life of the poor sailor one of privation, hardship, danger and low wages as in the earlier days. The newer ships are fitted up with every bit of handi that generally are far beyond the staterooms of the passenger liners, which are in comparison, merely small, cramped and inconvenient.

The rooms on the freighters are large and commodious, and are fitted with beds rather than bunks, made up regularly by male attendants. They have spring-filled mattresses with electric blankets, hot and cold water, washing desks, washrooms and everything in the way of entertainment for the sailor who must spend his life on the Lakes or travel. There are even tabling of building a form of bedroom hung on a gyroscope so that it is kept on the level, even in rough weather.

Naturally, I blushed a bit, as I turned to the steward of the bureau who accompanied me and asked "Five Roses?". The steward glanced at the slip and blushed himself. "Oh, no, sir," he said he just couldn't understand how I got in there — no doubt some incompetent clerk.

I couldn't understand either — not until I got home and found a letter and a notice that all was well. I had won the specially selized control and one of his first assignments was to paint the fences and the house. From these sources I have learned that not only these virtuls but also the acid fruits (including tomatoes) are rich in vitamin C and have a laxative effect on the normal acidity of the stomach, but are oxidized into carbonates which increase the alkalinity of the blood and urine and decrease the acidity of the urine.

All I had the Theumatic and my wiesacre friends manifested great pleasure at my discovery of fruit, sour cherries, tomatoes, lemons and limes. I'd tell 'em "Drop make me laugh."

Work as a Habit

(Oshawa Times-Gazette)

It is lamented by many Canadians these days how to enjoy retirement. The trouble is that work, for many people, becomes a habit that is hard to break.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

ACID FRUIT AND WHATEVER AILS YOU

Most readers know that the conductor of this column is a quack by circumstances but not by intention. A doctor could hold forth every day in the week, Sundays, in the public prints, as well as without gaining notoriety as a quack. That was impressed upon me in the early years of my humble newspaper career, when, visiting American Medical Association headquarters, I came to the Journal's "morgue" of the hundred thousand and odd doctors, near-doctors and quacks. Doctors whose records were on file was William Brady, M.D., of Elmira, N.Y. Forthwith I decided on the quack to view — the doctor included clippings of some of my alleged health talks and questions from readers and typical answers by the latter. I also a typed slip stating that they've written for newspapers and magazines, evidently for personal publicity . . .

At any time I was like that with the A.M.A. We were hand in glove—my hand in the doctor's. The organization placed every facility at my disposal, saw to it that I was kept fully informed upon everything concerning medical science that the public should know. All swathers and light. But I'm not going to tell you about Pooh-Bah — who also wrote a newspaper column on health and took over the whole works.

Naturally, I blushed a bit, as I turned to the steward of the bureau who accompanied me and asked "Five Roses?". The steward glanced at the slip and blushed himself. "Oh, no, sir," he said he just couldn't understand how I got in there — no doubt some incompetent clerk.

THE PACKSAK

By GREGORY CLARK

If you keep clothes long enough, they always come back in style. Or better still, if you adopt one style and never change it, in due course you are not only in style yourself, but you become the arbiter of a leader in style. For example I like shirts with long, flaring points for the collar and the tie, and the shirt man chop them off. Then, in a few years, the style changes and we have to buy new shirts, with long, flaring collars and begin into voice again. I lay in stock.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DO NOTHING HOURS

Creative thinking is not done at will at a definite time. Often it is a matter of hours and days. Sometimes we have to go "under ground" and do our thinking there, and if we can then make no headway, just leave it and go about whatever comes to hand. Later we can return and the flow of thought comes as a matter of course, ordered for that very moment!

I have elsewhere said that I am a good plan to get in some quiet spot and just ruminate and do nothing—but let thoughts run around in our mind at will. Often this results in a clearing of the mind and at a later time the thoughts we had wished for at that Do Nothing hour actually knocked at the front door of our mind begging an entrance!

These brief Talks are not just "passed" off at random. Often it has taken hours and hours to write a single one. I once, heard that Robert Louis Stevenson, Percy Sheen, state that he never wrote out his marvelous tales on TV, that he simply thought them out for hours as he rested, or engaged in some occupation alien to his engrossing thought. Would you turn to his subject ready with an answer? I doubt it.

Often merely walking around the block, or indulging in some inspiring book, an idea will crop up which will suggest a topic with a score or more ideas which will bring to a worthwhile idea. Lafcadio Hearn once remarked that he often took him hours to perfect to his liking a single sentence.

It is silence — and during uninterrupted hours that we get nearest to what we want to say or write. This brain of ours is full of paths. To be led to the right one is what gives to us neat and orderly ideas. On the other hand an idea may come to us in a dream or while walking in a crowd, or while riding upon a train. The Do Nothing hours which most of us should indulge in more often will make me laugh.

Queen Leaves To Join Husband At Sandringham

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen left Buckingham Palace today by car to join the Duke of Edinburgh at their country home at Sandringham, Norfolk.

The duke went there Tuesday, hoping for some shooting before they leave for Australia and New Zealand 13 days from now.

Prince Charles and Princess Anne remained in London, where it was announced today that Miss Catherine Peebles, a brown-haired Scotswoman in her 30s, has been chosen to give the prince his first instruction in the three Rs.

Charles will be five next Saturday. His lessons are expected to begin in the next two weeks.

For the last five years Miss Peebles has been attached to the household of the Duchess of Kent, the Queen's aunt by marriage. She was governess to the young Duke of Kent, now undergoing army training, and last served as companion to his sister, Princess Alexandra.

Nursery Seedlings Better Than Transplants

TORONTO — Trees grown in Northern Ontario rarely thrive when they are transplanted to the southern part of the Province, according to officials of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests.

They say that many motorists who have loaded up the trunk of the family car with pines, spruce, cedar from the northern bush have seen the trees turn brown and gradually die when planted in gardens or hedges in southerly districts. It is seldom that they withstand the trip, the transplanting and the change to different types of soil found in the south.

Seedlings grown in nurseries are superior to natural or wild trees, the Department says. Every year, it distributes nearly 25 million trees for reforestation purposes. Already, demand for delivery of young trees next spring far exceeds supply.

BETTER ROOT SYSTEM

Reason for better survival rate of nursery trees is that they have a better development root system, have been grown under better soil conditions and have not suffered from competition with older trees.

Anyone who has more than two acres of land, exclusive of buildings, that is available for reforestation, is invited to get in touch with the district office of the Department of Lands and Forests. Officials will advise as to the best type of trees to apply for.

White pine has been found to grow best on light and sandy soil with porous subsoil; red pine on sandy loam and soil of moderate fertility or on pure sand if there is good drainage; while spruce on heavy soils, sandy and thin soils, and white cedar almost anywhere.

Better still, look around the neighborhood. If most of the trees are stunted, scrubby, bake, they'll likely do better there than evergreens.

TWO INJURED ON QE

HAMILTON (CP) — Two men were injured early night in a car-truck crash on the Queen Elizabeth Way, near Burlington. Admitted to hospital were: John Stackhouse, 21, of Hamilton, with bruised back, in fair condition; and James Boisferd, 43, of St. Catharines, injured back. Boisferd is reported in fairly good condition and is being transferred to a St. Catharines hospital.

Tito Aides Ask Compromise On Trieste to Avoid Split Between Yugoslavs and West

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslav leaders have called for a compromise solution in the bitter quarrel over Trieste, accusing Italy of attempting to use the issue to force a breach between Yugoslavia and the West.

The government's position was outlined Tuesday night by two of President Tito's top aides, Vice-Presidents Edvard Kardelj and Moshe Pijade, in speeches at Ljubljana and Belgrade.

Kardelj, the administration's foreign policy-maker, took a more optimistic line than some other members of the government have done since the British-American Oct. 8 announcement of their decision to turn zone A of the Trieste free territory over to Italy.

LOOK FOR COMPROMISE

"Let us look for a compromise solution with our perspective on future Italian-Yugoslav relations," Kardelj said. He was careful to emphasize, however, that Yugoslavia would never participate in any talks which had Italian occupation of zone A as an advance condition for the meeting. Pijade followed much the same line.

NO DATE SET

Britain and the United States still say they intend to carry out their pledges to turn zone A over to Italy, but have avoided setting any date for withdrawal of the 7,000-man Allied garrison. Yugoslavia, which controls the territory's zone B, has threatened to march on zone A the moment Italian troops enter.

In Rome, Italian Premier Giuseppe Pella was reported to have told Clare Boothe Luce, the U. S. ambassador, that continued Allied delay in turning over zone A to Italy is giving the Communist right and Communist left in Italy strong forces against his shaky centrist government.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in London last week blamed "Italian extremists" for provoking the riots in which the British-ruled Trieste police killed six persons and wounded 17.

11 Quebec Towns Call for Changes In Constitution

VAL D'OR, Que. (CP) — Eleven northwestern Quebec towns said today before a royal commission Canada's rapid growth calls for "substantial" changes to the country's constitution.

In a joint brief prepared for delivery before the Quebec royal commission on constitutional problems, the municipalities, grouping a population of 50,000, said the constitution should be changed to give governments at all levels the means to fulfil their obligations.

The towns are Amos, Bourlamaque, Cadillac, La Sarre, Malartic, Rouyn and Val d'Or.

In 1930, the brief said, municipalities in Canada collected 39.5 per cent of all taxes. Today, they collected 11.9 per cent of national taxes.

WANT GAS TAX SHARE

The municipalities suggested a 50-cent-per-gallon share of the 13-cent provincial gasoline tax might be turned over to municipalities.

Federal and provincial governments were urged to pay real estate taxes to municipal administrations.

The brief noted that municipalities paid the federal 10-per-cent and the provincial two-per-cent sales taxes on all purchases. The towns suggested there should be a meeting of federal, provincial and municipal authorities to discuss the situation.

Deny That Malenkov Willing To Attend Big-Four Parley

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio today denied a report that Premier Georgi Malenkov had indicated a willingness to attend a high-level Big-Four conference.

The radio broadcast this dispatch of Tass, the official Soviet news agency:

"The French press agency, referring to a British source, has circulated a report alleging that a proposal has been made to G. M. Malenkov, chairman of the council of ministers of the U. S. S. R., to take part in a conference of the heads of the governments of the four powers—the U. S. S. R., the United States, Britain and France—and that G. M. Malenkov has informed the British government through (Foreign Minister) V. M. Molotov, that he is prepared to agree to the convening of such a conference.

"Tass is authorized to state that the above-mentioned report in no way corresponds to reality."

The report designed to detract attention from a . . .

The suggested separate conference of the heads of the governments of the United States, Britain and France on Bermuda island."

The French news agency is a semi-official news organization. Its report had been denied by the British foreign office. Both the French foreign office and the U. S. state department said they had no knowledge of such a report.

Farm Forum

Three farm forums reported meeting recently —Brookdale at home of Sam Nimmo; Tamboro at home of Mrs. Murney Reynolds and Hazzards at home of Max Burnside.

According to all three reports the agriculture representative is kept quite busy. He is consulted about anything a little new for instance, if one member is thinking of raising water by means of a hydraulic ram; also about problems pertaining to ditching, tiling, field crops, animal husbandry; information as to new varieties of plants and their economic value; organizing calfhood vaccination program; establishment of Artificial Breeding unit; working with the junior; and giving out reports; dates of coming events.

HELP NEEDED IDEAS

All forums had ideas as to kind of help needed; information on types and varieties of seed; assistance in weather fly control; weed control; should have strong-er control or registered seed; give more direction to the marketing of produce; on the local scene five information as to where produce could be procured.

Ways in which the forums can work with the agricultural representative: local meetings with informal discussion; forum members promote ideas and suggestions offered by the agricultural representative; co-operate more. The agricultural representative cannot know the individual farmers need unless one informs him. Have your representative meet your forum, and this last is just what Hazzards did. They had both Mr. Dalrymple and Mr. Francis at their meeting.

Artillery Officer Awarded D.F.C.

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian artillery officer who braved enemy fire in a light plane to direct artillery fire elements in Korea has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross.

The award to Capt. Peter Joseph Angwyn Tees, 30, of Vancouver, was announced today.

Defence headquarters here said Capt. Tees, said to be the first Canadian Army officer to receive the DFC—"officially as" the Navy decoration for gallantry—since the First World War. In those days evidently they were attached to the Royal Flying Corps.

Capt. Tees, a Royal Canadian Artillery pilot, was attached to the RAF with the 1st Commonwealth Division in Korea.

Piloting Auster aircraft, he directed gun fire for divisional and corps artillery in 433 shoots against enemy troop concentrations, bunkers, vehicles and gun emplacements. He flew a total of 364 hours in 185 sorties.

Weddings

MUMBY—VARDY

St. John's Anglican Church, Stirling, was the scene of a very pretty autumn wedding on Saturday, October 24, at 2 p.m., when the Rev. D. Evelyn united Alice Evaline Vardy in marriage to David Edward Mumby. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Vardy of Stirling, formerly of Frankford, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Angus Mumby, of Madoc.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in a street-length gown of navy blue crepe, trimmed with white lace cuffs. She wore a white picture hat, white gloves and red rose corsage.

The bridesmaid was the bridegroom's sister-in-law, Mrs. Douglas Mumby, attired in street-length navy crepe, trimmed with white piping; a red rose and fern corsage of Sweetheart roses.

The groomsman was Douglas Mumby, the bridegroom's brother, and the ushers, Messrs. James Yuill, of Stirling, and Glen Elliot of West Huntingdon.

The church was decorated with white carnations and ferns for the occasion.

Before the ceremony William Reynolds sang "O Promise Me" and during the signing of the register, "O Perfect Love." The organist was Miss Ruth Morrow of River Valley.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in St. John's Parish Hall. The bride's mother received, wearing an afternoon dress of cerise crepe and was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore an afternoon dress of purple shot taffeta. The bride's table was accented with 'mums and a four-tier wedding cake decorated with a miniature bride and groom.

For travelling to Pembroke, Ottawa and the eastern United States, the bride wore a suit of navy blue gabardine with accessories of white and a corsage of red roses.

Upon the return Mr. and Mrs. Mumby will reside in Belleville.

The gift of the bridegroom to his bride was a set of rhinestone jewellery; to his groomsman and ushers, tie clips, and the bride's gift to her attendant, a china cup and saucer.

Out-of-town guests were present from Bonfils, Gananoque, Mary M. Leal, West Huntingdon, Harold, Combermere and Stockdale.

FRASER—NEAL

A pretty wedding of interest was solemnized in St. Mark's Anglican Church, Roslin, on Saturday, November 7 at 2 p.m., when Mary Florence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Neal, Bonastaw, became the bride of Charles John Fraser, of Eldorado. White and yellow 'mums formed the setting for the double-ring ceremony performed by Canon J. M. Brownlie, rector of the church.

Mrs. George Williams played the wedding music and Mr. Ken Snider, of Marmora, sang "Because," before the ceremony, and "O Promise Me" during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of nylon net over taffeta. Elizabethan collars and train of Chantilly lace. Her shoulder-length veil was held in place by a tiara of rhinestones and pearls and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Marian McCoy was maid of honor, gowned in a floor-length dress of yellow net over taffeta. She carried a bouquet of mauve 'mums.

The bridesmaid, Miss Lucille-bell Fraser wore a floor-length dress of mauve net over taffeta with Elizabethan collars and train of Chantilly lace. Her shoulder-length veil was held in place by a tiara of rhinestones and pearls and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

For the wedding trip to New York, Washington and Florida, the bride travelled in a powder blue Angora wool dress, with accessories, her corsage of Talisman roses.

The toast speeches were given by Bishop Evans, Archdeacon Wells and Rural Dean C. E. Heaven.

Mr. and Mrs. Long will reside at Somerset Farm, Shannonville.

Foxboro United Marks Anniversary

The 83rd anniversary service of the Foxboro United Church was held recently and was filled both morning and evening.

At the morning service the Rev. Keith Daniel B.A., of the Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, Belleville, preached an inspiring sermon on the subject "A Colony of Heaven."

In the evening, Rev. Ray Rowley B.A., of the Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, delighted the large audience with his sermon on the "Miracle of the Sunset." These two services will be of lasting help and inspiration.

The local choir assisted by Miss Gena Vanderwater soloist, of Toronto, rendered suitable music for the day and the solo "Let Not Your Heart be Troubled," sung by Miss Vanderwater was greatly appreciated.

The large thankoffering and the fine messages given by the guest speakers made this one of the outstanding anniversary services in the history of this church.

A BOX OF BITTERSWEET

A box of pretty bittersweet
I received the other day.
From a dear, shadow-friend of mine.
Who lives at Shanty Bay;
Wrapped and tied so daintily
Such a thoughtful gift!
To drive away the cares of life
And give the heart uplift.

Though this kind friend I have not seen,
I give to her my love,
Rejoicing that a human heart
Is like to His above;
And when the winds of winter blow
About my snug retreat,
I'll think of her who sent to me
The box of bittersweet.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Sometimes It's Better To Laugh At a Husband Than To Scold Him

There are situations in which a gentle and affectionate pok-fun at a husband who is becoming childishly, even boresomely serious than taking his behavior seriously.

Such an application of light and loving laughter is what I recommend one with should give to the sore spot being created in her marital relationship by her husband's adolescent notice of another woman.

"I have a neighbor a few years younger than myself who is entirely too much interested in my husband," writes this wife. "She is the type who thinks that all men are attracted to her and she plays up to them all, whether young or old. She has three sons, and is always talking about wishing she had a daughter, and blaming fi on her husband because she doesn't have one. Then she will come out in a joking way and say that, since my husband can't be many girls, perhaps she would have better luck if they could bear a girl. I don't like the way she is anything funny about such a remark.

"It is terrible how she sits around in front of my husband and she has the gall to attract his attention. Of course he is all eyes, and it embarrasses me. When she passes him in going through a doorway, for instance, she always rubbles up against him and he makes no move to get out of her way. Other times, she will make some silly excuse to go into another room to look for him.

"My husband knows how I feel about it all, but he does nothing to discourage her actions. I know he is not crazy about this woman and that he is simply at an age where such things intrigue him, but I still have the feeling that it would go much further if they had the chance.

"Should I tell her off or just let it ride? Even the children have noticed these things, and they ask me why I don't tell both of them off. It's not that this woman is in love with my husband, as she is in my way with all men. Please understand that I'm not jealous, but I just don't know how far I can trust either of them."

What I'd like to tell this woman first is not to kid herself that she isn't jealous, for of course she is and it's only normal that she should be. Jealousy is just one ingredient in the mixture of emotions any wife feels when she sees her husband taking an interest, even an unimportant passing one, in another woman. And the wife handles herself, and consequently her problem, more easily if she frankly admits to herself that jealousy is a part of the abnormalcy she finds under such circumstances.

As I suggested at the beginning, however, it can be a mistake to take this kind of thing too seriously, and I believe that in this case, as in many others, the light touch on the part of the wife is likely to accomplish more than bearing down on it too heavily. If she should yield to the temptation to tell her husband and this woman off, as she is thinking of doing, it will only show them how much importance she is attaching to it. Likewise, if she gives her husband to believe that she suspects he might be untruthful to her if he had the chance, he might, out of resentment and pique, actually be unfaithful just to get back at her. On the other hand, if she takes the attitude that he would never let her down by any act of unfaithfulness and so does not merit even the whole thing off, he would, I think, unless he is a man totally without honor, want to live up to her trust in him.

Having now worked herself up to a high pitch of contition over the situation, it will not be easy for her to appear to take it lightly. But if she is a clever woman, she will make an effort to do so. At any rate, I believe that at this point such an attitude is her best bet.

Irish Stew with Dumplings
Celery Hearts
Pumpkin Chiffon Pie
Coffee

At various places in Canada meat-prices-wars are raging. My butcher—he is peaceful—so I'm saying some old too-high prices. That's the why of this stew. I could have had stewing beef for 39 cents per pound; or veal breast for 39 cents; or mutton shoulder ("practically lamb") for 49 cents per pound. I wanted a genuine Irish stew so I bought the mutton, which turned out to be very young mutton.

I am going into the details of making this stew because I think it is too few cooks—particularly our young ones—who know how to make a high-class stew. Your stew should and can be choice enough to be served with pride to your guests.

IRISH STEW WITH DUMPLINGS

(Serves eight generously.)

Buy 3 lbs. stewing mutton—preferably shoulder (or stewing beef or veal may be used). Cut into 1-inch cubes. Roll in flour to which you have added salt and pepper and brown it in three tablespoons hot fat in heavy kettle or pot on top of stove or pressure cooker. When pieces of meat are brown on all sides, cover meat with boiling water, put on lid and simmer about 1-2 to 1 1-2 hours. If meat is nearly tender in 1 1-2 hours add these vegetables: 1 cup each cut up carrots, turnips or celery, 1 cup whole tiny peeled onions or cut up onions, 3 or 4 cups cubed potatoes, 1 tablespoon marjoram, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 1-2 teaspoon thyme. Simmer 30 minutes. This needs no thickening when you add

DUMPLINGS

(Double these quantities if you are terrifically fond of dumplings.)

Sift together 1 1-2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 3-4 teaspoon salt. Quickly stir in 3-4 cup milk. Drop by spoonfuls onto meat pieces in simmering stew—making dumplings of a size so that there is one for each person to be served.

Cover and cook about twelve to fifteen minutes without peeking. Carefully lift dumplings out and arrange around center of platter. Arrange stew and vegetables attractively in center. Garnish between meat and dumplings with celery leaves or parsley.

For a variation and to give the stew a darker base, add 2 tablespoons soy sauce. Or for richer flavor add 1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate.

PUMPKIN CHIFFON PIE

I ate this made with a ginger cookie crust. Yes, should try it: Mix 1-4 cup butter or margarine melted with 1 1-4 cups ginger snap crumbs. Pat and press these into sides and bottom of 8-inch pie plate evenly. Bake 10 minutes at 325 deg. Fahr. and cool.

For filling soak 1 tablespoon gelatin in 1-4 cup cold water five minutes. Then combine 1-4 cup brown sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon ginger and allspice (allspice may be omitted if you do not like dark strong spicing), 1 1-3 cups canned pumpkin, 2 large egg yolks, 1-2 cup milk, and when they are well blended cook over low heat stirring until it boils. Remove from heat and stir in soaked gelatin. Cool. When this is partially set beat until smooth. Make a meringue of three large egg whites and 1-4 teaspoon cream of tartar by beating until stiff then gradually beating in 6 tablespoons sugar until very stiff. Carefully fold the pumpkin mixture into this meringue and pile in cooled ginger cookie crust. Chill until firmly set. Before serving garnish with unsweetened whipped cream and little shreds of candied ginger.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Good Days Are Coming . . . And Good Manners Are Becoming To Them

Good days are coming . . . a Christmas, New Year's! And a particularly good time, for Good Thoughts, Good Deeds, Good Manners.

Greeting Card Question

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband is in the service, stationed in Germany. In the few years we have been married we have, of course, sent our Christmas cards together, with both our names. Now I'm wondering if this year we should send separate cards to our relatives and friends. his cards being signed with his name only, and mine with my name alone, or if I should send them with both our names.

An "alone" wife

Do, please, continue to send your Christmas cards "We" to, as you have heretofore sent them. Relatives and friends will naturally delight to think of the greetings coming from you both, lovingly together in your message to them. Another suggestion: Rather than just to sign the cards, write a welcome home. you have a wonderful opportunity to write a wife-to-husband message on each card; news about you, news about your doings and plans. Write affectionately also, with a big, broad hint that he would dearly welcome letters on cards from them. Like this, perhaps: "Joe and I send you and yours our dearest Christmas greetings, as we always did, and are happily, now that you are here. This year, from so-far-away . . . he has asked me to send his greetings with mine. He writes that all is well' with him, but that he's 'starved' for mail. So there's a Big Hint!) his address is . . . ."

Add Sparkle To Your Christmas Cards

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me if it is proper to use colored ink on Christmas cards and envelopes?

Jean W.

Yes . . .yes indeed it's proper! A merry-and-bright Christmas red or a Christmas green ink will add sparkle to the message you write on your Christmas cards, to your signature on your card, and to the envelope-adress too. It's an artistic highlight to use holiday-red ink or the bright, holly-leaf green to carry out color schemes of the border of the card and or the design.

To Say "Happy Birthday"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My boyfriend and I are both very devoted to a dear friend of mine, a woman who is married and well-to-do. Her birthday is soon, and I would like to give her a skirt for her birthday gift (there is not to be a birthday party). Do you think this would be proper? And should my boy friend give her a little gift too?

J.

If you're sure she would like one of this season's gay skirts, I think it would be an excellent present for this friend you know so well. And your boy friend might give her some merry trifle for a "Happy Birthday" . . . the five-and-dime and other stores are full of inexpensive but gala suggestions.

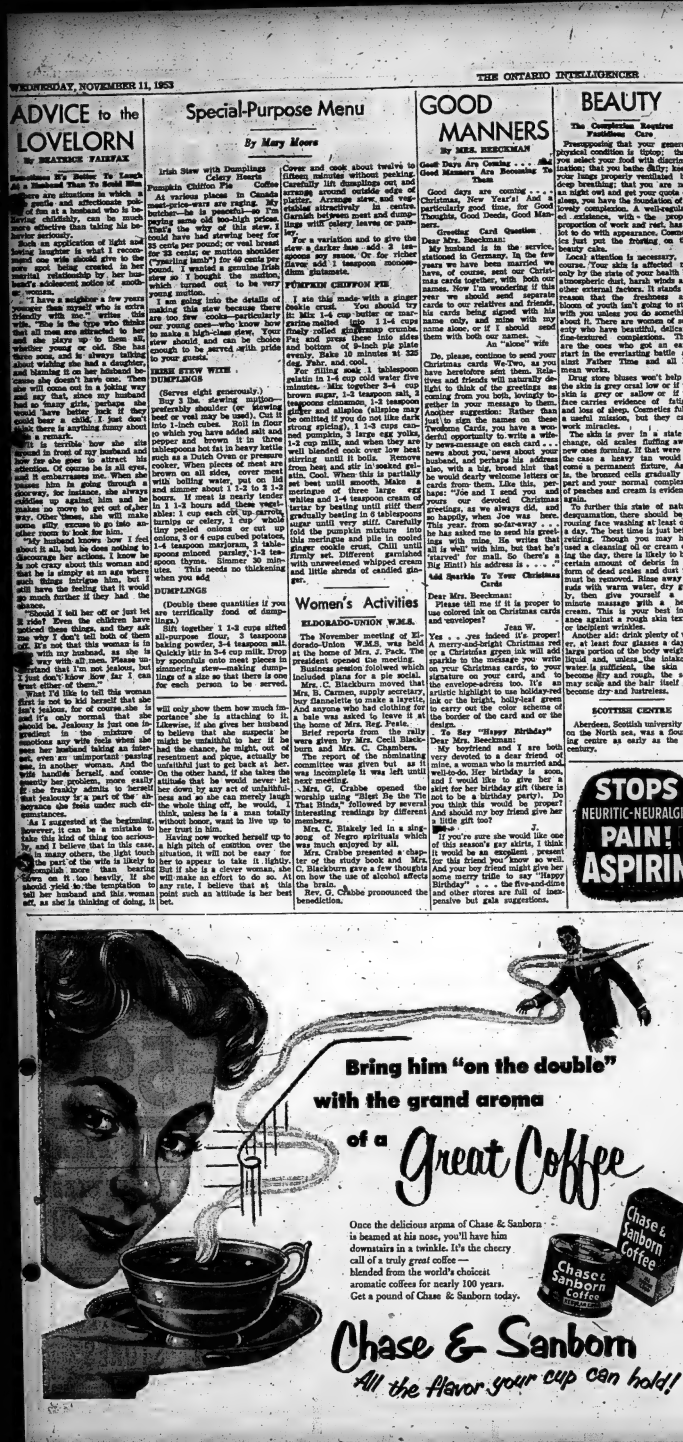
BEAUTY

The Complexion Requires Fastidious Care

Presupposing that your general physical condition is tiptop; that you select your food with discrimination; that you bathe daily; keep your lungs properly ventilated by deep breathing; that you are not on a night out and get your quota of sleep, you have the foundation of a good complexion. A well-regulated existence, with the proper proportion of work and rest, has a lot to do with appearance. Cosmetics just put the frosting on the beauty cake.

Local attention is necessary, of course. Your skin is affected not only by the state of your health by atmospheric dirt, harsh winds and other external factors. It stands to reason that the freshness and bloom of youth isn't going to stay with you unless you do something about it. There are a million of women who have beautiful, delicate, fine-textured complexions. They are those who have got an early start in the everlasting battle against dirt. Time and all his mean works.

Drug store blouses won't help if the skin is grey or sallow or if the face carries evidence of fatigue and loss of sleep. Cosmetics fulfill a useful function, but they can't work miracles.



The skin is ever in a state of change. It sheds its outer layer of dead cells by ruffling away, new ones forming. If that were not so, a healthy tan would become a permanent fixture. As...if in the browned cells gradually depart and your normal complexion of peaches and cream is evidenced again.

To further this state of natural desquamation, there should be a rousing face washing at least once a day. Your own time is just before retiring. Though you may have used a cleansing oil or cream during the day, you should be left a certain amount of debris in the pores of dead cells and dust that must be removed. Rinse away the suds with warm water, dry gently, then give yourself a five minute massage with a heavy cream. Do it four glasses a day. A large portion of the body weight is liquid and, unless the intake of water is nutritious, the skin will become dry and rough, the scalp will scale and the hair itself will become dry and lustreless.

Marriage Performed Closer To Pole Than Any Canadian Nuptials in History

OTTAWA (CP) — A Canadian couple has settled down to domestic life in the relatively-temperate climes of Pangnirtung, Baffin Land, after a wedding 700 miles further north and just 900 miles from the pole.

The marriage of RCMP Constable H. A. Johnston and Rita McDonald, both of Dartmouth, N.S. was performed closer to the pole than any Canadian nuptials in history.

For their honeymoon trip, they had a helicopter flight over the frozen wastes, an icebreaker voyage to a point 200 miles closer to the pole and another one south to their new home.

IN SHIP'S LOUNGE

A bearded Roman Catholic priest Rev. S. Daniels—married them Aug. 13 in the lounge of the government icebreaker d'Iberville at Craig Harbor, Ellesmere Island, where the constable had been stationed for the last two years.

Miss McDonald had gone north on the d'Iberville, sailing from Montreal July 15 on a supply trip to the Arctic outposts. She was loaded down with heavy clothes and housekeeping effects.

Wilfrid Doucette, Ottawa photographer who went north to record the trip for the transport department, says the course of true love hit a few minor snags before bride and groom finally got to the altar.

First, ice kept the d'Iberville from getting into Pond inlet, 300 miles south of Craig Harbor, to pick up the missionary. The ship's helicopter was sent to take him aboard.

When the ship arrived at Craig Harbor, Constable Johnston set out for it in an outboard motorboat. His engine broke down, and he hauled the boat aboard an ice floe to make repairs.

TENSE MOMENT

From the d'Iberville's deck, the distressed fiancee watched as the floe and the mountain drifted off seaward past the vessel. He repaired the motor though, before rescue was needed.

At the ceremony, the bride was given away by Supt. Henry Larsen, only skipper to navigate the northwest passage in both directions and now commanding officer of the RCMP's Arctic division.

After their brief helicopter honeymoon, the couple sailed north in Twin Glacier, 700 miles from the pole, where the groom put in 10 days helping to build a new RCMP post. Later, he took up a new station at Pangnirtung, just below the arctic circle.

Constable Johnston is a son of Harold A. Johnston, a former mountie, of Dartmouth. His bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. McDonald of Dartmouth.

Remembrance Service Well Attended at St. Paul's Stirling

By MRS. PERCY MACMULLEN

Major, the Rev. Ray McCleary, M.B.E., B.D., pastor of the Woodgreen United Church, Toronto, presented a message on the theme, "The Pause That Remembers," at the St. Paul's 'Remembrance Service', Sunday evening, in their historic Centennial year.

Mr. McCleary brought greetings to the large audience, from Toronto East Presbytery of which he is chairman; from officials and members of Woodgreen United Church and from the comrades of the various divisions to which he served as chaplain in World War II.

He congratulated Rev. A. E. Baker for his untiring zeal in making this historic year such a successful venture.

HEART CHARACTERISTICS

The speaker challenged his audience to pause briefly and remember some of the attributes and characteristics that lie within the heart. He specifically referred to the Bible lesson found in II Kings 7, which had been read so effectively by Mr. Fred Hoodhin, president Stirling branch of the Canadian Legion. This Bible lesson is the story of a war diary and yet it is amazingly modern as the little town of Samaria can be likened to the problems of happenings. Everyone must bear in mind that the economy is not always on the outside of the gate, but rather it is the enemy inside that does the ravages.

Mr. McCleary gave many illustrations to prove that God is continually opening the windows of Heaven and doing something for those here in Canada, with prosperity all across the land.

Lastly, he spoke of the sacrifice made by those lads who gave their all for freedom and who (if they were here) would be giving leadership.

TO BEAR THE TORCH

It must be remembered that war calls for the best of manhood, it accepts neither else, and now it is up to those who are left to do something to help their fellow hands and their feet and their intellect to bring the Kingdom of God into being. Each individual must be willing to live as a good citizen should; they must assume their own responsibility for right living and not leave the load to others. The message closed with an appropriate poem "Tread Softly."

Mrs. A. E. Baker chose for her solo musical selection "Sacred Funeral March." "Chant of Dead Heroes," and Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance."

St. Paul's senior choir rendered "Souls of the Righteous." The male quartet, Messrs. Douglas Fryer, Jack Rash, Grant Richardson and William Aylsworth, contributed "How Sleep the Brave." Rev. A. E. Baker presided for the service and the processional was "O Lord of Hosts."

The offering was gathered by Messrs. R. A. Patterson, Russell Hall, Hector Eggleton, Harry Hessman and William Wilkins. The pulpit was draped with silk flags and banked with a large array of colorful 'mums. On the communion table was a miniature cemetery in Flanders Fields, with gleaming white crosses and blooming red poppies which made a realistic scene.

CANADIAN LEGION

A large number of members of Stirling Branch of the Canadian Legion augmented with visitors from Marmora and Tweed, were seated at the front of the church and the guests included Mr. Lenz Taylor, zone commander.

A group of trumpeters from the R.C.A.F., Trenton, presented the Sunday party was under the direction of Mr. Charles Burnard, of Stirling, with Messrs. Harry Jones and Bill McMullen, also of Stirling; Bob Gray and Clayton Bedore, Marmora and Oscar Thurston and Jack Rashotte, of Tweed.

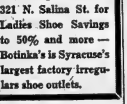
WAR DEAD

The names of the war dead 1914-1918 were read by Mr. Robert Patterson—Alex Conley, Arthur Conley, Fred Dailey, Arthur Hanahan, Percy Jones, Norman Payne, Morley Richardson Delbert Rodgers and Sidney Safford.

Mr. Douglas Paterson read 1939-1945—Coolidge Ashley, Ivan H. Martin, Donald Stapley, Ralph Stapley and J. K. Wood.

The wreaths were placed by Miss Mary Hulin, who was a member of the women's division and Mr. K. P. Mayberr.



The service closed with "Now The Laborer's Task Is O'er" and "The Battle Day is Past."

A fellowship hour was held in the Sunday School room when veterans and friends greeted Mr. McCleary and all enjoyed refreshments served by the St. Paul's W.A.

Mr. George Carlisle voiced thanks to all those who had in any way participated in this Centennial 'Remembrance Service.'

BURR'S

Burr's-Melville Hold Joint W. A. Meeting

The Women's Association of Burr's were guests of Melville W.A. on Thursday afternoon on the occasion of the silver anniversary of their organization at Melville United Church.

The afternoon session was in charge of Mrs. A. Kinnear, president of the Melville W.A.

She gave a brief resume of the work of the organization, stating that only three of its first year members are now living at Melville, namely Mrs. Ross Cruickshank, Mrs. John Root, and Mrs. Arthur Kinnear.

It was organized under the patronate of the late Rev. H. Wilkinson.

The church was built in 1869, following an earlier wooden structure at the east end of the north lakeside road.

Members of Melville presented Mrs. Kinnear with a pretty silver cake dish, in recognition of her services and president in three different periods for the last twenty-five years and also to mark the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Kinnear which occurs this month.

Mossadegh Claims Charges Violate His Own Decree

By DON SCHWIND

TEHRAN (AP) — Mohammed Mossadegh claimed today that he was balked before an Iranian military court on treason charges in violation of his own decree.

The 73-year-old former premier, defiantly maintained: "By my own last post, told the five-man army tribunal that he had barred military courts from trying civilians in a decree issued under the special dictatorial powers granted him last year by Parliament.

Mossadegh, ousted by an army-backed revolt last August, is accused of defying Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlevi, trying to overthrow the monarchy, and illegally dissolving parliament.

SAYS COURT INCOMPETENT

Mossadegh claimed Tuesday the court could try him until Parliament, through legislation, nullifies the plenary powers given him as premier. His court-appointed lawyer, Col. Jalil Bozorgmehr contended that Mossadegh should be tried in Iran's Supreme Court.

"Even before that," Bozorgmehr added, "the Majlis (parliament) should rule whether Mossadegh is still Iran's prime minister. Political charges must be tried before a civilian jury."

Under rules of procedure, an Iranian court-martial must first establish its right to judge a defendant. If the court decides it has jurisdiction, the indictment will be read and the actual trial of Mossadegh will proceed.

ACHEYES LEGAL AID

The emotional old politican apparently decided to give up fighting against Bozorgmehr's counsel. The two sat shoulder-to-shoulder at today's opening and several times Mossadegh leaned over to whisper to the lawyer. Mossadegh replied and resumed the court Tuesday, saying, "This man is not my lawyer."

Today Mossadegh read slowly from a brief, wagging his head as the court chairman as he made his points.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop put on his dress suit for the first time this year, on account of having to go to a banquet and make a spetch, and he said to ma, Now here I am dressed in these trousers are too tite in the waist, I cant understand it, he said.

Goodness, it all of life's misteries were as transparent as that, this world would be an open book, ma said, and pop said, Do you meen the moths have been at these trousers?

How William, when did moths ever make clothes smaller? ma said, and pop said, How do I know when? Probably in the dead of nite when I was sleeping, he said.

It wasn't moths, I'll give you that much of a hint, ma said, and pop said, Then the cleeners did it. They probably put too much starch in the waistline, he said.

Applesauce, ma said, there isnt any more about cleeners than you do about moths, ma said, and pop said, Well, I admit I never was a cleener, and I never really knew any moths to talk to. But confound it, there must be some explination, he said.

There's one reason and only one, ma said. Your waistline is bigger, she said, and pop said, But you gods, if it was bigger, it would be looser, not tighter.

Don't be absurd, silly, I'm talking about your personal waistline, ma said, and pop said, But that's it,

Liberals Start 19th Year Of Control Over Commons

By JOHN R. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberals start their 19th consecutive year of control in the House of Commons when Governor-General Massey opens the 22nd Parliament Thursday.

At 13 of these opening ceremonies a Liberal prime minister has sat to the right of the throne. The Conservative party has controlled the Commons at eight openings in the 86 years since Confederation, the last in 1930. The 1949 Parliament was opened under Sir Robert Borden's Unionist administration during the First World War.

The Conservatives won the first general election in Canada in 1867 and repeated in 1872, 1462, 1887, 1891, 1911 and 1930. The Liberals were winners in 1874, 1896, 1900, 1904, 1908, 1921, 1925, 1926, 225, 1904, 1908, 1921, 1925, 1926, 1935, 1940, 1945, 1949, 11953.

BIG MAJORITY

The new session starts with the Liberals holding 170 of the 265 seats. The Progressive Conservatives have 50, CCF 23, Social Credit 15, and there are three Independents, two Independent Liberals, and one Liberal-Labor member. Only vacancy in the House is Peel, because of the death of Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative. A by-election may be held early next year.

The new Parliament starts with Prime Minister St. Laurent leading the Liberal party. Observers say they do not believe the 71-year-old Quebec lawyer will stay in office for life of Parliament, expected to be four or five years, and that a leadership convention will be called before the next election.

Mr. St. Laurent is the fourth Liberal prime minister. He was appointed Nov. 15, 1948, succeeding Mackenzie King. Mr. St. Laurent led his party to victory in the 1949 general election and again this year.

The other Liberals were Alexander Mackenzie, from Nov. 7, 1873, to Oct. 16, 1878, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, from July 11, 1896, to Oct. 6, 1911.

TORY GOVERNMENTS

The Conservatives have had eight prime ministers since Confederation: Sir John A. Macdonald, 1867, 1872 and 1878-1891; Sir John Abbott, 1891, 1892; Sir John Thompson, 1892, 1894; Sir Mackenzie Bowell, 1894-1895; Sir Charles Tupper, 1897-1896; Sir Robert Borden, 1911- 1917; Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, 1926, and R. B. (later Viscount) Bennett, 1930-1935.

Sir Robert Borden also headed the Unionist government from Oct. 12, 1917, to July 10, 1920, and Mr. Meighen the same type of government from July 10, 1920 to Dec. 29, 1921.

Mr. Meighen is the only living former prime minister of Canada.

The success of Mr. King and Mr. St. Laurent at the polls is the main reason for the small number of Liberal prime ministers.

Mr. King was prime minister from Dec. 29, 1921, to June 28, 1926; from Sept. 25, 1926, to August 7, 1930; and from Oct. 23, 1935, to Nov. 15, 1948.

Since Confederation 25 parties or splinter groups have been represented in Parliament. However, the bulk of members in every Parliament has been Liberal or Conservative.

Until 1896 only the Liberals and Conservatives were represented in the Commons. In that year seven Independents were elected.

Former Montreal Hotelman Jailed For Paris Murder

PARIS (Reuters)—A court Monday sentenced Leonard Wattebled, former Montreal hotel proprietor, to 20 years hard labor for shooting his wife in a crowded Paris restaurant 16 years ago.

The prosecutor had asked for the death sentence, and described Wattebled as "one of the most revolting criminals" he had ever come across.

Nearly all the witnesses of th crim are by now dead or missing. One vital witness, Cornelius Freund, a Hungarian diplomat with whom Mrs. Wattebled was dining when she was shot, was said to be in Hungary and unable to come to Paris to give evidence.

Wattebled was originally sentenced to death in absentia in 1953. He is alleged to have fled to Canada after killing his wife, Henriette, Nov. 19, 1937.

PROSPERED IN MONTREAL

He assumed the name of Lucien Lebrun and prospered during the Second World War with his Montreal hotel.

He was identified after his arrest by Canadian police when charged with a tax offence, and extradited at the request of the French authorities.

The prosecutor retraced Wattebled's career since his marriage to Henriette, a young dressmaker, in 1931. He was alleged to have beaten her and driven her onto the streets to earn money as a prostitute. The prosecutor said Wattebled was twice sentenced for procuring and once served 12 months in prison for ill-treating his wife.

When Fight Was Over, Six Were Dead

Civil police use gun butts to disperse one mob during the series of riots that made a battlefield of the free city of Trieste for three days.

While Trieste was burying six riot victims, Italian Premier Pella was demanding that those responsible for the deaths be punished. He blamed Maj.-Gen. Sir John Winterton, British governor of Trieste, for the riots. Anthony Eden placed the blame on the Italians.—Central Press Canadian.

U.S. Gets Ready for Parley In Belief it Should Spur Efforts To Build Up West's Defences

WASHINGTON (AP)— United States officials are preparing for the Big Three conference at Bermuda next month in the belief it should spur sagging Western defences against the Soviet threat.

Diplomatic authorities here say Prime Minister Churchill may stress upon President Eisenhower and French Premier Laniel his interest in meeting with Russian Premier Malenkov.

But there is no expectation that Eisenhower will change his recently expressed view that a Big Four session under present conditions would be perfectly hopeless.

The key to the American approach to the Bermuda conference opening about May 1 is firmness, toughness, as it is regarded here. The Soviet note Russia's rebuffed is proposed for a foreign ministers meeting on Germany. The note invited told the Western powers that negotiations are impossible as long as they persist in building up their defences under the North Atlantic Treaty and the proposed European Defence Community.

QUICK ACTION

High authorities here say the Western answer must be to get on political difficulty at home.

with the defence So, regardless of what opportunities for negotiation may continue to be offered to Moscow.

This means primarily that Eisenhower and Churchill can be expected to press upon Laniel arguments for quick French action on the EDC treaty, presumably emphasizing these two points:

1. There is not enough defence troops in Western Europe now, without West Germany.

MUST PROVIDE EVIDENCE

2. With the U.S. Congress coming back in session in January, concrete evidence must shortly be provided that Western action on setting up its defence arrangements if Congress is to be expected to vote more funds for foreign aid.

Most observers agree they are not likely to get a government more friendly toward the idea of international co-operation within Europe than is the present regime of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. However, Adenauer has pretty well staked his political prestige on the success of EDC, and if the French do not act soon, his government may face its most difficult test.

Former President Truman Summoned Before Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Truman, a United States Supreme Court justice and a state governor have been summoned to tell a Congressional committee this week what they know of FBI reports about the deceased financial expert, Harry Dexter White, at the time Truman promoted him in 1946.

Attorney-General Herbert Brownell has declared that an FBI report describing White as a spy for Soviet Russia was sent to Truman months before he promoted White, and that another went to the White House while White's nomination as U.S. director of the International Monetary Fund was before the Senate.

Copies of the first, Brownell said, went also to Truman's attorney-general, Tom Clark, and to his secretary of state, James F. Byrnes. Clark, now a U. S. Supreme Court justice and Byrnes, a bitter political opponent of Truman for the last several years, is governor of South Carolina.

SEEK VICE PRESIDENCIES

The un-American activities committee has served subpoenas for Friday morning on Truman and Clark and for Wednesday on Byrnes and Harry S. Vaughan, retired major-general who was Truman's military aide.

Vaughan says he doesn't recall ever seeing the FBI reports which Brownell says were delivered to him for Truman's attention.

Byrnes said in a statement Monday night that he saw such report, went to the White House about it, and suggested that Truman withdraw White's name from nomination to the post. He said he left the impression that Truman planned to call White in and talk to him.

But the appointment went through, and White served until 1947—when, Truman has said, it was learned White was "up to something." There is some doubt that Truman, Byrnes or Clark can be compelled to comply with any Congressional summonses to testify.

CLEMENS DODGES

All say every all the sessions planned for this week have been scheduled behind closed doors. Whether there will be open sessions is something only time could tell.

Truman, who has termed Brownell's charges a "foul political" move, said in a New York speech Tuesday night that it is ridiculous to suggest that as president he was soft toward Communists. He said, however, that he always showed respect for the rights of individuals.

Congressional committees appealed only have never subpoenaed a president, and none since Lincoln has testified before one. Some former presidents have testified voluntarily.

As for Clark, there was some question that a Supreme Court justice can be subpoenaed by a Congressional group.

Prisoners Will Resume Making Of Tile

TORONTO (CP)—Prisoners will resume tile-making at Kingston county jail next spring, Col. Herbert Basher, minister of reformatory institutions for Ontario, said. Tile-making was stopped two months ago because prisoners were needed for an excavation job. Col. Basher told the legislature's select committee on reform institutions.

Committee members earlier criticized a decision of one of the reformatories department's inspectors that tile-making be stopped in the interests of security.

Members said this project is one of the few in the province that puts jail inmates to work. In many jails most inmates are idle, they said.

U.N. Korean Line Made Stronger Says Commander

OTTAWA (CP) — Maj.-Gen. M. R. West, retiring commander of the 1st Commonwealth Division in Korea, today declared that within two or three months the United Nations line in Korea will be "absolutely impregnable."

At a press conference, he described the present military situation in Korea as a "military impasse." He said the Commonwealth Division would continue to participate in Korean operation. Quirino accused Magsaysay of encouraging United States intervention in Philippines affairs.

Magsaysay Holds Big Lead Over Former President Tuirino In Philippines Elections

MANILA (AP)—Ramon Magsaysay holds what appears to be an overwhelming lead in the Philippines presidential race over President Elpidio Quirino.

Latest unofficial tabulation today gave Magsaysay 881,317 and Quirino 341,907. An estimated 4,780,000 votes—a record—were cast in Tuesday's national election.

Magsaysay, 46-year-old Nationalist leader, former guerrilla and recent defence secretary under Quirino, said "it's too early . . . to form any definite opinion; we must wait for further reports and developments."

There was no indication that the ailing 69-year-old president and Liberal party leader was ready to concede. But the challenger appeared to be running strongly even in districts which Quirino had expected to capture by a landslide.

NO HOPE

As returns began coming in from outlying districts, Quirino cut Magsaysay's margin slightly. However, there appeared to be no hope of his taking the lead.

Complete returns are not expected for at least two or three days.

Political observers generally agreed that the election was one of the cleanest ever held in the Philippines, despite widespread violence which claimed at least eight lives.

Magsaysay leaned heavily during the campaign on charges of corruption in Quirino's administration. Quirino accused Magsaysay of encouraging United States intervention in Philippines affairs.

Capt. Acquitted For Selling Brass as Scrap

BRANDON, Man. (CP) — Capt. Martin Franklyn Smith, 34-year-old army officer of Ottawa, Tuesday was acquitted in assize court here on a charge of stealing about $30,000 worth of brass shell castings from nearby Shilo military camp.

The brass, weighing more than 150,000 pounds, was allegedly sold as scrap.

A principal crown witness in the two-day trial was Staff Sgt. Douglas Robert Morley who said Capt. Smith told him to load more brass castings on a scrap dealer's truck than specified in the sales order. He said he at first refused a "cut in on the deal" offered by Smith but later accepted $50 from the officer. He said he did not report the incident because "he was my friend."

In his charge to the jury, Mr. Justice G. A. Tritschler said Morley's evidence stamped him as an accomplice. The jury could convict on accomplice's evidence but it was dangerous if the evidence was uncorroborated.

He said Morley's evidence was in the nature of a confession rather than an accusation against Smith.

Verdun, 37 Years Ago, Scene Of Biggest Battle of First War; 400,000 Men Were Killed

By PRESTON GROVES

VERDUN, France (AP)—Nearly 400,000 men died here. Verdun was a busy Roman city. Thirty-seven years ago it was the scene of the biggest battle of the First World War. Today, in an area 15 miles square, it looks like the ruin of an atomic era.

In this area in 1916 more men were killed in a single sustained battle than ever before were killed in such a battle in history—nearly 400,000 men.

It represents, as nearly as anything can represent, what might happen to such an area under the first hydrogen bomb.

The Verdun fortress area was never thickly inhabited in the ordinary sense of the word. But in 1916, the general staff decided that, by a hard and sustained attack, it could cause such loss to the French Army that surrender of France would be inevitable.

The fight lasted 18 months. In all, 66 divisions were used on the French side, at different times. The Germans used up 43½ divisions.

NO STRONGHOLDS FELL

The Germans never took the fortress area, nor the town of Verdun on the Meuse river. But they did occupy the two main strongpoints of the fortifications, Vaux and Douaumont.

The area is a military preserve. Only certain parts are open to the public. Others are forbidden because there still are shells buried.

For no other reason than that I had never seen the place, I visited the Verdun battlefield just before Armistice Day.

Verdun was levelled to the ground by German shelling—except a tiny area around the cathedral. Not only was the land mixed to a hopeless pasty with the under layer of chalk blasted up, but the soil itself was burned into lifelessness by the incredible number of millions of artillery shells.

The French fired more than 12,000,000 shells in the long battle and the Germans must have fired at least as many.

With a result, a heavy mist covered the hills along the Meuse. The only dry spot seemed to be that long grim strip called the "French of Bayonets." Here French and German soldiers were in hand-to-hand combat when artillery fire caused the rain-sodden walls of the trench to fall together, burying them upright, the barrels and bayonets of their rifles sticking from the ground. There they remain.

STILL FIND SKELETONS

On the hillslope and in the ravines the skeletons of soldiers buried by shell blasts continue to be found year after year. Those found are carried to a tomb in the middle of the battlefield.

My guide was Henri Longuet, son of a man who fought through the battle of Verdun, and lived. Henri himself was deported to Germany the last war. He took me to this long, grey tomb and as we entered he stopped talking, only whispered.

Under the floor are the bones of thousands and thousands of men—a massive warehouse of skeletons. In a chapel over the tomb, masses for these thousands of dead are said every day.

Inter-Provincial Highway Traffic Proving Problem

OTTAWA (CP) — Unregulated highway traffic across provincial borders is a major problem of Canada's trucking industry, the Canadian Automotive Transportation Association was told Tuesday.

Concern over the inroads of unlicensed operators in this business was expressed in provincial associations' reports to the parent body at the annual organized truckers.

Much of the anxiety, reports indicated, stemmed from a "vacuum" in trans-border regulation resulting from an April Supreme Court of Canada decision that this is a federal matter. The issue now is before the judicial committee of the Privy Council in London for final settlement.

The federal government has not yet said whether it plans to step into interprovincial and international trucking. If it gets a go-ahead from the Privy Council, though it is expected to, the provincial truck associations are prepared no opinions on this issue, but have agreed on one principle: there should be trans-border regulation from some authority.

Northern Railway Opens to Cheers Despite Weather

LYNN LAKE, Man. (CP)—Even the weather's trampling on the timetable couldn't subdue the nickel-plated whoopee surrounding the opening of the $15,000,000 Lynn Lake railway.

The cheers rang loud and clear as the town, new itself, turned out after a couple of false alarms to see the last spike driven on the Canadian National Railways line which starts at Sherridon, Man., and knifes north for 164 miles to the Lynn Lake townsite and copper and nickel mine.

Snow was lifting down as CNR president Donald Gordon drove in the last spike, forged from the first nickel to come from the new Sherritt-Gordon mine.

Seven thumps later the spike was driven and the first passenger train rumbled over the track.

The ceremony took place Monday in a whirlwind three hours. It was scheduled for Sunday and the official party was going to fly in. But when the ceiling came down and flying was out, it was postponed until Monday. Still no flying, so the CNR assembled a special train. Actual construction was finished ahead of schedule.

GASSING FATAL

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Edith Fasken, 47, was asphyxiated in her home Monday when overcome by cooking gas. Her nine-year-old daughter Linda was revived by firemen.

Will Use Copters To Hunt Oil In Assam State

GAUHATI, India (Reuters)—Helicopters will be used to search for oil in the flat alluvial plains of the Brahmaputre valley in India's Assam state.

The British-owned Assam Oil Company has announced that three types of geophysical survey will be carried out—seismic, gravity and aero-magnetic. The company will use helicopters in the seismic survey and ordinary aircraft for the aero-magnetic work.

Covering more than 3,000 square miles, the area to be surveyed extends from the Mishmi hills in the north-eastern extremity of Assam to the Mahir hills in the south-west. The earliest phase of the program will be at Naharkatiya, 18 miles southwest of the existing Digboi field and near the southern edge of the alluvial plain.

India at present imports almost all the oil she requires.

Merchant Fleet Further Reduced With Transfers

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada's ocean-going merchant fleet has been further reduced with the transfer of three deep-sea vessels to foreign registry.

The fleet now is 30 ships. A Vancouver-owned ship, SS Lake Pennask, inbound from Japan, will be turned over to a Greek firm when she docks next month and registered in Panama.

The two other ships switching registry are the 7,131-ton Montreal, sold to Worldwide Steamship Co. of Liberia and the La Perche, the same size, sold to Compania Atlantica of Panama. Both vessels were owned by P. and T. Steamship Co. of Montreal.

A P. and T. spokesman said Tuesday the ships were sold because the company couldn't compete with low wages and subsidies on foreign ships.

PoW Interviews Cancelled For Sixth Consecutive Day

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Interviews with North Korean and Chinese war prisoners who have refused to go home were cancelled today for the sixth consecutive day as the tottering explanation program for Communist captives.

The Indian custodial command almost automatically called off interviews scheduled for Thursday after the Communists insisted seeing 365 Chinese and North Koreans missed last Thursday by stalling for hours.

The neutral nations repatriation commission turned to secondary matters, on an Indian report that some United Nations sources—presumably South Koreans—had tried to smuggle a pocket-sized radio transmitter into an anti-Communist North Korean compound.

The set, hidden in a food bag, was discovered two days ago, it homelands.

Kaesong Meeting Cancelled

U.N. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the commission stayed at his headquarters here, apparently ready to make a second trip to Kaesong to talk with the Red high command.

Thimayya went to Kaesong Monday in an unsuccessful effort to restart the stalled program.

There was no indication that the Reds were ready to accept new rules laid down by Thimayya. The Indian general had told the Communists to interview entire compounds of 300 men each in a day, or skip those who are not interviewed.

There has been speculation that the Communists would welcome a face-saving way to repatriate, since only three per cent of the prisoners interviewed thus far have elected to return to their red-controlled homes.

FOX-LIKE RAIDER

The jackal which attacks sheep in South Africa is the South African equivalent of a fox.

CITIZENSHIP

The convener of the afternoon, Mrs. Will Ashby, presided and music for assembly singing was contributed by Mrs. Ralph Ulman. The topic was based on "Citizenship and Education." The second speaker, Mrs. A. Bush, gave a paper on "Citizenship" and said in order to produce good citizens, the parents must be in partnership with education. The scope of citizenship is wide, but it should be remembered that God's obedience comes first. The laws of obedience must be obeyed even though one loses his sense of freedom.

Mrs. Jack Bush gave a paper on "Education is Anybody's Business." The department sets aside a week each February or March as special education week and she suggested that the ideal time to have this topic presented at the Institute would be in one of these months. "Education week is a time for every citizen to do some thinking on this vital subject, from the church, the school, the farm, industry and commerce. Management and labor, all have responsibilities. Parents should insist, if possible, to have their children remain in school. Teachers must provide interest for the pupils and even one year at high school is important. Fifty-five per cent of the population has very little, if any, high school education. Some legislation are giving financial aid to needy children.

BETTER SCHOOLING

The weak spots in the school should be strengthened in order that the Canadian youth may have better schooling.

The outside appearance of any school gives a good idea of the interest that is taken. Swings and play equipment should be in good condition and the inside of the school should be clean and neat. Overgrowded classrooms should be eliminated, school libraries and modern teaching aids are most valuable.

IMPORTANCE OF TEACHER

The teacher is important as it is her responsibility to kindle interest, encourage, lead and inspire. The school and the community should work together as education is a co-operative endeavor. The youth of today need thinking that will develop good citizens.

Mrs. Burton Woodbeck delighted with two vocal selections with Mrs. Earl Morrow playing her accompaniment.

Mrs. S. McIntosh read two poems written by Edna Jacques "A Lot of Fun" and "She's Always Chat."

An invitation was received from Brantford W.A. to Johnston W.A. to attend a tea and sale on November 18 at Wesley-Willis Church. The results of the recent chicken supper were given. The week's money was collected and, as this was Missionary day, was given as a donation.

The W.A. is an affiliated group of the Missionary Society and is required to have at least one missionary meeting a year.

It was resolved to have a Christmas party as usual, and Mrs. Morris Vandervoort and the nurses to the roll call be something for the hospital, at the December meeting, and also to bring a gift box if bringing a child, bring two gifts. It was decided to have the next meeting at the home of Mrs. Morris Vandervoort.

The next on the program was a piano selection by Mrs. Alan Vandervoort.

The speaker of the day was Miss Collins, of Belleville (Mrs. Middleton was asked to be guest speaker at this meeting but due to circumstances, she could not accept). Miss Collins gave a wonderful talk on the work of the Church in the mission field. She told that the last century has been a great time for expansion. There is a mission in Trinidad and also in Japan (where the Church of Christ is on the march) and what help is given should be given now and not at some distant date. There had been a mission in China, but on account of the Communists, they had to leave, and the only thing that can be done for China now, is to pray. There is a mission in war-torn Korea and in India (where the Communists are knocking at the door.) In Africa there is another mission in Angola, as well as in Rhodesia where one is just starting in cooperation with other Protestant Churches.

The meeting was closed by Miss Collins for her interesting and informative talk.

WHITE'S DISTRICT

White's Church Holds 112th Anniversary

WHITE'S DISTRICT—White's Church, Bayside, observed its 112th anniversary on Sunday with the Rev. Milton Collins, of Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, officiating at both services.

At the morning service the choir rendered "Hear Us As We Pray" and Miss Velma Bivins, under the direction of Mrs. Floyd Dudley as pianist.

Miss Collins chose as her subject, "The Church of the Holy Child," in which an artist who was painting a picture for the window at the front of the church, chose as his subject Jesus, and several fair-haired blue-eyed children.

He dreamed that changed his picture so that there were children of several nations, he in the morning when he looked at his work he knew it needed to be finished like his dream. Miss Collins also spoke most interestingly on "The Church That Was Rushed on a Rock."

THEY DID IT!

The Memos clicking like six pairs of castanets, locked all their power offensive and otherwise on the arch-enemies from Peterborough last night and came through with a sparkling 6-1 victory, their first of the season. And a few armchair athletes we know are burning aplenty this morning trying to keep down large chunks of "crow," a forcible meal after last night's thriller.

The Memos went out to win and they did so in a convincing manner. They had their shooting eyes right on target and their checking, both wings, was not only hard and bumpy, but very effective. They almost swept the feet from under the conquerors of Kingston in a dynamic four-goal first period, slashed home three more in the second and got the lone tally in a bruising, boisterous third chukker.

The game developed into a typical Peterborough-Belleville bumping fiesta after the first period. Sticks were carried high and in that hectic session the Memos proved they were no good if not a shade better in a bump-to-bump contest. The hero of the piece from a Memos' standpoint was Rusty Sarsalt in the nets. The Memories kicked out 31 shots with only one getting past him. He was outstanding, especially in the third heat when the Petes threw desperately to narrow the margin. Desirey, in the opposing nets, had to be good despite the fact seven pucks whistled past him. The eighth was a seventy-foot curling shot that never left the ice, from Vern Geoffroy's stick, and on which Mr. Desirey fanned but plastic.

Every member of the Memos played outstanding hockey with the Duncan twins grabbing the scoring spotlight. The Memos, blasting unfair criticism by some "home-town" experts, showed their mettle against Ottawa and again last night against Peterborough, that they won't be stepping stones to playoffs for any team in the group.

CARTER — SAVOIE

When Jimmy Carter and Armand Savoie cross lightweight title raiders in the Montreal Forum tonight, it will be the first world title bout fought in the metropolis in 23 years. Many outstanding names in pugilism have strutted their stuff in the city down east but they have all been non-title bouts. Not since Jack Renault and Erven whipped Pete Sonsiel and Eugene Hunt in 1931 have Montrealers seen world championship fisticuffs.

The sepia champion is quoted the favorite at 5-3 but at time of writing it was reported very little money had made an appearance. Savoie declaimed the champion last spring which caused Carter's manager and handlers to scream to high heaven. ing."

Billie Ketchum, loquacious mentor of Carter, says it will be vastly different this time, because: If he has anything to say about it, there will be no Montreal judges around.

"They're prejudiced against my boy," Keichy yodelled. "They see only one man in the ring. No judge who wasn't blinded would have given the decision to Savoie the last time they met."

We are of the opinion that Marse Ketchum need have no worries regardless of who are the officiating judges. Carter is one of those champions who has earned the name of being an "in-and-outer" because of his somewhat lackadaisical method of fighting when his title is not at stake. But he is a vastly different leather-tosser when the bauble is laid on the line.

And Savoie is somewhat similar. Montreal boxing writers say that without possessing a world title, he too, is an "in-and-outer". They say he looked like champ one night, and a chump the next. Savoie's claims it was a matter of condition.

Reports from the right scene say that the French Canadian is in wonderful condition for tonight's brawl so he won't be able to toss in that alibi if defeated.

The champion, too, is in excellent fettle. He has had three fights since September which have kept him so busy he hasn't had time to get out of condition.

While United Carter's stock was his now famous bestius of the pride of Boston, young Tommy Collins, over-rated, over-publicized darling of the Beantowners. He was up and down more times in three minutes than the elevator at a metropolitan hotel during a convention. Actually the experts opine, Collins was a featherweight who could throw a punch but was woefully weak on the receiving end. Natty Carter smarted from that bout with a reputation of a "peeker."

Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll says: "Savoie is strong at the weight and Carter won't spin him around easily. Carter is a body-puncher but Savoie took Gomez's hardest wallops to the body without flinching and Carter doesn't hit any harder than Gomez."

The two biggest raps against Savoie, Dink points out, are that he can't fight effectively inside, and that he waits until the fight is nearly over before he starts to fire.

"If he leads in this one, he will surely lose because Carter has proved he can be a very busy fellow. He can throw punches from any angle in the mood. The challenger has never gone 15 rounds before, which may prove a handicap, depending on his capacity to pace himself.

"All of which would indicate that the lightweight bauble will remain in its position atop the shiny noggin of one, champion James Carter.

Coach Admits 'We Got Breaks' But Winnipeg Mentor Claims 'We'll Kick H--- Out of 'Em'

By Al Vickery
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — The odds have changed.

Edmonton Eskimos, underdogs before the opening game of the Western Interprovincial Football Union finals last Saturday, now are 8-5 favorites to wrap up their second successive title today when they tangle with Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the second game of the best-of-three series.

Northern went into the series as 6-5 favorites but Eskimos' 25-7 victory in Edmonton changed the setup over night. If Winnipeg should prolong the finals the deciding game will be played in Edmonton Saturday night.

Both teams went through light workout Tuesday night—Eskimos at the new Winnipeg stadium scene of today's game, and Bombers at their training grounds in St. Boniface.

WOULDN'T PLAY

Coach Darrell Royal said his two all-star backs, Normie Kwong and Billy Vessels, have recovered from the opener due to injuries, probably keep them out of today's game but wouldn't play. He said he thought the Bombers "still could win."

"I don't know what we'll do if there's any doubt in the game. They're a hot club when they're on."

The former Oklahoma quarterback, picked as the west's all-star coach in the first year he's been eligible, made no predictions.

"We got the breaks last Saturday."

BORROWED BOOK

In the other camp, coach George Trafton, who coached Bombers to title last year, was more definite.

"We'll kick the h--- out of them."

Some of the players echoed those sentiments. Saint halfback Len Macioski said:

"I borrowed a book in Edmonton last Saturday, and I told them I'd return it the following Saturday. I'm not making the trip for nothing."

Giant tackle Buddy Tinsley, western all-star from 1950 to 1952, said:

"We can take them if all the boys give out. But it's got to be a team effort like when we whipped the Argos."

He was referring to Bombers 28-3 victory over Saskatchewan Roughriders in the first game of their two-game, total-point semi-final.

The clubs will get a break in the weather. A high of 40 has been predicted for the afternoon, with the wind south at 15 miles an hour.

The stadium itself is in perfect shape after being covered for more than a week by the Winnipeg club's new turpaulin.

Teepees Edge Dutchies 4-3; Hawks Blank Cits

By the Canadian Press

Quebec Citadelles seem doomed for the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A cellar.

Two games Tuesday night caused two shifts in the junior standings. St. Catharines TeePees took over first place by defeating Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts 4-3 in Kitchener and Galt Black Hawks vaulted into second over Toronto Marlboros by blanking Quebec Citadelles 3-0 in Galt. The Citadelles remained in last place.

St. Catharines rebounded from a 3-3 deficit with two goals in the third period for the win over Kitchener. Barry and Brian Cullen, Chester Warchol and Hank Cleala scored for the Teeps.

Gary Collins, Claude Boileau and Jerry Hawkins counted for the Green-shirts.

Lez Binkley scored his second consecutive shutout over Quebec. Galt had its scoring evenly divided with two apiece for Reynolds, John Kowalchuk netted the other.

The 6-3 win over Galt marked out, including three majors and two misconducts, the Citadelles drew 12.

Tonight Quebec plays the Tigers at Hamilton and Guelph Biltmores meet Barrie Flyers in Barrie.

Baltimore Buys Marion Contract

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago American said in a sports page story Tuesday that Baltimore Orioles, new entry in the American League, have decided to buy up the baseball contract of Marty Marion, general manager of the now-defunct St. Louis Browns.

The American said that "when it suits the convenience of Arthur Ehlers, general manager of the Baltimore Orioles, Martin Marion will join the ranks of managerial unemployed."

The newspaper said it learned the settlement of Marion's one-year contract "has been agreed upon by the Baltimore interests as the proper thing."

Ireland Wins First Event At Horse Show

NEW YORK (AP)—After eight days of frustration, the Republic of Ireland finally won an international jumping event Tuesday night at the final session of the National Horse Show.

All told, there were 13 international jumping classes over the eight days and eights and five 12 of them, Germany, Switzerland, Colm O'Shea, and Kevin Barry watched Canada, the United States and Britain win event after event.

This time, though, some one must have rolled a shamrock. In the complicated scoring for the International Nations Challenge Trophy, Ireland scored 23 ¾faults to 28¾ for England, 36 for Canada and 40 for the United States.

After a horse refused three times and was scratched with 20 more than the worst score of any of the competing teams, Barry and the United States and Canada had horses eliminated for refusals. That just about put them out of the running. Neither Ireland nor England had a refusal in the event and yelped into a two-team contest.

JUMPING PERFORMANCES

It was frosin that only Shirley Fitzgerald, a staff member of the Canadian team, up on Revlon's White Sable, and Mrs. Carol Durand of the United States, who hauled Reno Kirk, made perfect performances. Miss Lane, ridden by Ronnie Mutch, was eliminated for refusing for the United States and W. R. Ballard's mount Reject was eliminated for Canada.

The Canadian team finished the show with five victories, the United States with four, England three a Ireland one.

Snyder Will Have Time to Wrestle, Loses Job as Calgary Stamps Coach

CALGARY (CP)—Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union announced Tuesday night that Bob Snyder will not be retained to coach the team again in 1954.

The 40-year-old Snyder, former head coach of the University of Toledo, and of Los Angeles Rams, guided the Stamps this season with they finished in last place.

The Stampeders' announcement said the directors feel the team's failures were not "the primarily to of a lack of material" and Snyder had not fulfilled his pre-season promise to open up the game and make it more interesting from a spectator's point of view.

D. P. McLaws, the retiring president, said the decision not to rehire Snyder was made before Snyder was informed Tuesday that he would not be the 1954 coach.

"No comment is necessary," McLaws said in commenting on a Toledo report that Snyder announced he had resigned.

Asked about prospects to fill the coaching job, McLaws said:

"There is nobody being particularly considered."

NO NEW FORMATIONS

The club statement said that when Snyder was hired he promised to "use new and different formations to open up the game and make it more interesting from a spectator's point of view" but throughout the year "practically nothing but the T formation was used and the resulting type of play was neither novel nor entertaining."

The statement added that the directors felt Stamps lacked "the leadership and morale" essential for a winning team and there was no reason to believe such leadership or morale would be forthcoming in another year.

"The directors were particularly disappointed in the use Snyder made of the material which was at hand.

"Although Snyder contended that he did not have sufficient material, the fact remains that there were many players who sat almost the entire year on the bench and took practically no part in any games.

"The ability displayed by these players in the final two games of the season leads the directors to believe that had they been used oftener, the results obtained would have been better."

NO DISCRIMINATION IN BALL?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Al Rosen, Cleveland Indians third baseman, said Tuesday that color and religion mean nothing in baseball. The only question baseball asks, Rosen said, is "can you produce?"

Speaking at the annual meeting of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, Rosen noted that the Cleveland roster includes Roman Catholics, Protestants and Jews as well as Negroes, Cubans and Mexicans.

"We have no segregation," Rosen said. "There never are any questions about who rooms with whom. And you'll never find any discrimination among any of the players."

Memos Trounce Peterborough Petes 8-1 In Rousing Senior 'B' Battle

Rip Home 4 in First Period And Never Look Behind In Heavy-Checking Rugged Game

By GEORGE H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Smarting from three successive setbacks, the Belleville Memos reared into the victory column here last night when they trounced the Peterborough Petes 8-1 in a bruising senior "B" battle in Memorial Arena.

The Memos were full value for their win as they outclassed the conquerors of the Kingston Goodyears in practically every department.

Unleashing a furious first-period offensive that was sustained throughout, they slammed home four goals in the initial heat, added three in the second, and scored the lone marker in a hard-hitting, heavy bumping third period. Peterborough got its only goal in the middle stanza.

GOALIE GOOD

Rolly Sarault, Memos goalie was the hero of the piece from the homestors viewpoint. The twenty-two-old former Ottawan came up with a brilliant exhibition of goal-keeping especially in the third period when the desperate Petes tossed everything but the kit and in an effort to whittle down the margin.

The game developed into a hard-hitting affair with 15 penalties being handed out by Referees Bill Reason and Stan Scrutton of Kingston. The Memos were given the Mason of the Petes drawing two minors and a misconduct.

The Memos "Three-in" line of the Dunsmuir Bros and Duke Doran grabbed the point-getting spotlight. Erwin Duncan came up with two goals and two assists while Erwin was good for one and one and the Duke got a helper.

Jud Dunsmuir, Vern Goyer, Jackie Wardaugh, Art DeGray and Jake Wade with one and one were good for the rest, Tommy Schreider drew two assists. Bill scored Peterborough's lone tally near the end of the second period.

The Memos rushed to the attack at the opening whistle and gave Donley in the Petes net a busy minute or two. Jud Dunsmuir opened the scoring after three minutes of play when he drove in by "Duke" Doran's pass. Still on the attack the Memos made it two, two minutes later when Jud drove a pothler the rubber after a combined play with Dunsmuir and Schreider. Mac-Donald got the gate and Chum Fryis went off for tripping. Then Duncan got the gate and the Petes drove in on the attack but fine defensive work by Sarault and Fryis roughened and the Memos drew five of the last seven sentences.

Erwin Duncan slashed home "Red" Doran's pass for number three and brother Erwin completed the quartet on a pass from his twin.

With the scent of victory in their nostrils the Memos picked up where they left off in the second period. Their crowd of 1,000 or so did the Petes when Vern Goyer's seventy-foot shot that never left the ice slid by Donley and the Petes hind a surprised Donley.

Ted Duncan made it six in a row a minute later fring home Doug Reid's pass. The Petes roared back but the stubborn Memo defences and back-checking front lines help them out. Bill Hewson finally scored a picture goal when he raced in front of the net, shifted about face and backhanded the rubber past Donley.

Fryis and Schrieder started a pushing match and both got the gate. The Petes made a terrific offensive and Hill finally "broke the ice" when he slotted the puck past Sarault from a ganging attack.

The Vampers started to get the sticks and Goyer held high as the game developed into a rugged hard-hitting finish-to-finish affair.

PETES DRIVE HARD

The desperate Petes drove furiously at the start of the third period in a determined effort to cut the margin. Sarault came up with a brilliant stop at the point as he thrust out the Petes attackers time and again.

Goyer and Crowley went off as the tempo airded. Mason drew a minor and was slabbed with a misconduct when he spoke out of turn. Erwin Duncan scored the only goal of the period after 14 minutes on a neat passing play with brother Erwin and Jake Wardaugh.

Jake Wade played outstanding hockey as did Sarault, Goyer and Duncan twins. The whole squad turned in a fine effort for their first victory of the season. Keith Montgomery, Eddie Redmond, Crowley and Greenlaw stood out for the Petes.

The teams—Peterborough: goal Donley; defence, Redmond, Montgomery; forwards, Armstrong, forwards, McMaster, Fryis Greenlaw, Crowley, Hill, Mason, Bellile, Prentice, Peterson.

Belleville — goal, Sarault; defence, Taylor, Wade, Semark, Schreider; forwards; Goyer, Wardaugh, MacDonald, Doran, Erwin Duncan, Duke Doran, Lloyd Doran, DeGray, Jud Dunsmuir.

Sport in Brief

NEW YORK (CP)—Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles, national tennis champion in 1948, will replace Ken McGregor of Australia in the 1954 U.S. professional tour.

Other details to make the tour, which opens in New York Jan. 24, are Frank Sedgman of Australia and Pancho Segura of Ecuador and Forest Hills, N.Y.

DETROIT (AP)—The U.S. Professional Golfers Association released Tuesday no changes in the national tournament from match to medal play and appointed President Eisenhower honorary chairman, an office created for him, "as re-elected Horton Smith of Detroit as president."

LONDON (AP)—Emanuel Celler, New York Democratic congressman who investigated baseball in 1950, demanded Tuesday that baseball "clean house" or face repressive legislation.

Celler laid down a program for the major leagues to follow after hearing of the U. S. Supreme Court decision declaring professional baseball exempt from federal anti-trust laws because it is a sport.

In London en route to India to study refugee problems, he said: "If sport, the exercise clause must be softened. Binding a player for his entire baseball life, even years of his will, is peonage. Any contract should be for more than five years without mutual consent."

Blues, Gaels Game Looks Like Thriller

TORONTO (CP)—Inferiority of Toronto Balmy headling for their last scheduled game of the Senior intercounty O.R.F.U. Union schedule without being scored on in the last three games, may also be the for the hardest battle of the season.

The Blues, who jumped into a first-place tie with Western Mustangs by defeating Western 13-0 here last Saturday, run out their schedule Saturday when they meet Queen's Golden Gaels in Kingston. A victory for Queen's would give them a tie with Blues.

The Blues will probably field the same line that they played against Western, coach Bob Masters said. Queen's reports a full list of juries, including halves Gary Schreider and Al Pountenan who were injured against McMaster Marauders last week-end.

Warriors Trim Cleveland 5-3

CLEVELAND (AP) — Scoring three goals in the first period, Syracuse Warriors trimmed Cleveland's Barons 5-3 Tuesday night in an American Hockey League game.

Bill Gooden fashioned the Warriors' attack with two goals as Syracuse rolled up a 5-1 margin in the first period. Ted Taylor, Hickey Rogg and Hugh Currie scored the other Warrior goals.

Cleveland scorers were Jackie Gordon, Jack Stoddard Glenn Sonmor.

Dutchies, Beaches Clash Today

KITCHENER (CP) — Near-perfect playing conditions are expected today when Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen meet Toronto Balmy Beach in the first game of the two-game, total-points series for the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union championship.

The two teams battled to the field during last week-end's storm has disappointed as new playing area was firm and dry tonight. Second game of the series starts at 10 a.m. on Sunday. The ORFU champions will meet the Western International champions for Union honors in the west Nov. 21 to decide an opponent for the Big Four championships in the Grey Cup game at Toronto Nov. 28.

The Dutchmen, first team from this area ever to reach the senior finals, received disheartening news that Al Auchterlonie, flying wing from Galt, would be unable to take to hospital in his home city as a suspected case. Auchterlonie, a 200-pound linebacker recently returned to the line-up after missing more than a month of action with a broken right hand.

Paul Amodio, a half, may take over Auchterlonie's post on offence.

Al Finch, a linebacker from London, Ont., appears to be another doubtful for the Kitchener line-up.

Half Jack Mancos, an import in still on the doubtful list. He aggravated an ankle injury against Sarnia Imperials here Oct. 31. It is expected that Canadian Bobby Kellett will fill in at right half if Mancos isn't ready.

Saints Whip Chicoutimi 7-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sherbrooke Saints haven't been doing great things in the Quebec Hockey League this season but they've yet to find a master on home ice.

Tuesday night, the league-leading Chicoutimi Saguenees fell to the Saints when the latter left the erstwhile cellar-occupants in a threesome with Ottawa Senators.

At Montreal, the Royals edged Montreal Nationals 4-3 to climb into the second berth with Quebec Aces.

Bert Giesebrecht and Bud Stefanski scored three times each for the Saints. Fernand Perreault and Bert Olmstead led Montreal team's scorers while Moe Irving got the other Sherbrooke marker.

Eddie Litzenberger counted twice in the first two periods to give the Montreal Canadiens a four-goal margin. Thompson scored the Braves' tally.

Remember When

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ted Atkinson, Toronto-born jockey, boosted horses four winners at Belmont Park, N.Y., nine years ago today. Atkinson's mount finished winners in a week. Atkinson was the champion jockey in that season of 1944 with 347 winners, and won the title again in 1946 with 325 winning rides.

Mercs Whip Tigers for 5th Straight, Indians Trail Point With 6-2 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

As long as Bobby Gillson continues his outstanding netminding and the forward line keeps up its scoring pace, there seems little doubt the first-place standing of Owen Sound Mercurys in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series will not be threatened.

The Mercurys won their fifth consecutive game and their seventh in nine games when they trounced the slipping Hamilton Tigers 9-3 in Owen Sound Tuesday night.

Windsor Bulldogs moved into third place with a 7-4 victory over Chatham Maroons in Windsor. Stratford defeated Niagara Falls Cataracts 6-2 to keep one point behind Owen Sound.

Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds edged out Pembroke Lumber Kings 5-4 in Pembroke in Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A action.

During their last five victories, one in which Gillson scored a shutout, Mercurys have scored 28 goals and have allowed only 11—a little better than two goals a game.

Tommy Burlington fired four goals, one on a penalty shot, and notched two assists for Owen Sound. Herbie Kuntzelle and Buck Buchanan each added a pair with Jarden McArthur scoring the other. Bob McGuire, Murray Costello and Jack Taylor tallied for Hamilton.

Billy Flick scored two goals for Stratford. Don Obsenbottler, Fred Hildebrandt, Bob Mader and Herve Delorsky netted the others. Barry Cook, Bob McGuire, Murray Costello and Jack Taylor tallied for Niagara Falls.

Windsor Bulldogs kept up their six - goals - a - game average. Alex Birukow scored two for the Dogs. Vic Hickey, Jim Johnson, Johnny Hoecker, Fred Hildebrandt, Doug Trowell and Gord Hodgson netted the others. Carl Liscombe and Bill Topolo were the Chatham markers.

At Pembroke Jim McBurney's second-period marker won it for the Hounds. Tom Smellie scored the winning goal for Sault Ste. Marie. Nobby Clarke saved Pembroke from a shutout.

Sarnia Sailors are at Kitchener and Niagara Falls in Chatham tonight.

Carter Favored 5-2 to Whip Savoie In Lightweight Championship Bout

MONTREAL (CP) — Armand Savoie, who fought his first scraps in Montreal's tough Griffintown district, goes back there to defend lightweight title tonight.

Although Savoie took a split decision in their previous meeting, Jimmy Carter is a non-title fight here last February, the powerful little New York Negro rules a 5-2 favorite in the light boxing division.

Carter has twice successfully defended his title this year—against Tommy Collins in Montreal and George Araujo in New York. Savoie is ranked sixth in the boxing rankings.

Willie Ketchum, Carter's manager, foresees no difficulty for the champion, who has been below his best this time. Ketchum predicts a knockout for Carter between the 10th and 12th rounds.

Cliff Sowerby, the Montreal chairwinger's manager, is confident that if there is a knockout, Savoie won't be on the receiving end. He says himself maintains he is in top condition and sees no reason he can't repeat his win over Carter with the title at stake.

RETURN MATCH

The fight is scheduled for 10 p.m., EST, at the Montreal Forum. There will be no radio or television broadcast. Carter, at 24, reportedly expects a crowd of around 11,000, with a gate of $60,000. Carter has the option of $25,000 or 40 per cent of the gate. Savoie gets 15% per cent.

If Savoie wins, the contracts stipulate that he must get a return match within 60 days.

Referee and boxing commissioner Dave Rochon got into a mild tiff Tuesday in talking about hypothetical cases under the no-foul rule.

Ketchum also said he hasn't protested, as reported, against use of judges, since three judges who were assigned to the non-title fight. He said he has every confidence in the decision.

"But not in the judges unless they are competent officials."

Athletic Union Opens 60th Meet

MONTREAL (CP)—The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada opens its 60th jubilee annual meeting today with a program that includes preparations for the British Empire Games and the selection of outstanding athletes who will receive trophy awards.

Presentations will be reached on the place and dates for trials to determine the make-up of Canada's Empire Games team. Entries close July 9, and it is likely the trials will be held no later than the weekend of July 3. It is possible the trials may be kept together with the trials in readiness for the games.

Decision on awards of three trophies will be made—the J. W. F. Davies Trophy for the outstanding track and field athlete in Canada; the Fred N. Rowell Trophy for the outstanding field athlete; and the Norton H. Crowell Trophy, an award to the outstanding AAU athlete.

Bratton Meets Kid Gavilan For Welter Title

CHICAGO (AP)—Johnny Bratton's three big breaks in boxing were anything but.

They were jaw fractures that three times destroyed fight careers he had built to the peak. Each time, broken fistmaker, he had to stop and build anew.

Now he is at the crest of his third comeback, ready to take on Kid Gavilan for the world's welterweight championship Friday in a nationally-televised bout.

Gavilan was the third man to break Bratton's jaw. He did it in the first round of their champion-ship fight in New York May 18, 1951. Johnny also broke a bone in his right hand in the first round and he lost the welter crown he had taken over two months earlier.

Bratton's two previous fractures were handed out by Jean Jack in 1949 and by Ike Williams in 1950.

But the Chicago "Brat" says broken jaws are a thing of the past. "I don't have to worry about it any more," he says. "It's as strong as ever."

Myrnie Wallman, Bratton's manager, said his fighter's jawbone became susceptible to fractures because of a couple of bad wisdom teeth and improper diet. And that has been fixed.

Quakers End Long Loss Streak

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Saskatoon Quakers finally ended a 12-game losing streak in the Western Hockey League Tuesday night with a 3-2 squeaker over Edmonton Flyers.

In other games Vancouver Canucks won their 12th game in 16 starts by edging Victoria Cougars 4-3 while Calgary Stampeders shut out Seattle Bombers 3-0.

Alex Kaleta, Jackie McLeod and Bill Gadsby scored Saskatoon's winning goals. Earl Johnson and Larry Thibeault were the Edmonton marksmen.

Vancouver scorers were Les Kozak, Ernie Dickens, Ron Stewart and Freddy Brown. Stan Mikawoj, Doug Anderson and Bob Masson scored for Victoria.

George Pargeter tallied twice for Calgary while other stingy counters coming from Johnny Mishakin, Pat Lundy and Mike Quackenbush.

Goalie Jack Bremner made 22 saves in keeping the Seattle snipers off the score sheet and scoring his fourth shutout of the season.

Randy Suspended In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Randolph Turpin, British middleweight champion, is under automatic suspension in New York for 90 days—incidental to the best interests of boxing, Dan Dowd, secretary of the New York State Athletic commission, said Tuesday.

Turpin was "sent" into effect Nov. 2 as a result of an assault charge brought against Turpin by Randolph Daniels.

Dowd said the procedure is automatic and the suspension remains in effect until the case is closed.

Turpin was scheduled to return to Europe when Miss Daniels withdrew the assault charge in the $100,000. He reached Britain Tuesday.

Rangers' 'Ivan The Terrible' Makes Gardens Debut Tonight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Frank Boucher's psychological shuffle gets the test tonight.

When New York fans boost Rangers captain Allan Stanley out of National Hockey League in their belief that the Timmins-born defenceman was responsible for the Broadway Blues' feeble showing at the start of the season, Boucher sent him off to Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League. He handed the captaincy to Don (Bones) Raleigh and brought Ivan (The Terrible) Irwin from Vancouver to fill the breach in defence.

Irwin makes his New York debut tonight against Chicago Black Hawks. Eddie Gerard's Windsor club has defeated the fifth-place Rangers in their last six New York visits over two seasons, including a 6-1 trouncing two weeks ago.

WONDERFUL PLAYERS

Fans in Toronto may see a point-getting bonus between Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of Montreal Canadiens and Toronto's Ted Kennedy. Both are tied for fourth place in the individual standings with 14 points.

Hab coach Frank Selke tossed a couple of bon mots about his boys on his arrival in Toronto Tuesday.

"We have nothing to brag about except that we're fortunate in having a couple of wonderful hockey players." He modestly obviously referring to Maurice (Rocket) Richard and Jean-Marie (Big Jean) Beliveau.

Only Richard will be on the line-up for Montreal's second visit to Toronto. Beliveau, Canadiens' highly-touted rookie, is still on crutches from a broken ankle bone.

Canadiens, leading in the league, head over second-place Detroit Red Wings, face a red-hot Toronto Club. The Leafs have won unbeaten in five games with three wins and two ties. They now share second place with the Wings.

The third game tonight sees the Wings facing fourth-place Bruins in Boston.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Much of the credit for having forced through baseball's victory before the United States Supreme Court is due commissioner Ford Frick.

Before Frick took over, the owners were a frightened, leaderless group of men who blanched every time a new lawyer sent for his card. They preferred to pay off, and did, rather than risk a full dress test of the constitutionality of the baseball clause.

Many of the magnates were convinced that they would lose the decision and that chaos would envelop the game. We know, because we heard them say so. Frick did not think so, and he had no patience with those who did.

It is to be seriously doubted that Frick received much encouragement from the game's lawyers. They were understood to believe his extreme moderation when dealing with any sort of instrument which affects the rights of individuals, as the reserve clause does.

Now that the test of the lawsuit-ship has been won, we ask leave to predict that Frick will go on to greater things than ever and that three commissioners the game has had.

But we figure what we sell is mainly . . . pleasure.
Insurance gives pleasure to insured people every day because it banishes fear of loss and disaster.
But it gives greatest pleasure when it covers an actual loss. We've seen people who would have been ruined by fire, lawsuit, robbery or other loss if they hadn't had insurance written by us. With insurance, they still found life pleasant.

Good Eating!

NEARLY EVERYONE LIKES A GOOD STEAK OR A GOOD PORTION OF FRIED CHICKEN

STEAK

To do it justice, a steak should be about one inch thick of the best quality (Red Brand) beef and hung from 2 to 4 weeks prior to cutting. Then cooked to taste.

FRIED CHICKEN

Should be Grade "A", well cooked in a good shortening, and a substantial enough portion so that you really eat well.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The simple things in bridge are sometimes hard to detect. Such as when an opponent pulls on you the Bath coup; simplest of coups. Take the case in this deal:

NORTH
♠J 4 2
♥7 5 3 2
♦K 9 8 6
♣A 7 3

WEST
♠K Q 10 8
♥10 8 4
♦Q 10 5
♣J 8 5

EAST
♠9 7
♦J 7 3 2
♣10 9 4

SOUTH
♠A 8 5 3
♥A K Q 7
♦A K
♣K Q 6

The bidding went like this:

South	North
2 H	3 H
3 NT	5 D
6 H	Pass

In answer to four no-trump, five diamonds is the signal that showing one ace and no kings. With what he held and an ace in dumpsy it did not seem to south that a small slam would be much trouble.

What he found in dummy told him two losers in spades could get no help from his own cards. Only some mistake by opponents could be used for the purpose of saving a spade loser.

Opening lead from west was spade king, on which east played the seven. Without seeming hesitation, south dropped the eight-spot on the trick. The fate card had its purpose.

The play of the seven by east might indicate to west that his partner had one of the smaller spades. If so, it would be a signal that such a suit should be continued.

Fooled thus into thinking east had the ace, west continued the suit with the lead of a small spade. Dummy jack bopped on it and this is how declarer lost only one trick instead of two.

You may think that such a ruse would not fool you. But it did fool the west player in this case. And he was no palooka, either. Such a holdup of the ace for continuance in the same suit is known as the Bath coup. It is a simple coup. But when it works it is likely to make the leader go coo-coo.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Betty Grable is hitting the heights of box office success for the first time in 13 years.

The beauteous blonde and her trumpet-playing husband, Harry James, open at a Chicago theatre late this month. They'll play for one week only at fabulous terms for a share of the gross.

Mrs. James, who proclaims her love tendering to laziness, is hard at work these days in dance rehearsals for the act. She confesses a fear of facing an audience.

"Viper, I'm scared!"

But Chicago date will be a baptism of fire for her.

"I'm not going to laugh it off," she explained. "I've seen too many stars go out on the road and give the old 'I'm glad to be here' routine and that's all. I think you're being fair to the public when you do that. They want entertainment and I'm going to give it to them.

WILL SHOW LEGS

"For the first number, I'll come out in a real show-type costume so they can see my legs. After all, that's what they expect to see, and I'm not going to disappoint them. I've got two other outfits, and I'll do nine numbers in the 50-minute show."

The Jameses plan to do six or seven shows a day, and I remarked to Betty that would amount to 63 numbers daily. "I'm sure glad I didn't go to school," she replied. "I would have been able to figure that out, and it would have scared the dickens out of me."

Speaking of nerves, James has some of his own to conquer for the Chicago engagement. He hasn't played a movie theatre in 18 years.

HARRY WAS RIGHT

"The last time was in 1943 at the New York Paramount," he recalled. "I had three days to go on a six-week engagement and had to open at eight shows a day, the first at 8:10 in the morning. The bandstand is on an elevator and it would rock so I couldn't stand up without leaning against something.

"That morning I was trying to play, but I couldn't. I told the band they would have to carry on without me. Then I gave got up in arms and sent a psychiatrist to see me. The guy spent a whole hour asking me questions. He finally went out and told them: 'You know something, he's right.'"

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, NOV. 12, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Be carefully selective in your activities and in making friends. Find what you say is sure of facts and your efforts will yield fine returns. Aspects favor romance, marriage, family matters.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — P.M. rays better than those in early hours. Personal affairs, heart interests hold first place today. Be gentle and considerate to achieve happiness and family appreciation.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — A big "No" to risky ventures or propositions with uncertainties attached. Better mark time than generate more trouble. Irritating conditions indicated this off-day.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Some turbulent hours this day with happenings that could upset plans and frustrate your best efforts. Be patient, reserve your opinions. Setbacks possible if you jump the gun.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — How you administer your tasks and affairs in general; also how you react to reverses and opposition will tell the story this day. Your attitude in regard to duties, personal affairs is most important.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Be of good cheer. Support may come from unexpected sources. Be receptive, appreciative. Time element is important now, as is calmness. Don't rush or yield to irritation. Pray for God's guidance.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Neither anticipate nor take things for granted. Be sure you know what's happening around you. Avoid a tendency to lag, to procrastinate. Now is the time.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—By combining a sense of humor with your usually clever know-how you can achieve many satisfying results now. Avoid blunders; follow your splendid intuition.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Your planet is fine aspect for purposeful-ideas, worthy effort. Keep your head, and don't allow yourself to be duped by tricksters, questionable schemes. Financial gains through honest management.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—A mildly stimulating day, especially for unique and original projects, business, professional undertakings. Exercise sound judgment; have faith.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Not a good day if your "run wild" in your ideas or engage in risky schemes, but excellent rays for substantial interests. Stimulating for self-expression in your field of endeavor.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Excellent influences should assist in carrying out plans which have been carefully studied. Benefic for most endeavors, and heart affairs are especially favored. YOU BORN TODAY are magnetic, dynamic, have many assets. Usually dignified, you can keep your opinions to yourself if you so desire. You have great perseverance and determination in reaching your goals—once you get started. But you are likely to procrastinate at times. Your love and humor are such you may be extravagant at times. Could succeed as manager, doctor, artist, musician, chemist. Try to correct tendencies toward anger, etc.

HE'S O.K. NOW

With visa certificates straightened out, Lee Young Soo, Korean, has reason to be happy as he learns at the U.S. naval station in Atsugi, Japan, that he can come to the United States as adopted son of a navy man. The South Korean orphan's new father is Vincent Paladino, chief boatswain's mate, of New Rochelle, N.Y., shown with the boy. Paladino found Lee a year ago, homeless, in Inchon, and brought him to the U.S., where immigration officials sent him back to Japan to await proper immigration clearance.—Central Press Canadian.

REDNERSVILLE

REDNERSVILLE — The Rev. T. F. Townsend, B.A., B.D., was in charge of anniversary services at the Morven United Church.

Twenty girls of the C.G.I.T. enjoyed an hour of volleyball and other games on the gymnasium floor and an hour in the swimming tank on Wednesday. They were chaperoned by Mrs. T. F. Townsend, assisted by Mrs. J. F. Hutchinson.

Mrs. McLean, Mrs. R. Stafford and Mrs. T. F. Townsend attended the November session of the W.M.S. at the home of Mrs. F. Townsend, Victoria.

Guests at the United Church parsonage during the week-end included: Mrs. J. F. Hutchinson, Tommy, Johnny and Freddie, of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. H. Ballard, Kenneth and Jacqueline, of Desoronto.

Children and grown-ups alike enjoyed the Hallowe'en frolics sponsored by the Woman's Association members in the Public School room on Friday evening. Dr. Dempsey and Mr. Arthur Means were judges for the costuming contestants — For girls, six years and under the first prize went to Doreen Ward as a drum majorette, and for boys, to two Crows, Tommy and Johnny Hutchinson. Roy Dawson got the intermediate boys' prize and Deanna Wannamaker the senior girls. The prize for adults went to Mrs. C. Williamson.

Mr. Harry Adams flew to Fort Lauderdale, Florida, to attend the funeral of her brother-in-law Thomas Hargreaved by her brother, J. H. Weese and her sister, Mrs. C. Peck.

Mosadegh Holds Spotlight, Even at His Trial

Flanked by two guards, former premier Mohamed Mossadegh is shown holding the floor at this trial in Tehran on charges of defying the shah, trying to overthrow the monarchy and illegally dissolving parliament. Before a five-man army court martial, Mossadegh wept, roared at the British and challenged the right of the court to try him. He threatened to commit suicide, fired his attorney and roared that if the court was voted competent to try him: "By Allah, I will not come to court at all." — Central Press Canadian.

Runway Troubles

Canadian airmen in France have had to contend with greasy runways and slipshod airbase construction. Sabre jets at the RCAF's No. 2 Fighter Wing at Grostenquin, France, airmen pitched in to help regardless of rank. Left to right: FO. D. J. MacLean of London, Ont., chairman of the camp trailer committee; Sgt. M. H. Reynolds, Vancouver, and Cpl. D. F. Niviss, Goderich, Ont. (CP from National Defence).

Canadian Airmen Have to Contend With Greasy Runways in France

By BILL BOSS

Canadian Press Staff Writer

GROSTENQUIN, France (CP)—The Sabre fighter of RCAF's No. 2 fighter wing took off early in August and turned over their runway to French contractors for a face-lifting.

When they return sometime this month, only part of the job will be done and senior officers say the runway will still be useless in wet weather.

Some officers even claim Canada would be better off to demand another station from NATO to avoid staggering maintenance costs. But morale on the station, commanded by Group Capt. Bill Welser of New York, is excellent.

Grostenquin's troubles derive from its location, its unsightly appearance, the materials used in construction and poor workmanship. On the day it was turned over to the RCAF by the French government, the roof of almost every important building was blown away in a storm.

WATER SUPPLY FAILS

Mains given out for weeks drinking water had to be hauled miles. Toilets could not be flushed. Central heating wasn't properly installed until May and the billets and offices were cold all winter. Hip-length rubber boots were standard wear because of faulty drainage.

Senior officers say Gros Tenquin had to be occupied before it was ready because of the operational and strategic situation. No. 1 fighter wing was NATO's first effective opposition to the MIG. Its presence was considered important enough to override hardship and discomfort caused the men.

Now, a year later, Welser says progress is gratifying and "we feel we have broken the back of it."

However, it is an open secret that the work under way will not correct the runway. It would cost $60,000 to make it safe for $225,000 Sabres, engineers say, but the red-tape experts can't decide whether NATO, France or Canada should pay.

GRADING NECESSARY

Because pipes sometimes sprout at the ends of sides of a runway, grading of the adjoining land is standard procedure. Neither end nor sides were graded here. That job is being done.

But Gros Tenquin's main problem is slipperiness. In wet weather the surface gets greasy and the jets can't be braked in landing. Between November, 1952, and the end of February, no Sabre here flew more than three hours—grounded because of the grease.

Officers say it will be the same this year. Their complaint that time is being wasted trying to find the cause of the greasiness instead of correcting it.

Samples of the runway concrete are under study by the National Research Council in Ottawa. Reports on the study circulate among Paris, London and Ottawa.

Meanwhile the fault is uncorrected. Officers say a topping of asphalt costing $60,000 would make the matter safe.

Meanwhile, all aircraft are grounded in wet weather.

REPAIRS BAD TOO

Poor workmanship in the original construction is being repeated by French workmen on the repair projects.

To eliminate mud, curbstones are being laid along the station roadways. The stones are simply laid end to end, without mortar, in a shallow trough.

Paving between buildings is equally simple. Two shallow troughs are dug a yard apart, six inches wide and two inches deep, then filled with crushed stone. Over the unprepared ground between the troughs, and over them, a quantity of asphalt is dumped and rolled. That's a "sidewalk."

A gymnasium is being built. The steel frame is on crete piles sunk into uncleared ground. The building is going up on land from which even scrub grass has not been cleared.

The central heating is an unsightly network of pipes on trestles six feet above the ground.

It was hoped to landscape the station this summer. One thousand trees were to be imported from Holland. The only ground so far levelled and seeded to grass is near the hospital. Not one tree has arrived.

There is little the RCAF can do directly. The work is entirely in the hands of French contractors and workmen.

Still officers say the Canadians have done better here than American bases have done at U.S. Air Force stations in France which, 1½ years after occupancy, still are under canvas.

Sale of New Motor Vehicles Slipped in Sept.

OTTAWA (CP) — Sales of new motor vehicles slipped in September for the first time this year, declining to $75,753,000—from $78,721,000 a year ago.

However, the total for the first nine months of 1953 was still sharply higher than 1952, swelling to $943,362,000—up about $116,000,000 from $777,778,000, the bureau of statistics reported.

With sales of trucks and other commercial vehicles dropping, total vehicles sold in September slipped to 30,029 from 31,936 last year. This had little impact on the nine-month total which rose to 315,897 from 309,464.

Sales of commercial vehicles declined for the fifth consecutive month in September, with 7,534 units selling for $19,892,000 compared to 9,397 retailing for $23,120,000 last year. Sales for the first nine months dropped to 82,742 units from 84,235 and values to $208,394,000 from $217,254,000.

While commercial vehicle sales dropped, passenger cars still showed buoyancy. Total sold in September increased to 22,495 from 22,539 with values rising to $55,762,000 from $53,450,000. This brought total sales in the nine months to 232,155 from 225,229 units pushing total value to $755,097,000 from $560,524,000.

Parliament Opens Amid Spectacle, Historic Ceremony

Governor-General Massey Inaugurates New Session

Lorne McDougall Heads Industry Division of Fund

OTTAWA (CP)—The first session of Canada's 22nd Parliament opens today amid spectacle and historic ceremony.

Governor-General Massey inaugurated the session at 3 p. m. with the speech from the throne, read to assembled senators and members of Parliament in the redcarpeted Senate chamber.

The speech outlined in general terms the government legislation which Parliament will be called on to consider during the session, expected to last until mid-June.

The House of Commons meets briefly four hours earlier to select its speaker and then adjourns until the formal afternoon opening.

The cold-aired ceremony is a prelude to two more days of state functions centered around the visit of President Eisenhower, who arrives Friday at 11.40 a. m. and will address a joint session of the Commons and Senate Saturday morning.

Today's pageantry revived one pre-war spectacle — the carriage procession from open carriage to carry the governor-general, escorted by an RCMP troop, from Government House to the Parliament buildings.

JUNE SESSION

Contents of the throne speech are kept secret before it is read, but the government has already disclosed some of the legislation to be introduced. These and other measures likely to arise are expected to keep Parliament busy until some time next June, with recesses at Christmas and Easter.

Some items ago the government said the current session will be asked to deal with the decennial revision of the Bank Act, amendments to the National Housing Act and extension of guided-missile assistance for another year.

Amendments to the Bank Act and housing act will be aimed at making more low-priced home available and easier terms of down payments, longer mortgage terms and greater flexibility for chartered banks to lend money on insured home mortgages.

Other main issues likely to arise include trade, taxes, old-age pensions, defence and civil defence measures, international relations and defence preparations.

After the throne speech, the Commons will adjourn until Friday. Only one session will also be brief. The second day is traditionally taken up with the debate on the seconding of a motion for adoption of the address in reply to the speech from the throne. A. H. Hollingsworth (L—York Centre) will move the motion and Mrs. Ellen Fairclough will be Georges Villeneuve (L—Roberval).

DEBATE MONDAY

The session's work will begin in earnest on Monday with the progressive Conservative Leader Drew will start the debate. Prime Minister St. Laurent will reply, and will be followed by M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, and Solon Low, Social Credit leader.

The session starts with the Liberals holding 170 of the 265 seats in the Commons. The Progressive Conservatives have 50 seats, reduced by one from its total of 51 won in the 1949 election through the death of Gordon Graydon, party leader. The Social Credit has 15; CCF, 23, Social Credit, 10; Labor-Progressive, 1; Independent Liberal, 2; Liberal-Labor, 1.

Lorne McDougall

LORNE McDOUGALL has been named chairman of the Canadian Industry Division of the Hospital Building Fund campaign launched today by R. P. Bernstein, chairman, Belleville Executive Committee.

In accepting the appointment Mr. McDougall said that his division is now fully organized—and is soliciting individual subscriptions from approximately 60 companies doing business in the city. The objective of the division is $60,000 which also includes the solicitation of employees of larger firms.

The Commerce and Industry Division is broken down into six trade groups and includes manufacturing, foods and restaurants, manufacturing and contracting, oil and gas services. Approximately 120 volunteer canvassers are now available and prospects who are being asked to contribute towards the $2,000,000 objective of $800,000 on a pledge basis payable over a three-year period.

Mr. McDougall stated that chairmen had been appointed to head each trade group. They are: automotive, J. F. Hubbard; finance, C. M. Cawker; foods and restaurants, J. A. Ireland; manufacturing and contracting, G. L. Thompson; retail, D. R. Kingdon; services, W. F. Allen.

Canvassing of commerce and industry prospects has been underway under way for over a week and excellent returns are expected to be reported at an advance report meeting scheduled to be held at 8 p.m., Friday, Nov. 16, in the recreation hall of the Nurses' residence.

British Beaches Are Invaded By Blackflies

LONDON (AP) — Eight English seaside resorts appealed today for government aid against a plague of blackflies which hitch-hiked across the Atlantic on floating seaweed.

Millions of the insects have appeared on the beaches of Brighton, Worthing, Hove, Littlehampton, Bognor Regis, Shanklin, Lyme Regis and Swanage.

Big exports say the flies are a type common on the eastern coast of North America. They are believed to have made the journey on seaweed carried by the Gulf stream.

The flies lay their eggs in the beach shingle and the grubs mature there. Their favorite food is attacks by flame thrower and helicopter-equipped insecticide have failed to keep the pests.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synoptic: Skies will clear across southern Ontario today as a high pressure area over the Great Lakes drifts slowly southeastward towards the coast. Little change in temperatures is expected in the Lakes regions. Northern regions will remain cloudy today and Friday. Winds from the southwest will bring warmer air into the north country.

TRUMAN DECLINES TO HONOR ORDER FOR APPEARANCE

Committee Meeting Indefinitely Postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) —Former president Truman has declined to honor a subpoena to appear before the House Un-American activities committee, a highly placed congressional source said today.

This word came immediately after Chairman Harold Velde (Rep., Ill.) had announced the indefinite postponement of Friday's scheduled appearance of Truman before the committee in its projected inquiry into the Harry Dexter White case.

The source reporting Truman's refusal to obey the subpoena issued by Velde said the former president based it on the doctrine of the separation of powers in government, that the legislative branch has no authority over the executive branch.

SENT TO VELDE

Truman, it was said, forwarded his statement to Velde.

Attorney-General Herbert Brownell has charged that Truman promoted White to a high government post in the face of FBI reports that White was a possible spy.

Velde's announcement of a postponement seemed to forestall the possibility of a showdown on the issue of whether the ex-president had to comply with the subpoena to tell of his actions in the White case before the committee.

However, Velde said he was not dropping the matter. He issued this statement:

"I feel very definitely that Harry S. Truman and Governor Byrnes (of South Carolina) should appear before the un-American activities committee to give information to the committee concerning the case of Dexter White matter. I feel that I was within my rights in issuing the subpoenas for them and will continue pressing for these hearings.

BYRNES CONSENTS

"Governor Byrnes has very graciously consented to appear before the subcommittee in his home state.

"As soon as it is possible, I intend to call an executive meeting of the committee to determine these issues. Until that meeting is held, I feel that it will be necessary to postpone the hearing of Harry S. Truman set for tomorrow."

Earlier, Velde had cancelled a subpoena for Dr. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, former military aide to Truman.

3 Red Generals Are Replaced

NEW YORK (AP)—Copies of Pravda which reached here Wednesday showed that Gen. Harry Vaughan of Missouri has been removed as chief of the Soviet air force.

The three are: Col-Gen. P. A. Zhigarev, commander-in-chief of the air arms of the Moscow military district; Lt.-Gen. K. R. Sinilov, commander of Moscow; and Maj.-Gen. N. K. Spiridonov, commander of the Kremlin air force.

After the announcement of deputy premiers Stalin and Lavrenti Beria, Soviet diplomats in Moscow heard rumors that these generals had been purged.

Now it becomes public that there are three new men in the posts.

Guided Missiles May Blast Future Tornadoes Says Expert

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—A guided missile may be used in the near future to fly into the roaring heart of tornado and save a city like Waco, and from and after death and death were left there last spring.

Dr. Fritz O. Rossmann, a German physicist and meteorologist who taught in the United States by the air force six months ago, has opened the door to tornado destruction theory which he says contradicts a 50-year-old idea about building skyscrapers.

Col. Rollin H. Mayer, electronic engineer, will direct the first missile test centre in Florida, where Rossmann is working, says the theory makes possible a national tornado-damage "prevention net" capable of protecting cities by hundreds of thousands of lives.

Rossmann and Mayer were here today to present papers at the annual meeting of the American Meteorological Society.

AEC Commissioner Suggests Foreigners Should See H-Blast

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Atomic Energy Commission member suggests that foreigners, presumably including Russians, should see a United States hydrogen bomb exploded as a sample of the destructive alternative to world peace.

The idea, expressed by Thomas E. Murray Wednesday night, came as the U.S. is preparing—and probably fiercer hydrogen test blast, and as Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson talked of "many more discoveries in the atomic age."

Murray made his H-bomb suggestion in a speech at Pittsburgh. He said first-hand observation of an H-explosion would be an essential qualification for future negotiators of the great survival issues in the years ahead." Such an American showing, he added, might give the free nations a match it with a demonstration of their own.

Murray said the AEC hasn't yet studied the idea in detail or reached a decision.

BEFORE COLD WAR

Murray's speech was the first official indication that there is consideration of a plan to let foreign observers watch a major atomic test. He recalled that this was last done at Bikini atoll in the Pacific in 1946.

In those days before the cold war, several hundred American and foreign observers and correspondents, including two Soviet representatives, watched the atom-bombing of a fleet of warships.

The AEC has announced, without detail, that Bikini will be used in further atomic tests, supplementing the facilities of Eniwetok atoll, used since 1948. There have been reports that the hydrogen test last February 28 was a failure.

In another atomic development Wednesday, Lewish L. Strauss, chairman of the AEC, said the U.S. intends to "extend" the exchange of atomic information with Canada and Britain, but no data on atomic weapons will be involved.

He said the U.S. plans to "extend the area of our cooperation" — to certain limited respects and to our own defence interests.

In Ottawa, Trade Minister Howe welcomed the news that such an exchange might speed the development of atomic power plants in Canada.

Canada and U.S. Establish Joint Committee on Trade

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada and the United States today established a joint committee on trade and economic affairs in an attempt to increase trade friction and promote greater trade between the two countries.

The unprecedented step in promote a "healthy" flow of trade across the Canada-U. S. border was completed in a signing ceremony at Washington at 10.30 a. m. EST today, Ambassador A. D. P. Heeney signed for Canada; State Secretary John Foster Dulles for the U. S.

On the committee, which will consider trade problems during the harmonious economic re...tions between the two countries, will be External Affairs Minister Pearson, Trade Minister Howe, Finance Minister Abbott, and either Agriculture Minister Gardiner or Fisheries Minister Sinclair.

American members will include Secretary Dulles, Agriculture Secretary Humphrey, Agriculture Secretary Benson and Commerce Secretary Weeks.

Other cabinet members from both countries will be appointed to act on the committee from time to time, especially for special problems.

PREVENT FRICTION

Major reason for the committee, first proposed during Prime Minister St. Laurent's visit to President Eisenhower in Washington last May, is to prevent embarrassing trade friction and disputes.

For example, U. S. import curbs on Canadian oats and barley, and a flood of protests from Canada and other countries selling these products in the U. S. market, and on Canada retaliating against American goods, but no action has been taken.

Now there are demands in the U. S. for import curbs on Canadian products, oats and lead and zinc be restricted on the ground they are harming the economy of Canada. Mr. N. K. Spiridonov, commandant of the Canadian officials.

Officials here said that once the committee has been established any far-reaching economic policies may be hammered-out. These policies, Ottawa officials hope, would help the country, likely would seep down bringing the two countries closer together in outlook on multilateral trade and elimination of tariff problems.

TOP-LEVEL EXCHANGE

The committee's functions under the agreement are:

1. To consider matters affecting harmonious economic relations between the two countries.

2. To exchange information and views on matters which might adversely affect trade.

3. To make to the respective governments that consideration that it may deem necessary to improve economic relations and encourage trade.

This top-level committee will meet "once a year or more often," the agreement said. Meetings will alternate between Ottawa and Washington.

Time and place of the first meeting have not been announced, but it is understood that they may be discussed when President Eisenhower arrives here tomorrow for a two-day state visit.

ROSES IN BLOOM

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Roses are blooming in Stockholm in December's warmest autumn in 40 years.

Approval Given Bill to Make Duke Regent

LONDON (Reuters)—The House of Commons gave final formal approval to a bill to place the Duke of Edinburgh ahead of Princess Margaret in line for the regency.

The measure now goes to third reading—a formality after the unanimous approval given Wednesday on the principle of the bill in second reading.

It now goes to the House of Lords, which is expected to be dealt with quickly.

Under the bill, the duke would become regent in the event the queen dies before Prince Charles is 18.

Rene Beaudoin Elected Speaker Of Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—Rene Beaudoin, 41, Liberal member of the Commons for Vaudreuil-Soulanges, today was chosen Speaker of the House.

In a brief sitting preliminary to the formal opening of the first parliament, the Commons unanimously designated Mr. Beaudoin as its presiding officer.

Mr. Beaudoin, 41, deputy speaker in the last Parliament, succeeds Hon. W. Ross Macdonald, K.C., who has become government leader in the Senate.

The Beaudoin election as speaker was moved by Prime Minister St. Laurent and seconded by Hon. George Prudham, Opposition leader, following tradition in this respect. Leaders of the CCF and Social Credit groups endorsed the choice.

All commended the new Speaker for his "fairness and impartiality" in the last Parliament, at which he often presided over the House.

British Govt. Is Defeated On Minor Issue

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill's government was defeated by four votes in the House of Commons tonight, but it was only on a minor issue that would not require the government to resign.

The vote—145 to 141—came late as the opposition side of the House was crowded and there were relatively few on the Conservative benches.

The vote was on a Conservative move to annul an order controlling the import of glassware.

IKE READY FOR 'GOOD NEIGHBOR' TRIP TO OTTAWA

U.S. President to Deal With Mutual Problems

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower leaves late today on a "good neighbor" trip to Ottawa for discussions of mutual problems — such as continental defence—with top Canadian officials.

Trade problems also are expected to be high on the list.

The president will be accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower, Ahassador and Mrs. Henry Cabot Lodge and a small staff of White House aides.

Lodge is chief of the United States mission to the United Nations.

The president told his press conference Wednesday that he is going to Canada to pay his respects to the Canadian people. His address to Parliament Saturday would deal with matters of common interest to the U.S. and Canada.

SOCIAL SIDE

Eisenhower will be the guest of Governor - General Massey and Prime Minister St. Laurent.

The schedule of Eisenhower's activities in Ottawa Friday and Saturday is mainly on the social side, but aides said the president also plans to see Canadian-American relations in private talks.

Although Lodge is accompanying the president, he will not take part in matters and other global problems pending the time when he takes place to discussion of North American issues.

In that category is continental defence, including the radar screen along the northern edges of the Canadian mainland and the islands adjacent.

MORE DEPTH

There has been talk of a radar "wall" in northern Canada, but what actually is up there now is something apparently needed is more depth of the radar system with additional stations and better track incoming planes after the outer set has picked them up.

On the eve of Eisenhower's departure, Prime Minister Churchill said that the two countries have agreed to set up a joint economic board to deal with trade problems. Such items without resorting to restrictive action. Announcement of the unique board, to consist of top-ranking officials representing both countries, may be timed with Eisenhower's arrival in Ottawa, informants here said last night.

The controversial St. Lawrence seaway proposal also appears certain to be discussed by Eisenhower and the Canadians.

German Surgeon Will Separate Siamese Twins

DARMSTADT, Germany (AP)— A German surgeon today said he will soon begin initial steps to separate two-year-old Siamese twin girls joined at the skull.

Prof. Wolfgang Lenckert, chief surgeon at a Darmstadt hospital, said he has no plans for operating Rosemarie and Lotte Knaub will take considerable time—perhaps years, before an operation is performed.

He plans to place a band around the section where the girls' skulls are joined to restrict the growth at that point. After the joined portion has narrowed, an operation may be performed.

Beaten and Burned for 100 Nights By Inmates in Niagara, N.Y., Jail

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP)—A 17-year-old youth was beaten and burned for 100 nights by fellow inmates of the Niagara county jail where, he said, he was subjected to regular beating and burning him regularly for 100 nights.

Theodore Lear said the other prisoners thought he was a "stool pigeon." He said he had tried to prove by his silence that he was not.

Lear was put in the cell Aug. 5 after his arrest on a burglary charge.

Sheriff Henry E. Becker said a physician found deep gigaret burns, some almost healed, on the youth's chest, legs, arms and soles of his feet.

William H. Earl, assistant district attorney, said Lear was also beaten on the legs, thighs and upper arms.

In addition, other indignities too gruesome to mention were perpetrated on this boy," Earl said.

Earl said the boy apparently never screamed loud enough for jailers to hear.

"The jailer makes a complete check of the prisoners in the morning and asks the men about complaints of any kind," Earl said. "This boy never made any mention of the treatment he was undergoing."

Two Mossadegh Supporters Killed By Police Gunfire

Demonstrators Take Ousted Leader's Case Into Streets

By DON SCHWIND

TEHRAN (AP) — Two demonstrators were killed today by police gunfire as thousands of supporters of ex-premier Mohammed Mossadegh took their ousted leader's case into the streets.

Gangs shouting "Long Live Mossadegh" roamed main thoroughfares despite heavy police and troop guards at main squares and intersections throughout the city. By noon at least 20 demonstrators had been arrested. Several had been severely clubbed by police under orders to take "drastic action" in handling orders.

The city's main bazaar, which has hundreds of shop stores and booths, was about half shut down. Soldiers with fixed bayonets patrolled the labyrinth of covered passageways throughout the huge shopping area, long a center of Mossadegh strength.

Despite the widespread show of sympathy for the city's activities continued normally.

OUT OF SIGHT

At the university of Tehran, classes settled down after a lively start when students who had shouted pro-Mossadegh slogans and then ducked out of sight.

Police on the call had been noised about for more than a week by Communist and pro-Mossadegh leaders as a demonstration of support for the ousted Nationalist leader now facing an army court-martial on treason charges.

Mossadegh ended a royalist revolt Aug. 19, is accused of delivering Iran's oil resources to Soviet Russia.

He told the court: "I had no intention to become shah or president. I have always been loyal to the shah. What could I do if I became the president? What's the use of being president? You all know that I was the only prime minister of India but none of you knows the name of the present leader of India."

(The Indian president is Rajendra Prasad.)

Mossadegh traces his descent to Iran's imperial Qajar family.

British, German Firms Seeking Branches in Ont.

TORONTO (CP)—Planning Minister Warrander of Ontario said Wednesday nearly 100 British and German firms will have branches in the province by the end of this year. Many have already been established.

About 50 of these would be manufacturers and the others financial and investment houses.

Mr. Warrander, who recently returned from a two-week tour in Europe, said an Ontario government office will probably be opened in Dusseldorf during the next two years to handle inquiries of German firms interested in establishing branches here.

The German move into Ontario would probably follow the pattern of United Kingdom movement—sales offices, assembly plants, then assembly plants and full manufacture.

The minister said Ontario's main immigration need is for skilled workmen. They would be encouraged to come to the province.

The value of branch offices to spread the Ontario story has been proven by a Chicago office, the minister said. Since its opening last spring the office had had requests from 129 new projects interested in establishing in Ontario.

50,000 Koreans Greet Nixon

SEOUL (AP.) — As estimated 50,000 South Koreans braved an icy winter wind today to greet United States Vice-President Nixon and Nixon on his arrival in this war-battered capital.

Nixon told top American and Korean officials who met him at the airport that Korea is "the battle-way point—and the high point" of his aircraft tour through the Far East, because Korea was where "aggression against free nations was stopped."

The vice-president and his wife rode through the cold, cheering crowds to shake hands with cold, shy school children who lined the street.

MUSIC FOR HYMNS PLAYED BY ARMY

The music for the hymns sung at the Remembrance Day memorial service yesterday was played by a detachment of the Salvation Army and not by the Kinsmen's Boys' Band as formerly reported. The band, as reported, will be present as is common with the Army, made no little sacrifice in order to take part in the day's observance.

For these "helping hands" of the Army, the Remembrance Day Committee is exceedingly grateful.

Parish Council Of Christ Church Holds Meeting

At a meeting of the Parish Council of Christ Church on Monday evening, the people's warden presented a financial report showing a nine months' period. This report showed satisfactory attendance. During this period the church, Sunday school were cleaned and partially redecorated and all regular expenses met. Considerable money expenditure is paid to date. The council expressed its appreciation to the ladies for keeping the council in touch with the affairs of the church and the representative estimate showed that the mortgage will be fully paid and discharged at the earliest date possible.

A processional cross was dedicated on November 1, to the memory of Reverend Wright. Mr. Wright had been a church warden of Christ Church for many years and at the time of his death, a lay delegate to Synod. Since other memorials have been offered, a committee of five was set up to consider with the incumbent how best as a committee on memorials.

Both Reverend Wright, Christ Church and St. George's, were reported to be in a healthy condition and the superintendents are endeavoring to introduce newer methods of auto-visual aids to convey subject matter to the pupils.

Some very helpful suggestions were put forward for the future in an effort to create further interest in the congregation.

Two Burned-Out Families Helped By Money, Gifts

A really generous response has been received to the appeal for assistance in behalf of two Cannifton families who were burned out last week with loss of all their possessions.

Mrs. Flossie Moore and her 19-year-old son Lawrence, lost their home, household furnishings and all personal possessions while Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boyle and their small son, Terry, lost their apartment in the same house, also lost all household and personal effects, but fortunately Mrs. Moore had no insurance.

Mrs. R. G. Blakely, Cannifton, who helped to organize the appeal for assistance for the two families, said today that the response had been "just wonderful." There had been many donations of furniture and clothing and more were on the way. However, there was still a need for bedding and dishes.

Generous cash donations have also been received. Member organizations of the Students' Council at the Belleville Collegiate have raised a substantial amount for the Moore family, while Mrs. Mary Mac Donald, one of the janitors of the Club Cedars at Cannifton, last night staged a dance and turned the proceeds over to Mrs. Moore.

Also last evening at a euchre and social evening sponsored by the Ladies' Society of the Holy Rosary Church, a miscellaneous shower was staged for the Boyle family. Cash donations of $40 also received. Gifts of fruit, vegetables, dishes, bedding and clothing were received.

The Boyle family has been successful in securing accommodation but Mrs. Moore is still house hunting.

St. Michael's Sodality Presents Charming Fashion Show, Tea

A fashion show, which was both interesting and charming, climaxed by an afternoon tea, was sponsored yesterday afternoon by the Sodality of Our Lady of St. Michael's Academy. The stage, with its colorful setting of potted shrubbery, of green and wine, and blond television, highlighted by gold standards of pink, white, yellow, bronze mums and potted ferns, made a most attractive setting for the showing of business apparel, afternoon and cocktail dresses, as well as children's clothes.

COMMENTATORS

The two commentators, Miss Edna Laboucane, gowned in black with white accessories and chic, white head-hugging hat, and Miss Barbara Chapelle attired in gray taffeta for afternoonwear, with sparkling costume jewelry, graciously introduced each model, adding interesting comments on the apparel shown.

Among the several costumes displayed was a black velvet dress featuring a pleated skirt with long torso bodice. Pink with its accompanying green bag and yellow scarf made a most useful afternoon dress. This was also shown, worn with white Bengaline with a pleated skirt and taffeta sacret. The skirt was full and of mid-calf length, as were the skirts of most of the gowns.

Another model was in charcoal grey, 100 per cent wool, with gold, black and rhinestone accessories by bright red accessories, and brilliant costume jewellery.

GOLD CORDUROY

A gold corduroy ensemble, featured large pockets, buttoned down the front, reaching to within thirds of the way down the front. Brown accessories were the complimenting additions.

Two-piece daytime dresses were modelled, one in black velvet, and having low neckline, with velvet being the medium used in the sleeves. Three blue taffeta frock with checked underskirt, with wide cut-outline, and the two-piecer combined a black skirt with blue blouse with pleated peplum; white with another with pink add white embossed skirts with self accented topper, also held the limelight.

Several dressy daytime wear in taffeta and other materials, were shown in bright reds.

Shown for the wee miss was a pretty green ensemble in taffeta tartan with matching accessories; another two place suit for the wee lassie had a plaited skirt with beige jacket, and teenage blouse, and still another dempure little frock in pink and white candy stripe with red tie and bell.

The little laddie was not forgotten, for his enjoyment a spic and span navy blue sailor suit with white braiding was also on him anywhere, as well as the man-tailored style trousers, flannel blazer, and bow tie, and the pure wool velour suit comprising coat, leggins and cap-to-peak cap, with their satin quilted lining, so right for winter.

The last showing combined all the models at a week-end party, viewing television; the adults in housecoats and lounging pants and the children in pyjamas, dressing gown and slippers.

Mrs. Allen was also in an apartment on the Trent Road, opposite the cemetery, was waiting for a taxi to take her to the hospital when the unknown youth walked over from the road and threw her to the ground.

In the ensuing struggle Mrs. Allan's clothing was badly torn.

She is five feet eight inches in height and because she was stronger than her assailant was able to fight him until a passing motorist noticed the struggle at the roadside and stopped.

The youth, frightened at the approach of the motorist, ran through the cemetery.

Mrs. Allan, left speechless by the attack, was unable to tell the motorist what had happened.

"I was worried about what might happen to other women along that road," said Mrs. Allan in a telephone interview this morning.

"I want them to know what happened to me so that they can protect themselves," she said. "It was a terrifying experience. Had it happened to an older man it could have been much more serious," she said.

Mrs. and Mrs. Allan moved to Belleville at the end of last May. Mr. Allan is now employed in charge of construction work on the new four lane highway.

Provincial police investigated.

Veterans of Four Wars Enjoy Full Turkey Dinner

TRENTON (Special)—Veterans of four wars gathered together here last night recalling old times over heaping plates of turkey meat and all of the trimmings.

The largest turnout for a banquet in the history of the local legion branch sat down at the festive board after an interim of cocktails.

The occasion was the annual Armistice Day dinner climaxing the November 11 observance of the cease fire ending World War I.

Among the guests present were a number of the local guest speaker Jack Burnet, Mayor of Cobourg; Mr. Cecil Whitfield, Commanding Officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Belleville; Mayor R. E. Whitley, and Mr. Kenneth J. Couch.

In the course of the evening ex-Mayor Couch was called and presented a beautiful pen-and-pencil Legionnaire K. Almey with the Queen's Silver Jubilee Medal. Trenton's grand old soldier as Mr. Couch certainly is, has accumulated with years wailing up in his years. "There is no prouder person in the Dominion of Canada to honor than Legionnaire Almey with Coronation Medal." He recalled that he had been awarded decorations and medals by many of the Queen's family down to her great great grandmother, Queen Victoria. Comrade W. A. Fraser asked for the privilege to pay homage to the a man who had served his country long and well. He pledged himself to continue work in the interest of veterans and their families.

WANTS COMPULSORY TRAINING

In the message of the evening Mayor J. D. Burnet of Cobourg, regional vice president of the Canadian Legion, advocated the enforcement of a form of compulsory training so that every man at age 18 in Canada could undergo a period of basic training. He called for Canada to prepare for the future victories in the two big wars allowed Canadians to enjoy freedom under democratic government. Mayor Burnet referred to the public critical of the 27th Army Brigade in Europe. "There is the same trouble in the U.S. army," he said, "men are leaving the service as soon as they enlist."

Emphasizing that people grew stuck after both Great Wars he considered that Canadians never learned a lesson and criticized the government for disposing of valuable equipment badly needed later. "However I think the Korean War has brought us to our senses," he said.

Mayor Burnet asked the Legion to stand-behind a prepared-ness movement.

In speaking of the Legion man who had conferred upon him, Burnet remarked: "There is only one thing wrong with Senator Fraser. He doesn't live in Cobourg. He's a great builder."

A fitting series of thanks was offered by Comrade E. Cunnell, who complimented the committee, Dent Burnet, that Trenton Legionnaires were buying 100 per cent.

The toast to the valiant dead was proposed by Padre A. S. McConnell. The Lions of Remembrance were read by Comrade John Silver.

Comrade A. Vanderwater thanked the members of the Legion's Women's Auxiliary for serving the sumptuous meal. The Armed Services toast was proposed by Queen's Bill Cook.

MAYOR PROPOSES TOAST

Mayor R. E. Whitley in proposing a toast to the Canadian Legion said he hoped the people of Trenton appreciated what the Legion was doing in Trenton. He disclosed that the Legion willingly offers all the organizations doing charitable work in the community. He made a special mention of the meeting held in the Legion Hall to form a club for the disabled people of the district. He said he was living to see the Legionaries in a new Legion Hall dedicated to their fallen comrades. He toasted the future prosperity of the Trenton Legion.

Comrade Harry Devonshire noted that the seven-age group sponsored by the local Legion branch would be of value to the community when they reached age. He told the gathering that the Canadian Legion Legion would have a new building next year.

Comrade Fraser announced during the evening that he was thrilled by the effort to erect a new Legion hall on Bayshore Park. He also announced the publication of the program F.-L. J. D. Beecroft in playing voice sang "In Flander's Fields" and a rousing English hunting song.

Comrade Ken Merjohn presided as chairman during the program.

McFee Jewellery Store to Close Doors After 93 Years of Operation

Belleville's oldest family-retained retail business, Angus McFee's Jewellery Store, 316 Front Street, will cease operations January 1, 1954, after 93 years of continuous business in the city.

It is one of the few in which the business is located obliges the firm to move.

The business was established in 1860 by Angus McFee.

The present owner appeared in the Hastings Directory of 1890 as a jeweller, with the notation:

"His shop is nearly opposite Farmers' Hotel, Front Street, Belleville, where he expects to remain, and by close and careful attention to business to secure the confidence of the public."

Mr. J. A. McFee, grandson of the firm on the death of his uncle in 1927 and has operated it since then under the original name. The store's location has never changed.

Mr. McFee, a graduate in optometry in 1894, has continued to practice during the years. He entered the operation of the store to various managers, during the years. Howard Butterfield, Victor Tulley and Jack McCrodan were managers.

Mr. McFee's manager is Ed Logan, Mr. McFee's son, Angus, jeweller, was discharged on his discharge from the Air Force in 1945.

Mr. McFee has noted many changes in the jewellery business during the years. He recalls that eye glass frames of solid gold were common at the turn of the century. Watch cases of 10 to 18 karat gold were popular. Before the days in contact with the gold-filled jewellery which has been in favor in recent years.

Wrist watches were unknown until the World War. Prior to that time men's timepieces were pocket watches.

The unavailability of another premise forces a cessation of business, at least temporarily, and a sale of the merchandise on hand. Fixtures and other business fixtures will be put in storage.

Concerning his future plans, Mr. McFee stated that he is hopeful of obtaining a suitable location so that the business established nearly a century ago will continue to serve this community.

Woman Attacked Waiting for Bus On Trent Road

Mrs. Glen Allan, 23, mother of a three-months'-old baby, was attacked by a youth while she stood waiting for a bus on the Trent Road shortly after 7 o'clock last evening.

The assailant was described by Mrs. Allan as five feet tall, with bushy hair in the front, slim face and a long nose. He was wearing a navy colored jacket with white flashes on the shoulders, and dark trousers.

"He's a boy about 17 or 18," said Mrs. Allan, whose overall impression of him was that he looked like a "beanery type."

Mrs. Allan, who lives in an apartment on the Trent Road, opposite the cemetery, was waiting for a bus to take her to hospital when the unknown youth walked over from the road and threw her to the ground.

In the ensuing struggle Mrs. Allan's clothing was badly torn.

She is five feet eight inches in height and because she was stronger than her assailant was able to fight him until a passing motorist noticed the struggle at the roadside and stopped.

ARMITAGE. — In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Dorland Ibbet Armitage, who passed away November 12th, 1952.

Time speeds on, eight years have flown
Since death to us claimed
Our dearest one.

While sorrow, home, where all seemed best
Can cause us a shining light.
Memories fade, but not the heart
Her vacant place there is none can fill.

Down here we mourn, but not in vain
For up in heaven we will meet again.

—Ever loving and lovingly remembered by husband and family.

SEARS. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Frederick Sears, who passed away today, November 12th, 1951.

And a heart that longs
Only one year ago today, and yet it seems Like many years.

Merchants Set Shopping Hours For Christmas

The Retail section of the Chamber of Commerce on Thursday released the store hours for Christmas week. The section met in the offices of the Chamber of Commerce.

They following are the hours merchants are expected to abide by. Beginning on Wednesday, December 16, the special hours will remain in effect until after New Year's Day. Stores will close on the 24th and 25th at 6 p.m. From the 18th to the 23rd inclusive and excluding Sunday, 20th, stores will remain open until 9 p.m. On Christmas eve they will close at six p.m. The next three days, Christmas Day, Boxing Day and Sunday, the stores will close. From the 28th until New Year's Day, merchants will observe regular closing hours and close on January 1.

Copies of the Retail—Business Survey have been compiled and will be distributed to merchants and business men who are chamber members early next week. The report is a confidential nature and will be available to non-members of the chamber for $25.00.

DECORATE SHOPPING AREA

Although there will be no Santa Claus parade, plans are going forward for the decorating of the shopping areas. Colored lights will be strung up around the Front Street area and evergreen branches will be tied to each parking meter. Other projects are in the making but still in the planning stage. The Recreation Committee and the Chamber of Commerce together plan to have a Santa Claus telephone service. Cards will be available from retailers and children may call them out, send them to the address on the back of the card and Santa will call them during the hour they have requested on the card.

A majority vote in favor of closing at 2.30 in the evening was taken at the meeting. However, it was felt this method was not fair and it was decided to make individual polls through the mail to discover the overall feeling of retailers to the half-hour earlier closing.

The directors also voted down approaching council to change the by-law regulating traffic in effect at Front and Bridge Streets. They felt that the present rule, although not a traffic solution, was not detrimental to business.

Quinte District Still Badly In Need of Rain

Although Saturday's six inch fall of snow was welcomed by district farmers for its moisture content, the Quinte district is still badly in need of rain, according to farmers.

The weekly farm report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture quotes farmers in this area as saying that very little fall work and in most instances farmers are without water for their stock. The condition of wells were bad in the Hastings and in Prince Edward counties.

Despite the lack of rain, fall grains have made remarkable growth where planted on time. Farm work and feed supplies are in satisfactory shape with more hay than usual on farms. At auction sales prices for hay barely cover the cost of harvesting.

There is a keen demand for advanced registry breeding stock and quite a number of grade and purebred cattle are being purchased and tested for export.

Canadian Legion Requested At Remembrance Day Banquet To Support Prison Reforms

T. Alex Edmison, assistant to the principal of Queen's University, scored what he called "the crime of overcrowding" and urged 90 members of the Canadian Legion to press for "civilizing legislation" in the field of prison reform, in a Remembrance Day banquet address to the Belleville Branch 36, Canadian Legion at Legion Hall.

"We have been given an obligation to live up to the ideals of those 10,000 Canadians who died in World Wars I and II and in Korea," said Mr. Edmison. "We have been given the challenge to make Canadian democracy worthy of their sacrifice."

"In Toronto last week we learned via the newspapers that 25 people were living in one small house. This is a crime of overcrowding. Western cities are not good enough for Canada, he said.

In speaking of necessary prison reforms Mr. Edmison stated that in England and Wales in 1950, of a population of 41,000,000 only 30,000 went to jail.

"In the same year in Canada, of a population of slightly more than 14 million, 96,000 went to jail." —

ANSWERS ARE SIMPLE

"Why is this so?" said Mr. Edmison. "The answers are simple. In Great Britain they have payment of fines by instalments whereby a man can save himself from going to jail.

"In Canada, legislation there is a fetish, and man, because he cannot raise $25 is sentenced to jail and ever after is branded as an ex-convict or a jailbird. Another man, laughing, gaily pays his fine because he can easily pay the fine."

"With those of us who want a better Canada, this is not good enough" said the speaker. "I hope that we will, very soon, the same civilizing legislation that they have in England."

"In Britain too, people have a second chance," said Mr. Edmison. "Since 1907, Britain has had an exemplary system of probation. Since 1907, 75 per cent of all those who have been released on probation have not been charged in court again."

PROBATION NOT GOOD

"Probation is not good enough in Canada," said Mr. Edmison, in urging support of the Legion to support these reforms.

"In thinking of the fallen comrades, pledge yourselves to keep and preserve the things they won," he said.

Mr. Edmison opened his address by saying that he realized the true significance of the Remembrance Day poppy for the first time as he stood among the graves at Flanders and Vimy.

"Tonight you are thinking of friends and comrades, men who died between 1914 and 1918 and Passchendaele." It is well that we remember them for too often the days of World War I are forgotten," said Mr. Edmison in paying tribute to the men of the First World War to stand.

Mr. Edmison recalled the day, April 9, 1917, when war was declared, when, as a school boy, he watched the men gather in the post office in his home town.

"Today I think of the small day-by-day their names in the war memorials in that countryside," he said.

PAYS TRIBUTE

In paying tribute to the veteran and World War I, Mr. Edmison recalled a conversation he had with Lloyd George in which in which the late British prime minister paid eloquent tribute to two Canadian generals.

In speaking of Sir Adam Hughes, Lloyd George praised him by stating that "he raised the army that held it first."

Of Sir Arthur Currie, Lloyd George was said to have spoken, "he was one of the two greatest generals of the First World War. He was an amateur soldier, who was not lilted by the professionals."

Mr. Edmison quoted, "and it his advice had been taken the war would have been shorter."

"In 1918 I was in the cadet corps in Toronto," said Mr. Edmison, with my wooden rifle and our ridiculous red tunics we were afraid that the war would be finished before we got there."

THOUGHT WARS ENDED

"We who are still in our forties thought that the Kaiser's defeat was done and the Prussians were licked that war was a thing of the past. We were unfashionable able to believe in military training. The Toronto Board of Education cut out cadet training because there would never be another war," he said. "I am not universally I thought the boys in the cadets were wasting their time," said Mr. Edmison.

"In 1939 we saw the rise of the Hitler dictatorship, and heard the places like Dachau, where Hitler sent people he didn't like. We did not see then that Dachau was pointing the way to our own fate.

Buchenwald in Dachau in May of 1945 I saw the gas chambers, the torture chambers and the incinerators — the worst unbelievable imaginable of man's inhumanity to man. There were names of men of 32 different nationalities posted on the bulletin boards for extermination," he said.

Mr. Edmison then read from his diaries of the first two weeks of July of 1940, when the Germans began sending over their V1 rockets, stating that Sir Winston Churchill happily corroborates his own impressions of the events of those days.

MOST TRAGIC DAYS

The destruction of Wellington Chapel by a V1 rocket on Sunday, June 18, 1944, was described by the speaker as one of the most tragic days of the war.

"The church was packed with the commanding officers and chaplains of all the guards regiments in England," he said. "There were only seven survivors," said Mr. Edmison, who stated that their loss was one of the most terrible of his memories of the war.

"All of you have your own memories," he said, in paying special tribute to the veterans of both wars, and the men of the navy and merchant marine.

Mr. Edmison was introduced by Jim Reid to Frank Smith and the expression of thanks was voiced by Emerson Sprague.

Others who spoke briefly at the banquet were W. O. Bailey, president of Branch 89, and F. S. Follwell, M.P.

PERSONNEL TOAST

Chairman of the evening was C. B. Gardner. Capt. Angus Buck, R.C.A.M.C., proposed the Edward Regiment proposed a toast to Her Majesty the Queen; Spencer Strain proposed a toast to the fallen comrades.

In an impressive tribute to the memory of the dead, the whole assembly stood in silence as Bugler Lieut. Armand Duffy sounded "Last Post." A Following this, a minute silence. Patricia Gardner sang "The Lord's Prayer" and Lieut. Duffy sounded "Reveille."

The toast to Canada and the Queen was proposed by Padre Pat Philip.

The toast of the head table were: Capt. Angus Duffy, Frank S. Follwell, M.P., Mr. Edmison, the speaker; Mrs. Edmison, Mr. Gardner, chairman for the evening; W. O. Bailey, president of the local Branch 36; Everett Smith, Rev. Eric Strain and Everett Hubbs.

Mr. Gardner expressed the thanks of the Legion to the ladies for the splendid banquet under the convenership of Patricia Gardner, who catered the banquet.

At the close of the banquet, the boys gathered around the piano with Jim Glass at the keyboard and sang the old familiar war songs until far into the night.

Capt. M. Brooks Recalls Storm Forty Years Ago

Another Belleville resident this week vividly recalling the disastrous storm on the Great Lakes forty years ago.

He is Capt. Mervin E. Brooks, 1631 Dundas street. For him the memory of that terrific storm is particularly tragic, for although he and his comrades on the steamship Regina, owned by the Murphy Steamship Co., Port William, all survived the storm, together a hundred feet, first mate on the steamer Wexford, who was drowned on the same night.

Earlier this week the Ontario Intelligencer published the story of Shall Petty, 75 Purdy Street, was one of the few mariners that has survived the storm, which, according to a list published by Capt. Brooks, 19 ships and stranded 25 other vessels, with 19 of these being later salvaged.

Capt. Brooks was second mate on the steamship. "We were the only boat that rode out the gale on Lake Superior," he recalled, being driven back down the lake to within three miles of Kettle Point. "We were mad abated and we were able to make some headway and keep off the rocks. Finally making the port of Sarnia we were able to ride out the storm, being driven back down the lake to within three miles of Kettle Point. We were mad abated and we were able to make some headway and keep off the rocks. Finally making the port of Sarnia we were able to ride out the storm, being pelted by heavy rain and hail. The waves were mountainous, being so high that they completely submerged the pilot house, the only part of the steamer visible to the crew. Finally the storm abated and we were able to make some headway and keep off the rocks. Finally making the port of Sarnia we were able to ride out the storm, being pelted by Lake Huron and all the water behind us. We were then out of water ballast and we filled the cargo holds up to the hatches with water. The crew were completely submerged in water; wheelhouse, engine room and galley flooded and with all portholes and windows smashed.

World Needs Common Basis On Which to Realize Peace Speaker Tells ANAF Veterans

Pride of achievement shining in their eyes, over 350 members of Branch 101 Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans in Canada, sat in the well-appointed auditorium of their new Front Street club room on Wednesday night at a banquet extra to their Remembrance Day observances.

It was the first Remembrance Day banquet held in the auditorium since the entire building underwent renovation and redecoration last year.

Under the suffused glow of softly colored fluorescent lights, veterans of two wars, who in the morning had paid solemn tribute to their fallen comrades, enjoyed a sumptuous repast, heard an excellent address, brief speeches from invited guests, sang and rounded out a highly enjoyable evening with entertainment and lusty singing of war songs, vintage 1914 and 1939-45.

The veterans sat in solemn silence as they listened to the good speaker Archdeacon the Ven. J. B. Creggan, rector of Christ Church. As one ANAF official put it, "You could hear a pin drop."

It was a definite tribute to the occasion and to the speaker.

HONORS ALL VETERANS

"I am a non-veteran, honor all you men who have served so faithfully for the liberty and freedoms we possess," this speaker began what you did. You have paid tribute to those gallant comrades that have died that that we might be here tonight," Archdeacon Creggan said.

He said he knew little of the experiences of the veterans but, he said, "I know of the experiences we had here at home. We remember the anxious days we passed here and sacrificed their sons and husbands and fathers," he added.

He recalled the unveiling of the Runnymede monument and the inscription, "those who have free souls"—"Canadians, he went on "are those bound after having experience in two wars to see that peace prevails, so we can make this country the hope and blessing of the world."

NEEDS COMMON BASIS

Qualifying his statement that "the world needs a common basis on which to realize peace," Archdeacon Creggan said that when the doctrines of the different country are compared to those whose people believe in the brotherhood of the state, there is a vast difference.

"The Christian countries exalt men and women. They to whom the state is of secondary importance sacredness for its people."

He quoted a missionary minister, who was told by a Chinese that if the Christian missionaries had come one generation earlier would never have gotten a foothold in China.

"It can be made possible for many people to do one great thing, but it is the common basis on which to talk peace," he said.

Archdeacon Creggan said "Remember Him who was crucified. He was not asked to sacrifice it. He said 'Go out and preach Jesus Christ to the world'."

"Which that is done we shall have no more wars upon which the peace of the world can be settled. I honor you men who have sacrificed their lives for these our precious liberties and freedoms, let us keep them as they are. Let us give our witness that we are to our children, 'we are going to have a peaceful world in which to live.'"

PRESIDENT, CHAIRMAN

Comrade Henry Drury discharged his duties as master of ceremonies in a masterful manner. He said in his brief welcoming address, "Let us exhibit a deep sense of obligation what we have here tonight. Let us appreciate for the privileges we now enjoy."

The toast was introduced by Colonel R. W. Etter, or Belleville, and executed at the head table were Acting ANAF president Ray Sadler, Lieut.-Col. G. W. MacGregor, M.C. E.D., member of the trustee board, Bert Vanderbeck, president of the ANAF provincial command; Archdeacon Creggan, Dr. Tom Greenwood, presiding Mayor McLean Haig, Major Wells and the entire executive branch, and the guest speaker.

Chairman Drury introduced the guests also including Alderman Ross Wright, Mrs. Robert Tweedie, W. A. Argue, and Ubillies Commissioner Ralph Hall, who were present in the auditorium.

Proposing the toast to Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II, was given by Major Wells and the entire assembly rose to the national anthem.

Provincial command president Lundberg said in a brief address that all possible was being done for the benefit of pensioned and disabled veterans. He said $1,000 paid tribute to the branch's late president, James H. Fairfield. The splendid efforts he did along pension lines. He said the ANAF was extending to all parts of the world and was an active member of the World Federation of Ex-Servicemen. Lundberg said he had presented twelve Dutch veterans with wheel chairs.

COL. MacGREGOR REFLIES.

Responding to President Drury's toast to the Forces", Col. MacGregor said: "Many Canadian boys are proudly wearing the badge of Canada. If we had more boys like these, who are doing a real job, we would soon have the peaceful world which we hope and pray for."

Colonel Etter in a "prelude at remembrance" said he must remember more than to assemble. We must remember more than to assemble. We must remember to listen to ourselves the very objective which led to these gallant men to give their lives. Modern diplomacy, culture, and the morals of our day have failed to bring what we hoped to bring. Let us remember that as a nation, then by being righteous individuals we will be contributing civil and bring the peace we desire. The ideals fought for should make us put together the sacrifices made."

First to speak to congratulate the members of the Army, Navy and Air Force" was this progressive work that has been put into the effort to give the city this auditorium for the use of all branches. And in doing this there are those, who should be especially commended and I particularly refer to your late president, Jim Fairfield," Lundberg said. I had the pleasure of sitting in council with this fine comrade, and I can say that I found him to be a gracious, kindly man and a man who was very capable in city with respect to the handling of city business.

I know something of the amount of work and time that Mr. Lazenby and his staff have put in which you are meeting tonight. His, with many others, is a real unselfish, and a labor of love. If it is not too personal I would like to refer to Mr. Lazenby's son, Trooper O. J. Tice, who unfortunately through illness cannot be with you tonight. For many years he was the only living trustee and I am pleased that Canada he held that trust in high regard and he is very proud of his association with him in this organization.

"The members of council know that the Association will carry out their obligations with respect to their trusteeship and be a service for good in the community. I want to thank you for your continued success in the work of alleviating the sufferings of the children of those veterans and their dependents who unfortunately have died, and also made in two World Wars are unable to provide the proper attention for them."

LAST POST SOUNDED

Then as a solemn hush fell over the auditorium the bugle sounded the Last Post. A shining white cross in front of a black cenotaph draped in the flags of Canada. Hundred poppies added a colorful contrast.

The haunting notes of "Last Post" from the bugle of Jack Ireland softly as the "old and young sweals" paid further tribute to their fallen. There was a minutes silence then the sprightly bars of "Reveille" echoed in the auditorium. It was over.

Tribute to the members of the ladies' auxiliary of the branch who prepared and served the dinner was paid by Comrade Everett Mc Cole.

The evening was rounded out by entertainment offered by Jack Winstanley at the piano, Art Hobbs and Glen Burley and others.

60 Blue, Snow Geese Shot By Three Hunters

TRENTON (Special) — Three Trenton businessmen have recently returned from a unique hunting experience at the mouth of the Albany River, emptying into James Bay. They went to the land of the Canadian wild geese and brought back 60 blue and snow geese, averaging better than four pounds dressed.

Jack Lee, Vagn Lange and John Fetter, local car salesmen, drove to Cochrane where they boarded a Canso flying boat with 13 hunters from the United States.

They were landed at Camp Champlain at a point 100 miles north of Moosonee. The camp is located on an island, which is flooded in the spring.

While they were allowed by law to shoot five birds apiece a day, the Trenton party bagged their limit. A mounted police officer was on hand to enforce the game rules.

The Trenton men had high praise for their Cree Indian guides.

They were amazed at their bird calling achievements. They reported watching one of the Indians call a flock of geese into range of their guns and after the shoot and the birds stared to fly off call them back again for the hunters to get another shot at them.

The guides, they said, spoke very little English. All of them seemed to have a hobby of saving spent flashbulbs between every time one was discarded a Cree was quick to pick it up and run off with his prize.

One hunter in the Canadian U.S. party shot a two-pound bear, others knocked down ducks which changed the regular diet of copious servings of goose.

"CONFESSION" HEARD

LONDON (CP) — Business Man Eldred Beauchamp, 57, spent 314 years in a Hungarian jail for allegedly espionage, Beauchamp heard his "confession" on television news programs. He answered questions as he listened to the recording.

A MAJOR VICTORY IN KOREA

It is now accepted that the Communists have suffered a major psychological setback in the Korean prisoner war establishment. Approximately 96 per cent of all North Korean and Chinese Red prisoners in UN compounds have refused repatriation. In addition they have heaped scorn, abuse, both verbal and physical, upon Red "explanation" that the Communists are now seeking an effective way of concluding the prisoner interviews and ending the issue with what little dignity remains to them.

This is far more significant than would appear at first glance. The people of the western world can now begin to appreciate the hatred of the Soviet men, who have created something else—even a prison compound—when they are faced with return to the police-state dominion of Communism. The stream of refugees from the Soviet-dominated states of eastern Europe, the open defiance of Communism in the occupied zone of Germany, and the hatred of the Communist regimes imposed on satellite puppets, is clear enough indications that conditions are intolerable to at least a representative sample of Communists and Communist-dominated peoples.

But the Korean prisoners present an entirely different aspect of Communism.

They have resolutely refused to return to their own countries, preferring to live in the country of their enemies. Even defeated armies usually struggle home to their native land. Here is an example of men who have provided the basis of a hero's welcome, and reunion with families and friends, in their own country. That they refuse to do so speaks volumes for their appreciation of Communism as they have come to know it, and for the worth of a Communist's promise.

In this, where "face" is the last vestige of prestige a man can have, the defection of the Korean prisoners can be termed a major trouble for the Communists. The free nations have taken the psychological offensive at last.

The prisoners have also given the Indian delegates to the exchange a new estimate of the true nature of Communism. This may serve to awaken India to a fuller realization of the danger of Communism which threatens her from within and from without. With this realization Indian leaders will be in a better position to give them the assistance they require to avoid disaster, and with a new appreciation of their recently acquired freedom, be able to re-align India's role in international affairs. An alert, freedom-loving India can do much to halt the advance of Communism in Asia and reduce the likelihood of another war.

It is hard to imagine that the Communist hatred of the prisoners for Communists and Communism might be shared by the masses on the Chinese mainland. Such deep civilian hatred is exactly the climate in which a counter revolution could be expected to succeed if properly timed, skilfully led, and adequately supported. That the Communists are not too sure of their hold is evidenced by their unwillingness to continue the interviews on which they insisted only a few short weeks ago.

The Korean prisoners' decision is a United Nations victory that might ultimately achieve more success in Asia for the cause of freedom than any military victory on the Korean peninsula.

VICTORY FROM DEFEAT.

The best recent example of victory in defeat is the career of Winston Churchill and the British people from 1945 to 1950.

In 1945 Mr. Churchill's Conservative party was decisively defeated in Great Britain. At the time it seemed that public ingratitude had plumbed new depths in turning out of office the leader who quite likely was the only man who could have saved British liberty. Indeed, Mr. Churchill's defeat was apparently a mandate for socialism to undo the society that Churchill had so vigorously defended.

However, it is now apparent that the British people modified through in magnificent fashion again. For in the five years immediately following the defeat Mr. Churchill was able to lead his people from front line duty as Prime Minister that he needed in order to record the multitude of staggering events in which he played a leading role, into the position of opportunity to record these events from a singularly advantageous position when his memory of them was full and complete. That he made full use of his opportunities is shown in the small part in his winning the Nobel Prize for Literature.

But events of even greater significance transpired in those five years. For they were the years when Great Britain tried the great socialist experiment. Churchill and the Conservative party returned to power in 1950 in time to salvage the remnants from this philosophical scrap heap.

A wiser wording population finally sounded the death knell of British socialism at the polls during the 30's and 40's when in conclave on the Isle of Man this fall, they retreated from their previously held beliefs in economic nationalism. Their spokesman, Aneurin Bevan, world renowned cartoonist of the Manchester Guardian, and himself a Labor supporter all his life, depicted this event as, a "revision of Marxism." Whether, in fact, there is anything in British liberalism to retreat to is a matter for the Labor Party to decide, not Low. The significant fact is that the Labor Party has retreated from the front line trenches of socialism which it excavated with such pains in political campaigns for two decades.

Churchill's Winston's memoirs will serve as an inspirational document for generations. But the Labor Party's reading of the hand writing on the wall of socialism is just as liable to have profound effects for the world of the future.

Women's Views On Domination

(Smiths Falls Record-News)

Women love to be dominated. So declare the psychological experts on the subject continue to state. This is true to a certain extent, however. The dead float with the current, while women do enjoy being dominated by a man, especially if he is tall, dark, strong and handsome and has wavy hair, it is only on certain occasions. That is when the lady is in a romantic mood. When, at other times, women want their own way. But they do not want to be deprived of it by a dominating male. Always at a distance, then irritate the ladies.

Undoubtedly the men ever succeed in completely dominating a female. When a woman, employing the extremely feminine, devious technique, says to a man, "You know I love you so, darling, but I love it," it makes the fellow feel big, strong, and very manly. Of course, the woman is really softening him up to dominate him finally.

Children's View of Parents

(By E. J. KING)
In the Toronto Globe and Mail

Studies by Home and School and Parent-Teacher Associations can provide the schools with the facts and can reveal expert-ment carried out by one of these associations as well as useful.

It was decided to find out from the children themselves what they thought and felt about their parents and teachers, and to do this it was considered necessary to get them away from the parents, the teachers and even from their usual surroundings.

Two of the members volunteered to do this. They selected a representative group of boys and girls between the ages of five and 17, drawn from various districts and various walks of life.

The children were divided into groups according to age and served with refreshments in a room where a recording apparatus was installed. Then they were left to talk to each other and discuss freely what they thought of their parents and teachers; which things they disliked in anything and which they disliked in their parents. They were then left alone, the organizer only entering the room when the discussion flagged, or when they required to be guided to a new topic.

Later, the records obtained were played back at a meeting of the conference.

Naturally, the older children provided the clearest records. Here are a few samples of the views expressed by a group of boys aged 16 and 17.

One suggested, and the others heartily agreed, that parents seemingly thought that they could help a very young child to grow up — they helped him to learn to talk, to walk, to feed himself when he reached his teens they seemed to thank goodness that the end of the way of every attempt he made to become a man was to nag him about adult things.

Another boy said that although his father was middle-aged and could easily afford to buy a bicycle, he insisted that his son should earn the money for one. The boy claimed that was ridiculous. His father wanted him to be successful in his studies and if he was to do this he needed the time. The father said: "When my father was young his father was poor and he has no good reason for him to earn the money for his bike. But I'm living in a different generation, I'm preparing to live not as a poor man but as a rich man, and I must learn to buy man. Why then should Father want me to be prepared for these conditions and, ideas of bygone days?"

Scorning of the same idea may have been at the back of the complaint of another boy that his dad was always reminding him that when he was a boy he got only a few cents pocket money each week. That was good enough, he thought, for nothing to others about the rise in the cost of living; so he was expected to live on the same a week was no use for pocket money nowadays.

Teen-agers could hardly be expected to discuss parents' failings without touching on smoking. One boy admitted that his father was trying to subdue his smoking habit, because if he once formed the habit he would never be able to stop, while another agreed with him, as they did also with their fathers' drinking, commented at the inconsistency of fathers, who, while they tell their sons not to start smoking, talked freely to friends about their drinking. The conference and were quite often to be found searching the house for a stray cigarette.

The final pearl of wisdom from this group was almost staggering. One young hopeful said: "When I was young I thought everything my parents told me as literally true," and he thought this was a fine thing. "Now I'm older," he added, "I see that they have helped me to get a better education than either of them have had, I've learned many things they don't know anything about. Why, then, should they talk and act as if I knew no more than they do, and why do they expect me to continue to believe and think as they do?"

The boys talked freely about their teachers. In general they disliked sarcastic teachers. They recognized that sometimes they had lazy ones, and they disliked having to do extra work, but what they saw a nice man and clever. They all objected to favoritism but were inclined to be indifferent about the failing because so often the teacher's favorite was a girl they all liked, or he was a boy they knew worked hard and was good at his subject.

With regard to punishment, they objected to being punished, but they didn't respect the teacher who failed to punish. A word of warning to teachers came from the boy who thought that a teacher ought not to try to discipline by kindness alone, as pupils take note of this and will try it on.

Further points on which the boys were unanimous were that a teacher should be punctual: he should keep his word; he ought always to be ready to help a pupil who was having difficulties with his studies.

Assessing the results obtained, the members were struck by the characteristic — the complete self-assurance and confidence with which the boys spoke. They obviously hadn't the slightest doubt that their views on every other point of view than their own: they were accurate in a sense of the children's world.

The contribution of the younger children was considered much harder to assess, equally interesting and valuable.

Do you realize, mothers, that your little girls know all your recent purchases, all your "good" headgear, all your shoes, all your clothes? Do you realize that whatever you say or do is noted and remembered by them? It appeared that this sensitive child felt distorted by the seeming disloyalty evinced in criticizing their parents at all. In this connection it is of interest to note that the girls and younger children were very much concerned about their parents, whereas their complaints dealt more with their teachers were numerous and keenly felt.

Discussing teachers, one little girl said: "My teacher has a big desk and sometimes when I go to her She bangs it on the desk, and shouts at me." Another child complained that her little voice continually plaintively: "It makes me jump, it's scared."

An older girl objected to punishment in general as they were more severe than teachers and often unjust. There was a strong element for things that a teacher should have allowed to pass with a reprimand.

A small voice pleaded that its teacher should not be left in charge of the school. She didn't make it clear till there was a pause, "She's so cross from the heart . . . She's not a nice girl, I don't like her, I don't like her at all."

If parents of teen-agers feel slightly alarmed at the long catalogue of some of the opinions expressed, for their consolation here is a comment from an article written over 40 years ago by a parent in which he tells of his children's "What are we to do with children now? Really we have little to learn from our father. Modern children only tolerate parents as a necessary inconvenience, and with the most efficient providence to provide bread and butter, to say nothing of cakes and jam."

Children of every age present their parents and teachers with problems—and, in a bewildering way—for which the sure cure is growing up. All the parent requires is patience in large doses.

concerning bed wetting. They pooh-poohed it as a lazy habit. When we went for a pamphlet and she was completely cured in two months. That was a year ago, and now she is a happy 17 year old girl...

New Hampshire mother writes: My son, aged 11, still wets the bed. I have taken him to several doctors, and they all say there isn't anything wrong with him, that I just haven't trained him. Sometimes how hard I have tried . . . paid a certain company $75 for a course in baby-habit training, but it worked for only a few nights.

The "specialists" who dismissed the missouri mother with a couple of pooh, at $25 per pooh,—oh, well, that's the story a lot of us know.

The doctors who told the New Hampshire mother there is nothing wrong with the boy personally would not recognize a case of beri beri if the patient were not too close to bed.

I have no particular cure or remedy for bed-wetting children.

For the benefit of people who are not fit to have charge of children let me say here that it is wicked and cruel to punish a child or to belittle or shame a child for wetting the bed. The very thought of this makes me so mad—well the bed when I was a youngster, and one of the tenderest memories I have is of the love and patience of my parents in dealing with the problem.

A good many youths had to be treated for bed-wetting after induction into Army and Navy services in World War II. My private practice I found that very little encouragement and treatment enabled many boys to gain control of the bladder at last.

Says Flag Should Have Symbol of Motherland

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

In response to your editorial re Canada's flag. Question. The proximity of Remembrance Day emphasizes the place of "Mother" held by "Canada" in relation to the burial of our war dead.

The time may come when sign and symbol will pass away. The blood stream of the old world will, nevertheless, continue to circulate in the new world.

We name our streets, highways, towns and cities, our schools and parks after many of the old world places or persons. We use the name of the crown and the emblem of the crown in many institutions.

Because it has played a part in the old world where so many thousands of Canadians are buried is not sufficient cause to retire the old flag.

New Canadians proudly carried the Union Jack ahead of the Queen during her visit to Canada.

As a descendant of the Loyalists, I believe it baste that should continue to fly over Canada. It should contain the Union Jack or some popular symbol of our old motherland.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

This is the age of packaging. Everything we buy now is packaged. If we have to go out a suburban farmer's market now to buy a chicken in the raw. All others are nearly cooked, legs pegged, trussed up, in cellophane. Those with gray hair among us can clearly remember when only a few kinds of merchandise were packaged. Tea, sugar, coffee and spices were bought in bulk out of a barrel or tub. Today, even a hammer is sold packaged. Apples, shirts, books, cauliflower, brooms, ties, curtains, knives, pencil sharpeners, onions, stoves, pillow cases, shoes, all come packaged. The list of things you can get unpackaged grows smaller every day. We need the laundry away in bulk, and it comes back tastefully packaged. Even the local undertaker refuse to accept our soiled linen unless it is packaged.

Bigger things than merchandise are succumbing to the packaging craze. War is being packaged. Our governments all live in hot hope that they have put enough money in a package into a tidy atom bomb or two. Trade unions are packaged in agreements with industry. Salesmen of insurance, publishing, entertainment, advertising, offer packages.

Sin, of course. But the risk in that we may in due time become so accustomed to packaged sin that we won't feel inclined to accept anything that isn't handy.

Children of every age present their parents and teachers with problems—and, in a bewildering way—for which the sure cure is growing up. All the parent requires is patience in large doses.

And then we start accepting packaged babies. An unpackaged, unhandy idea, will repel us, the way a couple of days old fish, or a hunk of venison repel us when some fool friend brings it to us from the north, hands them in the front door.

The most valuable ideas are a little lumpy at first. They have to be rubbed and pummeled and hummed and washed at the sink. Carrots on sale somebody else has done all the washing and—peeping, and wrapped them up in cellophane. Apples are sold in bags. Let somebody else to hand us a bunch of unpackaged ideas, opinions and principles? How about us going out into the garden, or back forty, for a few ideas with the feathers on, now and then?

PRAYER ENERGY

In the same manner that God's eyes see the sparrow's fall, His ears hear the faintest prayer. Even though it's just a whisper! No energy once created and put this is what Alexis Carrel, the world famous scientist, has to say: "The universe is filled with energy one can generate is prayer. Prayer, like radium, is a luminous and self-generating source of energy."

That is why, after a secret retreat, people come out immediately filled with a new power in their lives and woman. It shows in their step, their countenance and voice. There is a certainty and a confidence that is not to be detected in those who never pray. Look at the portraits of Lincoln the evidence of prayer is written in the deep lines of his face. There are kindliness, strength, and humility in his features, all delineated. There is more wrought by prayer in this world than any of us ever suspected.

People who are ill, discouraged, and confused, with a little prayer and knowledge know how possible, after a period of prayer, it is, as the great scientist pointed out, a self-generating form of energy." We should long ourselves negative in our thoughts and uncertain in our faith, so long as we remain in touch with the source in the universe is so sure in its promise to put one on higher ground and over the hump.

There is something very certain in the fact that God is a reality to us and woman. It shows in their step, their countenance and voice. There is a certainty and a confidence that is not to be detected in those who never pray. Look at the portraits of Lincoln the evidence of prayer is written in the deep lines of his face. There are kindliness, strength, and humility in his features, all delineated. There is more wrought by prayer in this world than any of us ever suspected.

Compulsory Grading of Peas, Rotation of Tomato Graders Requested by Association

Resolutions calling for the compulsory grading of peas at all canners and the rotation of tomato graders were passed at the annual meeting of the Hastings County Vegetable Growers' Association held at Cashtown town hall Wednesday evening.

Members took the attitude that if canners wanted fancy quality peas, the farmers should be paid according to the quality of product produced.

The resolution regarding rotation of tomato graders was the result of strong criticism of 1953 grading with graders in some instances being accused of too close association with the canner. A good grader should grade according to the regulations without interference either by the canner or grower, it was pointed out.

Dwight C. Reynolds, Picton, chairman of the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Board, referred to the 1953 season as the most troublesome for tomatoes in his memory. This had been caused through extremely hot weather conditions affecting the quality of tomatoes and complaints regarding grading.

SHOULD PLAN ACREAGE

Noting that the law of supply and demand had a great deal to do with the season's difficulties, Mr. Reynolds urged that tomato acreage should be planned according to the expected demand for the canned product. Any such planning of acreage should be done on a voluntary basis.

Mr. Reynolds thought that the rejection clause of 50 per cent. firsts, 40 per cent seconds and 10 per cent culls should be modified, and also declared that graders should be moved once a week and central grading stations set up.

"This is a must," he said, noting that growers should have more say in the hiring of graders."

Setting up of a national committee to study the canning industry, taking into consideration such aspects as markets, production, imports and exports, was suggested.

Quebec farmers should be unionized to prevent cheap products from upsetting the Ontario market.

ONLY SMALL PERCENTAGE

An educational program should be instituted acquainting the consumer public of the small percentage of the canned goods not represented by the raw products in the can. Price paid to the farmer for raw products represented only a small percentage of the cost of canned goods.

Mr. Reynolds stressed the importance of all tomato acreage being contracted, claiming there should be no "free" acreage for which the canner could pay off the farmer at a price below the minimum set by the marketing board. He said he knew of one factory whose entire pack had been from "free" acreage.

He urged growers in Eastern Ontario to take more interest in experimental work; developing new varieties of tomatoes. Varieties such as the Garden State were able to withstand weather conditions better.

Following last year's troublesome season, Mr. Reynolds said there was never a time when grower support would be needed as much as next year. "Only through co-operation of the growers can we make the marketing board's success," he concluded.

Percy Van Black, county representative for Hastings and Prince Edward, reviewed activities of the past year, noting that peas was the most important canning crop in Hastings. The county stood second in Ontario in peas, he noted. He paid tribute to Thomas Kielty, of Thomasburg, for his work in making a success of the pumpkin vote last spring. As result of the vote growers had received a higher price for pumpkin.

NO SPECIFIC CASES

He noted there had been many complaints of irregularities in grading but he refrained from mentioning specific cases because of the difficulty of securing proof.

He intimated that because of the big supply of tomatoes the 50-40-10 rejection clause had been used by canners as an excuse to send tomatoes home.

He said there was a promise of graders being rotated next year, also that there would be central grading stations set up.

He felt that color charts would be a big aid to graders.

Mr. A. L. Butler, research man from the Vineland Experimental Station, told what was being done in the department and referred to the necessity of good grower-canner relations.

He thought that entry of some canners into the growing field may prove of benefit as the canners then would learn by experience the cost of growing tomatoes. Also experiments in new varieties and fertilizer would prove a benefit to the grower.

Roscoe Robson, M.L.A., for Hastings East, also spoke briefly. He said there was no justification for the talk about possible lower prices for tomatoes next year. "The trend is for higher prices," he said.

Mr. Robson favored grading of all canned crops, especially peas. "Then the farmer would get paid for quality," he said.

Bruce Martin, of Corbyville, was re-elected for his sixth term as president. Vice-president Thos. Kielty and secretary - treasurer Clayton Ritz were also returned to office.

Township directors are: Sidney, Everett Hubbs and Alvin Hart; Thurlow, Frank Hodgens and Duke Wallbridge; Tyendinaga, Wm. Fox and H. Powers; Hungerford, Gordon Countryman; Huntingdon, Beverley Foster.

The county association has a membership of 680 growers, it was stated.

INSTRUMENTS DAMAGED

ROCKLAND (CP) — The National Research Council lost $1,000 worth of instruments late Wednesday when the car in which they were packed was in collision with another. The fragile instruments, recently imported from Europe, were shattered.

A Belleville minister who became a construction man to help finance his congregation's new church has seen completion of the building. He is Rev. A. T. Kilis, pastor at The First Pentecostal Church on North Front street, who not only helped to build his own church but when funds ran low built 12 houses and three garages to help finance it. His congregation co-operated to the extent that 75 per cent volunteer labor went into the church so that the building which has an estimated contract value of over $70,000 cost less than $30,000.

Indians Prepare Screening Plans If Interviews End

PANMUNJOM (AP) — The Indian command worked today on detailed plans for screening Chinese and Korean war prisoners if the Communists abandon efforts to woo them home.

Red interviews with the prisoners who have refused repatriation were cancelled for the eighth straight day when the Communists repeated their demand to see 358 PoWs who were skipped by stalling persuaders last Thursday.

Official quarters said the Red move appeared to be merely a manoeuvre while the Communist high command decided whether to go along with new rules for running the interviews or torpedo the explanation program.

Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the neutral nations repatriation commission, has told the Reds to interview entire compounds of 500 men each in a day or skip those who are not interviewed.

In Chinese in compound C-22, called out last Thursday, to wait while Communist explainers interviewed only 126, have refused to come out again.

The Swiss member of the repatriation commission has threatened to walk out if force is used on the prisoners.

Meanwhile, diplomatic staff advisers today held their sixth closed-door session in an effort to draw up an agenda for talks to arrange a Korean peace conference.

Queen Victoria H-S Assoc. Hears Fine Talk 'Safety for All'

Queen Victoria Home and School Association held its November meeting on Monday evening. The president, Mrs. O'Neill, conducted a short business session with reports being given by the various convenors.

Following the business portion, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Seaver, program convenor for the month, who introduced the Quintones, Alf Evans, Dick Pershing, Dallon Kaye and John Todds, members of the local chapter of the S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A.

The quartet sang a medley of old favorite which were well received that an encore was called for.

"SAFETY FOR ALL".

Mr. Seaver introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. White, safety officer of the east central region of the Hydro, Mr. White spoke on the "Safety For All". He stated that in industry 85 per cent of all accidents are due to the human factors—the remaining 15 per cent to faulty equipment. He stressed the importance of safety in thinking. "If we think safety, we will act safely." He also pointed out the importance of teaching children safety in all its phases thereby coupling them for safety thinking in late years.

Mr. White's extremely important subject, ably presented by Mr. White, was well received by the listeners.

Mr. Correll tendered thanks to the speaker on behalf of the entire group.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Tremaine and her committee and during the coffee time, a film on safety was shown.

The "Stevenson Tea" was convened by Mrs. J. Dyble with Mrs. Powell, Mrs. Colden and Mrs. Murray assisting.

The kindergarten grade mothers, Mrs. Arthurs, Mrs. Kerr, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Little acted as hostesses.

Baha'i Group Observes Birthday Of Founder

The anniversary of the birthday of the founder of the Baha'i World Faith, Baha'ullah, "The Glory of God," was jointly observed by the Kingston and Belleville Assemblies of the Baha'i Faith at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roger White, after sundown Wednesday (November 5 being the day commencing at sunset).

The dinner, attractively decorated with sprays of yellow mums and roses, the Baha'is gathered to enjoy a devotional program arranged by Margaret Munro, Miss Gordon and R. P. Crawford which included readings from the sacred writings of Baha'ullah, prayers, some human interest stories of Baha'ullah recorded by the renowned Persian historian, Nabil in his narrative "The Dawnbreakers," and the reading of the poem "Recognition" by George Sandys, who was then rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral of Dublin and a member of the Baha'i Faith community, and chosen excerpts of letters from Shoghi Effendi, Guardian of the Baha'i Faith in other countries.

The club commemoration of the spiritual portion of the program, the Baha'is partook of a delicious dinner and cut and celebrated the birthdays of three members of the community, Mrs. Dyble, Mrs. Gordon, Mr. Douglas Wilson and Miss Rita Sandys, who were presented with gifts by their friends. A beautiful commemoration cake, presented by the Baha'is of Belleville, was served with coffee, and each person present received a gift souvenir program embossed with a picture of Haifa.

A visiting Baha'i from the Forest Hill Village community, Mrs. Mildred Fullerton, was present for the commemoration and extended greetings on behalf of the Baha'is of Toronto and Forest Hill Village.

Mr. Ted Blencoe of the Kingston Baha'i community expressed his group's gratitude to Belleville for an evening of fellowship.

St. Andrew's Women's Guild Bazaar, Tea, Colorful, Attractive

Bleak skies and chilling breezes without, but within glowing autumn colors, cheer and warmth greeted the many persons, friends and strangers who found their way to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Guild bazaar yesterday afternoon to be most cordially greeted by the receptionists, Mrs. J. G. Hornsby, and Mrs. A. D. MacLean, president of the Guild.

Every where the eye turned pretty colors of bronze, green, gold and orange met the eye, whether in the sprays of bittersweet which hung above the miscellaneous booths centred by bronze oak leaves, or in the graceful garlands of green and gold which decorated the several booths of candy, apron, white elephant, novelty, or homecooking.

VARIETY OF ARTICLES

The miscellaneous booth, convened by Mrs. D. D. Fleming, assisted by Mrs. Green and others had a splendid variety of nice articles including snowy white pillow slips, with crocheted lace edging and prettily embroidered with purplish red clover blossom; many little, medium and large mitts, some with fancy figures interwoven, one of Pinocchio, and another with a smiling clown, background white, yellow, green, brown and white and blue, respectively; men's mitts in heavy yarn sere-colored like rumner and matching place mats, hand-crocheted baby bonnets, knit wash cloths, knit bonnets, knitting bags, tea cosy in black and orange, yellow and pinkaleeves, work-boxes in the shape of chairs, crocheted dollies, hanging flower pots with crocheted holder, baby bibs, little pink knit sweater, black crocheted purse, a Peter rabbit in blue with pink ears, and pretty handkerchiefs with knitted edges in several shades.

On the candy table were little cups nicely decorated and boxes of maple cream, Turkish delight, fudge, popcorn balls done up in white frilly paper, and many other attractive packages all so tempting. Mrs. A. Bell was the convener here, assisted by Mrs. J. Alexander, Mrs. A. Cole, Mrs. L. Harvey and Mrs. A. Kidd.

APRON FLOWER GARDEN

The apron table with its garland of yellow was like a flower garden with the many aprons on display. Each one so pretty it was hard to make a decision. Some were all over, and others the half-apron type made from printed materials, in shades of yellow, rose, pink, blue, while others were combined colors of pink and green, yellow and mauve, and red with black and white check, these in particular having attached polka-dotters. Others were all dark wine color looking so like Yuletide gifts. In charge of these were Mrs. R. Beament assisted by Mrs. H. Beament, Mrs. K. Chambers, Mrs. W. Mackner, Mrs. E. McCreary and Mrs. Hedges.

The white elephant table always has a "come hither" look; there are so many oddments which draw the curious, and this table was no exception, for here were warrings, sparkling in shapes round, square and some in rose colored stones; a "wild goose in flight with a ring of aqua stones around her long, outstretched neck; the little pretty pig which didn't get to market, or perhaps this was "it"; rhinestone necklaces; salt and peppers, big and generous looking, the sort of kind that aren't empty when especially needed; strings of white beads; a green plastic purse; a rood chopper so handy for making almond paste for that delicious Christmas cake; an egg beater in plastic; a black suede purse; and then to add more beauty were the plants, begonias with pink blossoms; colorful foliages; African violets and red edged wandering Jew. Convening this were Mrs. J. Weir and the C.G.I.T. girls.

NOVELTY TABLE

Another interesting table was that of the novelties, convened by Mrs. W. Broomfield with Mrs. J. Conover, Mrs. D. Shear, assisted by members of Mrs. Williams' group. Here were felt cushions in sunflower shape; lovely Christmas table centres glistening in all their snow and glitter; sheep; muffin warmers; mitts and hoods and baby sacques; doll ornaments for each space used, pretty handkerchiefs; sniffed elephants; felt tea cosies with daintily colored pastel flowers appliqued; Stewart plaid handkerchiefs for the land of the heather; bottles of hand lotion, and crimson colored satin bows for pretty scenes. Near to this was the parcel post portion where oolong, squash, carrot, and long parcels containing a surprise were forwarded at 25 cents each.

The homecooking table, convened by Mrs. Sherry and her numerous assistants was replete with many good things, including pies of different varieties; buns; tiny cookies, delightfully good; delicious muffins; puffy tarts; delicious cup cakes; layer cakes in chocolate and others in white with delectable icings; and jellies and relishes; tea biscuits, and date squares.

ATTRACTIVE TEA ROOM.

The tea room, situated in the assembly-room, was most attractively decorated with autumn flowers, bittersweet and pumpkins which filled each window ledge; charming waitresses with dark oak leaves in shades of gold, silver, and orange adorned either end of the room. Seven branched candelabra with white tapers added their graceful touch as well. The tea tables, one at one end of the room, and three down the other, were pleasingly appointed with pretty lace cloths, centred with a lovely arrangement of golden yellow and bronze mums interspersed with tall spikes of barley and oak leaves, and flanked by tall pale yellow tapers. Silver services added their gleaming sparkling.

In the quadrangle formed by tables of green and yellow, and round about the tall pillars with their pendental ruchings of green, red, white and yellow, were the little guest tables each covered with dainty cloths.

LOVELY DOLL HOUSE

Something decidedly out of the ordinary was the early American style doll house, made by Mrs. M. Alderson, with every article of furniture handmade, including a tall grandfather clock which adorned the grey and mauve sitting room with its handmade, including a tall grandfather clock which adorned the grey and mauve sitting room hall. Every one of the five rooms, kitchen, bedrooms, bathroom, living room, dinette and kitchen were furnished most appropriately. A

The November meeting of the Belleville sub-division of the Catholic Women's League of Canada, was held Monday evening at K. of C. Hall with Mrs. J. E. Logan presiding. In the absence of Miss Gladys MacDonald, recording-secretary, Mrs. R. J. Bayley, 1st vice-president, read the minutes and reported a paid-up membership of 495 with 67 new members for 1952.

Mrs. J. C. Baker mentioned the masquerade party for St. Michael's Cubs and Boy Scouts sponsored by the Auxiliary.

Mrs. A. Wilkinson gave a detailed financial statement while Mrs. A. McFee read the correspondence. Thirty-nine visits on Catholic patients were made by hospital visitor last month. Mrs. F. Hudson will visit during November.

Miss Alice Doyle, Red Cross convener, reported on the knitting and sewing being done by the league members.

Mrs. J. D. McKenzie, study club convener, read a paper regarding vocations and woman's place in the home and community. Mrs. Logan reminded the meeting of the euchre party held each Thursday afternoon. Mrs. J. Doyle, convener of forthcoming bazaar advised all plans were finalized and asked the members to turn in their tickets on Bonds at once, and send all donations to St. Michael's Academy on Tuesday forenoon next.

The bridge and euchre held recently at the K. of C. was most enjoyable and the president thanked all those who worked to make it a success.

Following adjournment of meeting a short address was heard from Mr. William Argue, chairman of the hospital Commission on city council, and from Mr. Robert Fraser, city traffic. A question period followed which was lively and interesting. The speaker was introduced by the president, Mrs. Logan.

Reverend Father Murphy was in attendance.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. D. McKenzie and her committees.

Emem's 1953 Christmas Fruit Cake

By Mary Moore

The best cooking time of the year is Christmas cake time, which is early in our kitchen.

But not early enough for some of you. I have dozens of your letters on my desk asking for my 1953 Christmas cake recipe. One girl wrote in August for it.

My family loves the sampling session. They act like starved savages. Sometimes I wish I would just make my own decisions, but happily this year everybody decided on the cake I was going to give you the recipe for anyway.

Here it is folks,—full of flavor and big nut chunks and whole cherries and all the luscious ingredients Canadian grocery stores offer.

Proceed with respect for any fruit cake worth the work, call for expensive ingredients—so watch your oven. Don't wander off to the neighbors during the last baking hour. When this is in the oven temporarily you are a cake-sitter.

EMEM'S 1953 CHRISTMAS FRUIT CAKE

(Medium dark)

(Note: This cake weighs a little over 10 lbs. There is no reason why, if you want a smaller cake, you may not cut the recipe in half.)

(Note 2: The ingredients cost about $5.30 using butter; about $4.15 using margarine. Result: finest quality Fruit cake at a little over 50 cents per lb.)

Cream 1-½ lb. butter or margarine very well in very large container—I used a white enamel dishpan. Cream into it 2 cups each white sugar and brown sugar. When this is perfectly smooth add ten unbeaten eggs and beat them in until smooth, then add the contents very well-drained of 1 20-oz tin finest quality crushed pineapple and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Into another very large container sift 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon mixed and 1-2 teaspoon each cinnamon and baking soda. Add to this sifted flour mixture the fruit and nuts: 1 lb. broken but not chopped walnuts, 1-3 lb. each whole red candied cherries, whole green candied cherries, chopped citron peel, mixed orange and lemon peel, currants; 2 lb. seedless light Sultana raisins, 1 lb. seeded dark Muscatel raisins. Mix the flour mixture well into these fruits and nuts to thoroughly coat them. Add them to the sugar-butter-egg mixture. Also add 1-4 cup of the pineapple juice drained from the crushed pineapple. Stir to mix all thoroughly. You should enlist the help of the male members of the family for this for it is hard work. This may be baked in any shape or size of pans including tube pans, but they must be lined with double thickness of new brown paper, pan being greased before paper is put in and paper being buttered. Then line pan with 4 thicknesses of wax paper and butter it. Fill pans to 3-3 or 3-4 full, smoothing top of batter and pushing it close to sides. Put waterpan in oven with 1-2 inch hot water in. Waterpan should be as big as bottom areas of cakes but not so big it prevents hot air from circulating around sides of oven. Bake at 275 deg. Fahr.—no hotter. My cake was in one very large pan and required 4 1-2 hours. If this cake is baked in 3 pans it will require about 3 to 3 1-2 hours. If there is one small cake in your batch it might take in 3 1-2 hours so keep an eye on it. Don't overbake your cakes—this only serves to caramelize the sugar in the cake and dries out the flavor. Bitter taste. Cake is baked when it is firm to the touch at the very center. Replenish water in pan as necessary.

I will give you almond pastes and icings later on.

Cool the cakes in the pans, then remove from pans, but do not peel off papers. Let stand on cake racks until cold, then wrap in wax paper, and heavy towels and store in covered containers in cool place.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. REECKMAN

BRIDE'S GRANDMOTHER DESERVES HONOR

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

My husband and I have raised a grandchild of ours since she was five weeks old, when our daughter passed away. She is now twenty years old. My husband and I have had no financial help whatever from her father in the upbringing of our granddaughter, his daughter, and although we have most gladly spent our money on her upbringing, it has meant that we have not been able to save for our now-retired years.

Our granddaughter is now planning to be married, and the big problem is who is to give her in marriage. Her father has re-married, lives in a nearby town, and never remembers her except on holidays. I know she would like to have her father give her in marriage, but I also know that my husband will be deeply offended if he isn't asked.

We are paying all the expenses for the wedding but are of course inviting her father and his wife. (don't you think my husband (her grandfather) should have the honor of giving her in marriage?

M.M.V.

In most cases I think the bride-to-be should, if possible, be given in marriage by her father. But in this case I agree with you that your husband should be given the honor of giving the bride in marriage. Her grandfather all her life has been more like a father to her than her own father, has supported her, sacrificed for her, is now going to pay all the wedding expenses, while her own father has paid practically no attention to her, has not at all contributed to her support, has allowed others to make the sacrifices he should have made, or at least, shared.

If I were that girl I would insist on showing my deep and abiding gratitude to that good and kind grandfather by giving him the honor he so richly deserves, she should be ashamed not to give her grandfather this good-and-right tribute. You, who have been such a good mother to this girl, should be her mother's representative at the wedding . . should be seated just before the processional begins, and when your husband has given the bride in marriage, he joins you in the first pew on the left of the aisle. You are the hostess of the wedding, your husband is the host.

CONCERNING ATTENDANT'S SHOES, HAT, GLOVES

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

I am going to be maid of honor soon at my friend's wedding. We are both going to wear formal-length-length dresses, lace white, mine yellow. What color shoes should I wear? Should I wear a hat? Gloves?

E.

The bride-to-be is the one who must take these decisions. She may want to have your shoes dyed to match the color of your dress, or she may want you to wear shoes of a contrasting color; shoes of a rich brown or cafe au lait shade are often worn with a yellow dress. You should wear a hat or other headdress, to be chosen by the bride-to-be . . often the hat or headdress and the shoes age of the same color, as accents to the color of the dress.

It isn't necessary for you to wear gloves or the bride-to-be might like to have you wear today's favorite for bridal attendants, the smart, short, wrist-length white gloves.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A NURSE GIVES HER VIEWS ON THE SICK AND COMPLAINING MOTHER-IN-LAW.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Referring to your article regarding the problem of the daughter-in-law who has a very sick as well as very unreasonable mother-in-law, I am without any doubt in sympathy with the daughters-in-law. It would seem to me that both these wives have really gone overboard to alleviate a situation that arises from the beginning had great difficulties, and also that this particular mother-in-law has been too much pampered by her, indulgent son.

In my opinion, a nursing home would be ideal for this woman. I grant she would not get individual attention 24 hours a day to pamper her whims, but she would get all the care necessary, and be taught now to live with others who are sick like herself. Perhaps then she would begin to realize that sick people must help themselves, if they are going to find any comfort at all.

I have been a nurse in several nursing homes, and I have seen some patients like this woman who due to their demands for attention, because of first rank, had to be bedding on senile conditions, but after three weeks became our loveliest patients. Too much home indulgence, with unnecessary attention, creates a very unwanted human being. This woman's sons are to blame for submitting to her demands, and they should have sense enough to see that a nursing home is the only answer in her particular case.

I.M.

Dear I.M.:

Thank you for your professional views on the unhappy family situation which you saw described in a recent column of mine and which has resulted in much pro and con comment from readers.

I hope that the members of the family in question will note what you say, as a woman of experience in the nursing field, have to say about this case, and that it will help them to take a realistic attitude toward their problem. I hope, too, that they will come to realize that the interests of everyone in their several families should be considered as well as the interests of this one aged, sick and complaining woman, and that their final decision as to what is best to do will be based on "the greatest good for the greatest number."

Quarter Century Since Vestris Sank in Atlantic

By MARTIN POST

NEW YORK (AP)—The 10th of November, 1928, was a fine clear day in Hoboken, N. J., as 328 men, women and children—129 passengers and 199 crew—went aboard the British liner Vestris, leaving for South America.

The 10,494-ton ship, Capt. William J. Carey, stood out to sea, creaking hardly a ripple in the passing scene. Some said later they could not see her plimsoll mark as she went by. Others remembered she may have had a slight list.

Two days later—25 years ago today—the liner went down in a storm, taking 111 of her passengers and crew to their deaths.

CLEARED—BUT NOT SAFE

The Vestris had clearance from the U. S. steamboat inspection service, which found her fire-fighting and life-saving equipment in order, and from Lloyd's surveyors, who found hull and equipment generally in good shape. But months later, after extensive inquiry, a court of the British Board of Trade said the Vestris was not in safe condition when she left Hoboken. It said overloading was the chief fault.

Yet no one ever successfully challenged in a United States court the contention of the owners, the Liverpool, Brazil and River Plate Steamship Co. Ltd., and the operators, Lamport and Holt, that the disaster of sea was an act of God, brought on by a lashing hurricane.

Eight years later an American judge declared lawsuits that reached a peak of $5,000,000 were settled, Claimants received £110,000, the equivalent in those days of around $200,000.

SHIP LISTED BADLY

The Vestris ran into freshening weather early Sunday, Nov. 11. The ship began listing three to five degrees to starboard. Slowly the ship began to take on water, the list became more pronounced and the weather grew worse.

At noon Sunday, some 240 miles off the Virginia capes, with the Vestris steering wildly, Carey bore to in a trough of the sea and ordered engines stopped. Water poured into the vessel. Pumps strained ineffectively; even a bucket brigade was tried.

Two heavy seas hit the Vestris a one-two punch Sunday night. Twelve tons of motor cars broke loose and crashed into the seamen's quarters.

At 8:37 a. m., Nov. 12, Carey ordered his chief wireless man to send a "CQ" signal, an alert. Seventy-five minutes later he flashed an SOS.

BULKHEAD KNOCKS

At 11:30 a. m. a watertight bulkhead between the engine room and stokehold gave way, did the flight to stay afloat was all but over.

There was a mad rush toward the within 15 feet of the web...; the screaming mothers and bewildered, sobbing children were placed in them.

But something went wrong. One lifeboat never got loose and went down with the ship. One was cut free, but capsized. Another got clear but was swamped.

At 1:40 p. m. the wireless man transmitted a "Goodbye." He was not among the survivors.

Other lifeboats and a raft got free of the sinking ship. Male passengers and crew swarmed over the side into waves which sometimes towered 100 feet.

Fourteen hours later rescuers picked up eight boats. A man and a woman were found clinging to debris 18 hours after they left the Vestris.

CAPTAIN, CREW ABSOLVED

The captain was not a survivor. Mrs. Alcock, and without a lifebelt, Carey had walked down the side of his ship into the sea, ending his career of 40-odd years.

The Board of Trade absolved Carey and his officers of any wrongdoing.

Today, a quarter century later, Vestris survivors are hard to find. One is Alfred Duncan of Liverpool, England, who at the age of 27 was a second steward. Says Duncan, now a chief steward:

"I've had a few sinkings since then—that one has gone right out of my mind."

Leg Fractured, Man Is Pinned Between 2 Cars

MARMORA. — Archie Jones, elderly resident met with a painful accident on Saturday afternoon during the progress of the procession. He resides at the northern end of the village and was walking towards the business section about 12.30 p.m. A passing car driven by F. Drummond stopped to pick him up. As he passed round the rear to enter the car on the other side, a car driven by Patrick Shannon which was slowly travelling behind skidded on the icy pavement after brakes were applied, and pinned the pedestrian between its front bumper and the rear bumper of the hailed car. Mr. Jones was taken to the office of Dr. H. G. Parkin and found to have sustained a compound fracture of the left leg below the knee. He was later conveyed by ambulance to Belleville, General Hospital.

The accident was investigated by Chief Constable Gordon Caldwell.

"Custom-made" Coffee Now Breakfast Vogue

Marvellous 100% Real Coffee Made "Strong, Medium or Mild" Right in the Cup

As breakfast you could always get your toast light or dark—your bacon medium or well-done—your eggs 2, 3 or 4-minute boiled. But your coffee? Well, you just got coffee!

The coffee might be too strong for you—it tasted bitter. Or too mild for you—it tasted weak. But if you were in the minority—too bad! After all, one pot of coffee can't satisfy everybody's taste.

But then came the revolution—the "Coffee Revolution"! Now the most forgotten "little man" can get just the cup of coffee he likes! Seriously, though, it's the woman who make the coffee who benefits on the revolution! It was they who discovered the wonderful new Instant Chase & Sanborn, and started serving it for breakfast.

First of all, here's 100% real coffee that really tastes like it. Chase & Sanborn scientists saw to that! They took on the job of producing an "instant" coffee that Chase & Sanborn's 100-year-old reputation. They never relaxed till they had succeeded in extracting from the finest coffee beans the color and texture—the rich robust flavor and aroma of freshly ground coffee.

Next, housewives decided that this definitely superior "instant" plainly belongs wherever and wherever coffee is served. And then, everybody caught on to the other important benefit. Cups of Instant Chase & Sanborn can be "custom-made" to each person's taste. Goodbye to the old one-pot headache!

THIS REALLY IS MY COFFEE!

New Instant Chase & Sanborn is 100% real coffee—and tastes like it. Rousing, rich-flavored coffee—ready with its magical lift the moment you add the hot water.

It's your kind of coffee—made by people with nearly 100 years of coffee experience.

One sip and you'll agree—it's so good you'll make it your regular coffee!

Farewell to Grounds

For the housewife Instant Chase & Sanborn means the end of that dreadful after-meal chore of scouring a stained coffee pot and disposing of coffee grounds. Here is the modern, dainty, trouble-free way of serving fine coffee.

Budgeteers are excited about the savings on Instant Chase & Sanborn too. The regular size jar makes about the same number of cups as a pound of regular ground coffee. It costs up to 40¢ less than a pound of regular coffee.

Now!...the Flavor and Aroma of Freshly Ground Coffee Instantly!

STIRLING

Bylaw for $15,000 Repair Bill Gets Third Reading

STIRLING — The third and final reading was given By-law No. 880 to borrow $15,000 for the repairs to the Sidney High School by the village council at its regular monthly meeting.

Reeve R. K. West presided and Councillors H. Philp, R. G. Ballor and C. A. Wells were in attendance.

Fred Hoochin, president of the Stirling Legion, waited upon council asking that Remembrance Day be proclaimed a public holiday in Stirling. His request was granted.

The withdrawal of one appeal against the village assessment for 1954, made it unnecessary for the court of revision to sit.

RECEIPTS

Clerk-treasurer Mallory reported the receipt of $760.80 from the County of Hastings in payment of the 25 per cent subsidy towards the expenditure on the village streets.

He also stated he had received $91.87 from the Central Mortgage Company in lieu of taxes on two houses on the Marmora Rd.

The matter of stock piling sand for the sanding of streets during the coming winter was discussed and on motion of Councillors Wells and Philp, it was decided to stock 15 yards of sand for winter use.

Several accounts were presented for payment.

Polio Virus Is Isolated And Identified

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — First "definite" isolation and identification of the infantile paralysis virus was reported by a University of California scientist who said the development "is expected to speed up the fight against polio."

Dr. Wendell Stanley said it paves the way for chemical analysis of the structure of the germ, and thereby might conceivably lead to improved polio vaccines and possibly even to the ultimate development of a chemical weapon to treat the disease. The research is supported by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

FIRST PHOTOS OF VIRUS

Stanley said two of his colleagues at the university's virus laboratory at Berkeley have obtained "the first photographs definitely identifying the poliomyelitis virus" and have established with certainty that it is a spherically-shaped germ about a millionth of an inch in diameter.

He added that the scientists were the first to distinguish—with experimental certainty — between virus particles and impurities accompanying them in preparations known to contain polio germs.

Stanley made the announcement of the virus identification at the autumn meeting of the National Academy of Sciences-Research at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

WILL SPEED FIGHT

He told the scientists that virus of "unusual purity" has been isolated—in small quantities so far —by means of special purification techniques. And he told a reporter:

"The new knowledge is expected to speed up the fight against polio, primarily by providing more definite facts about the virus."

Unmarried Mother Gives Detailed Account of Stabbing

LORRAINE, Ont. (CP)—Louise Capello, 19-year-old unmarried mother, today gave a hushed courtroom a detailed account of the death of Antonio Lalande, stabbed to death last May, she said, by Joseph George Lahaie, the father of her two-month-old son.

The Ottawa girl testified for the crown at the trial for murder of the 30-year-old Lahaie who sobbed in the prisoner's box after Miss Capello said he slugged the sleeping Lalande with a bottle then stabbed him with a kitchen knife.

TOOK VICTIM'S SW

She said she fled with Lahaie to Lalande's panel truck in the early hours of May 6. She said she carried with her from Lalande's house, where she and Lahaie had been living for several weeks, the knife which Lahaie told her he took from Lalande's pocket.

Speaking rapidly and clearly, the girl kept her eyes fixed on Lahaie who stared back at her in the crowded courtroom.

She said Lahaie and she went to bed together May 5. She was awakened by screams about 2:30 a. m. She found Lahaie leaning over Lalande in a bedroom across the hall. He had a bottle and knife in his hand.

"Mr. Lalande was lying on his back on the bed and he was all covered with blood.

SHIRT FULL OF BLOOD

"When I saw what had happened I grabbed George by the waist and tried to pull him away. He pushed me off and told me to get out of the road. . . .

"George came into our room and his shirt was full of blood. He had some money in his hand and he told me to take it.

She obtained some of Lalande's shirts, his shoes and a pair of pants for Lahaie to wear, she said. She said Lahaie told her during their flight to Ottawa from Bourget, Ont., in Lalande's truck that he "was tired of seeing me that way, I had been pregnant for a couple of months and he said he wanted the money for the baby."

TELLS OF ATTACK

"He told me he had gone into Mr. Lalande's room and that he had hit Mr. Lalande over the head with a bottle."

She said Lahaie told her Lalande grabbed his assailant by the throat.

"That was when George stuck the knife into him . . . I asked George whether I could call a doctor for Mr. Lalande but George said to me, 'No, there is no use. He is dead. There is nothing we can do for him now.'"

Miss Capello said she and Lahaie spent 18 days wandering around, sleeping in a tourist home, under verandahs and under a bridge until Lahaie decided to surrender to police. The body was discovered May 18, the day Lahaie decided to surrender.

AWARDED $200 DAMAGES

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A 54-year-old bicyclist who was struck by a truck early this year Tuesday was awarded damages of $200. He was seeking more than $1,000. John Fra Rogers, of Niagara Falls, Ont., was struck by a truck driven by Albert Price. While Price was found negligent the jury assessed Rogers' damages at $200. Judge Ian MacNaf reserved decision on disposition of costs.

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The government said Tuesday that an Argentine purchasing commission will leave for Moscow before the end of November to buy oil drilling and farm equipment. The purchases come under the recently-signed Argentine-Soviet trade agreement calling for exchange of goods valued at $150,000,000. Argentina has already started shipping meat, butter and linseed oil to Russia.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was shaking her head sad to herself, saying to pop, My William, the things that happen all around us, practically on our own doorstep, and we're helpless as the fish in the helpless ocean.

Cheer up, my dear, the day is almost over, and yesterday can't come back, pop said, ma ma said, Maud Hovy's sister just went to the hospittle for her 2nd operation, the poor thing, and it seems surgery is the most expensive kind of labor there is and the operation is going to take all the money she was planning to redecborate her home with.

Well, at least she'll have plenty to talk about for a while, pop said, and ma said, And then the case of Mary Henning's careless cleaning woman. She's forever rocking something over and breaking it, and low and behold last week she knocked herself over in Mary's bathroom and broke her ankle, and now Mary's husband is waiting in fear and trembling to be sued for damages. And the Stickways have just learned that the fire in their garage wasn't covered by insurance, and to make them feel still worse, their little dog is lost, ma said.

If it's a nice day Sunday we'll take in a cupple of funerals, pop said, We can pick names out of the paper at random, he said, and ma said, William Potts, that's the most depressing remark I ever heard. Now just for that I'm going to make you take me to a nice entertaining movie, she said.

It's a woman's world, let's go, pop said, and ma looked at the movie page in the paper and picked out one called A Woman Alone.

First German Base

The RCAF's 2nd Fighter Wing is located at Zweibruecken — first German base of RCAF, history. Hull, without coat in Canada, suggests a well planned town more than a service base, Ont. (CP from National Defence).

No RCAF Station in Canada Can Compare With Reich Base

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ZWEIBRUECKEN, Germany (CP)—The RCAF station in Canada can compare, for accomodation and amenities, with its 2nd Fighter Wing base here.

Built almost without cost to Canada, its creamy concrete buildings, paved streets, community facilities and other community facilities suggest well planned town more than a service base.

Zweibruecken is just within German, east of the Saar, and was badly damaged by RCAF bombers toward the end of the Second World War. Evacuation of its population kept casualties down.

KEEPS EYE ON COMMUNISTS

The base is just outside the town. Its relations with Zweibruecken are correct, warming to cordial, but around Canadian guards patrol the Sabre jet dispersal areas at night with orders to shoot if they see any movement.

Near the runway is a little village with an elected council of Communists. The Canadian base has been mentioned frequently on Radio Moscow propaganda broadcasts.

Group Capt. Chester Hull of Ottawa, the wing's commanding officer, is taking no chances.

Hull's base was begun at the same time as unfortunate Gros Theodin in France, but it is almost completed and is incomparably superior to the French station. However, officers say its appointments are still inferior, to the newer RCAF station at Baden-Soellingen, near the German luxury resort town of Baden-Baden.

All three RCAF stations were constructed under supervision of a French government agency. Gros Teopin the agency is using French workmen and spending money put up by Canada and France. In Germany it uses occupation funds, and skilled German workmen.

PATTERN FOR BASES

The amenities of Zweibruecken are the pride of French and German authorities alike. They are the pattern for other NATO-sponsored bases in Germany, including Baden-Sollingen.

Zweibruecken's Protestant and Roman Catholic chapels are grand. It has a snack bar that would be the envy of any Canadian community. Its tennis and volleyball courts are ready though the officers make decline, to turn them over until the station can show it has equipment and help to maintain them properly.

Located in French-occupied Germany with the United States Army for neighbors, Hull's Canadian staff walks a diplomatic tight-rope.

The Americans are the stickiest. They have refused to co-operate with Hull's air police in combined French-German-Canadian police patrols of Zweibruecken night spots.

Hull's policy of encouraging his men to wear civilian clothes off duty, both on and off the station and of not imposing a curfew, has been adopted by the United States forces here. Hull's men were the first post-war troops in this part of Germany to have those privileges.

CRITICIZE LAYOUT

Operationally the Canadians are not entirely happy with Zweibruecken. French inexperience in modern fighter techniques and lack of training by senior officers to be reflected in the layout and planning.

Dispersal 'areas for the aircraft are so built that a strafing run could wipe out most of the Sabres. A different layout, spreading the aircraft, is being used at Canadian insistence at Marville, the last RCAF station under construction.

Zweibruecken has an adequate fire-alarm system. Its control tower was built without heating.

Foreign Service Costs for Britain Are Quite Heavy

By RON EVANS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—How much does it cost for a world power, diplomatically speaking?

Well, for one thing the British taxpayer, money footing a bill of £32,250,000 ($90,300,000) each year. That's how much it costs the British government, about 15 per cent of the total budget, to maintain one of the world's oldest and most respected foreign service departments.

Not all that money goes to keep the top-hatted and stripe - trousered crew from looking shabby. A sizable chunk, £23,780,000 ($66,784,000), is drained off in various grants and services.

The grants range from £4,000 for the Red Cross to £3,680,000 for the United Nations. Other grants go to the support of the organization for European economic co-operation, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the British (Arta) Council and in foreign aid.

SALARIES TAKE MOST

The foreign service department itself operates on a budget of £21,180,000 ($61,304,000). Salaries take the biggest slice. They go to employees in addition, there are reports, administrative and political departments.

The 70 members in the ministerial section draw £37,700 a year, ranging from the £5,000 for Anthony Eden, secretary of state, to £200 for cadets.

Abroad there are 813 officers serving in diplomatic, consular, commercial and information branches. In addition there are dozens of advisers, typists, chauffeurs, doctors and wireless operators. The salary bill for these persons amounts to £3,300,000.

In Canada alone Britain keeps, in addition to the high-commissioner and his staff, seven trade commissioners, navy, army and air force liaison staffs, an information office, payments office, food mission and ministry of pensions staff.

Air Marshal Slemon Favors Creation Can. Bomber Force

TORONTO (CP)—Air Marshal C. R. Slemon, the RCAF's chief of staff, Wednesday indicated he favors creation of a Canadian bomber force.

Regarded as one of the RCAF's principal opponents of aerial bombardment as a weapon of air power, Air Marshal Slemon said in an address to the Electric Club of Toronto:

"... The primary agent of air power—A bomber force—is missing from the RCAF organization. Canadian peacetime economy has so far necessitated this, with the result that our more powerful partners, the RAF and the USAF are providing this vital element of our combined power.

"It remains to be seen whether and to what extent the RCAF too will participate in the bomber force."

Announced policy of the department today for has made no provision for a bomber force.

Air Marshal Slemon served in Britain during the Second World War as senior air staff officer of the all-Canadian No. 6 bomber group. Toward the end of the war he was moved to a projected RCAF bomber offensive in the Pacific.

RADAR PROTECTION

The air marshal also said Canadian air defence network of radar stations and ground control centres will go into full operation within the next few months. Improperly identified planes hovering into the radar net will run the risk of jet attack.

"You can use your imagination as to what I mean. You can make a genuine three-point landing and not get safely. Or you can land vertically—with your wings shot off."

Radar stations and fighter squadrons are located, as far as possible, "the possibility of a sneak attack by aircraft carrying false Canadian or American markings. The interception point is not permitted to trust solely to his eyesight. He must establish positive identification by radar. It definitely classified as friendly."

He said the system has already proved its efficiency on many occasions when planes off course or off schedule were promptly challenged by RCAF interceptors.

Artificial Ice Plant Installed In Marmora Arena

"When is the arena going to open?" is the question on the lips of nearly every child in Marmora village and district these days as they wait for the completion of the artificial ice plant in the Dr. Hamilton Crawford Memorial Arena and the official opening of the skating season.

Neighborhood boys are getting out their hockey equipment and girls are dusting off their figure skates as the arena is expected to be open for public skating within the next few days.

The ice plant is now installed, equipment tests are underway and village children are hoping for public skating before the official re-opening of the arena on November 30th, when a gala program of professional figure skating and other events is planned.

Erected in 1949 as a memorial to the late Dr. Hamilton Crawford, the building serves, like many other centres across the province depending on natural ice, has seen only part time use as a recreational centre. Each year saw the skating season start late and end early due to mild weather.

So a group of Marmora residents got the idea that an artificial ice plant would end the short seasons. All that was needed was something like $50,000.

C. OF C. TAKES UP CAUSE.

The Marmora Chamber of Commerce with Ralph Neal as president took up the cause, an artificial ice fund committee was formed and local residents, business and industry lent support. A campaign to raise funds was started.

Employees at Deloro worked a holiday and turned their holiday pay over to the ice fund. This amounted to something like $4,000 Neighboring municipalities voted grants, industrial firms, including Canadian Steel Corporation made contributions and by mid-October the way was seen clear to install the ice plant.

The ice plant is now installed and flooding is underway. Rink officials point with pride to the fact that the ice plant is nearly paid for. Next year a concrete floor is expected to be laid over the brine pipes, allowing year round use of the arena as a community centre.

Chairman of the artificial ice fund committee is Bill Shannon of R. G. Welsh of Deloro is vice-chairman. Secretary is H. O. Clemson of Bethlehem Steel. A. F. Webber is treasurer and S. G. Mackenzie, publicity chairman.

SARGENT MISSING

KIRKCUDBRIGHT, Scotland (CP)—Sir Adrian Dunbar, former Marylandodd-job man, has disappeared since arriving in England Sunday to take over the derelict 40-room mansion which he inherited with his title. Scots villagers who live on his 2,400-acre estate are pleased because they had planned a big welcome. Dunbar is believed to be at Southampton waiting till interest in him dies down.

Accused Describes a Life Of Neglect, Hunger Since Child

O'ORIGINAL (CP)—The trial of George Lalade, 30, on a charge of murder came to a dramatic, tearful climax late Wednesday with the appearance of the accused in the witness box. The case is expected to go to the jury today.

Members of the jury and most courtroom spectators wept as the slim, white-faced youth, denied he deliberately murdered Antonio LeLande, 35, last May 6, and then described a life of neglect and hunger since he was a child.

GIRL TESTIFIES

Earlier in the day, Lalade's 19-year-old girl friend, Louise Capello, now the mother of a two-month-old boy, had given her version of the knifing in the shack at Rouge, 25 miles east of Ottawa, they shared with LaLande.

Lalade said he and Miss Capello met LaLande one night last April in an Ottawa restaurant. They had told him the girl was pregnant and that they had been sleeping under verandas for several nights and LaLande had invited them to stay with him.

Lalade agreed to work for LaLande, and pay $15 weekly for room and board, Lalade said, but the older man had told him not to worry about paying him at first. In the meantime, Lalande would pay him.

SEARCHED POCKETS

The day before the slaying, Lalade said, he had asked LaLande for "some of the money he owed me" but LaLande said he hadn't any. When he got up before dawn the next morning to go to work hauling scrap, he decided to see if LaLande had told him the truth, Lalade added.

"LaLande was asleep and I began going through his pockets, but LaLande woke up. "I was afraid and I grabbed up a bottle and hit him over the head."

"It didn't make him unconscious and he jumped up and grabbed me by the throat. I fought him as hard as I could . . . but he pushed me against the bureau, . . .

"I reached behind me and grabbed the knife. I didn't mean to stab him. I only wanted to frighten him. But he was choking me and I hit him with the knife."

After that it was "all just a dream."

REVIVES HIS LIFE

For playing truant because "I had no shoes to wear," Lalade said, he was sent to the industrial school at Alfred, then released in custody of a Hawkesbury woman. She had given him his only real home, he said, breaking into tears.

In 1951 he had met and fell in love with Miss Capello. They had lived together. The girl had become pregnant in January.

Miss Capello told the court that after LaLande's death, they fled from Bourget to Ottawa in LaLande's truck with $38 Lalade told her he took "for the journey" five while the spoke, Lalade broke down and went in the prisoner's box, over which she said she still loves him.

1,500-Mile Highway Costing $139 Million Opens Frontier

EDMONTON (CP)—A 1,500-mile highway, built at a cost of $138,000,000, has opened a new frontier and given northern Canada a new tourist industry.

The road is the Alaska Highway which runs from Dawson Creek, B. C., across five mountain ranges, 129 rivers and 8,000 mountain streams, to Fairbanks, Alaska.

The road was slashed through some of the roughest country in the world by 14,000 Americans during the Second World War when Japan threatened Alaska.

CIVILIAN TRAFFIC

The road was maintained by the United States until March, 1946, when the Canadian portion was turned over to the Dominion. It was opened to civilian traffic the same year.

Since then cars from the 10 provinces, Mexico, Hawaii, the Philippines and the 48 states have used the road.

The road is still a military highway, with brigades in charge of several hundred Canadian Army maintenance men.

Equipment is spotted at various points along the route to keep it open summer and winter.

The speed limit is 45 miles an hour but many tourists hit 80 or 90, particularly in winter when the snow packs as hard as asphalt.

They find good accommodation, meals, gasoline and automobile service along the road. Those maintaining the road advise tourists to start the trip with new tires, two new spares, an extra tank full, punch, patching kit, saw and shovel, plus the usual car tools.

SPRING THAW

Tourists are warned off the highway in May and the first half of June because the road isn't passable after the spring thaws.

The highway is a series of unpredictable stretches of good and bad road. The first 200 miles is a three-lane class A road. Then it begins a series of agonizing twists and turns which alternate with straight wide stretches all the way to Fairbanks.

More than 10,000 vehicles used the road last year. The figure is expected to rise this year as the road and tourist services are improved.

MORE POLIO REPORTED

Canada's Chemical Industry May Double Production by '75 And Total $1,500,000 ,000

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's fast-growing chemical industry, expanding five-fold in a quarter-century, may double its production by 1975.

Two government economists, Dr. John Davis and J. P. Lounsbury, make this prediction in a survey published in the trade department's weekly, Foreign Trade.

The economists noted that since 1951 the chemical industry has grown at an annual average rate of 10 per cent, compared with three per cent for manufacturing as a whole.

"An over-all projection of Canadian chemical requirements indicates that there will increase in at least 10 per cent between now and 1980," the economists said. "They may double by 1975."

Production, valued at about $150,000,000 in 1955, increased to more than $700,000,000 in 1850 and on the basis of the current trend prediction may jump to about $1,500,000,000 or more by 1975.

MORE COMPETITIVE

There is room for expansion in almost all chemical fields, the economists said. During the next decade, "plastics may well surpass synthetic fibres in terms of sales value."

The economists predicted that the world market will become more competitive during the next few years unless there is an upturn, but at the same time it noted that with the growth of Canadian population the domestic market is expanding. More and more plastics are also being used by catering to Canadian needs—replacing imports.

Canada has almost all the raw materials required for the industry's expansion. It will need more capital to keep abreast of new chemical developments, but "the mounting world-wide demand for Canadian materials and the fact that it is becoming increasingly economic to process them initially in this country will help to give Canadian chemical producers much of the support they need."

Taking all factors into consideration, "it looks as if domestic production will, in future, increase more rapidly than Canadian imports," the economists said. "The further growth and diversification of Canadian industry will largely account for that."

Industry Urged Put More Effort Into Defence

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's transportation industry was urged Wednesday to throw more effort into civil defence.

Harvey W. Adams, director of civil defence transport here, accused carriers generally of not putting a full effort into defence preparations in an address to the Canadian Automotive Transportation Association convention.

Saying he wanted to "talk turkey" to the representatives of 7,000 trucking firms, Mr. Adams said: "I'll give it to you right from the shoulder. Industry—and that includes the transportation industry—is not putting its full weight into disaster preparedness."

Later, Health Minister Martin the cabinet member in charge of civilian defence—told the delegates that highway transport will be important in an emergency.

Mr. Martin also said that, without highway transport, Canada's current expansion would not have been possible.

Blacksmith's Son New President Of Philippines

By DON HUTH

Manila (AP)—A blacksmith's son who only 19 years ago was an unknown guerrilla captain battling Japanese invaders of the Philippines has become this island republic's third president.

Ramon Magsaysay, to millions of Filipinos, is a bright whose shining armor is a bright sport shirt and his charger a bouncing jeep.

They turned out in record droves in voting Tuesday to give Magsaysay a landslide victory over President Elpidio Quirino.

Magsaysay is not a seasoned politician. As national defence secretary in the Quirino government he mercilessly slashed through red tape to get immediate action.

WAS FIELD LEADER

In fighting Communist-led Hukbalahap peasant bandits he spent as much time in the field as in his office. He split with Quirino eight months ago after trying vainly to speed up action against the Huk bands.

The tired ailing 62 - year - old Quirino early today conceded victory to the 46-year-old Magsaysay, who takes office Jan. 1 for a four-year term. Quirino steps out after six years in office.

With about 60 per cent of Tuesday's vote tabulated, the unofficial count was Magsaysay, 1,815,182; Quirino, 798,022.

Twelve Children Are Transferred To Orillia

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Twelve children from East Windsor Hospital, an institution for the chronically ill, were placed aboard a special railway car Wednesday night bound for the Ontario Hospital, Orillia.

Transfer of children patients is part of a series of changes made by the new board of directors appointed last spring following a months-long probe into the hospital's affairs. It was named by Attorney-General Dana Porter who dismissed the old board.

Superintendent Dr. John Nettleton, appointed to succeed Dr. J. G. Morgan, fired by the new board, said the hospital was not designed to care for children pat-

"At Orillia," he said, "proper facilities have been provided and arrangements made to give them the very best therapeutic care."

Four children remain at the hospital. Two will be transferred Nov. 19 and the other two will be taken over by the Children's Aid Society.

New Jet Engine Very Powerful

WASHINGTON (AP)—The air force today said the United States has its first jet engine "with an official rating in the 10,000-pound thrust class."

It is the Pratt and Whitney J-57, which powers the air force's eight-engined heavy bomber, the Boeing B-52, and its new supersonic fighters, the North American F-100 Super Sabre and the Convair F-102.

At East Hartford, Conn., William P. Gwinn, general manager of Pratt and Whitney aircraft division of United Aircraft Corp., said in a statement that the J-57 is "at least two years in advance of any other engine we know of in the turbo-jet field, including British ones.

Decline in the number of young birds is causing concern for the future of Ontario's Hungarian partridge. Smaller than ruffed grouse, they are colored a fine mixture of white, rust and cream with a dark brown patch on the breast and chestnut bars on flanks. 374,000 Italians Still Live In Caves, Illegal Shanties

By PATRICK CROSBIE

ROME (Reuters)—Eight years after the Second World War, 374,000 Italians still live in caves or illegal shanties, without water, light or sanitation and 942,000 live in cellars, attics or warehouses never intended for human beings and officially condemned by the health authorities. More than 4,500,000 live more than three to a room.

If every family in Italy were to have a kitchen, a bedroom for the parents and a room for every [illegible], some 7,000,000 more rooms would be needed at once.

[illegible] building, with heavy government subsidies, is somewhat more than 700,000 rooms a year. But the population is increasing by nearly 300,000 a year.

Italy never recovered from the damage and slow-down in building caused by the First World War. In 1934 rent control was introduced and it has been continued ever since, depriving the small man of one of continental Europe's traditional investments: To buy a house, live in part of it and rent the rest.

The blocked rents now in force in Italy are recognized as a flagrant injustice. A man who died in 1938, believing that he had left his widow comfortably off with the rents from three apartments, could not foresee that in the next 15 years rents would be allowed to multiply only seven times while the cost of living multiplied 40 times.

The result has been no private building of low-cost dwellings since the war and a spectacular wave of luxury building.

Senators Open Public Probe Of Harry Dexter White Case; Will Summon Truman's Aides

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—A United States Senate sub-committee today threw open to the public an investigation into the controversial case of Harry Dexter White, late financial expert who has been branded as a Communist spy. Republican representatives members struck a snarl in a compassion piece starring former President Truman.

Harry H. Vaughan, who was Truman's military aide, was summoned to tell the Senate internal security sub-committee what he knows of FBI reports on White at the time in early 1946 when Truman named White as U. S. director of the International Monetary Fund.

After a closed session with Vaughan and his former secretary, Ruth Anderson, the sub-committee planned to throw its sessions open at 2:30 p. m. EST to the public, reporters and television cameras.

ALL TANGLED

Truman, in New York, still has not said whether he will comply with a subpoena to come to Washington and testify Friday about the case. Attorney - General Herbert Brownell contends White was promoted by Truman in the face of FBI reports that White, who died in 1948, was guilty of espionage for Soviet Russia. Truman has said he recalls no such thing happening.

The House un-American activities committee, which issued the summons for Truman, has become all tangled up in arguments over procedure.

It appeared highly unlikely the committee would proceed Friday to question Truman and his former attorney-general, Tom C. Clark, now a U. S. Supreme Court justice.

President Eisenhower jettisoned any hope for administration support that the committee might have held in efforts to force Truman to testify in the former which Brownell touched off six days ago.

ADDITIONAL EVIDENCE

Eisenhower said he personally would not have subpoenaed the ex-president, and said it is inconceivable to him that Truman knowingly would appoint a spy to high office.

Brownell himself followed up with a statement he had "no intention of impugning the loyalty of any high official of the prior administration." But he said additional evidence just turned up seemed to show beyond doubt that there was laxity in dealing with Communist infiltration of the government.

There are some indications, although no one is talking for publication, that the house group might put off any public hearings until Congress reconvenes in January.

Hearings now, it is felt, might put Truman in the spotlight in the minds of many as a political ma-

U.S. Army Replies To Complaints On Censorship

By FORREST EDWARDS

TOKYO (AP)—Military officials and news correspondents were embroiled today in a dispute over censorship in Korea—even as the United States army denied that censorship has been "exercised over anything but information affecting military security."

Relations between the military and the press in Korea have reached a point of open hostility.

And there has been no improvement despite defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson's statement in Washington Tuesday that "misunderstandings that seem to have existed have now or shortly will be cleared up."

ARMY BRIEFS DENIAL

Wilson spoke at a National Press Club meeting shortly before the army released in Washington—but not in Korea or Tokyo—a Far East command report denying that military censorship exists in Korea or that censorship has been used for reasons other than military security.

The Far East command statement was an answer to a recent story by Associated Press correspondent John Randolph criticizing censorship in Korea and the U. S. 8th Army's relations with the press.

The Far East command statement contended that some of the things about which Randolph complained were brought on by the correspondents themselves.

WRITERS INTERVIEWED

In general, correspondents in Korea voiced dissatisfaction with the army statement.

They said there had been no apparent change in relations with the military and there still is a growing belief that the 8th Army has taken a position of opposition to the press.

Randolph also criticized military refusal to release information about a mistake bombing in which 16 Americans were killed.

"The facts were released but tardily," the army statement said. It also said a new policy has been established under which the 8th Army will release the facts on an "as soon as possible" basis."

BOMBING KILLED 13

Far East command headquarters released a brief statement tonight saying a joint investigation of the bombing had concluded that aircraft of the U. S. 1st Marine air wing accidentally bombed the front-line positions.

The statement said 13 men were killed and nine wounded.

It was released shortly after the headquarters duty officer reported no knowledge of such a report, then telephoned a few minutes later to say a colonel had the report but he was out of the office.

The duty officer said she did not know how long the report had been available.

A headquarters spokesman said later he had had a copy of the report since early last April.

He said no agency had asked him for it after it became available.

Accused Found Mentally Fit To Stand Trial

STRATFORD (CP) — The murder trial of Reuben Henry Norman, delayed several months by a legal battle over his mental condition, started late Wednesday.

A Supreme Court jury earlier, after deliberating for an hour and 45 minutes on two days of evidence given chiefly by psychiatrists concerning Norman's mental condition, found he was mentally fit to stand trial.

Norman, 26, whose home is at Nithburg in North Easthope township, a former Canadian Army paratrooper is charged in the Feb. 3 shooting in Stratford of 17-year-old Jean Marie Satchell, who lived in Gadshill within a few miles of the Norman home.

Crown attorney W. E. Goodwin outlining the case to the jury said he would produce evidence to show that Norman stood in a shop doorway, a semi-automatic pistol in his pocket, waiting for the girl homeward bound for lunch.

He said he would call eyewitnesses who saw Norman pull the weapon from his pocket and open fire, "Six bullets were fired as she spun around" he said.

One eyewitness will tell about Norman, in answer to a request for medical aid saying "She won't need a doctor" and then firing three more shots into her head, he said.

Conservatives Expect to Hold British Seats

CROSBY, England (Reuters)—The Conservative party today is defending parliamentary seats in by-elections here and in the Keighley, Lancashire constituency of Ormskirk, and predicts it will hold both with solid majorities.

The Crosby contest was caused by the resignation, of Capt. Malcolm Bullock, the Conservative member, through ill health, and that at Ormskirk through the elevation of Sir Arthur Salter to the peerage.

In the 1951 general election the Conservatives had safe majorities of 14,783 at Crosby and 13,221 at Ormskirk in straight contests with Labor opponents.

The Labor opposition recognizes it is almost impossible to capture these two seats at present, but is hoping to gain some ground in the voting margin.

The congregation sang "When the Day of Toil is Done."

APPROPRIATE MUSIC

Mrs. W. E. Baker contributed "Jerusalem the Golden" and Mendelssohn "O Rest in the Lord" and "Sleep on Beloved."

The Royal Junior Choir sang "Soldier's Library", and the St. Paul's senior choir rendered Stainer's composition "What Are These?"

A mixed quartet, "Sunset and Evening Star," was given by Mrs. William Wilkins, Miss Marlene Moorcraft, Mr. Douglas Fryear and Mr. Thomas Wells.

The pastor, Rev. A. B. Baker, gave a special message based on the theme "We Cannot Think of Them as Dead." In his sermon original sermon he paid tribute to the lives of those who had departed, especially those who had labored long and faithfully at St. Paul's and were called to rest in the Centennial year. These incidents are they who have joined the great cloud of witnesses" in that greater realm.

The responsive lesson was based on "The Souls of the Righteous" and a period of silence was observed in memory of those departed.

A large number of kinfolk were in attendance at the service which closed on the theme "Therefore shall they receive a glorious kingdom and a crown of beauty from the Lord's own hand."

On Sunday morning, November 15, Rev. Harry G. Tuttle, M.A., B.D., D.D., general secretary of the United Church pension fund, will give an address at St. Paul's United Church, and fully explain how the pensions are distributed to retired ministers, ministers' widows and their dependant children.

Until the move to Toledo can be completed, General Motors will lease to Kaiser the space now occupied by Kaiser Motors for a period not to exceed 12 months.

Price of Gold Has Been Falling On World Market

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The price of gold has been falling on the world market, And, as with so many things, the Russians are suspected of being back of it.

The price of a gold bar in the so-called free markets has slipped nearly 30 per cent since March, 1952. Last week it brought only a fraction of a dollar more than the official price set by the U. S. treasury, $35 an ounce.

After the Second World War the price of gold on some black markets went as high as $80 an ounce.

Reports persist that Russia has been selling some of her large hoard of gold, thus weakening its price by increasing its supply in free or black markets.

Bankers believe that Russia has been selling gold for the currencies of other nations where she wants to buy consumer goods. Russia is believed to have one of the largest gold hoards of any government.

The Bank of England is in the market to buy gold when it can as it wants to build up its reserves. Russia, on the other hand, can use sterling to buy commodities if the price of gold falls a little more, the Bank of France may be authorized to buy it, reports from Paris say.

An important point in the shift in the price of gold on the free market is that as gold becomes less attractive to hoarders, closer comes the day when leading nations can make their currencies freely convertible.

Maple Leafs Trounce Canadiens 4-1 To Vault Into League Second Spot

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

SEARCH FOR SECOND!

Coach "Pete" Roach's Albert College COSSA senior "B" gridders champions may set on the football field on Saturday in quest of their second consecutive title. The gold and black, conquerors of Peterborough's St. Peter's High School squad in the semi-finals most the Grimsby High School team which thrust back the Midland H.S. thread had Saturday by a 32-0 score. The game is being played on the Grimsby gridiron.

The Roach-mentored squad with its defeat of the St. Peter's team chalked up its eighteenth consecutive victory. Last year they marched through district and provincial opposition to the COSSA senior "B" title with the proud record of ten-in-a-row victories. They continued their unbeaten-untied record this year, turning back BCI, St. Michael's and Campbellford squads twice and the Tweed High School team once in their march to the COSSA Bay of Quinte championship.

The team is a thoroughly representative one of Ontario, with a dash of South American and Newfoundland tossed in for color. From Belleville to Tulara, Peru; from Terra Nova, Newfoundland to Espanola; from Oshawa, Kingston, New Liskeard, Timmins, Huron Bay, Toronto and other provincial points come these gridiron gladiators who have been welded into a championship whole that has brought their alma mater one championship and bids fair to add another on Saturday.

The giants of the squad are Bruce Vaughan, from Tulara, Peru, and Alan Dennis of Sudbury, who tip the scales at 235 pounds. The Ellipsians of the team are 146-pounder Vernan Aston of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; Ian Chisholm, Terrenia, and 160-pounder Lloyd Bischoff, of Terra Nova, way down east in "Newfie."

The first string line averages some 175 pounds while the backfield distributes 180 pounds on the hoof.

According to Coach Roach, the team will be in good shape for Saturday's all-important tilt after a hard week of driving the gridders workouts all week and hopes to have them at the peak by game time. The team leaves Saturday morning for Grimsby. Bill Gilchrist is manager of the team with George Cane acting as his assistant.

SO THAT'S IT!

The secret is out. A few days ago this newspaper published a piece about the unerring accuracy of the shooting eye of Vern Rose, of the Trinidad Leaseholds. Vern potted three bucks (deer, that is) on a hunting foray back near the Arctic Circle with his dad and brothers.

Now for a misread that shoots a rifle once a year, that is pretty good marksmanship and we do not for a moment believe the allegation that the three bucks 'counted Mr. Rose while he was sleeping in near a country with the request that he make a fourth for bridge. Nor is there any truth in the statement that he sleepily rose on one arm, smashed the bucks' heads to frosty smithereens as he mowed innocent truders and with one bullet sent the three to Buckskin Valhalla, or wherever deer go when they succumb to lead poisoning.

However, a buddie of Vern's offered an explanation this morning. It seems the Trinidad Leaseholds have pets or more goats down thataway. These animated lawn-mowers roam the tank-pastures keeping the grass cropped short and occasionally breaking out to do the night-spots. (We heard the other morning that the limbs of the law had somebody's goat.)

According to the "explanation," Vern has a civil war casualty scarcity, and gets his sheetin' eye into shape by training the rifle at Bull Run on the goats as they trot daily about the premises. The Stonewall Jackson fawning place isn't looked for they haven't dug up enough scrap iron yet to make a charge.

However, that's the "explanation" and a footnote adds, "Take a good look at Vern's left eyelid. It has a pronounced droop from closing the right optic so often when doing his sighting calisthenics."

TROUBLE IN CAMP?

Well, well, what goes on down Kingston way in Senior "B" circles? It would appear things are not going so well down thataway and the champions are having troubles inside the clubhouse doors.

Coach Johnny Carr-Harris will resign if certain things do not materialize—but here's the story as reported in Kingston:

"Trouble brews in the camp of the Kingston Goodyears, Senior B champions of the Ontario Hockey Association and Coach Johnny Carr-Harris has notified the management that he will relinquish the reins without regret as soon as a successor is appointed. Carr-Harris, who worked gratis last season, had demanded a stipend and had been paid a certain amount in advance. His reward last season was an unsolicited gift of a television set. (Jack Forman, club president, said he had nothing to say just now.)

"Carr-Harris has pointed out that on his record and in accordance with common sense practice he should have been given a free hand in directing the team but, allegedly, representatives or members of the executive-acted independently when George MacGregor was brought back to the fold. When Carr-Harris suggested that he could not carry on when lacking authority one officer readily assented.

"Carr-Harris stated this morning that in accordance with budget requirements he had been delegated to sign the players this season. Under such conditions he felt that his authority had been exceeded when MacGregor was signed without his knowledge or approval. He was out of the city when MacGregor came to terms.

"Although willing to continue at the helm if given a free hand, Carr-Harris does not expect that the breach will be healed. He regrets that he will have to part with the players he guided so well and trusts that the fans will not condemn him or misunderstand his action, he said. His hardcore demands his closest attention and, having become convinced that his services are no longer necessary, he will relinquish the reins as soon as the executive desires."

Geo. Armstrong Scores Pair In Torrid National Battle; Wings, Boston Tie; Blues Win

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Frank Boucher, asked only for a piece of victory cake Wednesday night has got the frosting and a candle on top as well.

The cake was a 2-1 win for his New York Rangers over Chicago Black Hawks, the first New York victory over the Hawks since Nov. 12, 1952.

The frosting was rookie defenceman Bob Chrystal's first National Hockey League goal which gave the Broadway Blues the win.

The candle was Ivan (The Terrible) Irwin, who made his debut in New York by scoring an assist. Irwin was brought in to replace former captain Allan Stanley who was jeered off the ice last month and now is with Toronto Canucks of the Western Hockey League.

ONT. POINT AHEAD

The largest crowd of the season in Toronto—14,120 fans—saw the Maple Leafs defeat league-leading Montreal Canadiens 4-1. The win vaulted the Leafs into second place two points behind the Canadiens and one point ahead of Detroit Red Wings who fought to a 2-2 deadlock with Boston Bruins in Boston.

Rangers, still roosting in fifth place, five points up on the Hawks, scented victory early in the first period when Chrystal scored, assisted by Irwin and rookie Ike Hildebrand. The Rangers moved into the lead in the second period on goals by Don Raleigh and Larry Wilson, but Wally Hergesheimer tied it up in the last minute.

Victory early in the game put the Winnipeg-born Chrystal, on assists from Jack Evans and Nick Mickoski, snapped a 15-footer past Al Rollins.

Toronto sophomore right winger George Armstrong scored two goals for the Leafs. Linemates Harry Watson and Sid Smith counted the others. Dollard St. Laurent netted Canadiens' goal in the last seven minutes of play.

LEADS LIST

Gordie Howe, who has keyed Detroit Red Wings' scoring attacks since 1946, brought about the tie with Boston only 25 seconds remaining. The goal, plus an earlier assist, left him on top of the scoring list with 18 points.

Teammates Ted Lindsay and goalie Earl Reibel remained only one point behind Howe with their scoring efforts. The 26-year-old Reibel scored a goal and assist and Lindsay contributed two assists.

The Red Wings, scoring their fourth tie in six road games, were scoreless for 45 minutes while allstar centre Sterling Mackell and Leo Labine scored the Bruins in the second period. Then Reibel scored on assists by Lindsay and Howe at 5:22 of the third. Howe's tying goal came at 12:32, with assists by Lindsay and Reibel.

Chicago visits Montreal in tonight's only game.

RAF WINS MEET

LONDON (AP) — Middlewight Ken Phillips Wednesday night won a slugging match from Jimmy Palmer of Philadelphia to clinch the third straight Britannia Shield championship for the RAF.

The three-round punching battle gave the RAF the boxing championships of the four event Olympic style all-services' competition staged annually for countries which participated in the Battle of Britain.

The RAF finished with 77 points followed by The Netherlands with 73, Belgium, 69, Norway 62, United States air forces in Europe 21 and the RCAF in Europe 31.

Jimmy Dykes, Ex-Phillie Manager, Gets Berth With Baltimore Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP)—Genial Jim Dykes, who lost his job as manager of Philadelphia Athletics a week ago, is back in baseball business at a new stand, working for his old boss.

He became the third manager on the rising payroll of Baltimore Orioles after Marty Marion was fired late Wednesday with a year still to go on his $30,000-a-year contract. Marion joined the other former St. Louis Browns manager, Rogers Hornsby, as one inactive pay list.

The Orioles will pay nearly $100,000 for three managers and get work out of only one of them. Both of the surplus contracts expire after next season, as well as that of Dykes which was bought from Philadelphia. Hornsby is believed to draw around $40,000 and Dykes $30,000.

MARION "DEFEATIST"

Dykes was picked by general manager Art Ehlers, his recent boss at Philadelphia, as the proper field pilot to guide Baltimore in its return to major-league baseball.

Ehlers said he fired Marion because of his "defeatist attitude" toward building new life in the last-place Browns now that they've moved into a new environment. He called Dykes "forceful and energetic."

Jimmy said he was "tickled to death" to be back at work as a manager again, and especially pleased to be "back with Art Ehlers."

He envisioned his new team playing in front of crowds of 26,000 rather than "the 1,500 or 1,600 fans" they customarily played for in St. Louis.

The Athletics dropped him in favor of shortstop Eddie Joost.

MANTLE WALKING

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—Mickey Mantle took his first extended walk on crutches Wednesday and afterward said he felt as if he'd played a ball game.

The New York Yankee outfielder was operated on Nov. 2 for the removal of cartilage from his right knee.

Blue Bombers Square Western Finals With 21-17 Victory Over Eskimos

Hard-Charging Winnipeg Line Is Big Factor in Bomber Win; Third Game in Edmonton Sat.

By Al Vickery
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

WINNIPEG (CP)—Injuries may play a big part in deciding the Western Interprovincial Football championship as the best-of-three final gets down to the wire Saturday night in Edmonton.

Darrell Royal's Eskimos not only come out on the short end of a 21-17 score in the second game Wednesday against the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, but may have lost three top-flight players.

Rahe, who had the opener last Saturday 25-7 in their own Clarke Stadium here to go into the deciding battle without halves Billy Vessels and Don Bitonti and Frank Anderson.

Vessels aggravated a back injury, suffered in the final game of the regular schedule. It kept him out of the first game and made him more hurt his left knee and ankle when he got on a terrific block thrown by Jack Jacobs in the third quarter.

WENT LIMIT.

Anderson, hard-striking all-star defensive end, pulled up with a knee injury.

Loss of any of the three would deal a serious blow to Edmonton's chances of retaining the western title, won last year over the same Bombers in a final series which also went the limit.

Bombers, who came out of the second game to go into a series of minor bruises, took their victory calmly.

"There's still the big one next Saturday," was the general comment.

Much of the credit for the Bombers' victory went to their hard-charging defensive line, led by centre Dick Huffman and Buddy Tinsley and ends Tommy Lumsden and Normie Hill. All four played havoc with the Edmonton attack.

Terrific line play also was responsible for holding off the Eaks' flashy-but drive which almost wiped out Bombers' 14-point lead, and which had most of the record 17,434 Winnipeg welterers on edge until the final whistle.

FICKLE WIND

The weather played a big part in the game. Blowing down-field winds kept the kickers and punt-receivers guessing as the ball twisted and turned, came down and speeded up in 35-mile-an-hour gusts. Punting averages ranged from 35 to 40.

Import fullback Ralph Mcallister was top point-maker for Winnipeg with two touchdowns. Veteran Tom Casey, now a non-import, added another. Flying wing Buddy Leake, winner of the Dave Dryburgh, Memorial Trophy as the league's leading scorer, added a converts and a single. Gerry James returned a punt for a single. The other two points came on a safety touch when Rod Pantages was caught behind his own goal line.

Vessels, leading American college player last year and one of the WIFU's top scorers this season showed over for two Eskimo major; all-star teammate, Rollie Miles took a 35-yard pass from quarterback Claude Arnold and ran the remaining 45 yards for another touchdown. Big Don Sutherland converted both majors and booted a field goal. Pantages added the other two points on singles.

Eskimos took a 2-0 lead in the first quarter on Snyder's field goal and Pantages' two singles with the wind behind them. In their best offensive spurt of the day, Bombers tallied 13 points in the second quarter and held Eaks scoreless. Quarterback Joe Zaleski passed to Casey for one touchdown, McAlister added two, one on a pass from Casey; the other on a plunge. Kerchal and James added the other four points.

CUT LEAD

Edmonton tallied the only points in the third quarter, with Vessels crossing the line and Snyder converting after making the score 14-10. Bombers

Dutchies Blank Sailors 7-0; Maroons Win

By The Canadian Press

Although they were in fourth place, Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen have the best won-and-lost and for-and-against average in the Ontario Hockey Association senior A series.

The Dutchmen have won six of their seven games this season, including a 7-0 shutout over Barrie Sailors in Kitchener Wednesday night. In the league's other game Chatham Maroons bounced Magnus Falls Cataracts 9-3 in Chatham to record a second-place tie with Stratford.

Kitchener had scored 44 goals—6.3 goals-a-game average—in seven games. Opposing teams have managed only 17 goals against the Dutchmen, last year's Allan Cup champions. Dutch goaltender Bill Harrington the best goals-against average—a 2.4 mark.

Harrington turned away 23 shots to score his first shutout of the season.

Sam Kennedy fired two goals for Kitchener. Jerry Thomas, Jack McKenzie, Ken Laufman, Clare Martin and Barry Pattin added singles.

Jim Connelly scored three times for Barrie, while Ted Dallas, Ed Dickson, Fred Cupoli, Frank Bonello, Ernie Bonello and Joe Cupoli each netted the other Chatham goals.

Tom Buck, Air and Fred Reid replied for the Cataracts.

Windsor and Barrie Flyers in Hamilton in tonight's only game.

Windsor, Verdun Ready for Final

WINDSOR (CP)—Zeno Karcz, AKO's star fullback who suffered a fractured rib last Saturday, probably will see "limited"- action against Verdun Shamcats here tomorrow night in the first of two Canada junior football championship club clashes slated Wednesday.

Karcz suffered the injury in the first quarter of the game at Hamilton when AKO, defending Canadian champs, scored a 26-7 victory over Tiger-Cats to take the Ontario border title.

Dr. Doug Broadwell, team physician, said after x-rays were taken Monday that Karcz suffered a broken rib. Earlier it was believed he may have escaped with lesser injuries.

Coach Joe Sherman said he would need the player if AKO won a berth in the Canadian finals against the western Canada entry and would not use him "too much Saturday unless absolutely necessary."

"I'm naturally using Karcz for kicking but that might be all he'll do. I want to keep him on the sidelines to rest up for the Canadian final. If, of course, we run into more trouble than we expect from Verdun, then I might have to use him all the way, regardless of his injury.

Flyers Draw With Seattle

EDMONTON (CP) — Playing coach Bud Poile Wednesday night scored one goal and set up the other for Edmonton as the Flyers fought to a 2-2 draw with Seattle Bombers in a Western Hockey League game.

Enio Sclisizzi scored the other Edmonton goal while Gayle Fidler and Wayne Brown scored for Seattle.

Champion's Fifth-Round Blow Shatters Savoie's Title Dream

By W. R. Wheatley
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—One short, devastating right that travelled less than a foot was all champion Jimmy Carter needed Wednesday night to flatten Armand Savoie and explode the Montreal boy's dream of the world lightweight championship.

The little pile of points Savoie had courageously put together for a lead disappeared with the knockout blow at 59 seconds of the fifth round.

NO DISTRESS

The champion began opening up in the fourth with solid lefts but won him no round. Both fighters came out of it with cuts over the eyes but neither showed any distress sign of distress.

Savoie started hooking of his corner for the fifth. There were light exchanges and Savoie moved in as Carter flicked a left. The little Negro champion saw an opening. His right first snapped out and Savoie went down on his back.

As referee Frankie Sullivan took the count, Savoie suddenly raised his head, shook it and appeared to realize he had to move fast if he were to beat the fatal 10. But he was still scrambling on his hands and knees when Sullivan tolled it off.

The fight drew a crowd of 9,136 to the Montreal Forum. The gross gate was $53,719 and the net gate $45,853.

Carter received $25,000. Savoie's share was 13½ per cent of the gate.

The same judges who scored a decision for Savoie over Carter in a non-title fight here last February were assigned again to Wednesday night's fight. Judge Leon Germain gave the first three rounds to Savoie, the fourth to Carter. Judge Rene Oulmet scored the first even, the next two for Savoie and the fourth for Carter. Judge Johnny Gow gave Carter the first and fourth rounds, Savoie second and third. The Canadian Press and Associated Press cards coincided with Germain's scoring.

TERRIFIC PUNCH

"He was coming in and seemed to drop his hands," said Carter. "I had been looking for an opening and I let go. I wasn't surprised when he didn't get up. I knew I had caught him with a really terrific punch.

"I thought I saw the right coming but couldn't get out of the way. I knew it was all over. There's no nothing. Champion, my eye. I don't beat him, I know."

Savoie and his manager, Cliff Sowery, said they will campaign across the 12 rounds lightweight and try to get a return shot at the title.

Dutchmen Defeat Toronto Beaches In Opening Game of ORFU Finals

KITCHENER (CP)—Coach Gerry Tuttle of Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen Wednesday reared a season-long ambition: To defeat Toronto Balmy Beach in the Big Turbo Rugby Football Unions' final and advance to the Gray Cup semi-finals.

The Dutchmen, with Tuttle directing traffic from a halfback position, defeated Beaches 2-0 in the first game of their two-game total-point final series. The deciding game will be played at Toronto Sunday.

A crowd of 2,000, which braved a steady drizzle, watched Tuttle kick a single to send the Dutchmen into a 1-0 lead in the first quarter.

The margin was increased to 2-0 in the second 15 minutes when the playing coach booted a touchdown pass to end Syl O'Lara from the 25-yard line. A safety touch for the Kitchmen when Toronto quarterback Bob Schneidenbach was trapped behind his own goal line made it 2-0 going into the second half.

Beaches still couldn't get started in the third quarter and the Cyclone attempted field goal went wide but was good for another single to round out the Kitchener scoring.

Balmy Beach attempted a comeback in the final 15 minutes but the clock ran out on them before they could overcome the difference. Dick Gregory, chosen the most valuable player in the league this year after making a late start with the Beaches, accounted for all their scoring. He scooted around right end from the Kitchener 15 for a touchdown and then kicked the convert.

Tuttle, fired by Toronto after losing to Sarnia Imperials in last year's ORFU finals, pulled two surprises. He put Paul Amodio at the quarterback slot, moving himself into a halfback position, and ordered his crew to use the split-T formation, for the first time this season.

Tuttle's touchdown pass was actually made possible by Amodio. The import from Kent, O., intercepted Schneidenbach's screen pass on Toronto's 35 and ran it up to the Balmy Beach six from where Tuttle completed the payoff pass.

SMALL MELEE

Tempers flared at the final whistle and players of both teams staged a shoving exhibition at mid-field with a few spectators also taking part. Gregory received a cut near his eye by an umbrella-wielding customer.

Beaches weren't too disappointed with the outcome.

"Three points don't mean anything in this game," said Toronto coach Bill Hollis.

Balmy Beach lost the first game of the ORFU semi-final 2-0 to Barrie, Ont., but came back in second games to take the round.

If the final round is tied after the second game in Toronto, the teams will play overtime periods until there is a winner to meet the Western Interprovincial Football Union champion in the Western Canada Nov. 21. The WIFU-ORFU winner will oppose the Big Four champions for the Grey Cup at Toronto Nov. 28.

Insurance gives pleasure to insured people every day because it banishes fear of loss and disaster.

British Columbia Athletes Sweep Five Amateur Athletic Union Awards

MONTREAL (CP)—British Columbia Athletes cleaned up in all five awards announced today at the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

The awards committee sat until early morning in reaching their decisions on the selections.

The awards:

The Norton H. Crowe trophy, to the outstanding athlete in the AAU of C: Doug Hepburn of Vancouver. Hepburn was given recognition for winning the world heavyweight-class weight-lifting title in Europe this year.

The Viscount Alexander Trophy, to the outstanding junior athlete (under 20 years old): Harry Nelson of New Westminster, B.C., who won the 100 and 220-yard sprints at the Canadian AAU championships in Winnipeg.

The J. W. Davies Trophy, to the outstanding track and field athlete in Canada: Doug Clement of Vancouver, double winner at the Canadian Olympic training plan meet and at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto. Clement won the 440 and 880-yards runs. He is also junior AAU champion in the 440. He was second in the junior 880. Clement was a member of Canada's 1952 Olympic relay team which placed fourth in the 1,600-metre relay at Helsinki.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY, NOV. 12, 1952.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Rather negative influences for most activities but financial transactions may be profitable if managed sensibly; business gains also possible. Caution stressed in hazardous work. Travel, etc.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Your personal conduct all-important now. Be gracious yet shrewd and attentive to business. Better to finish work already started than to start new tasks unless the latter are urgent.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Influences fair but will be brighter, more stimulating on Saturday. Why not check carefully and arrange a more productive program for next week? Essential, familiar duties under benefic aspects.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — If you ignore trivialities and control emotions, you can have a generous day in return for sincere effort. Have faith in yourself and your work. Plan ahead and you may reap a rich harvest.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Friendly rays today precede exceptionally fine ones tomorrow. Today carries stage for week's work; plans for next week's activities. Money matters favored, also work with the public.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—You may have to work a little harder on purely mental tasks but intelligent endeavor should produce fine results. Favorable for sound investments; gains in business.

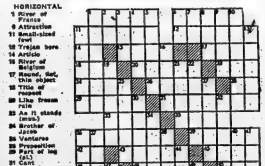
September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—The position of Venus stresses a need for caution in private, artistic and home matters. Otherwise the day can be productive, remunerative. Shrewd investments, business transactions favored.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Be militant only for good causes. Where work or business interests are concerned, much can be gained by being agreeably gracious and co-operative. Some good aspects.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Jupiter's position really tops for you. Capitalize on opportunities for honest gain, advancement in work or other interests. Be cautious handling tools, however.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Today's influences stress caution if handling dangerous tools, machinery; in mining, all hazardous activities. But day has many advantages and you can achieve, even advance.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—This outlook is original; seek to acquire greater knowledge, worthwhile friends. Ambition coupled with system will help you to achieve as you should. Seek family advice.



February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — An encouraging day on the whole. Take care of your personal affairs, even though you may be in service to others. Try new projects, ideas, methods.

YOU BORN TODAY have strong characteristics, deep emotions, a wealth of ideas and capability; and some faults—which you can correct. Tendencies toward dominance, insisting on your own way and procrastination, should be curbed. Cultivate your finer attributes and you can achieve a great deal. You are generous, helpful, most efficient and willing in emergencies. Birthdate: Robert L. Stevenson, Scottish novelist.

Socialist Paper Calls Edinburgh 'Royal Meddler'

EDINBURGH (Reuters) — The Scottish Socialist weekly, Forward, today called the Duke of Edinburgh "the royal meddler" and attacked him for "an intolerable intrusion into political affairs."

It was referring to a speech on education the duke made last week while being installed as chancellor of Edinburgh University. He spoke of draft service in the armed forces as "a very important characterbuilding experience."

Forward countered: "The question of national service is one of the many issues on which Labor will fight the government in the next session of Parliament—yet a member of the Royal Family has chosen this moment to make a speech favoring the indefinite retention of conscription.

"The Duke of Edinburgh said he considered national service was right in itself. This was a remarkable statement—for not even the present government has dared to use this argument.

"The duke regarded the quite fatuous statements that conscription was 'character-building,' that it was 'the final stage of a student's educational and that it 'knocked the rough edges off people.

"The first statement is accurate, although the latter interpretation is likely to be rather different from the duke's. The second indicates that the duke has a rather unusual definition of the term 'education,' while the latter only demonstrates his passionate militaristic desire for uniformity.

"It would be kind to describe the duke's intervention as unhelpful—in fact it was fatal. It was an intolerable intrusion into political affairs."

LONDON (AP) — Sir Ashley Clarke, Britain's new ambassador to Italy, left by air today for Rome where anti-British demonstrations over disputed Trieste have clouded relations between the two NATO allies.

His departure time was pushed ahead four days, presumably because of the urgency of the situation.

LONDON (Reuters) — London's great smog last December killed 12,000 persons—4,000 that month and 8,000 who died from aftereffects in the next two months—a British scientist said Wednesday. And every mile-winter day sees more than 1,000 tons of sulphur dioxide and 2,000 tons of deadly carbon monoxide shot into the air of greater London, Dr. E. T. Wilkins, officer in charge of the atmospheric pollution section of the department of scientific and industrial research, said.

Italian Premier Pays Visit to Turkey

ROME, (AP) — Italy's premier and foreign minister, Giuseppe Pella, flew to Turkey today on a friend-making flight that many Italians apparently hope will help ease the troubled Trieste situation and aid in its solution.

The visit was arranged before visiting biased out at Trieste last week, bringing death to six. "Nonetheless," said the Christian Democrats' Il Popolo of Rome, "while it is not in direct relation with the crisis (a Trieste) itself, the trip comes happily at a moment whose opportunenses is evident."

Scotland Site Of First Atomic Generating Station

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's first atomic generating station will start electricity into the National grid plants of the industrial north from Dounreay, under-developed Caithness-shire, northern tip of Scotland.

Reliable sources said Wednesday the government has been looking for a site in Scotland for its first industrial atomic power station, and Caithness, a county of fishermen, is favored. The final decision is yet to be made. It will be the eighth atomic energy establishment in the United Kingdom.

Full government priority will be given to construction of the plant, expected to run neck-and-neck with a similar project in the United States. The Atomic Energy Commission in Washington has said the first industrial atomic plant in the U.S. is expected to be completed by 1957.

The British plant, to be staffed by about 1,200 scientists and technicians, will be supervised by the Atomic Energy Corporation now being established. The government announced Tuesday the corporation will develop atomic energy with the aid of private enterprise.

Rapid development of atomic energy in Britain will reinforce Prime Minister Churchill's request to President Eisenhower for a freer exchange of information on atomic energy between the United States and Britain. Reliable sources say Churchill will raise this subject at the Big Three meeting in Bermuda next month.

Toronto Father Would Sell Eyes To Obtain House

TORONTO (CP)—Bruce Martin, father of six children, will live in a small garage, states that he will sell his eyes for $10,000 to get a house.

Martin, a 35-year-old janitor, was ordered by Toronto township officials to move from the garage by Saturday. He said he decided to try to sell his eyes after one landlady told him to "drown your six children" when he asked for accommodation.

"They're good eyes and I hope one might bring $10,000," he said. "If not, I'll sell both."

However, a lawyer here said he doubted whether Martin will find a buyer. "A point of law forbids a person to consent to an assault against himself, and an operation to take out his eyes, without undisputed reason of health, might come under the definition."

World Record For Small Planes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The air force disclosed Tuesday that the world's first light airplane to harness jet power to its propeller has climbed more than seven miles to a world altitude record for small planes.

At more than 37,000 feet, just after the peak of the climb, the plane's jet engine died. The single-engined Cessna XL-19B, a modification of the army's "bird-dog" observation plane, glided for 45 minutes to a safe dead-stick landing.

The air force announcement said Bill Thompson, chief engineering test pilot for the Cessna Airplane Co., Wichita, Kan., set the light plane record at 37,363 feet last July 18.

The XL-19B is powered by a Boeing gas turbine engine, basically a jet but harnessing the normal exhaust thrust, through a secondary turbine, to drive a conventional propeller.

RCAF To Get More Of Defence Budget During Next Year

No Relaxation in Buildup For Defence in Coming Year

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF is likely to get a larger share of the defence budget next year.

Government policy outlined in the throne speech Thursday forecast no relaxation in the defence buildup next year.

In the current fiscal year, the government is spending $2,000,000,000 for defence, half the entire budget. Officials say roughly the same sum likely will be appropriated for 1954-55.

"We're right in the middle of some phases of our defence program and we certainly need it now," one official said.

Though stockpiling of some defence materials is over the hump, production of many items as jet fighter plane and radar equipment will continue in top gear.

CONTINENTAL DEFENCE

Officials predict an increased appropriation for the air force. They point to reports of an air force increased emphasis on continental defence, especially in light of reported Russian possession of the hydrogen bomb.

In the current year, 41.7 per cent of the $2,000,000,000 defence budget was allocated to the RCAF compared with 37.8 per cent in the previous year. The army received an appropriation was cut from 27.2 per cent to 23.7 and the navy's increased slightly from 13.3 to 14.5 per cent. Appropriations for materiel under the Canada-U.S. Mutual Treaty alliance were chopped from 17.4 to 15.3 per cent and the civil defence research board from 2.1 to 1.9 per cent.

Some officials here predicted that the RCAF might get as much as half of the 1954-55 defence budget, or around $1,000,000,000. This would mean a substantial increase over some or all of the other defence services and departments. The navy is planning to buy new carrier planes and the army is forming a new division.

Conservatives Win in Two By-Elections

ORMSKIRK, England (CP) — The Conservative government won both parliamentary seats in by-elections held Thursday here and at the nearby constituency of Crosby, also in Lancashire.

In Ormskirk, the new Conservative member, Col. Douglas Glover, was given 29.4 per cent of the votes to beat his Labor opponent by a majority of 8,474.

In the Crosby election, Conservative R. Graham Vigar led the Labor candidate by 11,046 votes. An Independent Conservative, not backed by the party, polled 1,180.

BOTH SAFE FOR TORIES

Both seats were regarded as safe for the Conservatives.

In both by-elections, labor gained a voting strength. In Crosby the 1951. Conservative majority was 14,788 in a straight two-party fight.

In Ormskirk, the 1951 Conservative vote percentage was 47.6, two per cent higher than Thursday.

Standing in the Commons now is: Conservatives and Allies 322, Labor 262, Liberals 2, Irish Labor 2, Nationalist 2, vacant 2.

3 Firemen Hurt, Loss $500,000, In Toronto Blaze

TORONTO (CP) — A hundred firemen battled a six-alarm blaze that raged for two hours in adjoining buildings of four manufacturing firms in West Toronto early today. Three firemen were injured seriously.

Damage was estimated at $500,000.

The fire broke out about 2 a. m. in a one-storey building between two four-storey structures at Genest and Dufferin streets. Firemen put in calls to all city stations for the help and 22 pieces of equipment were sent.

Although under control by 4 a. m., the fire was still smouldering hours later and crews with trucks were clearing out debris.

Cause of the blaze was not immediately known.

The fire gutted most of the three buildings and a fourth manufacturing firm—Canadian Glass and Ornamental Trimmings, Genest Finishing Works, R. D. ——— Manufacturing Company, and Toronto Toy Limited.

Ottawa Moves To Widen Control Over Pipe Lines

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is moving to reinforce its support of a Canadian transcontinental natural gas pipeline.

In the throne speech at the opening of Parliament Thursday, it was announced an amendment to the Pipe Lines Act will be sought to give the board of transport commissioners jurisdiction over all companies building international or interprovincial lines.

At present, the board's jurisdiction extends only over companies incorporated by Parliament.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Cloudy skies persisted across Ontario Thursday. Clearing is expected in the south country by this evening and in southern regions by Saturday afternoon. Temperatures will remain mild with light winds from the south-west.

BIG FOUR TALKS ON ATOM CONTROL SOUGHT BY WEST

French Proposal Gets British, U.S. Support

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The United Nations 81-member political committee went into a double session today in hopes of winding up arms debate and reaching a vote on a resolution call for "private" Big Four talks on atomic control and disarmament.

The committee also faces debate on a Soviet request that the UN disarmament commission submit its report by March 1 for substantial cuts in big-power armaments and a ban on using the hydrogen bombs.

Diplomat sources voiced optimism that Russia might support the Western proposal for a big-power conference, backed by Britain, France and the United States. The Soviet Union has refused similar proposals in the past.

The latest disarmament proposal apparently was initiated by France's Jules Moch, who suggested that the United Nations disarmament commission set up a sub-committee of powers mainly involved in the armaments race" to try to break the deadlock on disarmament and atomic-weapon control.

The 12-country commission, currently sitting in New York, has been discussing the problem for an opening East-West views.

ACCEPTABLE SOLUTION

The French resolution proposed that the commission sponsor the talks and urged the Big Four to "seek in private an acceptable solution and report to the disarmament commission."

The Big Four held similar meetings on disarmament in London in 1951. Those talks lasted only 10 days without agreement.

The current resolution, observers pointed out, is more far-reaching in effect in that it seeks the task of the harassing commission to the Big Four sub-committee and places the responsibility in their laps.

Russia's revised arms-cut proposal was seen as a slight concession. It allows about 1,000 personnel call for a one-third reduction in the forces of the U. S., Britain, France, Red China and the USSR.

Russia, however, the Russians are following the old line on armaments, calling for a ban on atom and hydrogen weapons and strict international control.

The West contends the commission should work out effective control of the first and then call for a ban on mass-destruction weapons.

Bill Boss Now To Cover Moscow

Churchman Acquitted

TORONTO (CP) — Kenneth Churchman, 24-year-old Toronto lawyer, today was acquitted on a charge of robbing an east-end branch of the Bank of Commerce of $6,000 Dec. 16. Six witnesses failed to identify Churchman.

Churchill Has Friends and Foes Laughing at His Counter-Attack

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill has just laughed off his opposition with a counter-attack in a minor measure in the House of Commons that he said would gather sufficient Conservative forces to put the matter right.

He had a field day with the Labor opposition who manoeuvered a three-line whip for the government Wednesday night on a Labor motion to restore import controls on cut glass.

Labor members howled "treason" as the prime minister strolled into the House Thursday an impish grin lighting his face. But he soon [illegible] with the government supporters on the side—cheering with laughter.

Churchill with a chuckle began by accusing Labor of pulling "a rather sharp piece of work," by [illegible] the 245-141 vote against the government.

He said everyone—including himself—had gone home when a recorded vote was taken. But the members "emerged suddenly from the cellars and other hiding places and were able to play a noticeable part in parliamentary business."

He admitted the Conservatives had done the same sort of thing when Labor was in power. As for the defeat, he said, the government would put it right by a new vote. "It does not caught off base, his government has sufficient votes to pass any measure.

The new order, Churchill said, will be presented to cut glass "which would otherwise have been reinstituted on the responsibility of might say by a responsibility—of the party opposite."

Employees of Canada Cement Co. Raise $7,000 for Visitors' Waiting Room at New Hospital

Employees of the Canada Cement Company, Point Anne, will lead the way among industrial plants in the area in canvassing on behalf of the Belleville and District Hospital. This was announced today by Edward DeLeeuw, president of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International Union, Local 219, A.F. of L. and A. F. Whitehead, vice-president of the union.

In a joint statement Mr. DeLeeuw and Mr. Whitehead said that the employees of Canada Cement had already raised amongst themselves $7,000 to provide the visitors' waiting room in the new hospital.

Mr. DeLeeuw and Mr. Whitehead said that organized labor throughout the area was generally well aware of the expanded need for new hospital construction. Labor, as the prosperity component of the community, is more dependent upon the hospital than any other one group of people.

"This is the only hospital-we have for the care and protection of our families," the statement continued. "Although many of us may have the tendency to complain about our hospital we must appreciate that the problems that have for some years been confronting the hospital staff. We know that a large section of the hospital is obsolete and difficult to maintain. Overcrowding and the necessity of placing patients in corridors has created tension, not only with patients and their families, but amongst the hospital staff itself. We believe that with the new hospital these and many problems will eliminate themselves.

"So that we of the labor family may get a closer understanding of hospital needs and problems, discussions have been under way for some time to place a labor representative on the staff and the Board of the Hospital. The unanimous recommendation of the union executive and the present members of City Council for the 1954 council strongly indicates the awareness of the need for labor representation in hospital management so that labor can play its true part in guiding hospital policies for the benefit of all in the community."

Commenting on the union's decision Mr. J. H. Legate, superintendent of the Canada Cement plant at Point Anne, said he was fully aware of labor's interest in the hospital and its recommendations in the community. He felt that a move in this direction was a given long, careful thought to the part they would take in the project. He felt sure the labor representation would be satisfactory.

Mr. Legate said, "It is important that each of us play a part, whether it is management, government or labor in making this great service available to all people in the community. It is gratifying to see the interest in corporations and employees joining forces to help this important public building program to a successful conclusion.

Kidnapper Terrorizes Family, Takes Girl, Then Frees Her

NEW YORK (AP)—A 13-year-old girl was found today unharmed after being kidnapped from her east side Manhattan home and held overnight in almost four hours by a scar-faced man.

The girl, Dorothea Del Longo, was wearing only pajamas and an overcoat when she was forced into a car about 5 a. m. after the man had terrorized the family for an hour.

Police said she reported the man put the top of the car about 9 a. m. after giving her $5. Police said she got the license number of the kidnapper's car for about two hours.

She said was wearing the pajamas and coat when found in the streets.

GIRL NOT HARMED

Police were called and the girl was taken to a central police station for questioning. A doctor was called in. Police said she apparently had not been harmed.

Police broadcast an alarm for a two-tone green sedan.

The entire story was told to police by the girl's stepfather, Dominick Del Longo, a superintendent of a five-storey rooming house at 1357 East 89th street.

About 4 a. m., Botticelli said, a loud knock on the door awakened him. He opened it and his wife, Bertha, Dorothea, and a son, Dominick, 10.

"Who is it," Botticelli asked, "with the law," was the reply.

GREETED WITH FIST

When the superintendent opened the door, he told the man pointed him in the face with his fist.

The man, about 26 years old, held a knife in his right hand he had a gun.

"You squealed on me," he told Botticelli.

The superintendent said he had never seen the man before.

Atomic Experts and Hydro Study Electric Power Plans

CHALK RIVER, Ont. (CP)— Dr. Lewis Chalk River, Ont. (CP)— Canada's powerful NRX atomic energy reactor, knocked out by a leak last December, will be in operation in two months after overhaul and safeguards to prevent similar mishaps.

Dr. W. B. Lewis, vice-president for research and development for Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., says resumption of the atomic energy pile "is not many weeks hence."

Dr. Lewis also said that Atomic Energy of Canada is working with Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission for studies jointly on building an atomic reactor to generate electric power.

RELEASE UNLIMITED

The NRX reactor broke down nearly a year ago when accidental release of uranium fuel rods into the pile's energy-producing uranium oxide core caused leaks, endangering radio-active material to escape. The entire reactor had to be dismantled and rebuilt.

Dr. Lewis said Atomic Energy of Canada and Ontario Hydro have started a "feasibility study" to determine whether it would be practical to build an electric-power reactor.

"No firm decision has been made as yet to build such a reactor," Dr. Lewis said. "It's still in the idea stage."

In Ottawa, Trade Minister Howe, who reports to Parliament for Atomic Energy of Canada, said the federal government would bear part of the cost of building a power reactor. The first part of such a project, however, had not been determined.

FINAL CONSTRUCTION

The U. S. Atomic Energy Commission announced Oct. 22 that it will build a 60,000-kilowatt power reactor during the next three to four years. The reactor is expected to produce at least 60,000 kilowatts—enough to run a city of 20,000.

Dr. Lewis said if Atomic Energy of Canada and Ontario Hydro decide to build a power reactor, actual construction probably will not start for "a year or two."

The cost of the feasibility study, Dr. Lewis said, would be about $100,000 a year.

FIRM IDEAS

"We have started the feasibility studies, and in due course we will have ideas based on whether a power reactor should be built," he said. "The most decisive where it should be built."

The reactor would be separate from three other reactors at Chalk River.

TWO FRESHMEN TO OPEN DEBATE IN PARLIAMENT

Plans of Government Given in Throne Speech

OTTAWA (CP)—The House of Commons swings into action today in the first session of Canada's 22nd Parliament. Two freshman members open the debate.

A. H. Hollingsworth (L—York Centre) and Georges Villeneuve (L—Roberval) will make their maiden speeches, expected to deal with topics from the speech from the throne.

Mr. Hollingsworth will move the traditional motion for an address in reply to the speech from the throne. It will be seconded by Mr. Villeneuve. Leaders of the four parties in the House then continue the debate Monday with major addresses on the government's legislative program as outlined in the speech.

The speech dealt on the international situation and said there will be no slacking next year of Canada's defence efforts.

NECESSARY STRENGTH

"Much remains to be done before there can be a permanent and durable peace in the world," the speech said.

"My ministers therefore consider it their duty to urge upon the nations to slacken our efforts to build the strength necessary to preserve strength to deter aggression, and they intend to continue to do their part."

FOUNDATION STONE

Defence and foreign affairs headed items in the speech.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization, it said, has effectively prevented aggression in Europe and the NATO treaty area described as "one of the foundation stones of Canada's external policy." Further strengthening of NATO forces, relief and rehabilitation, technical assistance and the Colombo plan for economic aid to Southeast Asia, the speech said there is reason for satisfaction that collective action in Korea has "vindicated the principles of the United Nations objective and a determination to resist."

PROGRESSIVE REDUCTION

The speech said that despite Canada's record level of foreign trade, dollar shortages in many countries continue to create problems for some exporters and the government is continuing efforts to promote multilateral trade and barriers.

Other major policies mentioned were a new housing program; added financial help for Ontario hog producers; a plan to combat polio epidemic, improved fish marketing and a federal-provincial program for totally disabled persons.

The housing program is aimed at providing lower down payments, longer mortgage terms and a larger supply of mortgage money by allowing chartered banks to lend on insured home mortgages.

MEANS TEST

Officials said the program for disabled persons would involve pensions to totally disabled persons of $40 monthly, based on a means test.

Russian People Due to Get Lot Of Real Love in Soviet Novels, Plays

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

MOSCOW (AP)—Along with all the promised new icebones and vacuum cleaners, the Russian people due to get a lot of real love in Soviet novels and plays.

The magazine Theatre says the Soviet people want love in their theatre—passionate love and not any old milksop stuff.

There will be love in novels, too, and it will be the passionage, the kind that thrills the French. Somolskaya Pravda, the young Communist newspaper, has just discovered a novel by Nikolai Toman called "Secret Agent," a theme popular with Russian adventure story writers.

This novel has the hero and heroine meet in a railroad club. Obviously there are strings of the Iron Curtain in the offing. The two go for a walk. The heroine whispers that she is a secret agent as she walks hand in hand with her hero. And what does her hero whisper lovingly into her ear? Here's the passage:

"'You are,' said Sergei after a long pause, 'there is something wrong with our schedule.'

"'Yes,' the railroad schedule, of course. But, says the Komsomolskaya Pravda critic, that is all wrong. It's not natural.

Theatre magazine takes up the same theme, in great detail. In an article entitled "Note on the Psychology of love on the stage," the magazine reviews the old Russian and how they handled love.

The article says actors and playwrights these days do not always handle love well.

"Actors," says the article, "can do nearly everything, but they have forgotten how to cry, to woo, to love and hate passionately. This, of course, is an obstacle to their fully exposing the social idea of the character. Soviet audiences expect more from actors and playwrights characters who personify great passionate love."

Eisenhower Happy In Paying State Visit to Capital

Governor-General, P. M., Dignitaries Bid Welcome

OTTAWA (CP) — Obviously pleased as punch to be paying another visit to Canada, President Eisenhower arrived here by special train today for a two-day' state visit.

The 15-car train arrived 15 minutes late — at 11:45 a.m. EST. It had reached the border 35 minutes behind schedule.

The president, wearing horn-rimmed glasses, grinned broadly as cameras popped in his face four minutes before the rear car to a small platform and a 500-foot red carpet which led through the station to the street.

WORE BLACK SUIT

Mr. Eisenhower wore a black suit, dark coat and white scarf and carried a bombury in his hand as first stood hands with Governor-General Vincent Massey and Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Mrs. Eisenhower, smiling and laughing, wore a fur cape over a black dress, green hat and pearl necklace did carriage.

She was presented with a bouquet of sweetheart roses and blue orchids by Mrs. St. Laurent. The prime minister's wife wore a floor-length red fur cape over a black dress.

The president introduced members of his party to the governor-general.

CHEERS FULL STATION

A terrific cheer split the air as the president left the glass-cellinged train shed and walked into the station concourse.

An overcast sky and chilly temperature did not prevent thousands from jamming into Confederation square in front of the station to welcome the president, who visited here previously in 1948 and 1951, first as U.S. army chief of staff and then as supreme commander of the forces in Europe.

1,200 GUARD WALK

After the greetings, the president inspected the 1,200-man guard through the station, up the stairs and into Confederation square. Their path was lined by a line of troops from the army and air force.

A 100-gun salute in honor from three armed services snapped to the "present arms" as the president emerged from the station and the band of the Royal 22nd Regiment struck up the "Star Spangled Banner." A battery of guns fired a 21-gun salute.

The president inspected the guard, then walked briefly to the Peace Tower Memorial where a 100-man guard of veterans was drawn up. The president inspected the guard, then slowly mounted the stone steps in the base of the 70-foot-high memorial to place a wreath. The base of the monument was already banked high with wreaths placed there during Wednesday's Remembrance Day ceremony.

MASSED BANDS PLAY

During the placing of the wreath, massed bands of the army and air force played the hymn "Abide With Me." Then they played the "Star Spangled Banner." "O Canada" and "God Save the Queen."

Thousands jammed in Confederation square cheered, the president and Mrs. Eisenhower as they entered a car with Mr. Massey to drive to Rideau Hall, official residence of the governor-general.

In the second car of the motorcade were Douglas Stuart, American ambassador to Canada, Mrs. Stuart and Lionel Massey, secretary to the governor-general.

The third car was occupied by Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., senior United States delegate to the United Nations and his wife. Other members of the president's party followed in other cars.

The president and Mrs. Eisenhower lunched privately with the governor-general.

Women's Hospital Auxiliary To Open 'Coffee Snack' Bar

The Women's Hospital Auxiliary of the Belleville General Hospital is planning to operate a "Coffee Snack" bar which would be at the hospital under the name "Coffee Snack".

Mrs. Marjorie Price, largest ever attempted by the auxiliary, is due for its official opening January 15th.

The "Coffee Snack" will be located on the ground floor of the hospital in the emergency section and will be staffed from 10.00 a.m. to 9.00 p.m. seven days a week by volunteers. It will have facilities to serve approximately 12 to 15 persons at a time.

General convenor of the project is Mrs. Lorne Smith. She will be assisted by four co-convenors, Mrs. Jack Tatham, Mrs. Harry Reid, Mrs. C. W. Seibert and Mrs. R. W. Simpson. These ladies will be responsible for all of the operation of the "Coffee Snack" co-convenor will be responsible for the daily supervisor. They in turn are expected to rec ? it the ladies who will assist in preparing the coffee, soups, and sandwiches which the bar will offer. Each co-convenor's duty will be asked to work a three or four hour shift behind the counter once every four weeks.

MERITS ENTHUSIASTIC RESPONSE

Mrs. Smith states that, "enthusiasm to date has been contagious. It is little more than a week since the auxiliary decided to proceed with the project and already two co-convenors have completed the task of lining up their daily supervisors."

Mrs. James Forrester, president of the auxiliary, has pointed out that this project will not interfere with the Canadian National Institute for the Blind canteen service which is operated by patients. She does not expect the "Coffee Snack" project to affect the Gift Shop which has been under the chief of which is the Opportunity Shop which has been operating on the market building since the fall of 1946.

Mrs. Forrester described the Opportunity Shop as "the lifeline of the auxiliary" and stated that nothing would be done to interfere with its activities. The Opportunity Shop, also staffed by volunteers, is headed this year by Mrs. W. J. Finkle.

Mrs. Forrester also pointed out that when the new "Coffee Snack" bar bustles, the Belleville Hospital Auxiliary will be the only auxiliary in the province operating two major enterprises.

Other members of the executive who will staff the new "Coffee Snack" are Mrs. Jack Marshall, bookkeeper and cashier; Miss Ivy Dickens, and Mrs. R. E. Goodwin, general supplies convenors.

The hospital is providing the auxiliary with the necessary space and Gordon Rase has agreed to draw up plans for the "Coffee Snack." Philippe Faulkner has consented to paint murals on the walls of the "Coffee Snack" depicting other phases of auxiliary work including their annual tea, fashion show, and opportunity shop.

The "Coffee Snack" is designed as a service to the public," said general convenor, Mrs. Smith.

"It is not strictly a money making project. Prices will be kept as low as possible," she said.

ROOM SERVICE.

Mrs. Smith explained also that the "Coffee Snack" will operate a room service for patients who are not on a special diet, and for their relatives and friends who may wish to visit with a sick person. Hours will vary to an extra charge of five cents per order will be necessary on all orders taken from the "Coffee Snack" because all cups, and plates must be disposable. The five-cent charge will just cover the cost of providing these disposable containers.

Mrs. Smith also pointed out that the auxiliary extends a cordial welcome to anyone who wishes to assist in this project.

"We are inviting all of the women in the city who are interested in assisting the auxiliary to contact Mrs. Fred Brenner at 600.

This invitation applies to non-members of the auxiliary as well as members," she pointed out.

The next meeting of the auxiliary will be held in the Ritchie Memorial Nurses' residence on Tuesday afternoon, at 2.45 p.m. The meeting will be open to any women in the city who wishes to attend.

Bus Drivers Very Popular With Youngsters

The Cross-Town bus drivers are turning out to be very popular with the youngsters of the East Hill district. There are about eight children ranging from five to eight years of age, who have found out during the past several months that "A bus driver is a child's best friend."

Each morning and noon these children travel to and from school on the bus, riding as close as possible to the driver, asking questions, showing him their little toys and what-have-you that they may be carry with them.

Whenever a driver rides home after a morning's driving there is a great rush to see who will be the lucky ones to share his seat as far as he goes, some beside him, others on his lap.

One little fellow in particular has trouble getting his ticket from his purse, but it only takes a second for the driver to help him with it, punch another nickle ride and hand it back to his seat.

Many of the boys want to punch their own ticket and they all have a great time comparing the number of rides left on their cardboard. The girls too find an empty space near the driver and admire the easy way the bus driver handles the big vehicle.

It all goes to show that some people can be taken for a ride and enjoy it.

KIDNAPPER

The intruder seated himself at the kitchen table and then demanded "the money".

"What money?" Mrs. Botticelli asked.

"The rent money," snapped the man.

RANSACKED PLACE

Then the man began to ransack the apartment. He finally selected a portable radio and a tape recorder.

After forcing Botticelli to pour two glasses of wine and drink with him, the man moved toward the door and told the young girl to come with him.

As he left the apartment with Botticelli, about 5 a. m., the man told the family:

"Don't be afraid. I'm not going to hurt them. I have three kids of my own."

The man added he only wanted the girl to carry the radio for him to his car. Once they reached the car, he shoved the girl into it and sped off.

100 Appeals Made Against Revised Assessment Notices

Panel Discussion On Farm Planning Held at Meeting

A delegation from the Moira River Conservation Authority attended the annual meeting of Zone 4 of the Ontario Conservation Authority held at Peterborough early this week. Attending the meeting from the Moira Authority were chairman T. C. Graham of Tweed; Irwin McCoy, Fred Mitchell and James Campbell, also Don Bell, fieldman for the local authority.

Reports on the Moira and Ganaraska Conservation Authorities were heard. There was also a panel discussion on farm planning in the Ganaraska watershed with farmers interviewed all maintaining there had been a marked increase in the productivity of their farms since the farm planning program was started.

Officials of the Moira watershed authority indicated that it was hoped a farm planning program would be started this year on the Moira watershed. Farmers wishing information were asked to contact either A. O. Dalrymple agricultural representative at Elrling, or Don Bell, fieldman.

Speaker at the Peterborough meeting was Frank Kortright, president of the Conservation Council of Ontario. Mr. Kortright is also chairman of the Hunters' and Anglers' Association and chairman of the Ontario Sportsman Show.

CO-OP LEADER DIES

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Albert Pelletier, 52, a pioneer leader in co-operative and credit union movements in Ontario, died Wednesday night following a lengthy illness. He had lived in Thamlin where he took part in the establishment of credit unions before moving here 14 years ago. He was manager here of the Essex Boiler and Heating Engineering Co.

TRENTON, (Special.) —Many people in Trenton feel that related assessment values cause the greatest concern these days.

To date more than 100 written appeals have been received by town assessor Charles Rogerson. Mr. Rogerson, however, considers the number of complaints only slightly above normal. Last year for example 63 ratepayers believing they had not been dealt with fairly asked for revised notices. And, explains the assessor, they appealed while the old system of assessing was the working policy.

This year the assessment system was changed. Property assessed was judged against property of similar value. The method is laid down in the Manual of Assessment for Ontario available from the Municipal Board, for use as a guide.

A different system is employed by the city of Toronto proper, where one-third or the economical value of the property is considered 'the assessment figure. Ironically 13 other municipalities making up Greater Toronto employ the system recommended in the provincial manual.

On the whole the new assessment policy increased town values from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000.

While those people affected by the new system complain actually many property owners found their assessment had been reduced. The assessor has received no appeals to the Court of Revision from the latter group.

Members Get No Official Clue On Increases

OTTAWA (CP)—Though the government is known to be considering pay increases in the Commons, members gathered in the senate chamber got no official clue to how much they will get for their four-year term here.

The speech from the throne read at the opening of Parliament did not mention members' sessional indemnities. However, informants said the question is under study by government experts and that legislation to increase the indemnities is fairly certain to be brought in some time during the current session.

The timing of the legislation, these sources said, will depend largely on when the government agrees on the type of increase to be given.

$2,000 TAX-EXEMPT

At present, all Commons members receive $6,000 a year, of which $2,000 is tax-exempt. Parliamentary committee chairmen get another $4,000. Ministers get $18,000 altogether, and the prime minister receives $22,000. The prime minister also lives in a government residence, but he pays back $5,000 a year for this.

Several ways to increase the basic indemnity are under consideration:

1. By adding $3,000, which would put it up to $9,000, and retaining the existing tax-free $2,000 in this total.

2. Paying a straight $10,000, all of which would be taxable.

3. Boosting the total to $10,000 with the full amount taxable except that exemption would be allowed for specific types of expense on the production of receipts.

Chapter Hears Talk on Cost Control System

The Bay of Quinte Chapter of the Society of Cost and Industrial Accountants held its regular meeting at the Maple Heaven Inn on Tuesday evening.

The guest speaker was George Moller, D.J.U.R., C.A., B.I.A., comptroller of Robertson-Irwin, Hamilton, who chose as his subject "Building a Plant Cost Control System." Mr. Moller, a well qualified educationist and lecturer, presented a graphic picture of the many steps needed towards building a concise "paper control" without causing foremen and operators needless lost time filling in information for the use of the accounting staff.

Mr. Moller displayed by picture some of the forms his company is using and how extra work has been eliminated in their use.

Among the many members and guests present were the following members from the Peterborough Chapter: A. Pritchford, K. Kidd, and R. Aman, P. Clarke and L. Ireland.

Medical Trust Fund Set Up By ANAF Assoc.

A year's efforts on the part of members of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans, Belleville unit, has resulted in the formation of a medical and hospitalization trust fund set up to assist members who are in need of such aid. This was revealed at a meeting of the organization in the new Front Street club rooms Thursday evening.

Spokesman for the unit said that $1,000 had been placed into this account and the amount would be added to continually, but that the balance would not be permitted to fall beneath the present amount of $1,000.

He said further that the fund would be administered by an elected committee of three members. The elections have not as yet been completed.

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED

The concrete arches of Belleville's bridges over the Moira hump their backs at the sky.

As smooth and almost as broad as sidewalks, they throw a crisp challenge at the new-comer.

"Could you walk us?"

As weeks go by the query becomes less insistent. The passing days of staid sidewalk-treading provide their own answer.

And then, one day this week, as the rays of a dying sun speared their way between the houses on the west hill, those arches got another answer.

He was young, and tall and dark and nonchalant. Skates were slung loosely over his shoulder and his feet, perhaps deliberately prepared for the occasion, were shod in running shoes.

At the base of the great arch he paused, then trotted up it lightly, too wise for this curious pace that betrays—Stop! Look! Look! Stop he went and swiftly down the other side and off the arch to drop beside his two comrades.

"Our hero," they said lightly and the trio trudged swingingly along.

It was, of course, a foolish thing to do, to risk such a slight fall for such a complete absence of reason.

As foolish as sailing a yacht in a storm, or descending into a cave, or swimming a strait—or climbing Mount Everest.

And, in its own way, a home-town proof that wide horizons, of earth or of outer space, that the unknown, of this world or the next, will never daunt man as long as he keeps alive this foolish, this life-giving, heart-warming, hope-raising readiness to accept a challenge.

A DANGEROUS STANDARD OF JUDGMENT

Under that heading the Montreal Gazette recently commented editorially on the latest volume in the official history of the Second Great War, being published by Her Majesty's Stationery Office in London.

The volume in question is on "Medical Research." It reports that the Advisory Committee set up to deal with food rationing and special diets in Britain ruled that "hopeless invalids should not get special consideration" and laid down that patients should only be given penicillin where such treatment was likely to advance knowledge of the drug's action.

The Gazette grants that these decisions were made "in a time of terrible emergency, when national survival superseded conditions of individual mercy, and produced ethical dilemmas."

It adds, however, that "it is a very dangerous business to begin setting up standards of social utility."

The Gazette is unsympathetic over what the state may do to the individual, if it is able to establish absolute control over him and if persons who "are eager to enlarge the power of the state do not show a greater protection to the individual citizen" should "place the state in a position to set up its own standards of what constitutes social usefulness."

It may be replied, although not very convincingly, that public conscience would still control all-powerful state officials. But these officials would be elected by a democratic process. Unfortunately, however, any safeguards which might be offered by such a situation, (if it were possible for such safeguards to exist in practice as well as in theory), are proven flimsy by an ever-increasing willingness on the part of many citizens to permit not merely the state but a host of other bodies, both institutions and pressure groups to advance their definitions of what constitutes social usefulness.

"The statement that hell hath no fury like a woman scorned is an open invitation to any ambitious scientist who wants to tramp out the grapes of wrath today faces a serious challenge. Can her wrath match that of the self-deprecating, self-effacing citizen confronted with a cantankerous and unrepentant wastrel who refuses to assist in the task of building a better community in the patterns of the 'socially useful' person's miraculously revealed vision.

Hitler was a prophet whose significance the "socially useful" have been quick to appreciate. The educational techniques which he adopted were so eminently successful in turning members of the Hitler Youth Movement into degenerates and barbarians that it is frightening to think that these same techniques, applied to the purposes of good rather than of evil, could make over the world. That, at least, has been claimed by more than one dreamer about many times and Utopia.

And so the propagandi mills grind today and we are all grist for it, all "individuals with one or many quirks which make the definition would be difficult to frame, transform into a beautiful mass of conformists.

The danger inherent in this mass assault is, quite obviously, the inevitable possibility that arriving at any definition of "social utility" which satisfies the conscience of all of us. And, even if this were possible, it would be no guarantee that the definition would be right.

But perhaps this social pressure against the non-conformist has always existed, throughout the ages. Perhaps it is just a case that today the individualist is less willing to pay the price for being different. If that is an accurate appraisal of the situation our plight is hopeless. Already the "socially useful" have stunned the ranks of those stubborn and anti-social people who persist in believing that a man ought to live his own life—and not spend his days as a member of a crowd all whole-heartedly devoting every second to being socially useful to one another.

If I were rich as millionaires, He built of others he aware.

Glass of Water Cost Thousands

(Manchester Guardian)

How many natural disasters that Sir Winston Churchill once drank the most expensive glass of water in the world?

When he addressed a Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1949 it was the biggest wireless "hookup" for a decade. Near the end of his speech Sir Winston took a drink of water, for he did not like to wax drinking as in other things and the end of his speech was delayed by almost a minute.

The broadcasting company, rather than cut him off, let him overrun his time, cancelling the "commercial" that it had to sell to compensate the advertiser and the rest of the universal silence that had to pay $7,500. "And serve them right", one can hear the opponents of sponsored radio mutter.

Vesuvius Gets Hot

(BBC London Letter)

It is part of the duties of a BBC foreign correspondent to examine the political temperature of the countries to which they are accredited, but now the Naples correspondent's home correspondent, Christopher Serpell, talked about temperature of a very different kind.

He had been to see Mount Vesuvius, the great volcano near Naples which in 79 AD destroyed the cities of Pompei and Herculaneum.

Vesuvius last belched fire and smoke during the war, in 1944, when Allied troops stationed near by had a front row seat for one of nature's greatest and most awesome spectacles. Since then Vesuvius has been going through a rare period of inactivity.

In the past such lulls have been followed by unusually violent eruptions and today experts are studying the mountain's every move for recently they have noticed a number of small earthquakes on the slopes near the crater.

The scientist went to take the temperature of the mountain and discovered, so Serpell said, that sixteen inches below the ordinary yellow spot the temperature registered was 900 degrees Fahrenheit. The last time Vesuvius' temperature was taken at this point was in January, 1952, when it was only 700 F., so it seems that the volcano is rapidly heating mounting.

The intrepid professor later went down inside the shallow crater and started digging, with the idea of testing the temperature in the hole he had dug. He did, unscrewing to a depth of only four inches when he found that it was impossible to go further, as he met with an impenetrable wall of red-hot cinders.

He went on to another yellow blotch inside the crater where the temperature was already 1,292 degrees. An escape of acid gases was unbearable so he could not take the biotch, and particularly the presence of sulphuretted acid, convinced him that another eruption is near.

After 1944 the vertical tube in the bowels of Vesuvius which gives vent to the molten lava must have been blocked by rocks and ash, the lava flowed, as it cooled. The pressure of molten matter beneath, has gradually increased since then and it is thought that a new column of lava is forcing its way to the surface.

Symptoms of this, say the scientists, are the acid gases on the volcano's flanks which reach the surface only when pushed upward by lava.

Red-hot cinders only a few inches below the floor of the crater have also been found, and the presence of the congealed material of the last eruption, that now is almost overcome by the heat and pressure from below, may be merely a short while before the rich, fertile slopes of this great mountain are again devoured by crawling streams of lava.

Finns Flock To Factories

(National Geographic).

With Finland's basic economy shattered by war, there was a boom in factory building in postwar years into of thousands of Finnish citizens have forsaken farms and flocked to their factories.

The vigorous metal industry employs 80,000 workers, double the number in 1939. The shipbuilding industry has tripled its capacity of 1944. Half of the country's four million forests are annually engaged in industrial pursuits, compared with 20 percent one fourth fifty years ago. Helsinki, Tampere and other Finnish cities are crowded with former rural residents.

Forests are Finland's "green gold"—are still the nation's major asset. Lumber, pulp, paper, wood, and prefabricated houses are leading exports. Over 70,000 are employed in wood-working plants.

Nearly three-fourths of the land's 130,182 square miles are forested, mainly in spruce, pine and birch. Trees, in the northern half times the size of Great Britain and slightly larger than New Mexico, contains more than 60, 000 lakes.

There are only 7.5 million acres of arable land, against 40 million acres of forest, and agricultural production has always been low. Finland, like Canada, is rich in clay and barren. Finland is the world's largest producer of glazing clays.

Summers are short but brilliant. In mid-summer the sun shines at least 18 hours a day. Winters are fierce and factories close at 2 p.m. permitting collectors to head out to fishing beaches and parks.

Finns are sports enthusiasts. The country boasts more than 500 athletic fields, and over 700,000 citizens are enrolled in various sports organizations. In a walking contest with Sweden in 1941, no less

Penelopes Vary Widely

(New York Times).

Homer's Penelope justly gained the admiration of the world for her husband was spending close to twenty years at war in a foreign land and having fine adventures while she was home, leading dull adventures with ladies to whom the word siren could justly be applied. Penelope facilitated all invitations to invoke the Enoch Arden law by announcing unequivocally the web she wove during the day she undid in the privacy of seclusion at night. Why this fooled her suitors for so long is another one of those curious features that we don't know anything about weaving.

Penelope was the only one we must try to make this point as specific. Penelopes are numerous for the very virtue that Homer's Penelope displayed is a member of the pitiless tyranny, has been too much of. The Bronze Age, as far as we can make out, has lived too pure a life. Her Penelope, the Stone Age Penelope, Zoo platypus named Cecil has apparently been living on a primitive cultural level. Penelope and Cecil, it seems, have been denied politics, the cold-war, the crisis in the cattle industry and why it is that the Russians rather than the platypuses are regarded as the world's menace.

But that was all. The Bronze Age Penelope has been introduced to the task laid upon her. She has foaled the Iliad and the Odyssey over a period of time. She has extracted extra rations, for which grateful citizens have brought from afar on the supposition that she was starving. She has made a little platypus, or perhaps one should say platypodes. Discovery came at 11 o'clock on Thursday. There was nothing whatever on the envelope was interested in eggs, nests or tiny garments. It had been making the best of a good thing. One hardly knows how to begin to think about Penelope's new career from and chief and the press screw was steel. It was beckoned and had a heavy-hearing balance wheel. "You can-tast straw.

Cider-Making, Old Style

(Ottawa Journal)

Apple cider is a well-known amber-colored liquid for which various methods have been discovered and thoroughly tested. Until a century ago most farmers figured on making a few barrels of cider each fall for prime vinegar and then let it hang-dittered as to which apples made the best-flavored vinegar, but grandfather always insisted that a half-and-half combination of Baldwin and Northern Spy produced a hearty tang and zip that could not be surpassed by other kinds of apples.

After the apples were sorted in fall a 14-year-old knew he was in for a hard Saturday's work. The old-fashioned cider mill was the catalogue, was "positively the best cider mill that there ever went in't". The framework was oak; the mill parts were cast iron and steel and the press screw was steel. It was beckoned and had a heavy-hearing balance wheel. "You can-tast straw.

Another feature of natural childbirth which the hair fallen-ed and misinformed and their medical exploiters fail to understand is to recognize is that the woman undergoing natural childbirth has only to say when she wants anesthesia or drug to ease pain—and she gets it. Any one who tries to tell you anesthetics and/or analgesics are not used in natural childbirth, is in error. As a matter of fact either or both are used in most cases, although it is pretty convincing evidence of the superiority of natural childbirth, over all other methods that in nearly one-third of all case patients not only do not ask for but will refuse to take anything of the sort.

Prospective parents who do not want to be patronized, scientifically exploited and pushed around in the 20th century institution may learn something to their advantage by asking Maternity Center Association, 48 E. 92nd St., New York 28, N.Y., what physicians in their community use the method. I'm sorry I can't provide the information but the unfamiliarity ing the data would be a whale of a lot of extra work for me, and I don't get as much time on the washing from the Monday before after Sunday's papers in this job.

I'm distinctly, however, convinced that intredip prospective parents have to leave their dignity, if not the seat of the floor of the center, the "mother is considered a person, not a thing, the father an impersonal fetus, the father is considered to be a necessary if new life just another cold-blooded surgical operation" (quoted from the Maternity Center Association).

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

NATURAL CHILDBIRTH AND ROOMING-IN

One of the features of natural childbirth which undoubtedly appeals, to the 19th century humanitarian is the obstructions generally dished up during labor, delivery and after, as much time as possible in the first days after birth of their baby.

The lengths to which many hospital superintendents, head nurses, staff physicians and even private practitioners go in the attempt to keep mother and wife apart at this important time is sickening to contemplate. For many there do not hesitate to tell prospective customers that it is because they are ignorant and/or credulous, that there is a law or perhaps a regulation of the board of health against permitting a patient's husband to be about the place.

For the benefit of any of my readers who look about with a closed hood I repeat what I have tried to say many times, that any one who makes that outrageous statement is either ignorant or deliberately out to trust in any capacity.

No childbirth hospital that has the intredip prospective parents have to leave their dignity, if not the seat of the floor of the center, the "mother is considered a person, not a thing, the father an impersonal fetus, the father is considered to be a necessary if new life just another cold-blooded surgical operation" (quoted from the Maternity Center Association).

NO LIGHTS

One evening last summer I was driving my family along a country road several boys on bicycles. They were riding without lights. In fact their bicycles did not seem to be equipped with lights.

I thought how dangerous procedure, and as I drove along the thought came into my mind that there was something highly symbolic about these youngsters. There are many people today driving through life without any lights. There are many people in the home, the Church, the school, and the community make them. Although many modern homes are as good as the best in the past, many parents very decidedly lack the wholesome moral examples to their children.

Furthermore, there are literally millions of children growing up today who know practically nothing about religion. The answers given to their religious problems are theological questions, are almost unbelievable.

My observation of young people is that they are much better than anyone would have a right to expect considering that we have had the world wars a present-day and that present-day adults are not too conscientious about the examples they are setting.

No lights! No lights; And life's highway has seldom been darker than it is right now.

Was Threatened With Machine Gun Witness Says

WOODSTOCK (CP)—A star-gun, along with 36 other exhibits, were entered as evidence at a special court session Thursday, so bear charge against Henry Elliott, Lankmow, of shooting a loaded then gun with intent to cause grievous bodily harm.

Two witnesses were called by Crown Attorney C. W. Whaley. Elliott through defence counsel John Berridge entered a not guilty plea to the charge.

The crown is attempting to prove that Elliott was the stay-gun wielding man who fired a fusilade of shots into the farm home of George McKeowan, 49, Embro, in the early hours of Sept. 26.

A neighbor of McKeowan's, Harry Birtch, testified a man came to his door Sept. 26 and threatened him with a machine gun. Mr. Birtch later described the gun as a stay-gun. The main fact when he testified there was no car available in front of his farm.

KNOCK ON DOOR

Mr. Birtch testified that Saturday morning someone knocked at his door. "I opened the window and asked who was there. Someone said there was an accident down the road and wanted to use the phone."

McKeowan described how when he opened the door a man jumped in front of him levelling a gun at him.

McKeowan slammed the door shut and jumped back into the kitchen. "Almost simultaneously with the shutting of the door," Mr. Burney said, the shots started. My dog dropped dead at my feet with a bullet in its throat."

He said there had been three bursts through the door and one later in his car which had been parked near the house. He could not identify the person who fired the gun.

Magistrate R. C. Groom adjourned the special session until Wednesday.

Receives Word Of Son Not Seen For Eight Years

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A family of recent immigrants at nearby Harrow has received word from a son they haven't seen for eight years and whom they believed dead.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Loecher, who brought their family to Canada three years ago, said they received a letter recently from their son, Andy, Jr., whom they had believed died while a prisoner of the Russians.

Andy, who served with the German Army during the Second World War, said he escaped from Russia and now is in the American sector of Austria.

Members of the family last saw Andy shortly before he was taken prisoner in 1944. They last heard from him three years ago.

SUPERTEST SURGING POWER

Main Entrance To Trinity College Blocked Up

TORONTO (CP)—The University of Toronto's "character war" has taken a new turn. Someone bricked up the main entrance to Trinity College.

Ever since university president Dr. Sydney Smith called for more individuality and less conformity among students in a speech last month, the tempo of goings-on has increased.

Two weeks ago the engineers staged a panty raid on St. Hilda's girls' residence. Then someone stole the architect's model of Trinity's new wing. The Trinity provost, Rev. R. S. K. Seeley, reported his chair missing.

Campus signs surrounding Victoria College and Burwash Hall disappeared.

The bricks were blocking Trinity's rotunda early Thursday. No one knew who put them there.

Dr. Smith declined to comment.

India's Most Pressing Problem Still Is Food

CALGARY (CP)—A woman who has spent 41 years in India as an administrator says India's most pressing problem still is food.

Mrs. A. A. Scott of Toronto, wife of the superintendent of the United Church of Canada, believes the question of whether India ever will become Communist depends on the ability of the Indian government to solve the food problem.

Most of India's peoples are vegetarians, and there is great suffering when grain is scarce and vegetable prices climb beyond reach of the ordinary people.

WOMEN CONSERVATIVE

On the point played by women in the Republic of India, Mrs. Scott said that region women that converted up at the polls when India held its first independent election in 1951.

Women are the most conservative members of the country. In the college with which Mrs. Scott and her husband were associated there are 120 women students.

Mrs. Scott says the opinion of the Indians is that an educated woman makes a better wife than an uneducated one. Marriages in India are still "arranged" but young people want wives who have been to school, and they want to have a look at their prospective wives. No more taking them sight unseen.

The caste system has died out greatly in the last 41 years, Mrs. Scott reports. There is little distinction in the schools but there is still a certain amount of friction in the smaller villages and, lowing, girls; by leaders or Mission Bands, Explorers, G.O.I.T., and by any other groups for children and girls; by officers of adult W.M.S. groups, including Young Women's, Evening and Senior Auxiliaries and officers of other adult organizations in the church. Leadership will be given by the training course, as outlined above.

ATTEND EVERY SESSION

If you are a teacher, leader, or officer you should check the date and place of the nearest Presbyterian Institute, and plan to attend every session in order to receive the maximum help the Training Institute affords; arrange with other teachers, and officers, and leaders to go in a body.

If you are not a leader, but a group member; support the project with prayer and interest; provide transportation for those who would like to attend and cooperate with those who do what they return to your group with new ideas and suggestions.

Canadian Regt. Has 'Adopted' Orphans' Home

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HOENHE, Germany (CP)—The orphanage stands amid russet woods in a quiet country lane. Inside 80 children scamper as any happy lessons unaware they will never know a real father or mother.

Such is Hof Bottom Kinderheim, the second home for orphans and illegitimate children run by the Lutheran church, and it is possibly the only place in Germany where the word Kanadisch, meaning Canadian, is spoken with real pleasure and affection.

That is because Canadians have taken the orphans under their wing, giving the Canada shoulder its first special position. Elsewhere in Germany, however good the feeling for Yank and American soldiers is for Canadian soldier is just another foreigner to them.

It's a different story at Hoenhe. Children are a chance remark by a British colonel's, while at a cocktail party.

Col. John Poe, commander of the 79th field regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery, and Capt. Tex Dossett, now back in Chilliwack, B.C., met the British wife's idea and decided the 79th should adopt the orphanage. The Germans had taken and all the children used to get for Christmas was a piece of soap or a tube of tooth paste.

The adoption idea clicked. In a single month, soldiers stationed at Hoehne chipped in £35. They built a special pension. Elsewhere in Germany, however good the feeling for Yank and American soldiers is for Canadian soldier is just another foreigner to them.

Agt.-James Hegan, Australian-born bachelor serving with the 79th, bought presents out of his own pocket and took them to his favorite orphan, a bright-eyed girl named Gerda. Sgt. Colin Neilhorpe of Granby, Que., and Regina also second and Capt. Donald Howson of Stoney Lake, Ont., a doctor, went to Hof Bottom assertably to polish up his German.

"It's a sad story, a real tear jerker," say soldiers at Hoehne, recalling the case of the unidentified Canadian photographer who took shots of the orphans with tears trickling down his face. How the lament is that the Canadians are leaving Hoehne, and going home, depriving them of a chance to help the orphans further.

The children range in age from three months to 15 years. Most are boys and daughters of displaced persons.

The children are segregated according to age. They are so short of space one infant is quartered with the superintendent, Fraulein Stage, a rather reserved woman who now greets Canadians with delight. All the rooms bear the faint smell of bed plumbing, a feature of many German homes.

Christianity Never Found Wanting

"Christianity has never been tried and found wanting—it just hasn't been tried," said Col. E. W. Etter, of the Salvation Army, as he pointed out this fact to the members of the Christ Church, A.Y.A. when he spoke to them yesterday.

His basic belief that the Christian way is the right way and that, if Christianity were practiced as it was preached there wouldn't have been any need to change the wording of two world wars. One reason, the speaker thought, why the ending of the Second World War was not marked in the clearest way the Big War was, lay in the unfortunate fact that, although it is nine years since the ceasing of hostilities, no peace treaties have been signed. Treaties were signed six months after World War I.

28 YEARS AS MISSIONARY

Col. Etter, whose territory extends from Gananoque on the east to Trenton on the west, Picton on the south and Fenelon Falls on the north, has been in missionary work for 28 years, his most part of the time in Central and South America. English by birth, he has been in this country only eight months.

Drawing on his experiences as a youth in England, and as a missionary in Brazil and Chile, he pointed out how the ways of the world are changed by the Christian way, the fatalistic attitude of the South American is as little cash and all the children used to get for Christmas was a piece of soap or a tube of tooth paste.

The adoption idea clicked. In a single month, soldiers stationed at Hoehne chipped in £35. They built a special pension. Elsewhere in Germany, however good the feeling for Yank and American soldiers is for Canadian soldier is just another foreigner to them.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By HEATHCOE FAIRFAX

Her Parents Have Picked Out A Boy Friend For Her

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm a senior in high school and 17 years old. My problem is my parents. They want to pick my friends for me.

There is a boy in my class who is everything a girl could want, and he is what I want.' I know I love him and he loves me, I'm not sure. We go along swell, but my parents have picked out one one they say is for me, and I'm so mixed up I don't know what to do. I hate to disobey my parents, but I hate to stay away from the boy I like, too. He is intelligent and has a very nice personality, so they can't have anything against him, while the boy they picked out for me does not impress me at all.

What should I do? I'm very confused.

S.S.

Dear S.S.:

Do you think perhaps if you gave in a little, too, and you could agree at a compromise that would at least, be more satisfactory than the present attitudes?

What I mean is, couldn't you ask your parents if they wouldn't be willing to let you go out some of the time with the boy you special-ly like, and at other times with the boy who is their favorite? While you may not like the second one as well as the first, if you showed yourself willing to do something they want you to do, it's not impossible that they, in turn would be willing to go part of the way with your wishes, too.

You're much more likely to get something of what you want if you don't insist on having everything, and it's certainly more satisfactory than getting nothing at all. So don't give your parents the idea that you must go exclusively with one boy, and that one the boy of your own choice. Take the attitude that it's a good thing for a girl to know all kinds of boys, after all, is really the wisest plan.

When Two Friends Fall Constantly, It's Better To Break Up

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I would like to ask you for some advice concerning my boy friend and myself.

We are very much in love with each other but constantly quarrel. We've talked about this, and tried to keep from quarreling, but we always be the slightest thing will end up in a quarrel.

He's a wonderful boy and always very considerate of everyone. My parents and my friends like him, but here are crazy about him. I do not want to break up with him, but I'm afraid that one of these quarrels is going to lead to a break-up sooner or later.

Do you think you could possibly help?

T.

Dear T.:

I could help you a whole lot better if you had given me any idea at all of what you two quarrel about. If I knew what sort of things you disagree so violently about, I would be better able to figure out the basic reason why you get so angry at each other. Why don't you write me a longer letter and tell me about some of the quarrels you have, just what leads up to them, how you settle them and any other details that might help me analyze them?

In general, my feeling is that when two people are constantly quarreling it's far better if they do break up. What can they get from such a relationship except unhappiness and emotional tension? Real friendship is supposed to bring peace and happiness, not the opposite. So if you and this boy can't adjust yourselves any better than you seem able to do, I'd suggest that you begin to look at your friendship realistically and ask yourself honestly if it wouldn't be better for both of you to find new friends with whom you could really enjoy yourselves.

LET THIS YOUNG MAN AND HIS MOTHER SETTLE THEIR OWN DIFFERENCES

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 17 and a senior in high school. I've been going with a boy almost a year, and we are very much devoted to each other.

When we first started to go steady, his mother didn't say anything, in fact she approved of me, but it is an entirely different story now. She forbids him to see me because she thinks that he is too young to get serious. I don't agree, as he is 20 years old and car make up his own mind.

Would you please advise me as to what I should do about this problem?

Dear J. P.:

J.P.

I'm afraid I don't see that this situation is really your problem. Instead it would feel it is entirely up to the young man.

Do you think his mother's objection to your friendships solely because she thinks he is "too young"? Don't you think it might possibly be that she feels it is you who are "too young" for a young man 20 years old? After all, you are still a teen-ager in high school, while he is presumably in business, with interests somewhat different from yours. I would think it not impossible that his mother may be of the opinion that he should choose girl friends in his own age group, and with interests closer to his own.

I am always willing to concede, however, that there may be exceptional cases where a teen-ager and an older boy are unusually compatible and there seems no reason for one of these. Even so, it is up to the boy, not you, to adjust the matter with his mother, and my advice would be that you don't attempt to interfere between them.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BECKMAN

A Fine Example Of Tact and Consideration

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

Last evening I was with a group of people, all of whom I know, had far more education and social advantages than I have. But I am determined to learn all about etiquette "know-how," both for my social life and for my business life, that I pay close attention to what is done and said by people whose manners I admire. Last evening I noticed an occurrence that was new to me, I would like your point of view about it.

One man in the group is a writer and lecturer on current events, quite well-known and very delightful in manner. During a discussion, one of the women, a charming, elderly woman, made a mispronunciation a word as she was asking him a question. This mispronunciation seemed quite startling, as it was a mispronunciation of a quite common word. In his answer to her question and in his explanation, he had to use that particular word several times, and every time he used it he mispronounced it just as the elderly woman had mispronounced it. Was this necessary—and should it always be done?

Hal B.

Congratulations to you, sir, on having made yourself so socially aware that you observed the fine example of Courtesy. Yes, this gentleman's deliberately mispronouncing the word the elderly woman had mispronounced showed his age-less tact, his kind and distinguished manners. If he had pronounced the word correctly he would have embarrassed her, possibly have confused or hurt her. Blessings on such considerate people and their feelings of others!

Why Should Wife Not Appear At Husband's Stag Dinner

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband is planning to give a stag dinner here in our home next month. His guests will be a group of his fraternity brothers who are to make plans for a certain college project for their reunion next June. He and I have decided on all the details of the dinner (which is to be served buffet style), the menu, extra service, and so forth. But I think that as hostess of our 20-ft. living room I should welcome the guests to our home, and perhaps occasionally appear during the dinner to see that everything is provided. But my husband insists, and very vigorously, that it is absolutely incorrect for the wife to appear at her husband's stag dinner. Which of us is right about this?

Reader

Your husband is right, lady. You should not appear at any time, before, during, or after the stag dinner. And it is your responsibility to plan every detail of the menu and the service so that your appearance will not be necessary. Your husband is asking for your proper cooperation . . . and you should enthusiastically give him.

What Form Of Name?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have recently been married. When I order an article from a store, to be sent to me at my house or address, what form of name should I give to the salesperson—"Mrs. Mary Brown" or "Mrs. John Brown"?

Uncertain

Give your formal name . . . Mrs. John Brown. (Your charge-account in a store should also be in your formal name.)

BEAUTY

REMODELLING THE FIGURE

While the ideal figure at the moment features the lifted chest and normal bust, it also stresses the flat abdomen and neat, slender hips. These last requirements are impossible to achieve, however, if a woman her cream puffs and raids the refrigerator between meals.

As long as the overweight woman keeps feeding her fat cells they are not only going to grow, but they are going to raise large families. It is easy enough to battle them in the beginning, but when they develop into pounds of human suet it is sometimes slow-going.

Cutting down on fats, sweets and starches will do the job and it isn't going to kill you. In fact, if you happen to be a heavyweight, you may be as tired as an old gray horse most of the time, just jogging around that entire weight.

The majority of women who have large figures do not have started to lie about their birthdays are heavier than they should be. It may be by only three or twenty but those should be nipped off for the sake of health as well as appearance. These women get little or no exercise. Do we hear groans and protests from those who are working the domestic treadmill? Well, housework is not corrective exercise. The right kind will include deep breathing and will also include good posture. Standing tall all the time and tucking in the tum-

QUESTION:

Thank you for mailing my last request to me . . . please print the recipe for Queen Elizabeth cake. I have eaten two pieces lately baked by different people and the 3 pieces of cake were very different, so thought you would have the right recipe.—Grace R.

ANSWER:

I'm stuck Grace. I haven't the slightest trace of it. I've asked all of the Home Ec. girls that I know and the library cannot find it in any of this year's magazines. Readers will have to come to our rescue please. As soon as the dependables send it to me I'll print it here, so watch. I'm waiting for someone to send it. Metropolitan Cake.

QUESTION:

(From E. L. asking for Marmalade Cookies.)

ANSWER NO. 2:

The recipe I gave you E. L. may have been wrong. I am wondering if this is the one you desire.

MARMALADE COOKIES

(Drop)

Measure into sifter 2 cups once-sifted flour (preferably pastry), 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-2 cup coarsely chopped pecans. Measure 1-2 cup shortening (or mixture of shortening and butter) and cream it well then begin to add 1-2 cup sugar gradually while beating until thick and light. Beat in 1 beaten egg yolk. Add 1-2 teaspoon vanilla and 1-2 cup thick orange marmalade. Sift as much of the dry ingredients in sifter as you can and tip out the floured pecans and beat until mixed. Drop by small spoonfuls on buttered cookie sheet, spacing. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 15 or 20 minutes. Sis Boom.

QUESTION:

. . . still enjoying your column very much. I would like a recipe for a good rich dark fruit cake to fit in a pan 8x8x2. I never have made such a cake before so I'm afraid I will need your explicit directions. May I also have my 5 a habit that, without special dieting, may keep the waistline fairly youthful and trim.

Many men have a five minute workout before taking the morning shower. Women need such a daily practice even more than men do, because many men play golf or find some other means of physical activity.

Every present, they are enemies of the neat silhouette—cushioned chairs into which women slump and fold up instead of sitting erect as they would on straight-backed chairs; the family bus in which women ride instead of hoofing it; indoor activities which leave no time for outdoor sports and recreation. But one doesn't have to yield to the enemy. Will power and a little exercise each day will accomplish wonders.

a nice almond paste. . . could I have have recipe for light fruit cake to fit 8x8x2 pan or may I use pyrex dish for it. . . please print and a topping for this. . . best wishes to you and yours.—Ruth Grace R.

ANSWER:

Ruth, could you be . . . patient with me for a week or maybe less? I'm working on the 1933 fruit cake. I'm sure you will give you them as soon as I am satisfied. I love the mauve tint, Ruth Grace.

QUESTION:

I am one of your faithful followers. So far every problem I have encountered has been met at one time or another in your column. . . . I make all my own bread, using white and whole wheat flour. . . . I have noticed a difference in (little advertised brand) and (widely advertised) . . . the former is cheaper and darker, and somewhat coarser in the grain. . . . would you advise me which would be better considering the above points and also from a health standpoint. . . . I read that really white flour has much of the germ and bran removed . . . you may be interested in my monthly food budget. . . . my husband is a teacher and we have four children under 10. On a teacher's salary one has to be very thrifty. We eat healthfully and adhere to the Seven Basic Food Rules. Except for the odd night out, we eat at home at every ill. Our food costs for the month are under $600 beginning each month I buy all the staples and canned goods for the month, by the case when possible. . . fresh fruits and vegetables for 2 weeks, and put the floured pecans in refrigerator; meat is frozen in freezing chamber. . . . we have a varied diet, but cut down on steaks or exotic fruits. . . . we use powdered skim milk in largest containers and margarine in place of butter. . . . I work my menus around special low-priced items. I make my own cake and cookie mixes and twice a week I make bread—3 whole wheat, 1 white, and 1 oatmeal. Sometimes I twist or braid 1 loaf into a different shape each time just for a laugh . . . we can give the children little extras such as ballet, music, and swimming lessons. Along with, the money saved by close buying, hope you have not been too bored by all or this.—Florences M. T.

ANSWER:

Bored? I It gave me a terrific lift. Would you mind sending me the cake and cookie mix recipes? For health's sake use the darker flour, and in addition throw in extra wheat germ bought at 11 cents per lb. Keep up the whole wheat flour routine—it could be the difference between pain and health. The whole wheat contains nearly all of the minerals needed for good health, besides many of the vitamins. Congratulations on your intelligent program.

TABERNACLE W.M.S.

The November meeting of the W.M.S. of Tabernacle United Church was held in the ladies' parlor with the president, Mrs. May, in the chair, who said in part: "we are thankful for the church at home, that let us work hard for it, and let us take Christ to every home in other lands."

Mrs. Peel was in charge of worship service and second and third chapters of the study book "Where'er the Sun", assisted by Mrs. Robb, Mrs. Fisher and Miss E. Horton. The theme of the worship service "The Church, a Unique Fellowship."

The two chapters of the study book "One in Purpose," and "Christ the Answer" were read first by Mrs. Fisher, as her part, telling of the work in Siam. She told of a Christian International camp for students at Chiengrai, Thailand, (Siam), in 1949. There were 37 in all. Four from Japan; two from the Philippines; two from Malaya; two from Burma; two from the United States, and the rest from sections of Thailand. Four of the work campers were Buddhists. Two missionaries were from Japan; a Presbyterian and a Congregational Christian. Twelve of the delegates were girls.

EXPERIMENTAL CAMP

This camp was an experiment and it proved most valuable to the lives of these young people. One, a student from Japan, and one from the Philippines. That was a bad combination, for the Japanese had killed the father and brother in cold blood, and the girl student from Japan dreaded meeting him.

During one of the evening meetings, they each told how the feeling was about each other's country. Then they resolved to be friends despite the feeling they had before. Later the young girl wrote a letter to the Christian young people in the Philippines which appeared in "Philippino Christian Youth"—a lovely letter showing how the seeds of love had been planted in the work camp.

SOUTHERN INDIA

Mrs. Robb gave a reading on Southern India, telling how the church in India is no longer in the hands of foreign missionaries, but rests mainly with the Indian Christians themselves. India's own "National Missionary Society" has as its motto, "Every Christian an Evangelist," and its goal, "To win India for Christ."

Miss Horton told of a great Indian mystic Sadhu Sundar Singh. When asked why Christianity was an important to him, and what he had found in it, he did not find in other religions, he answered simply, "I find Christ." He belonged to India's fourth largest religion. He was a Silh. The first three were, Hinduism, Islam and Christianity.

He told of being sent to a Christian Mission school by his father, and later left it and did many things to show his hatred but later became converted and told of his dream or vision and Christ speaking to him. He became a wonderful Christian overcoming many obstacles and hatred from his own people.

LOVES INDIA

Mrs. Paul told of Dr. Ida Scudder, now 83 years old, as saying she loved India, "There is so much to do." Today the Christian Medical College she founded at Vellore to train women doctors for Indian women, has been expanded into a complete medical school for both men and women. Eighty per-cent of all India's nurses come from Christian schools like Vellore.

When the synods' medical unit closed their camp, at which they had given out powdered milk to children and mothers, and set up a clinic of its own, giving simple treatments which they had been taught to give, each member took this pledge:

To pray for at least one non-Christian friend and talk to him about Christ;

To study at least one book on Christian faith, and one on some rural question;

To learn at least one other Indian language besides his own. "Jesus Shall Reign" was their motto.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. May with reports from the officers. There were 46 calls made.

Mrs. Robb read a letter asking donations for Korea or draw sheets and other articles for hospitals.

The members were asked to donate for baby being packed soon for Korea.

Will The Bloomer Girl Make a Comeback?

By JAMES BACON

LOS ANGELES (AP)—That relic of the Charleston era—the bloomer girl in a wool swim suit—may make her comeback on the beach next year.

Though swim suit makers now preach a trend away from, nudity at the seashore, they'll never make the Bikini unpopular. That was demonstrated Monday at a preview of the 1954 California suits which showed more bloomers than a 1925 YWCA volleyball tournament.

The occasion was opening day of the third annual Press Week of the California fashion creators.

Some 30 leading woman fashion editors attended.

BIKINI—BUT NO PHOTOS

The lone Bikini model stopped the show for the lone males—cameramen and two photographers. But an unheard-of rebellion in this citadel of cheesecake prevented any picture-taking of the Bikini.

Shirley Tegge, the blonde model who displayed the brief attire, said:

"I have a husband and a job. It's more important that I keep the husband."

The manufacturer's spokesman merely said:

"We don't expect this suit to sell in Boston, but we have plenty of orders from France."

WOOL WILL BE BACK

Gantner of California predicted that the wool suit will make the big beachwear news of 1954.

This mild sensation came after a day's showing of many don't-go-near-the-water suits in bronadcloths, velvets and laces.

Rosemary Reid also came up with a version of the bloomer in doubloon panties that looked like something out of an Errol Flynn costume picture. And with jewels

Designer Says Men Afraid To Depart from Rut

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP) — Men are cowards, says Elsa Schiaparelli, French fashion designer, because they're afraid to depart from the well-trodden rut in their habits of dress.

Schiaparelli thinks men should wear bright-colored dinner jackets and light, comfortable evening shirts, maybe with ruffles. She advocates daring in sports clothes and draws the line only at shorts for business wear. In the city and during business hours, she concedes, men look better in regular suits. If they wear shorts, she asks, what are they going to do about those hairy legs?

These remarks came at a luncheon celebrating the coming of age of Schiaparelli Inc., a sort of omnibus corporation co-ordinating all the various interests of this small, Italian-born designer in the United States market.

The magic of the Schiaparelli name, it has been found, will sell almost anything, from children's snow suits to men's neckties. This astute business woman discovered as long ago as 1936 that the public loves big names.

In her new French-American corporation, Schiaparelli is working with a group of "affiliates" who are U.S. manufacturers. She does the designing; they produce and market the product. Everything bears her signature.

Schiaparelli sees no limit to her enterprises, believes that everything we use, from toothpaste to garbage pails, could be improved by good design. Her immediate aim, she says, is to design a completely co-ordinated wardrobe for every man, woman and child in the United States.

MARMORA

District Marks RemembranceDay

MARMORA — The observance of Remembrance Day in the Marmora district was much on par with previous years and the rainy weather of the morning was brayed by many residents of the village to do honor to the memory of the fallen for the two World Wars.

Arrangements for services were largely in the hands of Marmora Branch Canadian Legion, with Major Percy Gray in charge.

In the parade, which left the Legion Hall for the Memorial Hall, marched members of Marmora Branch No 327, Canadian Legion, a flag representative of its Ladies' Auxiliary and a large turn out of the Girl Guides.

Major P. Gray, was in charge of the full parade, and president, Mrs. Jennie Wellman, in charge of the Ladies' Auxiliary, and Captain Mrs. H. York, and Lieut. Mrs. L. Sedore, in charge of the Girl Guides.

The service was conducted by Past Chaplain Canon J. M. Brownlie, and consisted of prayers, Scripture reading and a telling address on the significance of the day. "Last Post" and "Reveille" were sounded by Thomas Brooks, and the two minutes silence observed.

WREATHS PLACED.

Wreaths were placed between the two memorial tablets as follows: Province of Ontario, Capt. Mrs. H. York; Marmora Chapter I.O.D.E., Mrs. W. M. Regan; Ladies' Auxiliary of Canadian Legion, Mrs. Jennie Wellman; Marmora Girl Guides, Rose Ann Meehan; guards, Theresa Clairmont, and Anna Lynch; Marmora and Lake Township Councils, Mrs. Norman Hipson; I.U.M.M.S.W. Local 898, Donald Flynn; U.S.W.A., Local 4854, Leslie Rundle; Marmora Branch 327, Canadian Legion, President Stanley Kerr.

It was noticed that a greater number of stores had "Remembrance" displays in their windows than formerly.

At Deloro, the advent of the 11th hour was marked with the sounding of the plant siren. Under Comrade George Osborne, ex-servicemen of both wars, among the employees, paraded to the village hall to join there a fair attendance of villagers assembled for the annual service which was conducted by Rev. K. J. Crawford of Marmora, who gave appropriate readings and recited hymns and poems in keeping with the thoughts of the day. He was assisted in the prayers by Comrade W. J. Cottrell, past chaplain of Marmora Branch, Canadian Legion, on behalf of the Deloro Company, E. G. Walsh, general manager; and on behalf of Deloro village council, Reeve C. H. Borland laid wreaths beneath the two tablets, giving the names of those enlisting in the two World Wars.

Workers at the Bathlehem Iron Mine paused in their labors on hearing the siren and kept the two minutes silence, which was interposed between "Last Post" and "Reveille", sounded by Robert Sanderson, on the Look-Out.

Mrs. George Reid and daughter, Mrs. Murray of Wainwright, Alta., and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Murray, of Peterborough, were Sunday guests of Mrs. W. R. Gens. Mrs. Reid remaining overnight with her hostess.

Among those in attendance at St. Andrew's turkey supper on Wednesday evening were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Devern, and Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Bell, of Peterborough; Dr. and Mrs. G. A. Stewart, Mrs. H. A. Stewart, and Mrs. S. C. Boyd, of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jones and Dr. E. A. Carleton of Stirling, and Miss Eileen Soulby worth of Toronto.

Mrs. P. Vandervoort, of Belleville, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. Hewitt.

St. Andrew's Women's Association held a most successful turkey supper in St. Andrew's Hall on Wednesday. The attendance of over 300 constituted a record for some years and did not exhaust all provision made for this excellent repast.

SCOHARIE—Miss Norma Foster entertained the county executive of the Junior Farmers at her home on Monday evening.

A number of young people attended a Junior Farmer dance at Allisonville Hall on Friday evening.

Challenges View Fatness Factor In Heart Disease

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

NEW YORK (AP)—The idea that being overweight makes you easier prey to heart disease—unless you are sure you are really a fat butterball—was challenged today by a researcher in physiology.

Dr. Ancel Keys presented the evidence giving some reassurance to those on the heavy side to the American Public Health Association. He is director of the laboratory of physiological hygiene, University of Minnesota.

He urged more research to discover the reasons why Americans suffer more heart disease and deaths than people in many other countries.

NOT A PRIMARY CAUSE

"Overweight of itself, except in extreme degree, is not a primary cause of coronary disease," he said. "There is some evidence that overweight may contribute to the development of high blood pressure."

Dr. Keys said the warning of greater risk of heart attacks for fat people is based mainly upon life insurance company studies. Fartly because of this, he said, "obesity has been singled out as the public enemy No. 1," and an anti-obesity campaign is under way.

He declared there is a real difference between being overweight due to fatness and heaviness due to muscularity or body build. Dr. Keys cited studies which found little significant difference in relative body weights of persons who had died of or survived heart attacks, and others who had not had heart disease.

TRINITY W.M.S.

Twenty-two members of Trinity W.M.S. attended the regular meeting of the society at the home of Mrs. G. R. Jackson, on Wednesday afternoon. Very appropriately, the president, Mrs. Cameron, opened the meeting with a poem, "Remembrance Day."

Mrs. Albert Empey, stewardship convener, gave a talk on Stewardship, with quotations from an address by Mrs. Waite and concluded with prayer for Miss Case. Community Friendship convener, Mrs. F. Fleming, reported on sick calls and visits, also reported receiving thank-you cards for remembrances.

Miss Holmes read an interesting letter, from the supply convener and several suggestions were made in regard to supply work. Miss Holmes also reported on the nominating committee and this year's officers offered to continue on for another year with a few vacancies filled. Installation to be held at the January meeting.

Mrs. E. Moore spoke on the missionary magazine, soliciting new subscribers.

Mrs. L. Bennett had charge of the worship service, choosing as her subject "Peace did Love," She was assisted by Miss A. Holmes.

Mrs. Adams sang a solo, "I Vow to Thee My Country."

Mrs. E. Moore gave a short account of the "New Book Shelf" and continued with a synopsis of the study book, "Whither the Sun," the chapters reviewed were on India and China. These were most interesting and informative. Appropriate hymns for the meeting were used.

Mrs. Jackson and her assistants served refreshments during the social hour.

ST. PETER'S W.M.S.

The November meeting of St. Peter's W.M.S. was held in the school room of the church on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Spencer conducted the devotional period with the use of the hymns, "Saviour Thy Dying Love", and the Bible story chosen from St. Matthew 25th chapter.

President conducted the business period. A letter of thanks for expense money sent to Mrs. Cotham was read. Mrs. Blakely read a poem "Malando" (an African boy's prayer); Mrs. Cecil Woods gave a review on the work in Africa, showing the contrast between the black and whites in Kenya, and told how converts will work for their Bible. A poem, "Opportunity," was read and a story showing how prayer and encouragement helps the missionary was given by Mrs. Spencer. The president reminded the members regarding the training course, which is being held in Belleville in November.

Mrs. Alvey and Mrs. Sharpe served refreshments and an enjoyable half hour was spent.

Remembrance Service Attended By Large Crowd

MADOC. — Despite cloudy weather and light drizzly rain, a large crowd of the citizens of Madoc village and vicinity turned out to the Remembrance Day service held in Madoc Armouries on Wednesday morning.

A parade of the members of the Legion 363 and B Company of the Hasty Pees, under the command of Major Joe Neyler, marched from the Legion hall to the Armouries. Madoc Band under the leadership of Bill Aylesworth, led in the singing of "O Canada". Prayer was offered by the chaplain, the Rev. T. Harvey Good.

After the singing of the hymn, "O Valiant Hearts," two minutes of silence was observed and hymn "Abide With Me", was sung. Rev. M. W Hedly led in prayer and Rev. J. F. Lenz read the Bible story.

GUEST SPEAKER

Comrade John Bristol, president of Madoc Legion, spoke briefly and introduced the guest speaker, Brigadier Genet, of Picton, who gave a fine oration on "Remembrance Day", leaving three impressive thoughts with his listeners: "Why we keep Remembrance Day"; "we remember our soldiers who gave their lives; we remember our sick and wounded in hospitals; we must remember to stand prepared, to be ready and be strong."

Headed by the band, the flower bearers, followed by the Legion and B Company, marched to the cenotaph in Thompson Memorial Park, where the wreaths were placed at the foot of the cenotaph. The wreaths which were many in number represented the different organizations of the village and several were placed by the merchants of the village. "The Last Post" and "Reveille" were sounded by Bill Aylesworth.

Says Gains Made In Drive Against Rampant Vice

TOKYO (AP)—A Japanese foreign office spokesman said today that there has been some success in stamping out what a United States labor representative, Richard L. O. Deverall, called "disgusting sex, narcotic and alcoholic conditions" in Japan.

Deverall, AFL representative in Japan, said in Chicago Wednesday that drinking and conduct is rampant among U. S. troops in Japan.

"Mr. Deverall has painted the worst phase, but not the general over-all picture and not what is sincerely being done to stamp out this evil," the foreign office spokesman said.

He added that largely as a result of work by Japanese and American authorities the number of prostitutes around Chitose air base has dropped from 3,000 to 2,500 and the number of brothels from 500 to 300 in two years.

I was hunting around the living room, and I said, Aw heck, gosh shang the kick, Jimminey roosalem, heck.

You ought to make it a rule to put at least one English word in every sentence, pop said, and I said, Well O, pop, I can't find any puzzle. There's 4 rings on it, and the puzzle is to get them all in a strate line instead of all mixed up. only I haven't been able to do it yet, I said.

That's nothing to get worked up about, pop said. You'd be worse off than you are now if you found the thing and solved it, he said, and I said, Aw, why would I pop? If I ever made it come out rite I'd feel as smart as anything, I said.

That's just the point, you'd feel smarter but actually you wouldn't be a bit more intelligent, pop said. In fact you'd probably be a little less intelligent, because while you were tinkering with the 4 rings you mite have been improving your mind with an instructive book, he said, and I said, Aw Jimminies, pop, those puzzles are hard to do.

Then a new one oughtn't to cost more than a quarter,pop said.

Fall Plowing Is Held Up By Dry Weather

TORONTO (CP) — Fall plowing, held up for weeks by dry weather in many parts of Ontario, is going ahead on soil loosened by recent rain and snow.

Plowing was still to be finished last week in hard, dry ground in the counties of Grey, Halton, Haldimand, Lambton, Lincoln, Welland, Prince Edward, Frontenac and sections of Northern Ontario. Week-end snow and rain this week in some of these areas have helped, the Ontario department of agriculture said today in its weekly farm report.

SOYBEAN REPORT

The soybean harvest is completed in Essex county and almost over in Middlesex. Fall wheat is promising in Ontario county but needs more moisture for growth in Essex.

Lennox and Addington reported good yields of husking corn. Potatoes were in fair demand in Bathurst berry district. Instructors took in $1.10 to $1.25 for 75 pounds.

Found Guilty Of Manslaughter, Given 15 Years

L'ORIGNAL (CP)—George Labelle, 26, was found guilty of manslaughter Thursday and sentenced to 15 years in penitentiary.

He had been charged with murder for the knife-slaying last May 17 of Antonio Lalande, 35. The slender, pale-faced youth went when sentence was pronounced.

Wednesday Labelle denied that he deliberately murdered Lalande. Then he told a jury of child-hood neglect and deprivation. As he spoke, members of the jury and many others in the courtroom wept.

He said he had been forced to try and help support his 10 brothers and sisters from the time he was six. He had gone barefooted about Ottawa even in December, he testified. "Because I had no shoes."

He had been sent to the industrial school at Shawville, Que., by Mrs. Hawkesbury, into whose custody he was released two years later, but given him his only real home.

He told of meeting Lalande in Hawkesbury. They became friends with whom he was living in Lalande's shack at Rockland, 25 miles east of Ottawa, at the time of the slaying. They met in 1951 and after Capelle became pregnant last January.

They lived in small rooms, or slept under verandahs or outdoors. Last April they met Lalande. He offered Labelle the shelter of his shack. Labelle would work for him hauling scrap metal.

The day before the killing, Labelle said, he asked Lalande for some of the money he owed him for working for him." Lalande said he hadn't any. Something about the next morning, as he prepared for work, Labelle said, he decided he'd search Lalande to see if he had the cash.

Shot Lalande woke up and "I was afraid and I grabbed a bottle and hit him over the head. . . I thought him as hard as I could but he kept on choking me. . . I didn't mean to kill him. I only wanted to frighten him. But he was choking and I hit him with the rifle butt."

Miss Capelle, now the mother of a two-months-old boy, said Labelle gave her $58 taken from Lalande "for the baby" and that they drove to Ottawa in the slain man's truck.

Ten days later, when Lalande's body was found, Labelle gave himself up. The fire and it opened last Monday.

'Traffic Cop' On Carrier Called Mr.

HALIFAX (CP)—Mr. Greco—or commissioned Airman Charles Greco, Royal Canadian Navy—left the aircraft carrier Magnificent recently to take up an appointment in the School of Naval Aircraft Maintenance at HMCS Shearwater in neighboring Dartmouth.

Mr. Greco (the Mr. is the proper naval term for his rank) probably is the only one-striper in any navy to hold down the job of flight deck officer, or "traffic cop" for the carrier's planes and fliers.

Mr. Greco was the boss of a team responsible for ranging the aircraft before takeoff and parking them after landing. He was also personally responsible for the signal sending each plane off the flight. His voice has been made hoarse by shouting against roaring aircraft engines.

Born at Winnipeg, Dec. 8, 1917, Mr. Greco joined the navy in 1938. He was serving in the Restigouche when that ship took part in the evacuation of France. He later served in the armed yacht Lauzon and corvettes Chicoutimi, Shediac and Kamsack on Atlantic convoy duty. After that came the minesweeper Transcona and destroyer Skeena.

After the war, Mr. Greco transferred to aircraft handling and in 1948 became chief of the flight deck of the carrier Warrior. He joined the Dutch destroyer officer of the Magnificent in April, 1952. A former football player, he found that his sureness of foot was an advantage in his job where a false step can mean death in a whirling propeller.

Mr. Greco was married in 1940 to the former Geraldine Connors of Halifax. They have two daughters, 13 and seven years old.

18,500 Canadians on Strike in Five Provinces; Major Tieups in Mining Fields

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Upwards of 18,500 Canadians are on strike in Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, Manitoba and British Columbia.

Major tieups are the mining strike which has made 5,000 idle in northern Ontario, about 3,000 in northwestern Quebec and the British Columbia woods-workers' strike which affects 10,000.

The woods strike, the 6th strike, which since July has progressively closed down eight of the province's timber, conditions. Demands for checkoff of union dues and wage increases are main issues. One of the idle mines, Hollinger, third-largest gold producer in the United last month announced it still is determined not to collect dues for the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL).

There has been no sign of a break in the strike at Noranda mines and several other producers in the Rouyn-Noranda area of northwestern Quebec.

SEEK INCREASE

Striking CIO woods workers, members of the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL), seek an increase of 12 cents in their hourly pay, now $1.30½ an hour. Five thousand men in timber cutting and associated trades have been on strike for the northern section for six weeks and about as many in the south for three.

Last week 300 workers at the Burns and Company meat packing plant in Vancouver returned to work after a 10-day strike arising from the demotion of a trucker. Another dispute was settled when 600 B. C. Electric Company employees voted to accept a company wage offer.

About 730 steel workers have been on strike since Sept. 29 at Inland Manitoba Bridge and Engineering Limited and Dominion Bridge, former subsidiary, in Winnipeg to back demands for higher pay and shorter hours. The only labor trouble in western Manitoba is a walkout by 60 boiler makers at the Canadian Brown Steel Tank Company at Brandon in a wage dispute.

A threatened strike by 15,000 paper-mill workers in Ontario was averted this week when representatives of the men accepted a three-per-cent wage increase.

TAKE-HOME PAY

In Quebec, 975 employees of Howard Smith Paper plants in Crabtree Mills and Beauharnois have been on strike for two months. Main difference between management and strikers is the latter's demand for a 40-hour week with maintenance of take-home pay.

About 130 employees of Maritime Steel and Foundries Limited at New Glasgow, N. S., went on strike almost a month ago to enforce demands for pay increases. The continuing strike has put 60 non-strikers temporarily out of work as well.

Seventy-four teachers at Jasper Place near Edmonton voted 72-2 Tuesday in favor of a strike in a wage dispute. A government conciliation board recommended an increase but the school board rejected it.

No strikes have been reported in Alberta, Saskatchewan, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island or Newfoundland.

Freed of Charge

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — The combination of a thick Scottish burr and a game left foot were enough to get 63-year-old Samuel Crombie freed of an impaired driving charge.

The local stableman, who said he couldn't walk a straight line "if you paid me," was picked up following a minor accident. Police officers said he smelled of alcohol, staggered when he walked and was glassy-eyed.

Stewart Fleming, a local lawyer and Crombie's employer, said Thursday the Scotsman's burr was so thick he couldn't understand him at times, and the limp came from a gimpy left foot.

He told the court Crombie had a bottle of beer at lunch, but the accident occurred 4½ hours later.

Remanded for Sentence

OSHAWA (CP)—A witness testified Thursday that Vincent Gorman, 19, of Oshawa, was drinking beer while driving 45 miles an hour along a four-lane highway with four girls in a borrowed automobile.

Police said the car hit a railway sign, uprooted a tree; hit two other trees and came to rest upside down. The four girls were injured. Gorman pleaded guilty to charges of dangerous driving and of having liquor illegally. He was remanded a week for sentence.

High Praise Given B.C. Weekly Papers

VANCOUVER (CP)—W. Kenneth Wells of Barrie Thursday night termed British Columbia's eight newspapers "the most progressive in Canada," at a talk to the 35th annual meeting of the B.C. Weekly Newspapers Association.

"B. C. Weeklies have a reputation of being the most progressive in Canada," said Mr. Wells, president of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association and publisher of the Barrie Examiner.

"This is evidence by the high proportion of awards they have won."

He said B.C. has less than 10 per cent of Canada's weekly newspapers, but consistently wins from 50 to 70 per cent of annual honors.

Kilts May Be Out

TORONTO (CP)—A 15-year-old Toronto girl who holds 300 Scottish dance medals says kilts may be on the way out as dress for the dance because they show her knees.

Patricia Evens, considered Canada's top highland fling performer, recently returned from Edinburgh where she won a trophy as the best dancer from overseas.

Dancers competed in revised dress—a white blouse, laced jacket and very heavy skirt. Patricia says contest officials hope the new dress will be adopted because they believe it improper to show knees.

Paratrooper Says He Emptied Gun Into Girl's Body

STRATFORD (CP) — A statement typed out by a paratrooper last February, in which he described shooting a young girl, was admitted as evidence in a murder trial late Thursday.

The statement, given to police by Reuben Henry Norman, was the last evidence in the second day of the trial.

Norman charged with shooting Jean Marie Satchell, 17, said in the statement that when "she did not wish to discuss our past and future I pulled out the gun and emptied the magazine into her body."

The statement, signed by Norman said he removed the gun, an automatic pistol from his father Stan's fishing box and drove to Stratford where he "parked the car on a street where I knew she would be going to lunch."

He walked in a store doorway and when the girl came by "I stepped out and asked if we could talk. She said 'No' I asked why she had messed things up and she said because she wanted to. . . . When she did not wish to discuss our past and future I pulled out the gun and emptied the magazine into her body."

GAVE GUN UP

Norman wrote that he then started toward the nearby Stratford police station "to turn myself in."

Detective Mark Anthony said Norman did not fight and even typed the word "murder" at top of the statement in the blank space provided for the charge.

The girl was shot at noon last Feb. 2 as she walked along a street in Stratford's business section.

Marilyn Satchell, 16-year-old sister of the murdered girl, told of Norman visiting Jean Marie at her grandparents home in Stratford the Saturday night before the shooting. When Norman was told the two girls were going out together and he was not included in the party, he followed them for a short distance in his car and tried to talk to them.

FOND OF NORMAN

In cross examination by defence counsel W. V. Stratton she said her sister had been "fond" of Norman and agreed with counsel that a sudden change in attitude had confused Norman.

Alvin Jones, one of several eye witnesses called to testify in the shooting said he told Norman that "You'd better go to the police, and Norman replied he was on the way.

When Jones, who went to assist the girl after the shooting, turned to Norman a few seconds later and suggested he should call a doctor, Norman replied "She won't need a doctor now" and fired three more shots into the girl's head.

Private Electrocuted

UPPERWASH (CP)—Pte. Joseph Ernest Victor Pacquette, 25, of the 2nd battalion, Queen's Own Rifles, was electrocuted at the army camp here Thursday night.

His widow, Jacqueline, lives at Grand Bend. He is also survived by two small children and his parents who live in the Sudbury district.

He was found lying on the ground at a hydro unit near a high-tension wire leading into the camp, authorities said. He had a piece of metal in his possession and it was thought he had climbed a hydro pole.

Toronto Man Among Witnesses As Sen. McCarthy Probes Reds In GE Plant at Schenectady

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Senator Joseph McCarthy today summoned his closest hearing 18 more workers from the General Electric Company's big Schenectady plant where, the Wisconsin Republican says, there is a "concentration of Communists."

Seventeen witnesses, including one unidentified Toronto man, appeared Thursday before his Senate investigations sub-committee as it opened a probe of "alleged Communist infiltration and alleged espionage" at GE's main plant.

NO SECRETS

Afterward, the senator told reporters he had heard testimony that:

1. There are no secrets from the Communists at GE.

2. A New York City official of the Communist party once said the Reds had placed a man in the hush-hush Knolls atomic power laboratory, which GE operates for the Atomic Energy Commission.

3. It is well known among Red leaders that the Schenectady plant is a prime target for Communist infiltration, and a party cell was established there.

McCarthy did not identify any of the witnesses, but said all 17 were employed at GE or had been workers, and that 15 were or had been members of Local 301, United Electrical Workers (Ind).

COME VOLUNTARILY

A former GE employee who came voluntarily from Toronto to testify told of the Communist plant at the Knolls laboratory and referred to the Schenectady works as a main target for Reds, McCarthy said.

The man joined the Communist party in 1949 but dropped out last February, the Senator said.

The first witness Thursday was Sidney M. Friedlander of Schenectady, identified by GE as a member of local 301's executive board and a shop steward. Friedlander identified himself as a witness.

RADICALLY WRONG

The senator said that the man from Toronto had sworn that Friedlander was a member of the Communist party as late as last February. But McCarthy added Friedlander had refused to tell the hearing whether he now is a member.

After the session, McCarthy told reporters: "I don't know who is at fault but I do know there must be something radically wrong when so many Communists are concentrated in a defence plant." He gave no estimate of the number.

There was no comment from company officials.

Truman Refuses to Testify, Vaughan's Memory Fails Him, Then Clark Rejects Call

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court justice Tom Clark refused today to comply with a subpoena to testify before the House of Representatives un-American activities committee on the Harry Dexter White case.

Clark offered, however, to give "serious consideration" to any written questions the committee may wish to send him.

USES TRUMAN ARGUMENT

In a letter to the committee, Clark based his rejection of the subpoena on the premise that the judiciary branch of the government is independent of the legislative.

This is the same constitutional basis on which former president Truman declined to appear before a committee subpoena. Truman's stand was that the executive branch of the government was not subject to authority of the co-ordinated branch.

Truman told the committee probably last Friday that he could not obey its order to testify on Attorney-General Herbert Brownell's charges that he promoted White to director of the International Monetary Fund in 1946 despite FBI reports that White was a Communist spy.

AGAINST CONSTITUTION

To honor the subpoena, Truman asserted, would go against the constitutional separation of U.S. government branches.

A Democratic source in touch with Clark, who was attorney-general in 1949, said he probably had decided to refuse testimony on the grounds that no committee of Congress has no power to subpoena a member of the federal judiciary.

This source, who didn't want to be named, said also that Truman is giving thought to going on radio and television to tell his side of the White controversy and answer Republican charges of White House laxity in checking the loyalty of officials.

James F. Byrnes, once Truman's secretary of state and now his bitter political foe, declined to leave his post as governor of South Carolina to appear a committee subpoena. Chairman Harold Velde (R., Ill.) accepted Byrnes' suggestion to send investigators to him, but set no date.

That left the committee—arguing among itself and reported to be under heavy pressure from the White House and the Republican national committee—with a mighty tenuous schedule of witnesses and hearings.

BROWNELL DIVIDED

Brownell was one witness. Velde and other Republican committee members gave in to their Democratic colleagues' demands Thursday and invited—rather than ordered—the attorney - general to testify. Brownell accepted, but again no date was set.

Vaughan, who was military aide to Truman, told the senators Thursday he couldn't recall seeing any FBI reports on White. But he added that Brownell said they were sent to him to be brought to the president's attention. He would not question it for a moment."

That was exactly what Brownell did say in the Chicago speech which set off the whole uproar a week ago today.

Holstein Cow World Champion As Two-Year-Old

KITCHENER (CP) — Maplewawa Fancy Dandy, a holstein cow, Thursday night became the world's champion milk producer in the senior two-year-old class.

Her production of 8,974 quarts—at quarts a day for the last 365 days on twice-a-day milking—surpassed the previous world champion, a United States holstein named Bobby Rag Apple.

Fancy Dandy, owned and bred by Ward A. Shantz of Waterloo county, set her record under supervision of the federal agriculture department. She gave 22,135 pounds of milk containing 732 pounds of fat with an average test of 3.3 per cent butter fat.

The U.S. champion produced 21,330 pounds containing 736.9 pounds of fat.

3,000 Homes for Married Servicemen and 107 Schools Being Built in France, Germany

By KELL ROSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BONN, Germany (CP) — More than 3,000 homes for married Canadian servicemen and 107 schools for their children are being provided in Germany and France.

In Germany, where most of the construction will be, the builder and landlord will be the German government.

In France, the Canadian government has exchanged letters with a private contracting firm which may lead to a contract under which the company will build housing to be leased by the RCAF.

Canada does not get ownership of barracks and other service installations she occupies in these countries under NATO. Similarly, in the housing programs she is merely guarantees fixed rentals for five years, subject to renegotiation thereafter at lower figures.

WEST GERMAN DEAL

Canada has announced conclusion of an $18,000,000 agreement with West Germany to build 2,362 housing units and 48 schoolrooms for the army and RCAF. Sites are being chosen.

German contractors are being advanced the necessary capital by the German government. Canada is helping with a 10-per-cent prepayment of $1,802,000—in effect an interest-free loan—and a guarantee of occupancy at an annual rental of a similar 10 per cent.

The French program comes up for study Nov. 15, when the private company expects to satisfy Canada that it has sufficient finances for the job; that it has a sufficient interest in the necessary land; and that its plans and specifications have been approved by the proper French and Canadian government authorities.

MADE NO ESTIMATE

The company has given no estimate of the probable expenditure in building 1,014 housing units and 39 schoolrooms scheduled for Metz and sites near Gros Tenquin and Marville airdromes.

If the company is able to meet the Canadian conditions, Canada is prepared to sign contracts to pay an annual rental of about $1,482,400 during the first five years of occupancy, subject to renegotiation thereafter.

The first German quarters are to be ready early in March and the program is to be completed by next November. The French timetable extends from next April to July, 1955.

Real tenant in Germany and France will be the Canadian government, which will sub-let to servicemen.

How rentals will be recovered by the services has to be worked out. The army and air force charge for quarters according to rank of a serviceman; an airman occupying a three-bedroom apartment pays less than an officer with similar quarters.

The projected French contract specifies laid-down rates for each type of accommodation. A two-bedroom apartment must be submitted at 82.50 monthly; a three-room apartment at $129, regardless of the occupant's rank. Some form of sliding-scale allowances will have to be worked out to accommodate the rentals-by-rank policy.

OVER-ALL RENTAL

In Germany the Canadian government pays a flat over-all rental. It may apportion rentals as it wishes.

For almost the same annual rental Canada will obtain roughly twice as much accommodation in Germany as in France.

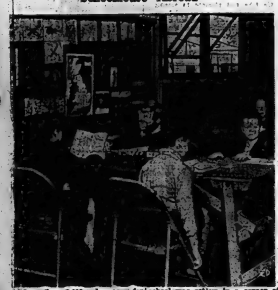
Both in Germany and France, the housing developments will be four to 12 miles from the stations. They will form new suburbs for existing towns so that they are ultimately suitable for civilian use.

The question of providing medical and dental care for servicemen's dependents is under cabinet study in Ottawa.

HOSPITAL PLANS

Plans are ready here to establish a complete service hospital in Germany or add Canadian increments—including nursing sisters, gynaecologists and pediatricians—to existing British service hospitals.

Meanwhile, RCAF station hospitals are trying to serve the 635 mothers and children already on the continent. The stations are prepared to deliver 48 babies' expected in December, but are not equipped for surgery.



In Germany the married quarters will be furnished by the German ministry of finance, according to Canadian specifications, and at Canadian cost, by the army as requires. There is no similar provision with the French contractors.

Station Laundry

Conditions vary at the various bases of the four wings of the RCAF's air division overseas. At Soest Tenguin, in a corner of France where dry cleaning and laundries are almost unknown, the station laundry is a godsend, Sgt. A. E. Dean of Winnipeg instructs a French employee in the dry cleaning part of the boildess. (CP from National Defence).

Schoolhouse Abroad

More than 3,000 homes for married Canadian servicemen and 107 schools for their children are being provided in Germany and France. At the RCAF's base at Gros Tenquin, France, a temporary school was set up in a corner of the hobby shop. Most of the children live with their parents in trailers rented from a British manufacturer. Battling to Decide Leadership of Zoo Deer

For the second time in a week three two big bucks' locked horns for leadership of the deer herd in San Francisco's Golden Gate park. The 500-pounder (right) held undisputed rule for three years until he was challenged eight days ago by the nine-pointer (left). Keepers broke up that battle after two hours. A few days later the nine-pointer sprang to the challenge again. This time alert Keepers separated them after several minutes and stood guard against further violence. — Central Press Canadian.

French Horse Finishes First In International

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — The second Washington International has provided more fuel for those who argue which country produces the best thoroughbreds, but confirms that the idea of bringing them together is a smashing success.

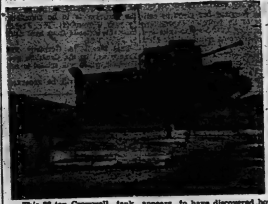
For the second time, three of the first four horses to finish were bred outside the United States. France's two entries, both named part of the prize money—Ralph II. Strasburger's Worden the $50,000 first award and Paul Dubourcq's Silnet the $2,500 for fourth.

The runner-up Iceberg II was bred in Chile. Brookmeade Stable's Native Bunglow saved the U.S. from a shutout by finishing third.

A crowd of 31,100 bet a record $1,784,542 although the race was postponed to Wednesday from last Saturday because of snow.

BIGGEST EVENT

John D. Shapiro, Laurel president, is marketing 10 thoroughbreds from six countries put on the most widespread international race in history, surpassing even last year's inaugural in which three countries outside the U.S. were represented.



The finish line-up after the first four were Miss Ann Fickerman's Chamlet and Alfred L. Hawkins' Blue Prince, Ireland; Mrs. Ina Ireland, Thomas Robinson's Harwin from England, Argentina Stud's Mister Black, Robert Boucher's Wilwyn of England, and Chairtan Stable's Crafty Admiral of the U.S.

Jockey Charlie Smirke raced Worden in typical foreign style, settling down behind, and the mount far fast in about the three furlongs. He made the mile and a half in 2:30.

ADN quoted him as saying: "I have come voluntarily and I do not want to return to Britain. I ask for permission to stay and live in your republic. I will do all I can to prove my loyalty towards your government and your people."

Europe Critical Of U.S. Handling Of White Case

LONDON (AP)—West Europe's editors trotted out their big black headlines again today to tell readers the latest developments on the subpoena of ex-president Truman in Washington's Harry Dexter White case.

But the only extensive editorial comment was in Britain, where papers of all political shades declared that the summons for Truman to appear before the House of Representatives committee on un-American activities will blacken the name of the United States in the court of world opinion.

One or two continental papers blamed President Eisenhower for what they called a new Republican attack on the former president.

REDS SEE HYSTERIA

Communist papers spread the subpoena to show the "hysteria" in the U. S.

In Paris, the leftist but non-Communist paper Combat attacked Eisenhower for "lifting the brake on extreme right-wing republicanism" ..."

"Where," it asked, "is the man who knew so well how to solve high-handed dictators, who headed the campaign in Europe?"

Said Franc-Tireur, another Parisian leftist paper: "The men of the Kremlin must be laughing hard."

"What authority can the U.S. president have in the world, at Bermuda or elsewhere, if he shows such weakness before the most delirious demonstrations of intolerance and hysteria?"

"CROWNED FOOL"

The London Daily Herald, Labor, described the incident as the "crowning folly of the witch hunt era," and the Liberal News Chronicle said it was "an exhibition of political rowdyism."

The Conservative Financial Times termed the call for Truman to testify "plainly a political move, the direct consequence of election losses."

In Rome, the Independent Il Tempo suggested the Republicans might be worried by recent Democratic election successes.

Moscow radio was heard to say the U.S. has established a new "record of stupidity and political cruelty."

The incident, said a Russian commentator, "is a source of laughing stock of the glorious U.S. dollar diplomacy."

Sunday School Lesson:

God Is Our Landlord

BY ROY L. SMITH

There can be no real understanding of the Old Testament without an understanding of the Hebrew philosophy of land ownership. This was a concept quite at variance with the thinking of the ancient East, and one that colored all Hebrew religious as well as economic thought.

DESERT HERITAGE.

The Hebrew people who came out of Egypt had no philosophy of life, economic or political, or religious culture. They were a completely raw mass of human material out of which anything could have been made. By any standard of measurement Moses must be rated as one of the greatest geniuses of history, for the law by this day—and all Christian civilization bears the imprint of his monolithic plan why molded the slaves into a nation.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for November 15:

"GOOD THINGS OF LIFE ARE GOD'S GIFTS", Leviticus 25: 18-22; Deuteronomy 8: 11-18; Psalms 24:1; Malachi 3:7-10; Matthew 25:14-30; Luke 12: 13-34; 21:1-4; 1 Corinthians 16:2.

In the desert he gave the Hebrews the idea that land is the gift of God, that no man has created it, that it is to be held in trust by man but never owned. When the children of Israel entered the land of promise and divided up the land according to families, each parcel of ground was accepted as a sacred trust. No man could sell it without betraying the trust. When the Israelite King Ahaz undertook to persuade Naboth to surrender his paternal land to the crown, he was not endeavoring to steal it or cheat the citizen. He was only trying to get him to abandon his ancient heritage, which in Naboth's case was as sacred as his father's good name or his mother's honor.

PHILOSOPHY OF THE TRUSTEE.

Among the early Hebrews, as also among the later Jews, this doctrine of stewardship was a fundamental idea. Just as a trustee of a fund is held accountable in court of law for his stewardship of the money or property entrusted to him, so the Jew was taught that he was responsible to God for the handling of the property that happened to be in his possession.

To this doctrine of stewardship—interpreted in modern life as trusteeship—we have lent all the weight of his influence and authority. In his parables of the talents he boldly declared that a man is responsible in proportion to his possessions. One of the weaknesses of Christianity has been the fact that it has all too often soft-pedalled this basic doctrine.

THE TITHE.

From the days of the wilderness wanderings the Hebrew paid a tenth of his income to the support of the governmental and religious authorities, as an admission of his stewardship, and an acknowledgment of the fact that God was the creator and owner of all things.

The payment of the tithe became then, not a mere matter of discharging a religious obligation, a profitable method for raising church funds, nor a shrewd bargain with God which is expected to guarantee prosperity. It is a solemn acknowledgment of a basic religious principle — that God is every man's landlord — as every man's landlord.

It is not too much to say that every man is in on this problem of possessions. The fact that God is the Creator is not the private property of the religious man, but a universal law of life. He who fails, or refuses, to acknowledge this state of affairs is subject to the same judgment as the religious man who admits the relationship and refuses to abide by it.

There is no more serious matter in any man's life today than that of owning any surplus of property in the midst of a world crying out in desperate need.

Manslaughter Charge Is Laid Against Parents

RICHARD'S LANDING, Ont. (CP)—Clarence Campbell and his wife, were charged Thursday with manslaughter in connection with the death of one of their seven children. They were remanded to Nov. 18 for preliminary hearing.

The child, two-month-old Percy Campbell, died Nov. 8 a few hours after his father brought him to hospital here. He had not been fed for three days previous to his death, police said.

Children's Aid Society officials today took the other six Campbell children into their car. A 13-month-

Prince Charles Will Be Five On Saturday

By ROBERT JONES

LONDON (AP)—Crabby Prince Charles celebrates his fifth birthday Saturday with his life as a schoolboy about to begin.

The little heir to the throne acquired a governess last week to start teaching him the three R's. She is Miss Catherine Peebles, 31, former governess of Prince Michael, son of the Duchess of Kent.

British law says every child must start his education by the age of five—and Charles is no exception.

At first he will be taught at home. But he may get a crack at public school life by the time he is 10. If he does, Charles will be the first heir to the throne ever to get the typical schooling of a blue-blooded British boy.

Traditionally, the young scions of the Royal Family are carefully screened in their early years from contact with the outside world.

The Queen was 18 before she mixed with people of her own age at a wartime officer's training course for the Auxiliary Territorial Service.

King George VI, the Duke of Windsor and their father, King George V, all were 13 before they left their homes to become cadets at Dartmouth Naval Training College.

But the Duke of Edinburgh, who attended a preparatory school in England when he was nine, is reported to favor a less sheltered upbringing of his son.

Prince Charles will not have to spend much time studying Latin, mathematics, science and English literature. But he will have to learn French and German. He must know geography. He will have to delve deeply into economics and social studies, and he should become an expert on constitutional history and government.

Later, perhaps, will come the traditional stint as a naval cadet—although at the moment he shows more interest in soldiers than sailors—and a few terms at either Oxford or Cambridge.

He's a bright lad and he's been taking a few unofficial lessons from his mother and nurse Helen Lightbody. Already he can count up to 100 and sign his name in capital letters.

BIRD MENACE

PRETORIA (CP)—Huge flocks of birds threaten heavy damages to crops in South Africa and other regions of Africa. A team of three South African scientists have arranged to seek means of controlling the birds, a species similar to small finches.

Grey Cup Final Develops Into 'Yer Pays Yer Money And Takes Yer Choice'

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

WELL DONE, MARMORA!

The peak-cleaning morpoth of Marmora strut the village streets these days with their heads higher than an ostrich which has become the mamma of triplets. And justifiably so because the good burghers of the mid-Hastings village have seen to it that the hockey-hungry kidlets will have ice on which to play long before any other centre in the county with the exception of Belleville.

For a community job well and nobly done you've got to hand it to those ambitious folk of a village that is the centre of what bids fair to become a high-producing iron-ore district.

Marmora's arena is, or was, like those of many other rural communities in the district. It depended on natural ice for skating and hockey and the natural ice depended on the weather. It meant a short skating and hockey season from approximately January to somewhere in mid-March.

Now it will be different. Marmora's young Rocket Richards and Gordie Howes can blandly thumb their noses at the weather man and his vacarice; tell him to go take a hop into Crown Lake or any other body of water, because now they will have artificial ice, and they don't give a thaker's hoot if it rains, snows or freezes.

Leading business, professional and other men of the village noted the short seasons with concern. The youngsters of Belleville and district enjoyed a season that extended almost six months of the year. Why shouldn't the village youngsters have the same opportunity?

So they did something about it. An artificial ice plant for the arena would solve the problem—but—investigation revealed that nothing but some $30,000 steel between them and their dream.

The chamber of commerce, under president Ralph Neal, took up the cudgels. And if optimism, initiative and energy in dollars and cents the final result would have been overwhelmingly subscribed.

The Marmora and District Memorial Arena Community Centre Inc Fund was started. The committee was headed by capable W. A. Shannon and consisted, and still does, of H. G. Wade, vice-president; Mrs. Ruth Rose, secretary; A. F. Fraser, treasurer and B. G. Mackenzie, publicity chairman.

The idea caught on like wildfire. Local parents, past, present and future rez behind the idea. Business and industry put its shoulder to the wheel. The fever spread to the rural area as nearby Deloro contributed handsomely to the fund, something like $4,000.

Neighboring municipalities, with admirable foresight, came through with grants. Industrial firms, including the then Bethlehem Steel Corporation, which has mammoth ore holdings in the district, made contributions.

Reject the virus of a worthy community enterprise into the veins of a Canadian rural centre, and the entire system is invigorated practically overnight. That is what happened in Marmora. Its worthy burghers got solidly behind the artificial ice scheme with the result that by midsummer there was sufficient capital on hand to warrant the purchase of the plant and necessary equipment.

As a matter of fact, public relations officer Bruce MacKenzie said recently that the objective of $30,000 now looks set to top the $40,000 mark comfortably. Few communities in Canada can boast such a remarkable achievement in so short a space of time.

Now, the ice plant is installed. Flooding is taking place and within a few days the arena will resound to the joyous whoops of Saturday's regular fry, and a few oldsters when they strain out on the earliest date since the incorporation of the village.

But that is only the first step. The committee in charge predicts that next year a special floor will be laid in the arena, which will cover the brine pipes, thus allowing year-round use of the building as a community centre. How do you like that?

But shucks, there's a lot of hair that asks to be let down after a trying summer of fund-raising activities. So the committee in charge has organized a gala opening night for Friday, November 20. While officially the celebration will mark the formal opening the new plant, there will be an underlying air of justifiable pride of achievement. And who can blame them good fish? They have done an outstanding job and if feeling finds, like those of their predecessors, are held a trifle higher than usual come Friday, Nov. 20, you will agree they have every right to carry the official and personal heights that way.

They have arranged an outstanding program for the opening. The famous RCAF Training Command Band will be there. Canada's leading figure skaters in the persons of Francis Dafoe, Norris Bowden and Barbara Jacques will perform on the new ice. A hockey game between district stars will be played and refereed by "Dit" Clapper and Jack Baker, Madoc's gift to hockey officialdom, not to mention the Shrine Club. Municipal, civic and governmental bigwigs will be on hand, so it looks like a "hot time in the old town" that night.

BRATTON - GAVILAN

"Bubble-Jaw" Johnny Bratton stands between two paths tonight. One will take him to the world's championship; the other to a mental obscurity. As he has to do is whip the "Knock" from Cuba, one Gavilan.

"But that ain't gonta be easy," kiddies. The hombre from Havana in perfect condition is a solid 8-5 favorite to retain the welterweight bauble on his curly noggin.

The best, which will be televised, promises to be a honey. Gavilan, the matching that he's made a career of, and needs Bratton for the third time in his career. The "Knock" was the third fighter to fracture the Bratton jaw in their first meet. Bratton also broke his hand in that brawl. Later they met in an overweight bout in Chicago and the decision was a draw.

The "Knock" has kissed the canvas but twice in 112 fights. Sugar Ramos and Johnny Bratton are the only two fighters to stand over him. Bratton, on the other hand has looked up but once. He was conked by Robert Earl in 1945 but immediately got up and blasted the startling out of his "knock-de-dawn."

Seven Clubs Are in Running And Week-End May Tell Story; West Settles Finalists Sat.

By The Canadian Press

It's just two weeks to the Grey Cup final, seven clubs are in the running and, with the exception of the two Ontario Rugby Football Union teams, there's hardly a soul who would guess as to the probable finalists at Toronto Varsity Stadium Nov. 28.

This week-end the list of probables will be cut to five and possibly four. ORFU finalists, Toronto Balmy Beach and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, settle their total-point series at Toronto Sunday. The winner gets a trip west to meet the Western Interprovincial Football Union champions.

If either of these clubs defeated the western titlebolder it would be the upset of the century. The ORFU, long a power in Canadian football, has been reduced to farm-club status in recent years and now is looked upon as a breeding ground for eastern Big Four clubs.

DEFENSIVE POWER

The WIFU championship is down for decision at Edmonton Saturday night. The split-T Edmonton Eskimos won the first of the best-of-three games series and Winnipeg Blue Bombers, with tackle Dick Huffman a tremendous defensive power, evened it Wednesday.

In the East, the Big Four games at Toronto and Hamilton have captured the imagination of fans. These close out the schedule and a three-team first-place tie is possible, but unlikely.

Montreal Alouettes, Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Ottawa Rough Riders are deadlocked at the top of the standings with 6 points each. Toronto Argonauts, defending cup champions, are out of the running after a playoff berth and the best they can do is their final season appearance is snarl up the final standings.

SPLIT-T SWITCH

Argonauts meet the Als and a victory for Toronto would send the Montreal team into second place and a semi-final playoff with the loser of the Hamilton-Hamilton game. A triumph for Montreal would send Al into the final best-of-three series against the winner of the Rough Rider-Tiger Cats' semi-final.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen carry a three-point lead over Balmy Beach in the home-and-home total-point ORFU final. The Dutchmen won 7-6-1 from the straight T to a split-T formation Wednesday afternoon at home to defeat Beach 21-7.

Final games of the short Intercollegiate Union schedule will be played at London and Kingston, Guelph Redmen, with only two victories in five games and with no chance of a play-off berth, meet the University of Toronto Ontario Mustangs and University of Toronto Blues play Queen's Golden Gaels.

The Blues and Mustangs are tied for first place with eight points each, two more than third-place Gaels.

Supreme Court Judge Terms Amateur Hockey 'Slave Body'

MONTREAL (CP) — Jacques Marcotte, 18-year-old goalie whose ownership has been disputed by Quebec City junior hockey clubs, was figuratively right back today on the hands of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association by a Superior Court decision.

During hearing Thursday of an injunction petition, which was refused, Chief Justice W. B. Scott made caustic remarks regarding the "amateur" designation of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, its provincial governing branch.

His Lordship also had some sharp words for a player being "property" of a club and about "slavery."

What brought the case sharply into public focus—and into Superior Court—was a petition by Frontenacs asking that the QAHA be restrained from carrying out a threat to suspend the club.

NOT CLEAR

Whether Marcotte continues to play junior hockey in Montreal or must revert to Quebec Citadelles—this matter was not clear pending QAHA action.

The petition was refused. Camil Noel of Quebec, counsel for Frontenacs, announced an appeal will be taken.

Frontenacs sought the injunction when the QAHA threatened to suspend the club if it continued to use the player.

The QAHA, acting as an appeal body, early this season granted Marcotte his release from Citadelles, made him a free agent and allowed him to sign with Frontenacs. It "washed its hands" of loggerheads with the CAHA.

The parent body, acting on an appeal from Citadelles, ordered Marcotte back to them on that club. The CAHA, in turn, issued the threat. It maintained it had acted properly under CAHA constitution regarding Marcotte, but notified the Frontenac club its continued "defiance" of the CAHA ruling would bring suspension.

ATTEND SCHOOL

President Martin Conway and registrar Frank Dilio of the QAHA said Marcotte's parents wished him to remain with Frontenacs so he could more readily attend school.

The Citadelles operate in the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A series. This entails frequent trips by Citadelles into Ontario. Frontenacs operate within Quebec province.

His Lordship referred to a letter by Marcotte in which salaries were mentioned—$60 a week if he played junior with Citadelles, $75 if junior A, and $90 if a B player—and $15 a game when he played A.

He also referred to evidence by Dilio that the CAHA doesn't recognize salaries.

"The QAHA doesn't recognize salaries. You thereby call yourselves an amateur organization."

CAHA CONSTITUTION

Lawrence Corriveau, counsel for Citadelles, read from the CAHA constitution the definition of an amateur player.

"What light does that throw on anything" His Lordship asked.

"If we are not professional, we are amateurs," said Mr. Corriveau.

On the matter of property or ownership His Lordship, holding the CAHA and QAHA regulations, said:

"To these regulations say a boy of 18 belongs to anybody. Has slavery come to this? Can an incorporated club do what was done in the days of Rome?"

He declared: "At a proper age any age can be a "slave of an organization."

Mr. Corriveau said the regulations were not slavery. Clubs invested considerable money in developing players and therefore needed some protection.

Harness Horse Sale Passes Million Mark

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Sales at the annual standardbred harness race horse sale have passed the $1,000,000 mark.

A total of 186 horses for a grand total of 717 this week changed hands for $806,800 Thursday bringing the week long sum of $1,388,625.

The million-dollar plus figure approaches last year's one-week volume of $1,452,075.

Best price of the day and week was established at $35,000, paid by W. E. Miller, Washington, D.C., race track owner and trainer-driver, for Hillsota, a three-year-old pacer. The horse was consigned by Henry Clay, Indianapolis, Ind.

Behind was the $30,000 paid by Two Gaits Farm, Carmel, Ind., for Excellent Scott Swayback, one of 89 Hanover shoe farm yearlings auctioned Thursday. In three days 251 Hanover head have brought $401,750 or an average of $3,526.

Gavilan-Bratton Welterweight Brawl Has Hard-Boiled Experts in Tizzy

By Gayle Talbot

NEW YORK (AP)—Boxing experts as a group always are more puzzled and suspicious than ordinary people, but the welterweight championship being fought at Chicago tonight has them even more upset than usual.

They have with some degree of certainty that Kid Gavilan, the 147-pound champ, is to defend his title against Johnny Bratton, but that's about as far as they get.

Being only a journeyman expert, our own feeling is that it will be a good and exciting fight in which the two boys will punch each other around enthusiastically for 15 rounds. At the end of that time we expect to see Gavilan's glove lifted in victory, as usual.

But the genuine boxing expert starts out by giving careful consideration to all the "angles," of which this one appears to have more than its share. Unusually, as in this case, he winds up in a state of complete bewilderment.

Possibly the main thing agitating the experts about tonight's bout is that they can't figure out which is the "natural" form for the International Boxing Club, the promoter. That is, they are not sure which result would best fit into the IBC's plans.

CHALLENGE OLSON

Gavilan has said that, win or lose, he will quit the welterweight and challenge Duke Olsen for the middleweight crown.

Should Bratton win, the welter division would have an exciting new champ, for television purposes at least, and Gavilan still would be available to duel Olson at a weight he claims now is his natural one.

The experts also are deeply involved with the mortality of tonight's principals. If you may believe everything you read, Bratton and Gavilan each has more shares here Dec. 12.

Silverman said David' victories over George Araujo of Providence, R.I., and Tommy Collins of Boston made him the logical contender.

Carter knocked out Armand Savoie in the fifth round Wednesday night in a title bout in Montreal.

'Rocket' Richard Blasts Pair As Habs Trounce Chi-Hawks In Referee-Baiting Battle

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Fists in Montreal Thursday night voted referee Frank Udvari "the man we'd most like to try out on brass knuckles."

And if Frank decided after the National Hockey League game to stay with the dressing room walls he'd the night it was understandable.

At least six times the crowd of 13,898—chiefly of the seasoned, showered the lion with paper as they expressed distaste over Udvari's calls in a game in which Montreal Canadiens defeated Chicago Black Hawks 5-2.

Bernie Geoffrion pushed Udvari into the boards in the third period and received a game misconduct penalty which carries an automatic fine of $100.

Hawks' George Gee also got his mitt up Udvari's face but involved in a two-player penalty, once when he mixed with Maurice Richard and the second time when he and Kenny Lach crossed sticks.

MANY PENALTIES

Altogether, 12 penalties were called, seven by Udvari.

Richard took over as the season's top goal-getter by scoring his eighth and ninth for a total of 18 points. Geoffrion is next with 15 for a 17-point total, one more than his rival Tod Sloan of Toronto Maple Leafs.

Calum MacKay and Paul Masnick, rookie centre, got goals on the season, netted the other Montreal goals. Gus Mortson and Larry Wilson tallied for the Hawks.

The win kept the Canadiens' home stride alive at 11 games, tying it to nine. Montreal leads the league by four points over second-place Toronto.

The game was the first of a three-game Montreal home stand the two clubs. Chicago is at the Forum again Saturday and then starts a journey to Chicago Sunday. Other Saturday night games include Boston at Toronto and Detroit Red Wings at New York.

Monday Toronto is at Boston and New York at Detroit.

They Like Ike In The National

By BEN GLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Ike Hinkbrand, a unanimous choice on last year's American Hockey League all-star squad, is convinced that they don't call the NHL "hockey's big league" for nothing.

"They certainly check you close up here," New York Rangers' right-winger Ike says. "There's not too much chance to get your shot off."

Hinkbrand, who scored 31 times with Cleveland Barons during the league's 1952-53 campaign, had four goals for the Rangers this year, three in a game against Chicago, a pretty solid lot.

"These guys know all the moves, particularly Max and Rollins (Chicago goalie). He's stopped me at least five times when I thought I had sure goals. Of course, in the other league, you had more of a chance to wind up, pick your spots and then let go.

"Maybe I'm lying, if you happen to be among the top scorers in the league, they get a special man on you."

LACROSSE STAR

Hinkbrand is one of the increasing lot of performers who is a standout in two sports. During the summer he plays lacrosse with the Peterborough Trailercoach team which has won three straight Canadian championships.

He's a much sweeter than hockey. There's a lot of cross-checking and clutching and holding in hockey but is legal in lacrosse. There's more chance of getting what you want in lacrosse without flying all over the place."

Tough Ike Hinkbrand Rangers' manager-coach, whose only interest in Ike is in his hockey playing talents, the 26-year-old Winnipeg native may develop into one of the best centres in the league.

"He's always around that net," Boucher says. "He'll missed several good chances. But he has a hard shot and if he can get used to playing it in the American League—watch out!"

Soo Indians Switch Coaches, Move Pays Off

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Scuit Ste. Marie, (Mich.) Indians switched coaches and the move paid off.

Under bench boss Don Grosso, Indians could manage only one victory and two ties in nine games of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series. Last Friday Max Kaminsky took over and since then the Indians have won two consecutive games—both impressive victories.

Thursday night they defeated Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds the red-hot league leaders, 6-4. The Greyhounds won the previous two meetings with the Indians.

In the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series, Hamilton Tigers defeated Windsor Bulldogs 7-2 and Hamilton to move into a fourth place tie with the Bulldogs.

SURPRISING MOVE

On third down, to the amazement of Argonauts and 30,000 others in the stands, Lee map and streaked to the deadline, automatically giving Argonauts possession of fourth place in the NOHA loop. Jack Evans, Keith Kerr and Hank Backer scored the others.

Jim McBurney, Terry Hocedi, Johnny Johnston and Ron Lalonde were the Hound marksmen.

Hamilton fired three goals in 61 seconds while three Windsor players were in the penalty box to run away with victory. Gordon netted a pair for Hamilton. Eric Pateman, Ken Kenny and Murray Comfort scored the other goals for the Tigers. Jack Gelhorn, Jack Evans and Frank Battaglie were the Windsor snipers.

Tonight Sarnia is at Niagara Falls, Stratford at Kitchener and Toronto at Chatham. North Bay is at Sudbury in the only NOHA game.

New Terms Are Problem In Ball Loop

MONTREAL (CP)—Admission of Canadian clubs, and Hamilton Alerts to the International Baseball League will be the main problems coming up for discussion at the league's annual meeting Sunday, president Frank Shaughnessy announced Thursday.

Representatives of seven teams present in the triple A loop will also consider the possibility of transferring the Hamilton Indians' franchise to another location and the finding a replacement for Baltimore Orioles, now in the American League.

Shaughnessy, Havana and Richmond are expected to attend.

Leafs Send Two To Senators

TORONTO (CP)—Hap Day, assistant manager of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, announced Thursday that right-winger Bob Sabourin and defenceman Bill Dineen have left Ottawa Senators of the Quebec Hockey League.

Barega and Sabourin have been playing with Edmonton Flyers in Toronto's farm club in the American Hockey League. Sabourin scored 22 goals for Pittsburgh last year. Barega hasn't had a chance with the NHL club.

Day said: "When a safety touch is scored, the ball should be brought out to the 20 yards for a kickoff, giving the opposition a chance to get possession."

Frank Gallagher, president of Edmonton Eskimos in the Western Interprovincial Football Union: "If it isn't changed, we are going to see more of it and it will make it bad for football."

Ken Montgomery, president of Ottawa Rough Riders, put in a plea conceded touches—all after Sept.

New Gimmick to Old Football Rule Began Wackiest Points Bonus Known

By JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—An American coach pulled a new twist to an old Canadian football rule and turned it into the wackiest point giveaway in the game.

Carl Voyles sprang the gimmick —the conceded safety touch—Sept. 4 when Hamilton Tiger-Cats defeated Toronto Argonauts 13-6 in a Big Four game here. Since then at least 15 safety touches have been conceded from professional clubs in eastern and western Canada down to high school ranks.

It started this way:

Tiger - Cats had possession on their three-yard line, with the Argonauts first of two downs to go.

Voyles, who nursed the idea of the safety touch version of the safety touch for a couple of years, says the rule "has to be changed." He explains:

"It should be like the United kickoff from the 30-yard line after the safety touch. At present the Canadian field is longer the kickoff should be made from the 25.

"The U.S. rule was changed years ago after a game between Princeton and Dartmouth ended in one, one of the teams was leading 7-6 and then conceded three safety touches to get possession and win the game 7-6."

OTHER OPINIONS

Here's what other professional coaches and officials have to say about it:

Bo C. (Biff) Foulds of Toronto, long-time member of the CRU rules committee and in Canadian football for more than a generation:

"The safety touch has been in the books since I can remember. I'm certain it will be discussed by the committee at the next meeting. However, I'm not prepared to say what will happen."

Jeff Nicklin, Crowe, Ottawa Rough Riders: "A team could concede a safety touch and still stand around, holding the ball for a whole quarter. The other team couldn't do a thing about it. After all, they've pushed you back into your own end. However, it's a good idea for a game by an opponent's touchdown and won't be any concession of safety touch, I don't think the Ottawa crowd would criticize the team."

MULLING IT OVER

Jim McCaffery, president of the Rough Riders and vice-president of the CRU: "The matter was discussed about two weeks ago and it was decided that league officials should mull the thing over but take no action until the annual meeting. It will take a lot of thought."

Coach Frank Clair of Toronto Argonauts: "I think the rule should be changed. When a safety touch is scored, the ball should be brought out to the 20 yards for a kickoff, giving the opposition a chance to get possession."

Frank Gallagher, president of Edmonton Eskimos in the Western Interprovincial Football Union: "If it isn't changed, we are going to see more of it and it will make it bad for football."

Ken Montgomery, president of Ottawa Rough Riders, put in a plea

TRAFTON'S VIEW

George Trafton coach of Winnipeg Blue Bombers: "I would not like to see the rule dropped but I think it should be revised. The ball would be brought out to the 20 or 25-yard line and kicked on first down, either a punt with all players onside or kickoff style so that both teams have a chance to gain possession."

Dave McCann, Ottawa, chairman of the CRU rules committee: "There should definitely be something done about it. I favor pulling the ball back on the 15 instead of the 25 after a safety. This would make a team think twice before conceding the two points."

Ralph Sazio, head league comes from Bert Warwick of Winnipeg, member of the CRU rules committee, and general manager Lew Hayman of Montreal Alouettes.

Warwick says: "The safety touch is a good thing and I would not want to see it changed. Canadians have been using the safety touch for either a punt or method of keeping the ball but now it is used more frequently and before larger crowds than before."

Hayman says: "I am against a change in the rule."

Eskys Scrape Barrel For Backfield Talent

By LORNE SMUCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—Once upon a time there was a split-T football team in Canada. Now everybody is getting into the act.

When Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Football Union open their 1954 season against Winnipeg Blue Bombers Saturday night in the deciding game.

The western titlist is slated to play the Ontario Rugby Football Champion in the east Nov. 21 for the right to meet the eastern Big Four champion in the Grey Cup.

BACKFIELD DEPLETED

The Esks are down to third-string backs. Second-stringer Don Getty, a homebrew star filled in after all-star halfback Billy Vessie fractured a spinal muscle, is definitely out for the rest of the season. Simon suffered top knee injuries in practice Tuesday of Wednesday's game.

Frank Anderson, chosen all-star defensive end this year, also was hurt Wednesday.

"It doesn't look to me like he'll play," Royal commented.

Esks' fourth star Esks lost end Rollin Prather, chosen last season by several All-Canadian teams. Now only import end Edmonton has is Tom Stolhandske.

Wes Cheesworth, Esks' coach, said about Normie the China Clipper Kwong: "I expect to lay off, because after this I wouldn't be able to play the game.

"Accidents happen, and an accident like this one could happen again. I'd be foolish to take a chance. Out there on the ice, I would be a marked man."

Quakers Edge Seattle 3-1

—SASKATOON (CP)— Saskatoon Quakers Thursday night vacated Seattle Americans' league lead and took over fifth place with a 3-1 victory over Seattle Bombers. Saskatoon scored a single point in front of Edmonton Flyers and Vancouver Canucks for sixth and last place.

Playing coach Doug Bentley, Jackie McLeod and George Senick were the Saskatoon scorers. Gayle Fiedler tallied the Seattle goal.

'Fearless Ivan' Makes Hit In New York

NEW YOR K (CP)—Ivan (The Terrible) Irwin may not be the best defenceman in the National Hockey League but the arrival of this likeable, rough-and-tumble personality seems to be the best thing that has happened to fan interest in New York in years.

Ivan made his first appearance with New York Rangers between the hometown customers Wednesday night and immediately caught their fancy with a knock-'em-down display reminiscent of the days of the great Ching Johnson.

Irwin, a 26-year playing hockey since he was 16. His skating is somewhat hampered by his late start.

But what he lacks in finesse, he makes up in fearlessness, and coach Frank Boucher feels that Irwin's personality will help the personality which seems to spark the enthusiasm of his teammates.

Fines Will Pass Up Hockey This Season

BARRIE (CP) — Defenceman Walter Fines said Thursday he will stay out of hockey this season because "I'm a marked man."

The 19-year-old Aurora player was convicted of charges of assault on daughter and two assault charges in the death of Barrie boy Ernest Gillies, 17. The Collingwood player died from head injuries after being boarded in the game.

"I've still got two years of junior hockey ahead of me," Fines said. "I can afford to lose this season. But I'd have to lay off, because after this I wouldn't be able to play the game.

"Accidents happen, and an accident like this one could happen again. I'd be foolish to take a chance. Out there on the ice, I would be a marked man."

We like our business. It's pleasant

—Because it gives people pleasure

We write most kinds of insurance. You might think this is pretty dull doin's.

But we figure what we sell is mainly . . . pleasure.

Insurance gives pleasure to insured people every day because it banishes fear of loss and disaster.

But it gives greatest pleasure when it covers an actual loss. We've seen people who would have been ruined by a fire, lawsuit, robbery or other loss if they hadn't had insurance written by us. With insurance, they still found life pleasant.

Yes, we like our business.

Elect Trial By Higher Court

GALT (CP) — Five men from nearby Ayr, charged with kidnapping a special constable on Hallowe'en night, elected trial by higher court.

They are Bill and George Mitchell, Raymond and Douglas Sherk and Eric Goodwin. They also face a charge of assault.

James McLeod, the special constable, testified that he investigated a road block Oct. 31 and was forced into a car. McLeod said he was taken about five miles, roughed up and dumped in a swamp.

TOURISTS INCREASE

OSLO (CP) — The Norwegian Tourist Society reports its 25 mountain cabins accommodated more than 40,000 overnight guests so far this year, 10 per cent more than last year. Planned group tours attracted hundreds of new hikers.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The little slam that wasn't there, tough luck for a duffer, when handled with an expert flair, often makes opponents suffer.

The player who boosts to a doubtful slam is not sound in his figuring. If the slam falls, the loss is more than the trick down. It is also the loss of what a made game would have paid.

A strident should consider who is going to play the contract. Take a flier if a faithful player will be declarer. Not if the tough assignment must be handled by a weak member of your team.

In a hot rubber bridge game there was this deal:

NORTH
♠A K Q 2
♥10 8 2
♦7 6 5
♣A 5 4

WEST
♠5 6
♥K Q J 9 5 3
♦None
♣Q 10 9 8 3

EAST
♠J 7
♥7 4
♦K J 10 9
♣J 8 7

SOUTH
♠J 10 9 5 4 3
♥A
♦A Q 2
♣K 6 2

The players plunged into the bidding like this:

South	West	North	East
1 S	4 H	4 S	5 D
Dbl	5 C	6 S	Dbl

You would have to know the nature of the players to realize why they bid as they did. Most of it was by instinct. West and east, you notice, had every intention of sacrificing if permitted.

North certainly went all out and beyond with the bids he made. Surely he knew the south opener had plenty of big cards included in his hand. A double of the opponents was sure to defeat them.

The west opening lead was a heart picture that south took with his ace. He pulled trumps and took a diamond finesse that succeeded. But he finally lost a diamond and a heart.

Having gone down to defeat at the spade small slam, south flared. He started taking north apart for his poor reckoning. Among other things he criticized for not doubling instead of going to a slam.

North stood it for a while and then said: "If you did less talking and more bidding you could have made the slam. It was a cinch." It could have been made. See if you know how.

AT THE BELLE

George Stevens' "Shane" is heralded as one of screen's all-time great films.

What promises to be one of the finest films ever to emerge from the screen of the Belle Theatre will arrive today, when George Stevens' Paramount production, "Shane" makes its eagerly-awaited bow. Starring Alan Ladd, Jean Arthur and Van Heflin, with Jack Palance and young Brandon De Wilde, this "Technicolor saga of the West" has already been hailed as a milestone in motion picture production.

The classic tale told in "Shane" is that of the homesteader versus cattlemen in the fierce struggle to control the range. Against such a conflict is woven the intriguing tale of a farm family—mother, father and son—and of the buckskinned, gun-toting stranger who wanders into their midst and champions their cause against the avaricious cattle men. How this mysterious stranger manages to defeat the forces of evil, and the effect that he has on the farm family, is the crux of the wonderful and exciting tale.

As written for the screen by Pulitzer prize winner, A. B. Guthrie, from a novel by Jack Shaefer, "Shane" emerges as a compelling drama containing all of the active ingredients that make for motion picture greatness. The large supporting cast features such talented players as Edward Buchanan, Emile Meyer, Ben Johnson, John Dierkes.

Producer-director George Stevens, in "Shane", has reportedly fashioned a film of great scope and magnitude.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Despite hating his knee in a brace, Jerry Lewis is living it up in the picture of the same name.

There have been reports that the zany member of the Martin and Lewis team is ailing. He added substance to the reports when he took a tumble while sobbing for Lou Costello on the comedy Hour and injured his knee again. But he isn't letting such matters slow him down.

When I saw him in his Paramount dressing room he was playing songs from his current picture and going through wild contortions of the dance number. He seemed as nimble as a jitterbug with the seven-year itch. But when he sat down for a quiet chat, he favored the left leg.

"It's all right when I stand up, because the leg is in a natural position," he explained. "But I can't bend it when I sit down. I have to keep it up on a table or something. If I don't, I'll fall on my face when I get up."

NOT SLOWING UP

Lewis isn't letting this trouble slow down the pace that he and his crooning partner have been setting in the last few years. As soon as they finish their picture, they'll take off for eight one - night stands in Texas.

Lewis made no secret of his happiness over getting it "up," the first big property that has been purchased for the team. It is taken from the recent stage hit, "Hazel Flagg," which in turn was taken from the Carole Lombard-Fredric March movie, "Nothing Sacred." The producers pulled a switch and Jerry is playing the Lombard role.

He remarked that the picture will cost $2,500,000, which is quite a difference from their first big hit, "At War with the Army." That one ran $400,000.

Somewhere in a woman's past something happened to give her the creative urge. With Audrey Hepburn it was years of life under Nazi terror.

To look at Paramount's bright new star, you wouldn't think that she had anything but the nicest kind of life. She is pert and petite, with a gay, glittering personality. Her nature had been conditioned, however, by living from month to month and years under the Germans," she explained. "I never dreamed what would happen if you ever got out.

You swore you would never complain about anything again."

Audrey was caught in The Netherlands during the invasion of 1940. Her life during those years was a story of fear and privation. But the worst came during the seven months between the battle of Arnhem and liberation in 1945.

'MERELY EXISTED'

"Arnhem was evacuated after the battle," she recounted, "but we lived just on the outskirts. Our presence there was tolerated by the Germans, but just barely so.

For seven months, we had no light, no heat, no water. We had no food, because all the shops were closed. We ate what we could find.

"During the day we merely existed. At night our only diversion was gathering around the fire. That was the only light we had—whatever wood we could find nearby.

"We couldn't talk about the day's happenings, because nothing had happened to us. So we sat around and made up stories, invented things. We entertained each other, and it helped carry our minds away from the horrible life we were leading. We would do it, too; we lived in another world during those nights around the fire."

Audrey admitted that if she had not been through such an experience, she might never have become an actress. "I had to learn to invent, to interpolate," she explained. "I had to create a make-believe world."

It's a long way from the brutality of a Nazi occupation to the glitter of Hollywood, but that's where life has taken Audrey. She is making her first picture in Hollywood. It's called "Sabrina Fair" and she has such sterling suitors as Humphrey Bogart and William Holden seeking her hand. That shows you what Paramount thinks of its new girl.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—A good day for study, planning, making necessary retrenchments in your budget. Discuss problems with interested persons. Take some time for relaxation.

YOU BORN TODAY have poles; are charitable and friendly. Theirs many women from which to choose in selecting your life work, including mechanics, literature, nursing, business management, art; possibly a military career. It is important, however, that your choice be based on what you really like to do and that you have the required education or ability. You do best in pleasant surroundings and among congenial co-workers. Be receptive to help or suggestions from right sources. You have great pride and ambition. Properly directed, these assets can prove most valuable. Birthdate of: Sir Charles Lyell, geologist.

Will Not Have To Sell Eyes To Get Home

TORONTO (CP)—Bruce Martin will have a house for his wife and four children. He won't have to sell his eyes to do it.

Harry Wright, a contractor, said Thursday he has a six-room home for the Martins and they can live rent-free until spring. By that time he will have a low-rent apartment for them.

Special Body Set Up To Restore Harmony

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada and the United States today established new trade friction between the two countries, by agreeing to set up a special body of cabinet ministers to restore harmony and work to remove curbs which hamper trade expansion.

The unprecedented eight-man body was established through an exchange of notes and an agreement signed in Washington by Ambassador A. D. P. Heeney of Canada and U.S. Secretary of State Foster Dulles.

It will be known as the joint U.S.-Canadian committee on trade and economic affairs.

EISENHOWER SAYS SEAWAY ACTION COMING

Confident Congress Will Approve Project

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States Congress at its coming session should authorize U. S. participation with Canada in the navigation part of the St. Lawrence Seaway, President Eisenhower said today.

The president, in an address to the combined Houses of Parliament, expressed confidence that generations of U. S. tourists on the $300,000,000 shipping project will be ended this year.

He said Joint Canada-U. S. development of the waterway—tied in with a $400,000,000 power project—is "inevitable, is sure and certain."

VITAL ADDITION

Mr. Eisenhower said that, with Canadians, he considers the seaway "a vital addition to our economic and national security."

"In the United States, my principal security officer has made the undertaking for national defense reasons. The cabinet has given it on both security and economic grounds. A committee of the U. S. Senate has given it its reasons for authorizing it."

This was done at the last session of Congress. The measure died when Congress rose without action.)

"This measure provides for U. S. participation in a joint development by both countries. The U. S. Senate, which I am confident, will act favorably on it or a similar measure."

As observers here saw it, the president's declaration was typical of an expression of hope than a prediction of expected action.

TAFT'S AID LOST

Congress' sidetracking of a joint U. S.-Canada seaway bill earlier this year was done despite strong backing of the measure from the administration and, most support of such a bill has been lost now in the death of Senator Robert Taft, majority leader in the Senate.

The U. S. federal power issue here has made it known that it would prefer to go ahead with the navigation-only project rather than have it hang on the unpredictable issue here—action of the U. S. Congress.

It has stated several times that it is ready to do this, once obstacles to "the power-development issue on its own

Previously, public donations had been received to assist Barberstock, and over $300 had been raised. The Carling Brewery has also presented a cheque for $25 to Barberstock.

John Shannon Is South Hastings Oratory Winner

John Shannon, a grade 8 pupil in school section 22, Thurlow township, won first place in the public speaking contest sponsored by the South Hastings Educational Association, held Friday evening in Queen Alexandra Public School.

Young Shannon defeated seven other district students with an address on "The Business of Farming" in 100 parents and friends of the contestants looked on.

In assessing first place Shannon won an Hastings County gold medal, which was presented by Mrs. Wilson Jack Kincaid, and the Col. Vanderwater Cup for public speaking.

Second prize was won by Jane Gray, a grade 8 pupil at the Prince of Wales school, with an address on "Old Fashioned."

Third place was taken by John Meale, a grade 7 pupil of school section 16 Sidney township, with a talk on "Radio."

Other contestants were Sue Gibson, Doris Gough, Velma Stubbing, Ann Hall, Barbara Ann Woods.

Judges were Arthur Clare, John Hutchison, Everett Fairman, Taylor Franklin, Mrs. Wanda Sine and Miss Jessie McTavish.

Hastings County gold medals were presented by Warden Jack Kincaid to Shannon and Miss Gray.

Inspector R. H. Macklem presented the three winners with books and Mrs. K. Spafford presented each contestant with a silver dollar.

Four pupils were given scholarship awards from the Belleville Lowe and Sidney townships. They were Jean Sidney, Norma Fair, and Grace Sine; from Thurlow, Gary Lloyd and Ann Woodcock.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

O God of Bethel

By HORACE B. POWELL

O God of Bethel, by whose hand
Thy people still are led;
And through this weary pilgrimage
Hast all our fathers led.

Our vows, our prayers, we now present
Before Thy Throne of Grace;
God of our fathers, be the God
Of their succeeding race.

Through each perplexing path of life
Our wandering footsteps guide;
Give us each day our daily bread,
And raiment fit provide.

Oh, spread thy covering wings around,
Till all our wanderings cease,
And at our Father's loved abode
Our souls arrive in peace!

Such blessings from thy gracious hand
Our humble prayers implore;
And Thou shalt be our chosen God,
And portion evermore.

"O GOD OF BETHEL"

"Hymns founded on various texts in The Holy Scriptures" was the title of a song book, containing the hymns of the Rev. Philip Doddridge, English clergyman, which was published by friends of the preacher-poet several years after his death, in 1751.

It was an appropriate caption, for nearly all of the songs in the volume had been written during the poet's life-time to be sung at the close of sermons which he preached, from Sunday to Sunday, for his Northampton parishioners, by whom each of them had been inspired by a weekly Bible text.

His hymn, "O God Of Bethel", was written to follow a sermon on life. When he was ready for college a prominent and wealthy Englishwoman offered to pay all university expenses at Oxford. But, as a condition of her philanthropy, she announced that Doddridge must, upon completing his studies, become a minister of the Church of England.

"Jacob's Vow", based on the verses in Genesis 28:20 to 22:

"And Jacob vowed a vow, saying, If God will be with me, and will keep me in this way that I go, and will give me bread to eat, and raiment to put on,

"So that I come again to my father's house in peace; then shall the Lord be my God:

"And this stone, which I have set for a pillar, shall be God's house: and of all that Thou shalt give me I shall give the tenth unto Thee".

Doddridge was born in London in 1702. His parents died while he was still a child and he was reared by relatives. Even in his early school years there were plenty of evidences the talents for which he was to become famous in later years.

The young preacher-to-be, whose sympathies were with the Independent Church, refused her offer. Instead of going to Oxford he entered a non-conformist seminary and at age 21, following his graduation from theological school, he was ordained so that he might accept his first pastorate at Kibworth. In 1729 he transferred his ministry to Northampton where, in addition to serving the local church, he also conducted a training school for young preachers.

Dr. Jas. Semple Will Preach At Anniversary

On Sunday Bridge Street church will hold its anniversary services with Rev. James Semple, B.A., S.T.B., Th., D., of North Bay, as the guest preacher. Dr. Semple was minister of this church for over eleven years, ending in Smith Falls in 1933. This is his first return visit since leaving for Peterborough in 1946. Bridge Street United Church was founded by the Wesleyan Methodist Church in 1815. The present building was rebuilt in 1887, and through the years has held a most important position in the life of the former Methodist Church, and now the United Church of Canada. One year ago extensive renovations were made to the school rooms at a cost of over $37,000. Following the evening service a fireside hour will be held with a brief program and light refreshments, when an opportunity will be given to visit with Dr. and Mrs. Semple. Mr. Robert Asplatt, of Peterborough, will be the guest soloist for the day, and friends of the congregation are cordially invited.

A Lift for Living

Being Good In a Tough World

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

So often it is said, "When a place is bad, get out of it." Sometimes the best thing to do in a bad situation is to pick up and leave. A good man should try to get out of a business which is a perpetual rebuke to his conscience. It may be necessary for him to separate from a social group which lowers his ideals and dulls his conduct.

But as a rule righteous people do not save a situation by withdrawing from it. I may pull out of a firm whose aims and methods run to my conscience, but if I am to make a living I cannot easily withdraw from the whole business system. I may feel impelled to leave a political party, but if I aim to have any influence in civic life, I must vote in some party. And unless good men go into politics, what hope is there for better government?

TOUGH ASSIGNMENT

Edna Ferber in her book "So Big" tells of a young woman teacher who was so baffled by the difficulties of her situation that she wanted to run away. An old Dutch housewife said to her, "You can't run away from life, palsy; you can't run far enough."

The temptations which threaten a person's ideals begin even before he gets out into the world on his own. Many a student faces some of the fiercest moral struggles of his life. The change from the parental roof tree to the freedom of the campus is one of the severest tests of character. It comes at a time when the animal spirits of youth are at high tide, to keep one's purity and temperance and integrity on a modern campus is not easy.

ALL DOERS NOT GOOD

And the test of being good in bad places may come even before college age is reached. Not all our homes are good places for growing children. When a home is poisoned by the presence of a bad parent, or is pervaded by a material, petty atmosphere, or is weakened by deceit and distrust—then the home itself is a bad place to be good in.

The first thing it takes to be good in a bad place is conviction. During the Senate Crime Commission's investigation a few years ago, a U.S. Senator said that one trouble of our time is that so many people have no strong convictions about right and wrong. They never take a firm stand. We never know where and when we can count on them.

But a good person's convictions must be clear as well as strong.

A steadfast person has a reason for his convictions, his mind is not closed by prejudice or bigotry. It is open to reason, yet firm in purpose.

The soldiers of King Charles I said of George Fox, the founder of the Quakers, that he was "stiff as a tree and pure as a bell." What a tribute from a man's enemies! Fox could not be bent. In prison after prison he was beaten and insulted, but he held to his convictions, illumined by an inner light which so shone before men that they could see "to see his good works".

Ah, that's the point. The person who can keep his virtues under temptation, who can keep sweet when things go sour, who can keep his courage when others are giving up—that person shows that he "has something" to see it and want it.

Remember, goodness can be as contagious as badness. Yes, even more so.

PARTY POLITICS AND CIVIC AFFAIRS

Party politics play little part in municipal government in Canada. In this the conduct of civic affairs in this country differs sharply from practices in Britain and also in the United States.

Most Canadians prefer their own system. Any person who has served on a municipal council, or indeed any person who has followed the deliberations of a municipal council closely and has also been armed with the knowledge of the political convictions of its members, cannot fail to have been struck by the frequency with which men and women of widely differing party affiliations reach identical conclusions about a municipal problem. Or, on the other hand, the close observer may have been somewhat astonished to note the frequency with which men of the same political affiliation will differ.

This strikes most municipal taxpayers as an excellent arrangement. They can select the best men, of all political persuasions, without the council chamber still degenerate into a sort of second-class model, on a much reduced scale, of the House of Commons or the provincial legislature.

It has remained for the Peterborough Examiner to produce another argument against party politics in the civic administration. "The municipalities of this country," it says, "are fighting a hard and lonely fight to preserve any of their important powers of self-government against the encroachments of the provinces, and to secure enough funds to pay for the services which the provinces insist upon." If municipal governments were given party labels, their case would be weakened. Those which party-ize their affairs at the party in power in the province would be under political pressure to take no action which might embarrass the party; those municipal governments in power which are opposed to the party in provincial power would have little right to expect considera-tion in that quarter.

This is the Toronto Telegram to point out that both Mayor Hiram McCallum, a Conservative, and Mayor Allan Lamport, a Liberal, have negotiated with the Conservative provincial government "quite fearlessly when necessary in Toronto's interests."

And yet, when all is said and done, any person who has participated in municipal council knows that on many occasions when the political affiliations of the members determine their votes. It is sometimes possible to predict with great accuracy, how any member will vote on a certain resolution. These resolutions are almost always of the type which places the municipal council in the position of striving or demanding certain action by some "higher" level of government in respect to problems which properly lie within the scope of those governments. Frequently these resolutions only concern the municipal council — although the decisions taken by the senior governments may have a very marked effect on the lives and purses of the residents of the municipality and therefore on the deliberations of the municipal council in the future.

The way to keep party politics out of civic affairs is to keep party politics, party political questions out of the council chamber. It is rarely that a man or woman of no political affiliations is elected to a municipal council. Frequently those political affiliations do not become apparent during the process of handling business which rightly comes within the council's jurisdiction is not evidence that party ties do not exist, but rather that council members, taken as a whole, are conscientious enough and independent enough to do their own thinking."

It is a great pity that our political system has not permitted men and women of exactly similar character to continue to exhibit like independence when they become back-benchers in the House of Commons or in a provincial legislature.

A DIFFERENCE IN DEGREE

Mr. Justice Dalton Wells of the Supreme Court of Ontario made a shrewd observation at Barrie, where he was presiding at the assizes, when he said that Mr. Justice Aubrey Junior hockey player. In a game in Collingwood last March Fines collided with Robert Gillies, who was fatally injured. The jury acquitted Fines and Mr. Justice Wells said he did not disagree with this verdict. "But he had some comment to make on roughness in modern hockey. It was possible to administer punishment of the game believe that the public likes roughness and players being hurt, he said then, "I think they are wrong and hockey would be accompanied by more spectators than the days of Nero when people were seriously injured for the amusement of the Roman populace."

To some this may seem like an exaggeration, but Mr. Justice Wells decided that "the difference is not one of kind but of degree.". The trained legal mind here has unerringly sought the chink in the armor of those who would defend the game by saying that "the difference is not one of kind but of degree.". The trained legal mind here has unerringly sought the chink in the armor of those who would defend the game by saying that "the difference is not one of kind but of degree.". Intent is the key to any criminal charge. Intent also holds the answer to whether a hockey fan, watching a rough game, is just a bewildered, unsophisticated counterpart of the Roman plebians who howled for the blood of gladiators in the Colosseum. Did the spectator come to see a hockey game, an exhibition of skill and speed, or mayhem? Or did he pay his money in the hope of seeing a brawl?

Unfortunately it takes only a few lovers of brawls to bring a fine sport into disrepute. Mr. Justice Wells has issued a timely warning, not only to officials of hockey leagues, to teams and to players but to spectators, too.

GARDEN FAITH

He planted marigold in spring
And tulips to the fall;
He went up nature gardening,
Although his grounds were small.

He neither much nor many
Of flowers could be;
He said he, "for great display,
Is this I do from year to year
A very despoic envy.

"My garden I've but a garden
small,
My gift to God I bring
But planting tulips in the fall
And marigold in spring."

Korean War Was Big One

(Edmonton Journal)

The publication by the United Nations of the provisional casualty estimates for the Korean War must put that conflict in its proper perspective. To many people in Canada and other countries it may have seemed a small, distant and indecisive struggle. But the UN figures leave no doubt that it was actually the largest and bloodiest conflict of the twentieth century, outside of the two world wars. Indeed, with the same exceptions, it was almost certainly the biggest war the world has experienced since the fall of Napoleon.

A few comparisons show how deadly it has been. In the South African or Boer War, the total of dead, wounded and missing on both sides was approximately 50,000. In the Franco-Prussian War of 1870-71, the corresponding figure was 928,000. Complete statistics are not available for the American Civil War, but a reasonable guess would place the dead and wounded of the Union and Confederate armies in the neighborhood of 1,000,000. By contrast, the dead, wounded and missing in the Korean War are now estimated at approximately 1,800,000.

This appalling toll, of course was very unequally distributed. Those United Nations members who sent small expeditionary forces, except for the French-Canadian Van Doos, suffered very light casualties. Australia's was fairly typical of this group: 291 dead, 1,072 wounded, and 21 missing — though this was a heavy proportion in relation to the size of the force, and reflects the fierce fighting in which it was engaged. On the other hand, the luckless Republic of Korea, whose people were the 1,300,000 casualties including nearly 900,000 dead and wounded, which compared to a country whose pre-war population was 20,000,000. The United States has also suffered severely with 108,000 dead and wounded and 105,981 wounded. These losses and the strain in-flicted on the United States economy go far to explain the tension and frustration which fills many Americans politics in recent years.

On the other hand, the figures are largely conjectural. It seems certain, however, that the Chinese Red Army has had proportionately as the south. The estimated 900,000 Chinese casualties dead and wounded is a prodigious figure. Korea was the graveyard of China's colossal reserves of manpower. Still, the deliberate killing of an army of their trained soldiers must give the Communist chiefs of staff food for thought.

The slaughter in Korea is a terrible illustration of the destructiveness of modern war. And it puts the more so when it is remembered that the fighting was limited and concentrated in a few relatively short periods; that neither side fought for the six months, really went "all-out" for victory and that the full destructive weapons available, such as the atomic bomb, were not used. Otherwise, as it was, this war offers only a small and limited foretaste of what a third world war would be like.

House-Hunting In Argentina

(Gait Reporter)

During recent years many stories have been told about schemes for house hunting in some of the cities in Canada where accommodation of any kind is at a premium. There are not so many tales of that kind in this country.

Many countries are still in bad shape for housing but we have not heard of any others with such conditions as are described below. The following related place is Argentia.

Buenos is, for instance, the case of the poor girl who, accused by her neighbor of having six or seven boy friends, fled in fear for her reputation. Shortly after, the whole thing was cleared up and she is out here from her apartment.

There is also the episode of the Canucks landlord who stuffed TNT into his pancakes and thus succeeded in routing—through the chimney—a lodger who had refused to leave.

Then there is the case of a citizen of Bahia Blanca who, using a ghost-accompanied stage extras —to perform nightly for a month. When a frightened tenant moved out, the sponsor of this phantasmagoria snapped up the "haunted" flat at the vacant.

Almost an extraordinary case is that of the man who had obtained a legal separation, but who made his wife's existence such a hell that she was able to find living quarters elsewhere.

Liners Face Air Challenge

(Hamilton Spectator)

Will the completion of the international airlines soon make ships of the size of the Queen Mary and the Queen Elizabeth uneconomic to build and to operate? Figures recently issued by the British Board of Trade revealed a decline of 43,000 seaborne passengers travelling to and from Britain in the first months of this year, while airborne passengers showed an increase of 143,000 in the same period.

The Queen Mary was both a symbol of the depression and of the dawning of better times in the thirties. Her hull stood like a gaunt and massive skeleton in John Brown's Clydebank shipyard in the early thirties, the work on her was halted for reasons of economy and she became a symbol of Britain's depressed industrial country. Then when the work was resumed on her it was a sign that better times were dawning. The Queen Mary began her voyages in 1936 and her sister ship, which was named Elizabeth, was ready in time to be launched by George VI in 1938. The Allies were grateful for the use of the two great liners.

But in this jet age they have serious competition. Sudden changes in economic conditions are many factors to be considered in any assessment of the value of air travel. Many people, for whom time is not a big consideration, prefer the sea voyage for health reasons and the fine food and service that is to be had on shipboard alone provides. One wonders, however, how long the Atlantic ferry passenger will be satisfied with the present inadequate accommodation and exclusion from the choicest parts of the ship. Much remains to be done in the democratization of sea travel. There would appear to be room for a new type of liner, called the tourist, for the ordinary passengers if travel economies are to be effected. Meanwhile, smaller ships designed, not on modernistic lines but to combine fast the purpose, but exclusively for tourist traffic, will undoubtedly have ready support. The airliners have adopted this policy with success. Many more people enjoy the pleasant pampering that a first class voyage provides and at least some of these amenities will be increasingly available in a tourist class ship.

The mid-thirties were financially a time of very lush prosperity but one of its few prosperous characteristics was the number of palatial ocean liners that were built. Britain, more than most countries, perhaps would never have thought of it, made a sea voyage. Even the Queen Elizabeth and it pulicity gave it all a touch of romance. Britain served as a builder on the popularity and as a result of the popularity of the Cunard Line mainly manner at shareholders' meetings. One wonders whether the spirit taught by the necessities of those years have been forgotten. The Queen Mary and the Queen Elizabeth are, it is only remains for the Queen Elizabeth 2 to be built if possible for the millions to enjoy it.

WORKING OUT OUR SALVATION

One reason why more people are not devout Christians is because they do not work hard enough at living for God and Christian.

The Bible teaches us that we cannot gain our salvation through works, but it also teaches that we cannot keep our salvation without works. We cannot perform "certain" acts and become Christians as a result of these achievements, but once we have laid hold of the Christian life by faith, we have to work to keep that life alive. The Bible describes this as working "out our salvation with fear and trembling." It is not working for salvation, but having gained salvation through faith, we work out our salvation. We apply to our daily living all the principles which have become ours through faith.

If we are going to be Christians, we have to work at it every day. If we are going to grow in character and continually putting our religious beliefs into practical operation.

It takes a lifetime of effort to integrate God's gift of salvation into the structure of our lives.

Personal Health Talks

FLYING A LITTLE BOY WITH PENICILLIN

Dr. Brady

Several weeks ago I told here, or tried to tell the story of that poor little boy, who, according to his aunt, had "the stiff neck and the shots" a n d therefore, in my instruc t i o n s a that he must be kept in bed as long as he was a temperature."

Evidently Auntie was adept at wielding the little glass stick. Too bad. But who am, I doubt the skill or wisdom of the leading specialists of Aunt's community? Speaking as a physician-horse-and-buggy doctor I may say that if the little boy were my patient I'd forbid Auntie to use her mischievous glass stick and I'd prescribe gradually more hours out of bed day by day. But, again, who am I . . .

The little boy still had a temperature of 103 or sometimes 104 after a while, always with the idiotic confinement to bed, so the doctor decided to let him get up. But Auntie wasn't satisfied, so she changed doctors.

The new doctor said he didn't know what the trouble was. But he took out the boy's tonsils. The little boy.

Back around 1920, when we began to determine what ailed a patient we could always find back of the symptoms a virulent infection that tonsilectomy would remove the septic focus and speed recovery. It never worked that way, but man, we had a thriving butcher business!

Months passed.

Auntie and the little boy came in the afternoon temperature of 99.6 or 100. The doctor now called this streptococcic, pneumococcic, etc., of course all by engine like Hagerstown's."

Excuse me while I mutter a few words I can't print.

That poor, poor little boy!

Still the victim of all this maltreatment was no better. So, in desperation the second doctor told Auntie to let the little boy get up and play.

The third doctor opined the boy had rheumatic fever and said he must be kept in bed a year. More "shots"; tests for heart murmur, EKG (electrocardiogram) tests, tests for anklet fever, tests for tuberculosis.

Finally the doctor decided the trouble was not rheumatic fever, but, for some inconclusive reason concluded that the little boy would have to take antibiotics for another year!

The poor little boy, his Aunt adds, is still in bed, still "runs a temperature."

Now, here, I've got to stop and roll myself a few numerals right now, or else I'll blow my top. I wouldn't mind so much if the victim of such senseless quackery were a man. But it is more than I can endure, when the victim concerned is a little seven-year-old.

Now, then, I have something to say which has been simmering in my mind for the past year or so. Here it is, in a few words: In my opinion the antibiotics and penicillin, in particular, are good in most instances, and as nearly as I can learn the doctors nearly as I can learn the doctors nearly as I can learn the doctors

War Amputee Barney Ferguson Injured in Fall

TRENTON — (Special) — Barney Ferguson, a war amputee working on the septic tank to the new home he is building in North Trenton, missed his footing yesterday and fell into the tank suffering a painful back injury.

Rushed to the Trenton Memorial Hospital he was treated and last night rested comfortably. X-rays revealed that his back was not as badly injured as first feared.

Ferguson lost his balance when a crowbar he was using to form forms away from the cement tank slipped, causing him to drop headlong into the enclosure.

He is with the office staff of the recently arrived Pyrotenax Company of Canada.

P.M. SPEAKS

"We would also like you to know that we are grateful for the leadership your nation is providing in the common effort of free men and women to make our world a safer and better place for future generations.

"This leadership . . . is more convincingly assisted by your deeds in national self-aggrandizement. By positive and unselfish actions, which are unique in history, the American people have recognized that there is no safety and well-being of liberty-loving peoples anywhere in the world so long as people everywhere who believe in the dignity and freedom of the individual.

VIGOROUS RESISTANCE

"Your nation's contributions to the restoration of war-devastated lands have been generous to an extent unprecedented in international relations. Your example, as a member of the United Nations, of vigorous and immediate resistance to wanton aggression has revived the hopes of countless people that, through collective action, international peace may be secured and maintained."

The prime minister said he hopes United States presidents will continue to visit Ottawa. Franklin D. Roosevelt came to Ottawa 10 years ago and Harry Truman in 1947.

Speaking in French, the prime minister said: "In this country and in this building where there are two official languages, I would also like to tell you in the language of my French ancestors that my fellow citizens of the same origin as my own are as happy as those of the English language to welcome you and Mrs. Eisenhower and to assure you of our highest esteem."

Private Members Have 24 Bills Before Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—Private members of the Commons are beginning to unload on the House their annual barrage of ideas for legislation.

There already are 24 proposals before the House, many of which the government intends to do. The government ideas range from a Canadian Bill of Rights to no tolls on a St. Lawrence river bridge.

Annually, scores of such resolutions and proposed bills go on the order paper from among the members outside the Cabinet ranks. A rare one finds government favor and is adopted.

Here is a selection from among those thrown into the legislative mill in the first couple of days of the session:

WANT BILL OF RIGHTS

John Diefenbaker (PC — Prince Albert) and Alistair Stewart (CCF —Winnipeg North) want a Bill of Rights, though in different terms.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) asks for the removal of the three-per-cent "floor" on the deduction of medical expenses from taxable income. He also wants the checkoff of union dues written into federal legislation.

Ellen Fairclough (PC—Hamilton West) is pressing for equal pay for women.

J. W. Murphy (PC — Lambton West) has before the House a resolution calling for a special Parliamentary committee to report on the advisability of increasing research activities. The resolution does not specify whether these would be private or governmental activities.

To Launch Drive To Develop Canada's North

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has decided to launch a new drive to develop Canada's rich and vast northland.

The title of the resources department will be changed. The Northwest Territories given a bigger legislative council and Eskimos assisted by breaking big reindeer herds for distribution among the northern dwellers.

The resources department, headed by Hon. Jean Lesage, will be known as the department of northern affairs and national resources.

Prime Minister St. Laurent gave notice Friday that he will introduce a bill to change the name. An official said the government wants everyone to know, especially the United States, that the north belongs to Canada and that the government intends to develop it for Canada's benefit.

Seasonal Layoffs Casting Shadow Over Industry

TORONTO (CP)—The National Employment Service reports that a shadow has been cast over Ontario industry by seasonal layoffs, declining business in some fields and cutbacks in other industries.

Except in the electrical industry and a few other industries, NESS figures show production has declined and unemployment is increasing. However, only 3.35 per cent of Ontario's work force is idle.

Layoffs in the automotive industry are regarded as temporary but the cut in the payrolls of farm implement and textile industries is more permanent.

TEXTILES HARD HIT

Hardest hit, with the exception of farm implements firms, is the textile industry. Diminishing sales and periodic shutdowns are reported common in cotton goods, woollens and silks.

A Galt firm released 200 workers and woollen plants at Simcoe, Hamilton and Perth have reduced operations. At Kingston, 185 workers in a silk plant were laid off because of the lack of orders for nylon thread.

Layoffs are continuing in the farm implement industries in Toronto, Chatham, Hamilton, Welland and Smiths Falls.

On the employment side, furniture plants in Kitchener, Stratford, Gananoque, Walkerton and Woodstock are maintaining steady production. Some Kitchener plants were reported looking for wood men to learn machine operating and for experienced furniture rubbers.

Ottawa Will Not Aid Families With Polio

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government will not provide financial assistance for western families hit by poliomyelitis recently, Health Minister Martin said in the Commons Friday.

During the first question period of the new Parliamentary session Mr. Martin said the government does not intend to go into matters that come within the competence of the provinces.

St. Laurent Dodges Question About Wheat

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent Friday parried opposition attempts to find out what the government plans to do about the big stockpile of grain on prairie farms.

Above is a view of the laundry at the Belleville General Hospital. All garments are weighed when delivered to this department as certain machines have a weight capacity. Clothes are then placed in the machines and sorted into piles and then in the background. Laundry manager Patrick Philip says nearly a ton of solid clothes is washed and ironed each day. A seamstress is kept on staff to mend any rips or tears. Nurses' and doctors' uniforms are processed in this department as well as bedding and cloth equipment for the surgery department.

Canadians Eager To Get Licences For Private TV

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians have embarked eagerly on the venture of private television broadcasting.

With 13 cities in prospect of receiving broadcasts from privately-owned stations before many months pass, broadcasters in another four seek licences from the government. Sudbury, Ont., is the first city to see and hear broadcasts from a privately-owned station—CKSO-TV. It has been on the air several weeks.

Broadcasters in Hamilton, London, Windsor, Kingston, Kitchener in Ontario, Quebec City and Hull-Ouzel in Quebec, Saint John, N.B., Sydney, N.S., Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary and Edmonton have been authorized by the government to proceed with construction of stations.

The CBC board of governors will consider applications from four other centres at a meeting next month. There are two applicants in each Sherbrooke, Que., and Port Arthur, Ont. Single applications have come from Charlottetown and Peterborough, Ont.

TWO SEEK LICENCE

During its Dec. 3-5 meeting, the CBC board will consider two applications for use of channel two by Port Arthur. One is made by Ralph H. Parkef, operator of radio station CFPA, with proposes to operate a television station in cooperation with radio station CKPR, Fort William.

The second comes from Donald A. Gordon, head of a Lakehead lumber company who proposes to form a company with the Port Arthur News-Chronicle will have a one-half interest.

The application from Peterborough is a hold-over from the board's previous meeting. It comes from the Brookland Company Ltd., a group which includes Senator W. Rupert Davies and Roy Thomson who both have wide newspaper and radio broadcasting interests.

Laundry Dept. at Hospital One of Busiest in Institution

One of the largest departments of the Belleville General Hospital is the laundry. Under the guiding hand of Patrick Philip, laundry manager, nearly one ton of soiled clothes is processed daily.

There are 13 employees at work in this department including six flat-work ironers, two steam-press operators, one checker of uniforms, one seamstress, one washing and extracting man and one collector of soiled goods.

Unlike a number of other departments at the institution, the laundry, both in size and number of available facilities, is adequate to the hospital's needs. It was constructed in 1949 when it had become evident to hospital officials the present building was not going to be large enough to accommodate the increasing patient population.

As a result, the laundry was constructed with the idea in mind that an addition to the hospital might some day be necessary. Consequently it was made large enough and hospital officials say that there will be little or no change needed in the department.

Mr. Philip came to the hospital as manager of the laundry in 1944. Prior to that he had been a member of the R.C.A.F. serving in Labrador and Newfoundland. Before enlisting Mr. Philip was employed with the Salvation City Hospital in the capacity of assistant laundry manager.

Available machinery in the department consists of one six-roll flat-work ironer used for the purposes of ironing all bedding. It has a capacity of 300 pounds of dry laundry. There is also another similar machine, only smaller in its capacity. There is a 45-inch ironer capable of handling 75 pounds of wet laundry and another smaller extractor with a capacity of 75 pounds.

Finally there are two air-operated presses and two drying tumblers.

All the uniforms worn by the hospital staff including nurses' and doctors' uniforms are washed, ironed and mended in the laundry. This is in addition to all the bedding in the building which is sent to the laundry. The laundry is a busy department.

Seek Ex-Convict As Kidnapper Of New York Girl

NEW YORK (AP)—The car in which an ex-convict Friday abducted a 13-year-old girl, after terrorizing her family in a pre-dawn robbery, was found early today on a Manhattan street.

Police searched for Anthony James Palamida, 26, identified from photos by the girl, Dorothea del Longo, as the man who kidnapped her, held her captive in a hotel room for several hours, then let her out of his car on a street some distance away.

GIRL ATTACKED

First police reports said the girl was not harmed, but later authorities said she had been raped. Dorothea originally said she had not been molested. When taken away she was attired in blue pyjamas under a topcoat.

A man entered the apartment of James Bottinelli, the girl's stepfather, at 4 a. m. Friday, punched Bottinelli in the face, demanded money and liquor and stayed on for an hour before leaving with the girl, $100 in cash, a portable radio and a tape recorder.

Canadian Soldiers Given High Praise

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian soldiers serving with the 1st infantry brigade in Germany are "extremely likable, intelligent and very direct," says a Canadian girl working at the Nuffield leave centre in London.

Miss Lena McLure of Charlottetown was quoted by army headquarters as saying:

"You can spot a Canadian soldier by his dress and bearing the moment he walks in the door. As the only Canadian woman in this leave centre, I can tell their wives, mothers and sweethearts that they can be very, very proud of their boys."

Three Charged With Assault On Taxi Driver

NORTH BAY (CP) — Three men who said they came here from Sarnia a week ago, elected trial by higher court Friday on joint charges of assaulting and attempting robbery of a nearby Sturgeon Falls taxi driver.

The men, Marcel St. Pierre, Tony Sein and Gilbert Seguin, denied the charges.

Cab driver Florian LaBelle said that after he drove the trio to the outskirts of Sturgeon Falls, they beat him up, demanding money. He said when he leaned on the car's horn a non-resident came out and the trio fled.

St. Pierre testified they came from Sarnia to buy revolvers from LaBelle and after giving him $120 to obtain eight guns and he failed to produce them, the three roughed LaBelle up to get their money back.

Man Is Better Fashion Judge Says Milliner

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Many a wife knows more about her husband's politics and the stock market than her husband.

She has to tip her hat to him in one field, he is likely to be a good judge of her taste in fashions.

This view is firmly held by Mr. John P. John, the noted milliner whose clan for four generations has been dressing the heads of those who want kind of clothing they look best in.

"Men have basically sounder fashion tastes than women, because they are more interested in the women themselves than the clothes they put on their backs to atop their heads," he said. "They know when a woman looks good and when she doesn't."

That is why "Mr. John" likes wives to bring their husbands along on shopping safaris to his gilded white-and-red hat palaces on New York's east side.

"Men hesitate to wear a hat with a clean, simple, uncluttered line," said John, who hates gadgets himself. The base of his milliner's lady customer who yearns for what he calls "memory or headache hats."

He says when she first met her husband she was wearing an orchid, with lots of veiling and bows, tulle, and she wants another just like it. She will be disappointed.

"I can't tell her she's joo old for that kind of monstrosity. I just tell her I'm 20 years too old to design one. It's wrong to go around wearing dead memories."

AWFUL HUSBANDS

John bosses his feminine clients with an imperious air that amazes and rather awes their husbands who aren't accustomed to such strong-minded women dressmessily to any male decision.

The 56-year-old designer has 200 employees, grosses better than $2,000,000 a year, but designs every hat himself, working always from a living model. He designs every day, each turn out a new one in five minutes.

"I've designed between 15,000 and 20,000 good hats in the last 30 years," he said modestly. Some how you don't ever "see how many bad ones?"

John's dark hair is plastered down as if he had just come in out of the rain. He combs it that way because it adds to his striking resemblance to Napoleon, his hero.

"Napoleon personally designed the hats for some of his troops," he said. "They were quite good. Very dashing—quite brave."

John is a custom milliner who lives in a penthouse, mixes aspirin with his elite clientele, and is sorry housewives and stenographers can't afford his hats. They range from $65 to $500.

LONDON (CP)—Two graduate nurses from Montreal have the formula for getting Europe on a shoestring way. It cost them less than $300 for a five-month tour that covered the Coronation, the Royal Tournament, Paris, Rome in Paris and a host of experiences including a train ride in Spain shared with a flock of chickens.

Miss G. Gorman, 36, of Galt and Montreal, Que., and Mexican-born Eleanor Lee, 34, thumbed through Ireland, Britain and most of Europe west of the Iron Curtain. They gained weight on a bread-and-cheese fare and were out a set of jeans apiece.

Now, they are heading home to revel in what they missed most—"Real beds, hamburgers, ice cream and good coffee." And they are going to tell their best friends they're broke. Blonde Miss Lee, a British citizen who married Montreal's Royal Victoria Hospital and plans to make her home in Canada says simply of the shoestring junket: "It will be hard to settle down again."

Dark-haired Miss Gorman adds: "We could write a book on the finer points of hitch-hiking. Both agree that the tour, hatched last winter, brought laughs all the way."

STARTED IN MAY

The pair dredged in three luxury nights at a Liverpool hotel last May after arriving. Then, dressed in sweaters, skirts and stout shoes, they started their trip. The first stopover was Paris, where Miss Blarney Stone near Cork. They continued by train to Glasgow in Scotland through pouring rain. They saw the Coronation, danced in the streets July 14 on Bastille Day and attended Swiss and French wine festivals.

Equipped with bad French and good Spanish, the girls hitched rides from a reimustit-clad Dutch traffic constable, countless truck-drivers and a young German painter who took them from Toulouse, France, to Barcelona, Spain.

From it all, the young nurses found: That Belgium is the cheapest place to get a lift; curb crutters make it safer to walk in Italy; Austria and Spain are the cheapest countries; Denmark is the friendliest; Britons and Americans ignore thumbers the most.

The girls returned to London with $2 and departed for Rome. In all, they still carrying a three-book library consisting of St. A. Weir's "A Short History of the World," a work on British architecture and Lin Mitee's classic "Winnie the Pooh."

Miss Gorman, whose fiance is an engineer with Trans-Canada Airlines, says she'll be married in March, but for both the hikers when she said: "I'll be married" they have itching feet again—but next time the trip will be shorter."

Home economist, lecturer, formerly food editor and radio commentator Adele Hunt brings to the Dominion Stores Cooking School sessions to be conducted in Belleville, Kingston, many fresh ideas on food and food preparation.

Always interested in food, Mrs. Hunt's early ambition was to be known as a "cooking school teacher." This ambition was realized when Hunt's early ambition was realized soon after her formal education had been completed when she was assigned by the State of New Jersey to teach secondary school students the art of food preparation.

Seeking to remove the stigma of drudgery attached to cooking and other household chores, Mrs. Hunt evolved the cooking "Fun with Food" and encouraged her students to learn food values, comparative costs, and the art of serving food attractively.

POPULAR DEMONSTRATOR

Although married and in the midst of raising a family, Mrs. Hunt found time to take on a radio program for a New Jersey station, Familiar, as she was with household problems, her commentary on food, fun, and fashion soon became very popular with the Metropolitan New York area.

During the war years, Mrs. Hunt supervised the operation of all seven of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation's cafeterias.

After the war, Mrs. Hunt returned to radio, and in addition wrote a food column for a New Jersey newspaper. Her association with newspaper editors throughout the country gave her an opportunity to exchange recipes and food ideas.

Now with Homemaker's Service of New York City, Mrs. Hunt travels throughout Canada and United States conducting cooking schools and bringing her ideas and recipes to thousands of women who have enjoyably discovered how to have fun with food.

Mrs. Hunt will conduct the Dominion Stores Cooking School at the Capitol Theatre, 128 Front Street, Belleville, from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., every day Monday to Friday, November 16th to November 20th.

Lennox-Addington District Young People's U. Holds Rally

The annual rally of the Lennox and Addington District Young People's Union was held yesterday in United Church, Napanee, on Wednesday evening.

Registration was in charge of Judy Kimmett and Don Fingland.

A fine worship service was led by Y.P.U. Vice-President Rose Mary Hall. Her theme was inspiring in all. In this address, mention was made of how "Christianity has become a burden rather than a delight of the Spirit of God at work in us. It certainly isn't one hour a month easy path and so we must be careful in all we do and say, thus helping to prepare to meet the temptations which come our way.

"Life is something to give, not to get; life is a trust, something which we have been given to use in the furtherance of God's Kingdom. If we come to God with humble hearts, He will do so much and give us the help we require through each day."

Commission groups were formed, as follows: Mission and World Outreach, Mac Cameron; Faith and Evangelism, Irene Wren; Citizenship and Community Service, Burton Hunter; Stewardship and Training, Gaynor Rendell.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

Reports from the various groups were given and the following list of officers were installed by Rev. C. D. McLellan: past president, Wray McLaughlin; president, Don Fingland; secretary, Judy Kimmett; treasurer, Muriel Pringle; publications, Doris Twiddy.

The rally closed with worship period conducted by Doris Twiddy, using the thought "Building Day By Day."

Refreshments were served and a vote of thanks tendered to all who helped to make the rally a success.

A friendship circle was formed and with the singing of a verse of "Just Be Kind, Thou Art Binda," and the Mizpah benediction brought the evening to a close.

Mother of 9 Children Given High Post in Denmark Govt.

By GUY BRETTANY

COPENHAGEN (Reuters) — The biggest surprise in Denmark's new Socialist government was the appointment of Mrs. Aase Lionder Groes, a 43-year-old housewife and the mother of nine children, to the post of minister for communications.

Mrs. Groes had never been in public office before and had never taken an active part in politics. She is not a member of the Folketing, Denmark's single - chamber Parliament.

Her only apparent qualifications for the post were that she received a degree in political economy at Copenhagen University and served for the last three years she has been chairlady of the Danish Housewives' Association, which keeps a close watch on retail prices.

Her husband is chairman of the Danish Workers' Co - operative Society.

"I was really surprised at my appointment," Mrs. Groes told Reuters. "I think it was a rather bold step by the prime minister.

"But I hope all the same to be able to do something to help Danish industry and commerce to run smoothly."

FIRST TRADE

"I believe in free trade as far as possible."

Asked how she would reconcile the duties as the mother of a large family with the responsibilities of a cabinet minister, Mrs. Groes replied:

"Well, I shall have to make arrangements for my home to run as well as I can without me as my main job now is at the ministry. The children were enthusiastic over my appointment."

Mexican Oils, by Arnold Meyers, Shown at McCarthy Theatre

Editor's note: Some months ago there appeared in these columns, "Letters From Mexico," describing the country, its cities, lakes, and rural villages; its general floors; its people; their daily life, the scenic beauty of its localities visited, as seen by one Belleville resident, Miss Ruth Clayton, Mr. Arnold Meyers. At the present time there is on view in the lounge of the McCarthy Theatre, and will be for the remainder of the month, a collection of oils painted by Mr. Meyers during his stay in Mexico. These oils should have caught the spirit of that land south of the border, as have the interesting character sketches, all of which are worthy of inspection.

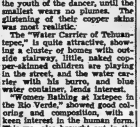
"FLAG DAY"

Patriotism is strong among Mexicans as shown by the gathering "Flag Day", which depicts the ceremonies in the flag shower by the common people, as its tricolor flag is raised high and the wave gently in the breeze. The central figure is of a mother, probably carrying a child, her one foot upon the curbing, while two other children are on the floor ground.

Other paintings include the "Cliffs of Salina Cruz," high, dark, towering, rugged cliffs, with the ocean beyond, the profile of a man with a Vandyke beard; The Mexican Dancer and the three rocky cliffs, whose slopes are dotted with cactus. The Street Scene at Tehuantepec" is nicely drawn and shows the dark, colorful buildings, with women bearing bundles, and the most flowing costume of all, "Evening in Tehuantepec" shows the workey on his homeward way, with his ox cart drawn by burros, and another load of corn. An interesting building with tall pillars is in the distance, reminding one of the Parthenon at Athens. Nicely colored.

ANCIENT CEREMONIAL

"The Aztec Dance," an ancient ceremonial, in robes which not only the idea costumes only, was most interesting. This depicted a whole family in ceremonial attire, the father wearing the head-gear having the form of a bird, and having colors of red, green, blue, white and yellow, the mother in feathers diminishing according to the youth of the dancer, until the latest wears a simple one, the glistening of their copper skins showing through.



The "Water Carrier of Tehuantepec" is quite attractive, showing a cluster of homes with outside stairways built, naked copper-skinned children are playing in the street, and the water carrier with his jug of water, the water container, lends interest.

"Western Sailing at Isletepec in the Rio Verde," showed good colouring and composition, with a keen interest in the human form. This was also brought out in the Helen Payne P.W.H.P., of Kingston.

The singing of Auld Lang Syne brought a happy meeting to a close.

Wife Preservers

The plastic pouches have come up with a specially designed container to make it easier to store and use the mixture. It is a plastic bottle with a measuring cup for a cap. Mixture, which is made with water, keeps in the refrigerator for weeks. To make a quick batch of pancakes, add enough water to the juice in the saucer until the mixture is smooth. Use the transparent plastic to reach a line marked on the side, then add the container for exactly enough the top down so that it grips the entire rim of the bottle. ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HER ESTRANGED HUSBAND'S IN JAIL—IF HE GETS OUT, SHOULD SHE TAKE HIM BACK?

Maybe it sounds hard-hearted but I do not believe a happy and successful marriage can be based on love alone. Unless love democratizes itself into substantial concrete, practical ways, a marriage is like that famous house in the Bible that collapsed because it was built on sand instead of a solid foundation.

This is the way I feel when some wife writes me about having left her husband because he proved irresponsible and undependable and then, because he promises to reform, wants to know if she should go back to him on the strength of those promises.

To get down to an individual case of this kind, I have before me a letter from a 25-year-old wife who has been married some three years, has a daughter 15 months old and a baby six months.

"Two months after we were married," she writes, "my husband got mad and quit the good job he had. I was pregnant at present, although I was still working. We moved into a cheaper house and I worked as long as I could. Finally he found himself a new job, and we were really happy then, looking forward to the baby's coming. When the baby did come, it was a little girl, and my husband was very disappointed because he has wanted a boy.

"When the baby was three months old, my mother kept her and I went back to work. But I soon became pregnant again, and when I was three months pregnant, my husband got in with the wrong crowd one night and got drunk and landed in jail. For two days after that he was so sick he could not go to work, and the place where he worked found out what happened, so when he did go back they fired him. So then I was again going to have a baby and my husband without a job. I would go to work and leave him at home, and when I got home again he would still be there with no job. He said he tried to get one. I don't know, maybe he did. But the bills were past due and I didn't make enough to take care of the three of us. So finally I went back home, and after I did that my husband left town.

"For awhile I knew where he was but he never got a red cent me any money. I had my baby at the clinic here in town as it didn't cost me anything. This time it was a little boy, but I didn't know where my husband was so I couldn't tell him.

IN TROUBLE AGAIN

"Two weeks later, though, I got a letter from him. He was in trouble again and in jail. What happened was that he got drunk with two other men and they hit a man on the head and took his billfold. He has been in jail three months now, and he had a trial two weeks ago and his case was referred to the probation board, so he may get out on probation.

"If he does, do you think I should go back to him and give him another chance? He says he loves me and I still love him. He has me to forgive him and says he is sorry for the way he acted and that he believes we could make another start. I wrote him about all the little bor he always acted and hasn't seen, and he said he could hardly wait to see him.

"Do you think we would have a chance at it? Should I go back again? Please help me decide what to do."

As I have already said, I do not believe love alone guarantees the success of any marriage. And that if it is to succeed, love must be backed up by responsible conduct.

Translating this general theory into terms of this individual woman's problem, I think that before she goes back to her husband, he should give me some sound reason to believe that he has something more than good intentions to offer her.

Specifically, I think if he does get out on probation, he should show her that he means business by finding himself a job and holding it long enough to make it possible for him to provide a home for her to come to before he asks her to leave the security of her mother's home. It is one thing for a man to promise to be good in future from behind bars. It is quite another thing, once he is free again to hold to that promise instead of falling back into the ways that landed him in such serious trouble.

If this young wife wants to try again with her husband, he is a lucky man. But I would strongly advise against her doing so on nothing but promises.

Give your costly mate's cashmered good grey, beside, and brown sweaters a bath in lukewarm water and mild soapsuds and they'll look like new. Sweaters and shirts washed should be protected with a coat of baffling yet.

Colorful Scarf

BY ALICE ALDEN

The scarf is very much with us this season, in small versions for neckline tuck-ins, in large dimensions to add spice, color and variety to simple costumes. And some of the nicest scarves we've seen this season are not imports but come from domestic sources, like this one by Vera. The hand-screened border print on white, its dimensions a large thirty-five inches square. It offers several clear, bright color combinations, of which is shown here, giving interest and charm to a basic blouse and skirt ensemble.

Readers' Saturday Column

By Mary Moore

QUESTION:

Enjoy your column . . . could you tell me something about freezing pies? I want to get on a diet and won't be eating pies . . . I would like to know if I could bake a pie and then freeze half of it. I am interested in apple pie, mince, blueberry, raisin, banana, pumpkin and lemon pies.—Lucy W.

ANSWER:

Two-crust pies may be baked, cooled, wrapped and frozen; this applies to half of a baked pie too. Still one-crust pies should be baked, cooled, frozen then wrapped and stored in freezer. This is elementary because you could not wrap a one-crust pie attractively because it is too soft on top—that is why it should be frozen on the shelf in freezer and then wrapped after it is hard. You could experiment with banana and lemon pies—I never have. I do not know how the meringue would turn out when it has been frozen and then thawed for baking. You might make banana and lemon pies without meringue and serve them with whipped cream.

To thaw and rebake frozen two-crust pies: pumpkin — put frozen pumpkin pie in oven at 375 deg. for 1 hour. Then serve when cold. Other two-crust pies such as apple, raisin, mince, blueberry: bake the frozen pie at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour or 45 minutes. Then cool and serve. All of these suggestions apply to half-pies—but last baking time would be a little shorter.

QUESTION:

. . . re your recipe for whole wheat bread (15 cups flour, 3 cakes yeast (uncooked for pioneridge) as a thickener in stews and soups? (3) A clove of garlic skewered to a pork roast during cooking?

Have you any recipes for Drop Cookies calling for wheat flakes and for light molasses that are not heavily spiced? . . . thank you for your column. It appears to be written for people who are willing to substitute effort or intelligence as well as money.—A. McD.

ANSWER:

This is the rule: For overnight raising of bread use 1 package granular or dry yeast to each 4 cups liquid. Does that answer that question? Corn oil may be used in place of margarine.

No, I have not used wheat flakes as a thickener for stews or soups. I have used rolled oats though and think it is very good. I will try some ideas. It is wonderful to be understood. Thanks.

DROP COOKIES

Two-thirds cup shortening, 1-2 cup brown sugar, 1 cup molasses, 2 well-beaten eggs, 1 1-2 cups all-purpose flour, 1 1-4 cups (or a little less) wheat flakes (uncooked) or rolled oats, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1 1-2 chopped nuts mixed with chopped dates or coconut and, if desired, 1-4 teaspoon cinnamon or nutmeg. Cream shortening, gradually beating in the sugar, then molasses then eggs. Sift flour and other dry ingredients together except wheat flakes or rolled oats. Add sifted dry ingredients, then flakes and vanilla and fruit and nuts. Drop dough from tip of spoon onto buttered baking sheet, spacing them to allow spreading. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. about 10 or 12 minutes.

QUESTION:

Christmas is not too far away and I would like to make fruit cake and real Scotch shortbread . . . I have not been married long and am just catching on to the tricks of the trade. . . . I would certainly cherish a Mary Moore's Cookbook . . . perhaps some day you might find time to compile one. . . . Wouldn't that be swell! . . . would you know where I could get a booklet on stain removers?—Mrs. H. A.

ANSWER:

I am nearly ready to give you the fruit cake recipes I am working on. Watch for them very shortly. Would give you recipe for Scotch shortbread in plenty of time for Christmas baking too. Thanks for your enthusiasm. I have written re stain removal bulletin. See last Thursday.

Fashion Flashes

Worthy of a prize and sure to find a customer, despite its impressive price tag, is one of the clever-est fur accessories of the year. It is a long, narrow stole of beautifully marked Somali leopard and is worn like a giant fraise, elaborately knotted and reaching to the skirt hem.

Sweet and cozy is the hand-crocheted wool helmet, the head-hugger thickly spattered with giant sequin discs, either one gray, gold or, in brown, copper or beige, or jet on white. A nice bit of evening whimsy, yet sensible.

And now there's a new combination, that of hat and shoes. For after-dark wear, strip sandals of rhinestone-studded satin are teamed with a satin hat, also rhinestone-studded.

A new approach brings the wool-knit dress to the fore. Handcrocheted in mesh frame the heart-shaped cutout and form the front neckline of a slender two-piece dress of bronze. Tan wool-knit cuffs finish the bracelet-length sleeves, and the skirt is pleated. Self-knit intermittent ribbing produces an interesting banded effect on the skirt.

The success story of the season is the separate skirt—for day, for evening, for casual, and for sports or dress wear. Every old favorite in fabric is well represented, plus many new ones—such as cashmere and camel's hair. Silk taffeta, covered with ter on ter of fine metal fringe, makes a handsome after-dark skirt cut on very slim lines.

There's nothing so beautiful as the traditional wedding gown and rich silk. Ready for one fortunate bride is a gown of ivory silk taffeta cut on traditional lines and studded at the neck with a vine and leaf motif heavily embroidered in pearls, tiny rhinestones and silver thread that trails across the bodice and down onto the full skirt.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

A THANK-YOU NOTE TO EACH CONTRIBUTOR

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister's husband passed away last week, and his boss leaves her in serious financial straits. Yesterday she received a "memorial donation" (instead of flowers, the letter said) from the organization to which her husband belonged. From the letter containing the donation was a list, listing the donation was a list, with signatures, of all those who had contributed. My sister is most grateful for this kindness, and she has asked me to ask you for your suggestions about writing a letter of thanks to include everyone.—Sister.

Since there was such a definite list of the friends who so generously contributed to this memorial donation, your sister should show her appreciation by writing a note of thanks to each contributor. The note could be brief, and the same form could be sent to each one:

Dear Mr. Hill,

With a most grateful heart I thank you for your kindness in contributing to the memorial donation sent to me by your organization, to which my husband was so happy and proud to belong. Your good-ness touched me deeply, and I cannot tell you what a help and comfort the generous donation is to me.

My deep appreciation, and all good wishes,

Sincerely yours,

Mary Smith Robinson

THE THEATER PROGRAMME MAKES GOOD SENSE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a married couple take some friends to the theater, or a concert or lecture, should the host, after he has given the ticket stubs to the usher, let the guests precede him down the aisle, that is, the guests directly following the usher?

Dolores A.

Not necessarily. This might seem a proper procedure, but in a crowded entrance this often doesn't work out as the practical thing for the host to do. It often is much more convenient for the host to give the tickets to the usher, and then, rather than hold up the procession in a crowded place, follow the usher, and then wait at the head of the row to direct his guests in the order in which they are to sit. This is "taking the situation firmly in hand" . . . an excellent quality for a host.

THE BRIDEGROOM'S RING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In the double ring ceremony, who buys the ring for the bridegroom?

Peggy

The bride buys the bridegroom's ring, as this one by Vera. The hand-screened border print on white, its dimensions a large thirty-five inches square. It offers several clear, bright color combinations, of which is shown here, giving interest and charm to a basic blouse and skirt ensemble.

BEAUTY

MAKE-UP IS AN ART

There is no reason for a girl not being pretty today when a few pats of the powder puff, a light film of rouge, a delicate bit of coloring on the lips will do the job. Of course, she must have a delicate touch, she must select her beauty aids with care and intelligence, and she must know where to stop. Certainly on the modern woman the days of artifice have a marvelously rejuvenating effect and they boost her spirits a long way.

Clever women make up with discrimination, with distinction. The object of cosmetics is to improve upon nature subtly. Too much make-up defeats its own end.

Make-up artists in Hollywood know how to accent good features and minimize defects. And smart society can learn a lot themselves just by experimenting.

Not so very long ago make-up was frowned upon, but a change of opinion came with the use of lipstick—which now becomes an institution.

An authority on make-up says that nine out of ten women have some beauty point that is going to waste because they do not know how to emphasize it. For instance, if one has beautiful eyes and a lovely mouth, the lipstick application should be fairly heavy and the color vivid, without which the face would lack what experts call a "center of beauty."

If a woman has prominent teeth, lip coloring should be unobtrusive, and make-up centered around the eyes to call attention to them instead.

Roses Placed On Desks Of New Members

OTTAWA (CP) — Four women members of Parliament took their places in the Commons Thursday at the opening of the new session, giving the House the largest feminine representation it has ever enjoyed.

Baskets of roses placed on their desks and a desk-thumping ovation from male colleagues awaited them as they filed in—three of them for the first time in Parliament.

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, 48-year-old Progressive Conservative from Hamilton West, is back for the second time.

The new women members are two Progressive Conservatives, Miss Sybil Bennett, 48-year-old member for Halton, and Miss Margaret Aitken, 46-year-old Toronto journalist from York-Humber constituency, and a lone Liberal, Mrs. Ann Shipley, 33, member for Trenisakming.

SENATE MEMBERS

The senate, too, has an added share of femininity this year. Senators Cairine Wilson and Iva Fallis have been joined since the last session by three other women: Mrs. Nancy Hodges, 62-year-old Victoria journalist; Mrs. Muriel McQuesten, 54, of Fredericton, and Mrs. Marianne Beaudoin, 70-year-old Jodoin, 71, of Montreal.

Their fashions for the opening ceremony were quiet and colleen-tive as compared with the colorful ceremonial dress of officials and members of the diplomatic corps who crowded the Senate chamber to hear the speech from the throne.

Mrs. Shipley, who wore a black dress with a band of sequins on the collar, termed the ceremony "most impressive."

Engineering Triumph

Hundreds of feet under water and nearly a few years ago, iron ore is mined from the drained lake bed at Steep Rock Lake, Ontario. Above Atikokan (Can.) 146 miles from Port Arthur, Ont. Twenty-ton trucks carry the ore from the open-pit operation to a rail line for shipment to Port Arthur where it is carried by lake freighters to smelters. (CP Photo)

Man Answered Challenge By Draining, Dredging Lake

By DAVE STOCKAND
Canadian Press Staff Writer

STEEP ROCK LAKE, Ont. (CP)—Nature hoarded its iron riches beneath northwestern Ontario's Steep Rock Lake but amazing chemists with a thick layer of silt and rock and topping it with water as deep as 400 feet.

It's a safety deposit vault, it was decided.

Man answered the challenge by diverting, draining and dredging. His success can be measured by the vast changes in the scenery, landscape and color scheme.

Drain much of a lake 10 miles long and all the islands known back in the days of fur brigades become dark hills with high-water marks. Mine 9,000,000 tons of ore, as a start, and you've got a deep hole. Move around to give the lakebed the tint of a fallen sunset.

CANADIANAIRE PIT

And with the mining the level of the lakebed drops. Open pit operations in the first area to be exploited have gouged out a canyon going down 180 feet at one end.

The company which takes its name from the exile of its discoverer, Steep Rock Iron Mines Ltd., started in by diverting the flow of the Seine river around the lake. With the tap turned off, the next step was the pumping and dredging which started in 1943, continues to this day, and will go on for a long time yet.

Belling out a lake obviously isn't the easiest way of going into the mining business. But there were compelling advantages. The Moose head body of water is in a good location.

The lake is four miles north of Atikokan, now a community of 1,500 which talks of a population of 15,000 in the 1960s. And Atikokan is on the Canadian National Railways line running to the shipping facilities at Port Arthur, at the head of the Great Lakes, just 140 miles distant. A short spur line built by the CNR gave the mine a way of getting the ore to market. All but a fraction goes to the United States.

THE SWAMP AREA

Driving up to the mine over what has an old portage trail before the bulldozers moved in, steep rock Bloomer S. G. (Sid) Hancock recalls: "This was a swampy when I came through in 1929 with horses and a wagon. Sometimes the horses were up to their middles in water."

That was the year mining men drilled through the ice and fished out results that backed up similar diamond found near the shore so far back as 1925; that the lake held a body of ore worth going after.

Fifteen years after the drilling, the original open pit operation is being converted into an underground mine; they're down so deep that surface mining isn't economical. A new open pit went into operation this fall, and Inland Steel Company of Chicago is preparing to start dredging on property it has leased from Steep Rock.

First on the Steep Rock alphabet was the "S" ore body from which an initial 18,333 logs were mined in 1944. Nearly a half of the tonnage produced to date has come from this underground operation. Another ton mine, which like the new Hogarth operation, carries on the name of two dead mining men prominent in Steep Rock's development: Joseph Errington and Major Donald M. Hogarth.

PRODUCTION FIGURES

Employing more than 1,000 men, who work around the clock in eight-hour shifts, Steep Rock expects to send out 1,250,000 tons this year by the mid-November close of the shipping season and stockpile possibly another 200,000 tons.

Neil Edmonstone, secretary-treasurer, says the target for next year is 2,000,000 tons. Until 1958 production will be increased year by year. In 1958 production will level off at 3,500,000 tons, the maximum under present plans.

The planned 1958 tonnage will come from two underground mines at the Errington, the Hogarth open pit, and an open pit at which is known as the "G" orebody, as yet undeveloped.

After a time the Hogarth, like the Errington, will go underground. Shaft mining is more expensive but it is a year-round operation while winter cramps open-pit production.

The mine planned by Caland Ore Co. Ltd., Inland's Canadian subsidiary, will have an annual output of 3,000,000 tons or more when fully developed. It is scheduled to begin production in 1958 after dredging out an estimated 180,000,000 yard of overburden.

The $25,000,000 contract for the Caland dredging has been let to construction engineers Corporation of Chicago, which is handling the same job for Steep Rock.

WORK ON HOGARTH

Mining started this fall on one corner of the Hogarth pit, with dredging still going on to clear the entire deposit. Two dredges are on the job, one of them a 800-ton monster dismantled and shipped from Barton harbor on 100 railway cars.

The silt-and some mighty-bushy boulders—are sucked through a pipe on pontoons. With the help of booster pumps, it is lifted up 400 feet and deposited thousands of feet away in the west arm of the lake.

There is supposed to be ore in the west arm too, which means that if and when mining moves into that part, twice the natural amount of silt will have to be carted away.

At the Hogarth the ore is being dynamited loose and carried away in 80-ton loads by giant ore trucks on which the cost of replacing a set of tires is $9,000.

A conveyor belt will be added and a belt system will be used to bring the ore to the surface from the Errington underground operation.

From the mine the ore goes to a crusher, and then there to the loading bin, where it is dumped from a kind of bomb bay door into the waiting ore cars.

NOVEMBER

Summer seems far away,
Dull days are here.
Lowering are skies of grey,
Leaves brown and sere;
Sad is the wind's deep moan,
Chilling the rain.
Nature grieves not alone
With heart of pain.

Silent the hum of bee,
Bird voices dumb.
Frost blights moor and lea—
November's come;
Wraiths of the summer leaves
Flit in the air.
Trees their bare branches fling
In deep despair.

But the bright days will come,
Spring will appear,
Once more the bees' glad hum
Bird voices cheer;
Flowers will awake at last,
Leaves find their wings
List! the November blast
Of Maytime sings.

—Helen B. Anderson.

WELLINGTON — Remembrance Day service was observed on Wednesday afternoon at the Memorial Park Gates with Rev. A. Poulgir and Rev. C. P. Heaven in charge. There was a fine attendance of veterans and citizens to honor the heroic dead. A wreath in their memory was placed by Mrs. H. Tayler and Mr. Arnold Postle.

Mrs. Janet Noxon, who has been ill for some time, was able to enjoy a call and afternoon tea on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. W. H. Morton. She was accompanied by her nurse and Mrs. Norman Webster. Mrs. Noxon's many friends are sincerely hoping for her recovery.

FUNERAL SERVICE

The funeral service of Mrs. Elda McCullough was held on Saturday afternoon in the Ainsworth Funeral Home, with Rev. C. P. Heaven in charge. The deceased was the widow of Mr. Sam McCullough. Surviving are two sons: Leslie at home; Leonard of Utica, N.Y., and a daughter, Mrs. Mildred Way, of Wellington; also two sisters: Mrs. H. Jolley of Wellington, and Mrs. Beatty of Toronto. Interment was made in Wellington cemetery.

Congratulations and best wishes to Mr. Arthur Long and Miss Ruth Heaven, who were married on Saturday, November 7, in St. Andrew's Anglican Church.

Mrs. E. B. Anderson and Miss Marjorie Blakely spent a few days in Belleville, guests of Mrs. Nellie Arthur, Ann St.

THOMAS THOMPSON

Mr. Thomas Thompson, a former resident of Wellington, passed away at his home in Melville. The funeral service was held on Wednesday afternoon in Melville Church and was largely attended. Rev. Mr. Cook, of Consecon, conducted the service. Those attending from Wellington included Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carley, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Preston and Mr. George Ferguson. Sympathy is extended to his widow (nee Miss Addie Wessels) and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Douglas, of Ottawa, with Mr. and Mrs. R. Vandewater, Belleville, motored to Syracuse and other U.S. points on holiday. Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Vandewater have their little granddaughter Kathryn Douglas, as their guest during her parents' absence.

ANNIVERSARY TEA

On November 5th the W.A. of Melville United Church celebrated their 35th anniversary by entertaining members of the W.A. of Burr's, Bowerman's, Salem and Consecon at a silver anniversary tea. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The president, Mrs. A. W. Kinnear, was in the chair. After an address of welcome, Mrs. Kinnear reviewed the past years of the W.A., which was organized under the pastorate of the late Rev. Wilkinson. Only three members of the first W.A. were still in the society, namely: Mrs. Roy Cruickshank, Mrs. A. Scott and Mrs. A. W. Kinnear. Two minutes' silence was observed in honor of the departed.

Dorothy Alexander sang "Under the Hills" with accordion accompaniment. Mrs. Arnold Cruickshank read the Bible lesson, which was followed by an address on Fellowship by Mrs. (Rev.) Cook. The program, consisting of interesting readings was presented by the guests. The closing hymn, "A Charge to Keep I Have," was followed by the benediction.

A surprise followed when on behalf of the society, Mrs. J. Root presented Mrs. A. W. Kinnear with a life membership pin in appreciation of her work through the years in the W.A. and as a mark of the 25th anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Kinnear, which will be celebrated this month. Though very much surprised, Mrs. Kinnear expressed her heartfelt thanks graciously. Refreshments and a social hour followed. Mrs. C. Blakely, of Consecon, thanked the W.A. on behalf of the guests for a happy afternoon.

Daily Mail Calls Left-Wing Paper's Attack Monstrous

LONDON, (Reuters) — The Conservative Daily Mail has condemned a Scottish left-wing journal for making a monstrous attack on the Duke of Edinburgh.

The Glasgow Forward, an independent Socialist weekly, Thursday criticized the Queen's husband as a "Royal meddler" for making a speech which they interpreted as favoring conscription. Some sections of the Labor party are seeking a reduction in Britain's two-year national service period.

ASKS ROYALTY'S ROLE

The Daily Mail counter-attacked with the query:

"Are our Royal personages expected to be mere ciphers or parrots, saying only things which are trite or meaningless?

"For the benefit of those who might not otherwise be (the duke) went out of his way to add that his remarks had nothing to do with the much-discussed question whether national service is necessary or not from a purely military point of view."

"The duke is, in fact, a remarkable young man who is deservedly popular with the British people.

RESENTMENT SEEN

"Attacks upon him, especially in the interests of party warfare, will be bitterly resented—not least, we are certain, by the great majority of Labor supporters."

The duke made the controversial speech when he was installed as honorary chancellor of the University, of Edinburgh.

The Labor party itself has refused to be drawn into the controversy. Forward, a spokesman pointed out, is an independent journal over which the party has no control.

Catholic Church Largest Christian Body in U.S.

By GEORGE CORNELL

NEW YORK (CP-IAP)—The Roman Catholic church, once the smallest Christian body in the United States, today is the largest. Its membership, now 30,500,000, has shot up by 27 per cent since 1936.

Reasons given for the growth include:

1. Immigration in the last half of the 19th century from Ireland, Germany and other European countries boasting membership from 1,250,000 in 1850 to 14,250,000 in 1905.

2. Opposition to artificial birth control. Among Roman Catholics, the annual birth rate is about 33 per 1,000. Among the general population, it is 24.

Probably the most rapid recent growth has been in California. In the Los Angeles archdiocese, the count has risen by 247,000 since last year to 942,000 in 1953.

Across the United States there are 15,802 Roman Catholic high schools, 240 colleges and universities, 439 seminaries, 275 homes for aged, 341 orphanages, 63 general hospitals, 19 special hospitals, and 136 protective institutions.

These establishments are run by 15,223 priests, 128,946 nuns, 101 bishops, 26 archbishops and four cardinals. The church has 104 diocesan newspapers, 24 foreign-language newspapers, four of them dailies, and three nationally circulated newspapers.

These grew from approximately 100 Catholics who landed in 1634 in Maryland. Baltimore was the first diocese.

You can't go ALL-OUT If you feel "ALL-IN"

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, rush more. Don't drain on body and brain unless physical fitness easier to keep—harder to regain. Nerve-tired, by forward organization overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. Kidneys get out of order, excess acids and toxins remain in the system. Backache, disturbed rest, that "all-in" feeling, headaches, aching joints follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter.

Cross Between Speckled, Lake Trout Put in Northern Lakes

By FRASER MacDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) Anglers this year can hope to add new one of 30 northern Ontario lakes next year as the result of an agreeable shock.

The 30 lakes are stocked with nearly 10,000 species of game fish, known as a 'splake,' a hybrid developed from a cross between speckled and lake trout. It is easier to catch and hits a lure harder than either of its parents.

Officials of the fish and wildlife division of the Ontario department of lands and forests are insistent on the manner of the 30 lakes. However, they did give the general location—in the northern part of the area between Sault Ste. Marie and Sudbury.

The Ontario department has been developing the splake since 1921, but it was organized by Dr. H. H. MacKay, department biologist.

SUCCESS FOR ALEXENA

"First work in Canada on the splake, caused by its parents, was carried in 1948 by Dr. Victor Solman, chief biologist of the wildlife section of the fisheries management's department of national resources.

The Dominion stocked only waters in the Banff area, but many lake owners have of fish because of low temperature and glacial caused by the Rockies became a spectacular success. Most planted there became bored, they struck so readily and so hard. They proved almost too easy to catch. Soon the take was closed, and soon after the season opened.

Dr. MacKay, Ontario director of fish and wildlife division, says the department planned the stocking program to provide more enjoyment for anglers.

Like any hybrid developed from closely related species, the splake is more vigorous and grows faster than either speckled or lake trout. Splake lake trout is the result of the cross, an advantage to the angler. Yet it makes a better lake trout. Splake lake trout. It is readily produced and will reproduce itself naturally.

GREENER IN COLOR

In appearance, the splake resembled both its parents. It is greyish with yellow markings. Fin and tail pattern resembled the speckled.

Ontario reared its splake at three hatcheries—Seaforth in Simcoe, Marie, North Bay and Dorion in the Nipigon area of northwestern Ontario. The male speckled trout and the female lake trout were used in the matings. Dr. MacKay Harkness said that this was necessary because it was found that the speckled trout egg casing was not large enough to hold the hybrid when fertilized by the lake trout sperm.

The fish were raised to the yearling stage, four to six inches in length. Seaforth, Marie and North Bay reported that provincial authorities haven't obtained much information on how the fish survived and how their experiment will work out. They will know more next year after the anglers get to work.

Dr. MacKay hasn't grappled yet with the problem of limits and season for the new fish. He doesn't think there will be patterned after those governing speckled trout or lake trout.

The open season for speckled trout in Ontario is May 1 to Sept. 15, and the limit is five fish or 10 pounds a day. The season for lake trout is the same. Marie-Sudbury area is open except from Oct. 5 to 31 and the limit is five fish a day with no restriction on weight.

Jets in Europe

Canadian Press staff writer Bill Boss gets instruction on emergency procedure in a T-33 jet trainer before starting a passenger flight at Zweibruecken, Germany, base for (one of the four wings in the RCAF's air division in Europe) Group Capt. Chester Hull of Ottawa is the instructor. (CP from National Defence).

Boss Describes Sensation Of Flight in Jet Over Base

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ZWEIBRUECKEN, G'Y.S.R.D.P.A.F. (CP)—Starting a jet aircraft is like starting a siren, only quicker. You hear the engine warming up with an increasing whine. Then suddenly the heater air "takes" and begins roaring through the tubes.

A jet needs up to 70-per-cent power to taxi. Don't count on takeoff. It's the take-off that gives the sensation of speed. The seat comes forward, pushing itself around you back.

The plane burns into the air. You feel it soar. Earth, airdrome and town dart into toytown proportions. Then disappear behind the cotton of the clouds. The feeling of speed ceases. So does the noise. Only the pressurization machinery purrs. The scream of the engine is left behind.

FIGHTING GRAVITY

At this RCAF base I flew with Flt. Lt. Ken Lett of Carp, Ont., in a two-seat T-33 trainer, used to check pilots on instrument flying.

Slower and heavier than today's fighters, the T-33 still dishes up pilles of "mach" and "G". "Mach" gives an airman's word for the speed of sound and a T-33's top is about 32 mach—more than 600 miles an-hour. "G" is the force of gravity. An airman pulling sharply out of a dive or doing a tight turn undergoes forces many times the strength of gravity which draws the blood from his brain and causes black-out. Blood must be up for most at about 4G, but fliers using special "G-suits" can withstand forces of 7G or more.

Group Capt. Chester Hull of Ottawa, the station commander, made sure I knew how to lock myself into the seat for take-off, how to eject myself (seat and all) in emergency, how to drop the seat while falling free, and how to open the parachute.

Then we were airborne.

SMOOTH SPEED

Lett edged the stick over and the wings went through a full gyration. Again. Close you eyes and there's nothing to it. No sensation; not even of hanging upside-down when the plane is on its back.

The nose fell as Lett pushed the stick forward. The ship seemed to settle into a long glide, beautiful and effortless. No sensation at the airway; not even the rubbing of your stomach that some elevators do.

I looked at the mach-meter. At 65, 70, 80, .82 (the T-33 begin-to vibrate), .83 (she shuddered like mad).

Lett brought the stick back, eased her out of the dive. We had dropped 10,000 feet.

Lett went into a sharp turn, his eyes glued on the rear-vision mirror as I counted off the "G" readings. At 5.5G I muttered everything-I had in an attempt to raise my arms; no go.

Lett levelled the plane off and the gauge snapped back to G. Most pilots start blacking out at 4G, he said.

Lett found another jet to play with. A sharp bank (4G) and FC. Murray Kelly of Bobcaygeon, Ont., whizzed by us.

A few more passes revealed a jet pilot's eyes must be skinned all the time. He has only split seconds to see another jet and react.

TIGHT FORMATION

Lett invited Kelly to "form up." He tucked his wing snugly behind ours, keeping his eyes glued to our wing-tip. Lett did the instrument reading for both. Kelly's job was to fly his plane in perfect sympathy with our ire.

A few loops (4.5G) and Lett said "Time to go home." We'd been up 45 minutes. As I climbed out of the cockpit I felt as though my legs were carrying four times their normal load. It was a good half-hour before the exhaustion eased. Lett said that was normal.

Finally I managed to get my flier gets after two or three flights a day," he said.

Boss inherited my air force messes are lively places at weekends, when the flying is done and the pilots can blow off a week's head of steam.

Ceylon Premier Declares Report On Letter Wrong

COLOMBO, Ceylon (Reuters)—Prime Minister Sir John Kotelawala has denied reports that the British press of a letter he had written about the governor-general-ship, the British national anthem and the Union Jack.

Responsible newspapers abroad, he said, "had been misled by an unscrupulous twist given to a surmise of what I had written in a friendly letter to Lord Soulbury, the British governor-general.

The report first appeared on the front page of the daily newspaper Dinamina, which has the largest circulation in Ceylon.

In it the premier was quoted as saying one of the points the people of Ceylon were unable to understand was "why is this free land should have as a foreign governor-general?"

But Thursday he declared that the "alleged verbatim report" in Dinamina was a "travesty" of what he had said. On the contrary, he added, he had written that it was his sincere desire that Ceylon should have a British governor-general as long as possible.

RELATIONS FRIENDLY

"It is preposterous for anyone to suggest that relations are not of the friendliest between the governor-general and myself, especially when we are both planning a flight over Australia to the Queen," he continued.

"As I have said before, the British anthem and flag will be used along with the Ceylon national anthem and flag when Her Majesty visits Ceylon and will be permitted to display such appropriate decorations."

His letter was in reply to a request for information from Lord Soulbury on two recent speeches in the senate governing official occasions, not to fly the British flag, not to play "God Save the Queen" with the Ceylon anthem "Namo Namo."

Weather And Field May Be Big Factors In Blue Bombers-Eskimos Battle

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

KICK ONE TO WIN!

The Memos, fresh from their decisive victory over the Peterborough Petes, will invade "Soup" Campbell's ballwick tomorrow night where they take on the surging Oshawa Truckmen, who have yet to taste defeat.

The Truckmen, according to their officials, shrunk the toughest hoist in this senior "B" group woodpile when they tangled with the Memos here last Saturday night and by their own admission were lucky to leave town with a 6-3 overtime decision sticking at their belts.

The Truckmen have a wholesome respect for the Memos especially after the Dorna crew lambasted the Petes. And Coach Ernie Dickens is taking no chances of his team repeating its first setback on its home-town ice in Bowmanville. The Dickensians have won all of their five starts and are beginning to make the race a sort of runaway. But remember the here and tonight and there are four hardshells left who will make it mighty tough for the loop leaders are the playoff begins blow.

Meanwhile, down Kingston way, the faithful are heaving huge sighs of relief. For Coach Johnny Carr-Harris, who threatened to resign because of alleged front office interference, is back in the Goodyear fold, all wool and a mile wide.

According to our estimable hockey fireman, one Michael J. Redden, president Jack Forman of the Frontenac Hockey Club, advises that "the misunderstanding between John Carr-Harris and the executive of the Frontenac Hockey Club has been amicably settled and Carr-Harris will continue to coach the Kingston Goodyears."

Last winter in a radio session with Johnny, he informed us that after the Goodyears in mid-season he told them in no uncertain terms that they would play hockey his way. "Either that or else . . ."

And apparently Johnny hasn't changed his methods. He believes in a coach having all-out authority with no interference from the bigwigs and that apparently still stands for the report from Kingston quotes the club president as saying: "The coach will have complete control of the players comprising the team and will make all decisions of the playing personnel. He will be responsible to the executive and to all other matters connected with the players, subject only that the coach will operate the club within the budget fixed by the executive."

And that is the way it should be.

"We assure the fans of Kingston," the report says, "that the executive and coach will do everything in their power to keep the OHA senior "B" championship in Kingston."

Now, that's a right noble sentiment, but the Kingston power should be reminded that four other clubs might have something to say about that. In fact the Picton, Trenton-Belleville and Oshawa Truckmen all have designs on the championship to the Oshawa Truckmen. God, man, how that "fever" rages.

Incidentally Coach "Red" Dorna, of the Memos, left yesterday for Toronto where he will take a ten-day course in community recreation. "Red" will be on hand tonight for the Oshawa game, but will be unable to make the team for the Kingston-Oshawa clash next Wednesday.

Secretary Drury Denyes informs us the game with the Orillia Pontiacs, postponed from October 34, will likely be played in Orillia next Friday night. Arrangements are now under way.

HOPPET DAY!

"Pass Moppet Day at the Memorial Arena this morning, as a league of hockey-hungry kids get the pee-wee and bantam divisions of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association under way.

The kids, at least some of them, were up at the crack of dawn for this department noted two, equipped with sticks, skates and other hockey gear, breakfasting in a downtown restaurant off ice cream cones and chocolate bars.. And that was well before six a.m. No, we weren't on the way home, we were bound for the workshop.

I COULD BE!

It could be the "Luck of the Irish."

In any event Frank Leahy's Notre Dame swashbuckling Irishers, who apparently are hotter for the title of the nation's top football team, discovered a defensive gimmick a couple of weeks ago that bids fair to give them an additional boost towards the coveted title.

Little did the Irish mentors dream when the centre, quarterback and a guard got jiggered into a swirly position as football plays go, they were on the threshold of one of the most effective defensive plays ever seen in the gridiron game. And it is proving a boon to the coaching staff in drilling players for double duty under the new one-platoon system.

According to a story from South Bend, the guard stays in the play immediately behind him like a T-formation quarterback on offence, is the centre. Holding on to the centre from behind, is another guard.

When the opposing centre snaps the ball the trio whips into action. The centre and one guard may hit the line together or they may go both ways.

"They just roam and run," said a coach. "Their objective is to get the ball. It is up to them to judge entirely for themselves what to do. This eliminates teaching them defensive moves. They are on their own out there and so far have done a fine job."

Backing up the play, which is called the defensive "I", are the defensive halfbacks and the other linebackers placed in orthodox fashion.

Coach Joe McArdle said: "We stumbled across it accidentally three weeks ago. In a scrimmage with the freshmen, the varsity defence just happened to line up that way. The players say it gives them more chance to get the ball because they have a running start when the opposing centre snaps the ball."

Eskimos' Coach Won't Hazard Guess As to Outcome of Game; Pegs Not There 'for Scenery'

By PHIL ADLER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—The combination which could easily settle tonight's game between Edmonton Eskimos and Winnipeg Blue Bombers for the Western Interprovincial Football championship may be supplied by the weathermen as well as the coaches.

The forecast will mean the expected capacity crowd of 15,000 should see a good brand of football on a clear gridiron. Temperature is expected to be around 30 degrees, dropping to 25 by the end of the game; visibility will be 15 miles; wind will be southeast at 10 miles an hour.

TIED SERIES

Weather has played a prominent part in the best-of-three series. Edmonton won the first game 25-7 here a week ago on a field icy in spots. Winnipeg tied up the series Wednesday at home in a 36-inella ao-hour wind.

Both teams will be playing back-to-the-wall football with the outcome deciding who will meet the ORFU champions.

Coach Darrell Royal of Eskimos, mulling over lots of players through injuries, won't hazard a guess as to the final result while the Blue Bombers emphasize there are not in Edmonton to look at the scenery.

Royal put his Eaks through a light workout Friday in an effort to iron out the creases which showed up during the 27-7 beating the team absorbed Wednesday in Winnipeg.

FINAL RECE ACTION

Six men are on the ailing list. Royal said, but he expects to use the same starting lineup as he did in Winnipeg. Oklahoma all-star halfback Billy Vessels, however, will see action from the start although Royal won't say how long Vessels will last. Vessels suffered an injured spinal muscle against Winnipeg Oct. 24 but saw some action in Wednesday's game. Don Simon took his place but tore knee ligaments in the second game and is out for the year.

Added to Royal's injury problems are end Frank Anderson, Joe Blanchard, offensive guard, and fullback Normie Kwong, all of whom will see as much action as their battered legs will stand.

The Blue Bombers arrived in Edmonton by plane and train Friday and had a light workout at practice. Their last workout was Thursday night in Winnipeg.

OUT OF LINEUP

Winnipeg coach George Trafton was optimistic about the outcome.

"I was optimistic after we lost the first game and I didn't come here to lose tonight's game—don't like Edmonton that much," he said.

A full team of 30 players will be dressed. The team is in excellent condition with only fullback Lorne Benson and halfback Tommy Ford out of the deal with injuries.

"The starting line-up will depend on the field," Trafton said. Winnipeg tackle Buddy Tinsley will probably start over No. 34, former centre John Brown's old number—for good luck. Tinsley used it instead of his own, No. 66, in the last game with vitalizing results.

"I'll let Tinsley wear two ats if it'll do any good," coach Trafton declared.

Kid Gavilan Decisions Johnny Bratton To Retain World's Welter Crown

Challenger Never Had Chance After Bruising Eighth Round; Suffers Terrific Punishment

By JERE TLASKA

CHICAGO (AP) — Welterweight champion Kid Gavilan, who Friday night punished Johnny Bratton so if he were a rag doll, is ready to do more 10-round business before shooting at Bobo Olson's middle weight crown.

Gavilan won an unanimous 15-round title decision from Bratton, who finished looking like a pumpkin perked over with an iron mace.

It was expected that, win or lose against the No. 1 challenger at Chicago Stadium, the Cuban Hurricane would abandon the welter class and try to emulate Sugar Ray Robinson in graduating from 147 pound to 160-pound boxing king.

WANTS BOUTS

But the Gavilan who threw countless searing punches at a befuddled and helpless Bratton now is reported unwilling to step up and meet Basilio or Gil Turner again in a couple of watchamacall efforts before taking on Olson next spring. This was a change from the way he may be traced to the International Boxing Club's reaction to the Kid's fistiana Friday.

Gavilan was floored for the second time in his career and had to scramble desperately for a 15 round decision over Basilio at Syracuse in September.

The talk then was that the Kid was ruing a comeback at the 147 pound welter limit.

But Gavilan's seventh defense of his title last night before a surprising crowd of 19,280 which paid a gross gate of $176,280 was one of his most artistic performances in a career now in its fifteenth.

Bratton, who dropped the National Boxing Association version of the 147-pound title to Gavilan in 1951, never had a chance after the eighth round, in which Gavilan connected Johnny to administer a terrific pounding.

BADLY BEATEN

After it was over Bratton lay huddled and weeping beneath blankets in his dressing room. He could not talk. He was still lying there—both eyes swollen shut, a lagged cut over one of them, and his nose like a lump of clay—1½ hours after the bout was over.

Dr. John Pribble of the Illinois State Athletic Commission said Bratton had no broken bones.

The actual count of Gavilan's devastating attack was 11 blows, 10 to the head. After the blistering eighth round, Bratton worried like a man who wanted to break a crate of eggs, one at a time.

In the ninth 185lb. Gavilan whaled away with his bolo punches and hooks at Bratton's head and body who refused to fall and get an excuse from the crowd for his courage.

GETS GOOD PURSE

Gavilan, 146, collected 40 per cent of the net gate of $235,000 for a total of $93,985, or $25,000 from TV, for a total purse of $73,858.60. Bratton, 145¾, received 20 per cent, or $26,947.80, plus $10,000 from TV, for a purse of $36,947.80.

Better Be Safe Than Sorry

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
Outdoor Sportsman, Author And Curator of Belmar Tables.)

Each year it is the same and story. The Nation's Nimrods take to the woods and fields, intent up on the sport to be found in harvesting the surplus of our game supply. Inevitably, all too many of these are carried out of the hunting country feet first.

Of course, there are an unbelievable number of hunting accidents against our wildlife each fall. Pennsylvania alone has an estimated 2,000 gunfire casualties—estimated because farmers who hunt on their own property do not report hunting licenses. The chances are that the number tops one million.

Most accidents had the distinction of leading the field in hunting accidents in 1952, with a total of 396, 34 of them fatal. Michigan was next with 24 accidents with 22% accidents, 25 of them fatal. Mississippi was the only state to claim No fatalities.

CAUSE OF ACCIDENTS

1952 is not unique. Every year we have accidents. Careful analysis shows that all, or a very, very few can be attributed to three general causes—ignorance, carelessness and greed.

Naturally, this annual crop of hunting accidents is a large headache for the game commissioners of the country. To eliminate (a hopeless task) or at least to reduce them to the minimum, many schemes have been tried.

In some states it is compulsory by law that all accidents be reported to the authorities within 24 hours. Some, such as Massachusetts, Maine, Pennsylvania, California, Arizona, Wisconsin, Ohio and Michigan, the hunting license of a gunner proven guilty is forfeited.

Some combine compulsory instruction in gun handling with complete with examinations, with the securing of a license, and so on. While all of these things help, none of them is outstandingly successful. People forget what they are told, and is a strong likelihood that we will always have hunting accidents.

IGNORANCE AND FALLING

As I say, ignorance has much to do with hunting accidents. Some years ago, a hunting party in South Dakota was attacked by an attractive young matron. She had been refused entry to a gun handout by her husband who had taken up hunting that season—the blind leading the blind.

At the conclusion of our first drive, she all climbed into the station wagon beside me with her husband—quite successful, and noticed that the action was closed. "I asked you if you had any shells in it," My gun is perfectly all right, checked to make sure that the safety was on.

Carefully we relieved her of her weapon, removed it from the car, ejected all the shells, and returned it to her with the breech open. Then, despite our best efforts, some of us—I was one—were sprayed with lead shot those five days by both this lady and her husband.

ARM MISSING

Among my friends and acquaintances there are two men who have dragged guns muzzle-first over fences at once too often. One of these is minus all but a fraction of his right arm. Skilled surgery saved the arm of the other but he will wear an uncomfortable brace to compensate for four inches of bone missing from his upper arm. Another "by" a charge of buck shot.

I once hunted with a fellow who had trouble remembering whether or not he had put the safety on his magazine gun. To make sure, believe it or not, he resorted to the simple expedient of pulling the trigger. If the safety was on, of course the gun would not fire. If not, he wasted a shell. After he had almost removed my left leg at the knee I stopped hunting with him.

SOUND SHOTS

All of us have read about or heard of those who indulge in "sound shots." It seems incredible, but there are still those fools in the field who will see something moving in the brush, shoot at the sound, and then investigate to see what they have bagged. I once had the pleasure of seeing a sound-shooter severely beaten by an Irish hunter who by a miracle escaped a high-speed bullet.

Psychologists tell us that the percentage of the average human are woefully inaccurate. In testimony of this, ask my trial lawyer how the impressions of a single episode differ among witnesses. No two agree completely.

It must be that the mind, when receiving its information from the eye, colors or alters that information to suit its own wishes or purposes. The hunter, for example, devoutly hopes to see a buck in the woods. Thus, a moving object seen quite distinctly, all too frequently out to be another hunter.

And here's a peculiar quirk in hunting accidents; concurrently with altered perceptions there seems to be a sharpening of the coordination which frequently proves to be deadly. In other words, a man under stress, such as the injury to his gun or the sudden sight of a gun far more expertly than he could at any other time.

DISDAINS PRACTICE

Take the average duck hunter who goes forth usually once a year. He has skilled ranges or practice. He simply goes hunting. Under ordinary circumstances, with his usual rifle, he would be a poor shooting van, broadside, at 300 yards.

Yet this same man, with his well-sattered buck at, say, one hundred yards. He aims at his head, pulls the trigger, and knocks it sedways. Investigation shows that it is another hunter, stifled nearly between the eyes. There is no explaining it but there it is, just the same. It happens too often to be ignored.

The Sporting Arms and Ammunition Manufacturers Institute, in the valient effort to keep hunting a reasonably safe sport, annually publishes its Ten Commandments of Safety. Here they are:

1. Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun.
2. Guns carried into camp or when otherwise not in use, must always be unloaded.
3. Always be sure barrel and action are free of all obstructions.
4. Always carry your gun so that you control the direction or the muzzle, even if you stumble.
5. Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger.
6. Never point a gun at anything you do not intend to shoot.
7. Unattended guns should be unloaded.
8. Never climb a tree or fence or jump a ditch with a loaded gun.
9. Never store a rifle or bullet in a flat, hard surface or the surface of water.
10. Avoid alcoholic drinks.

If every hunter would follow these ten commandments, hunting accidents would be reduced to an infinitesimal minimum. Unfortunately a state of affairs is unlikely. People forget and forget, the common universal obedience to these ten simple rules would be Utopia indeed.

As in former years, I will go hunting this fall. I hope that I will be the best. But, believe me, I'm always ready for luck.

BOOM BOOM FINED

MONTREAL (CP)—Bernie Geoffrion was fined $250 Friday by President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League for the player's "gross misconduct" in Thursday night's game.

There is no suspension from play.

The $250 includes the automatic $50 fine which accompanies a game misconduct penalty—the punishment given Geoffrion by Referee Frank Udvari, who showed into the boards by the Montreal player.

The incident occurred late in the third period of the game here, with Chicago Black Hawks, following the imposition of a minor penalty to Geoffrion for hooking.

National Hockey League Fans Offered Choice Ice-Lane Fare In Colorful Week-end Clashes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The National Hockey League is in box-office natural this week-end. All the elements are there: The heroes, the villains, the rivals—and heavy advance ticket sales.

The six teams are paired off for a home-and-home series in Sunday and Sunday. Take your choice of the best attraction—Detroit and New York, Boston and Toronto, Chicago and Montreal.

The Detroit-New York series has already shaped up as a box-office success. Madison Square Garden Friday reported the largest advance sale for some time for Sunday night's entries anyway.

BROADWAY DEBUT

Sparking this sudden interest is York Rangers' latest idol. In his Broadway debut Wednesday night, Irwin had the fans cheering—something new in New York this season. Irwin was brought in from Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League to replace Ranger captain Allen Stanley who was booed off the ice as a result of New York's poor showing at the hands of Boston.

GETS RATINGATE

Coach Frank Boucher has another attraction lined up. He has acquired Andy Bathgate, also of Vancouver, to play left wing on the Ranger uniform for the first time Sunday. Monday, Boucher plans to use him on right wing with Max Bentley and Ron Murphy.

The league's two hottest clubs—Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins—open their series in Maple Leaf Gardens Sunday. Leafs are unbeaten in their last six games, winning four and tying two in the last two, while Bruins have won four and lost only one of their eight games. Leafs are in second place, one point behind The Red Wings.

For sheer villainy there's referee Frank Udvari, Monday night referee. Wednesday night the fans stopped Udvari's progress as he left the Black Hawks game six times by throwing paper on the ice to express their feelings over Udvari's decisions. Bernie Geoffrion, Montreal forward, slammed the referee against the boards. He was given a game misconduct penalty and fined $250. NHL president Clarence Campbell added $250 for his "inexcusable conduct."

Sid Abel's Black Hawks are looking for revenge. They've won two and tied two in 17 starts, a record that leaves them deep in the league cellar.

Will Challenge Baseball's Right To Loose Players

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's right to bind players with 30 days' notice will be challenged when the major league club owners meet here next month, says Clarence Lewis.

Lewis, engaged to represent the players in their dealings with the baseball moguls, refers to baseball contract which permits a player to be dismissed or otherwise handed a month's pay but does not permit the player to quit a club and seek employment elsewhere in baseball after giving similar notice in mid-season.

"If a player signs for a year and fulfills his part of the bargain by playing, he wants to be paid in full for the period. He doesn't want to be fired, at the start of the season for no fault of his own and then receive only 30 days' pay for the year."

TOM FOOL CHOSEN

NEW YORK (AP)—Tom Fool was named the horse of 1953 Friday by the turf experts of the Morning Telegraph and Daily Racing Form. Tom, colt, unbeaten in 10 starts this year and winner of $256,335, also was named the best handicap horse and top sprinter of the year. Alfred Vanderbilt's Native Dancer, loser of only the Kentucky Derby in his 10 races, won three-year-old honors.

Falls Squeeze Sailors for 2nd Win As Dutchies Scalp Stratford 2-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Niagara Falls Cataracts won a game last night—their second of the season.

The Cataracts, in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A circuit, squeezed out a 7-6 home-ice victory over Sarnia Sailors, their closest competitors for last place.

Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen retained their blistering pace with a 2-1 decision over Stratford Indians in Kitchener. It was the second cash victory for the Dutchmen in their eight games.

Chatham Maroons jumped into first place over the week-end by defeating the Marcurys 4-1 in Owen Sound.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Sudbury Wolves recorded their second consecutive win with a 5-4 victory over North Bay Trappers before 4,562 fans in Sudbury.

Kitchener overcame a Stratford lead with two goals in the second period for their 3-1 victory over the Indians. Carl Smith led the home before Charlie Brooker won it. Fred Pyle had the goal for the Indians their first-period lead.

Johnny Connelly bagged two goals to lead Chatham into first place. Jim Campbell and Ernie Dick fired the others. Bill McComb scored for Owen Sound.

Niagara Falls got some from behind for its victory over Sarnia. Ted Fauteux, Jim Johnson, Eric Unger, Billy Wells and Bobby Pete Pitzkosky and Bill Hartburg shared the scoring for the Cataracts. Chuck Glasb netted a pair for Sarnia. The others went to Vern Gardiner, Les Douglas and Ollie Selden.

Yacher Flynn, with two, Gord Neale, Mike Bukaczkerski and Mauno Kangas scored goals for Sudbury over North Bay.

Owen Sound is at Sarnia, Chatham at Hamilton Tigers and Kitchener at Stratford in OHA action tonight. Windsor Bulldogs are at home to Kitchener Sunday.

Sudbury plays the Indians in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and North Bay is at Pembroke to battle the Lumbey Kings in the NOHA tonight.

The Wolves remain in Sault Ste. Marie for another game Sunday.

Canuck Runner Retains Title

CHICAGO (CP) — Toronto-born Shoh Fergusson, representing Iowa University, retained his individual title in the Big Ten intercollegiate cross-country meet Friday. He was clocked at 19:43.3 for the four-mile course.

Two other Canadian runners finished with the leaders.

John Cook of London, Ont., running for Michigan State, placed third behind Indiana's Francis Zelazny. John Ross of Oakville, Ont., representing the University of Michigan, finished fourth.

The Big Ten crown went to Michigan State for the third straight year as the Spartans compiled 36 points.

Rangers Call Andy Bathgate

NEW YORK (CP)—New York Rangers announced Friday they are calling up Andy Bathgate from Vancouver Canucks, their farm club in the Western Hockey League, in exchange for Billy Hicke and Lou Jankowski.

Both are left-wingers but Bathgate, former Guelph, Ont., junior who played briefly with the Rangers in the National Hockey League last season, is expected to play right wing on the line with Max Bentley and Ron Murphy.

Des, a promising rookie, has proved a good all-round skater to date and is being seat to the Canucks for more experience.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — Some coaches with whom we talked and others we saw quoted felt sure that Notre Dame's Leon Hart, as they termed it, would die a lonely death after he left college and that the fans would rise in fealty to demand return of the two-way star.

By this time they must realize they were badly fooled and much as it galls them, be reconciled to the fact that the only fidelity that they never again will be able to field two teams of specialists on the pain will vanish after a time.

From every indication we have seen, the public loves the return of the iron men. There has been a certain pleasure in discovering that we still are turning out young men who can play 60 minutes a star both on offense and defence.

Half a dozen All - American player never was very satisfactory to anybody, including his own family.

It seems here that in reading the papers we are reading with accounts of more long, spectacular runs from scrimmage in the United States than in the years the two-platoon held sway. There seems to be no correspondence the air arm among the better teams. They have found their own move on the ground again.

The one-platoon concept—with say, probably with justification, that this is because of weakened defensive units, even from the services are moaning about the mistakes their men made on defence.

GREATEST THRILL

They are to be sympathized with up to a point, but they also are to be reminded that the original and still greatest thrill of football is the sight of a runner threading his way for long yardage.

Coaches are rediscovering that the ball-hawk who can cover ground and keep possession of the ball, a majority of the time, avoiding fatal risks at preposterous forward passing, is a very hard item to get.

Louis 'Kiddin' About Marriage

CHICAGO (AP)—Joe Louis told friends Friday he was married but later denied it, saying "I was just kiddin'."

The former world's heavyweight champion was at ringside for the Kid Gavilan-Johnny Bratton welterweight title bout at Chicago Stadium.

He was accompanied by Miss Greta Stark of Detroit, the woman he reported to intimates while her in the day was his bride.

When reporters queried Joe about the reported betrothal, Hamilton, Ont., he simply shrugged, "Just some kiddin'." was the only comment he would make.

Louis was married to Marva Trotter, Chicago socialite, in 1946. They were divorced.

International To Deal With Proposed Entries

MONTREAL (CP) — The 1954 make-up of the International Baseball League, with Richmond, Va., and Havana, Cuba, applying berths, will be dealt with at the league's meeting tomorrow.

Since last season, Baltimore has acquired the St. Louis American League franchise and there has been speculation that the new Baltimore (Md.) Cubs will drop out of the IL because of poor attendance.

Bobby Maduro, Cuban sportsman, will ask that his Habana Cubans be admitted. Harry Seibold of Richmond, who has been behind a move to get an IL franchise in that city, is expected to present Richmond's request.

Favorable reaction to the Havana bid has been reported. But with the elimination of Baltimore, only northern cities now are left in the league and the problem of transportation to Havana is raised.

If Richmond is also gone into the Triple A circuit the difficulties might be eased.

Baseball interests are reported ready to underwrite travel expenses for all five franchises and have guaranteed an attendance of 112,000 a game. The Havana stadium seats 32,000.

Teepees Crush Citadelles 11-2; Irish Nip Dukes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was a lucky Friday the 13th for most of the underdogs in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series Friday night. In three of the four games the lesser teams came up with victories.

In the other game a carton of rabbits' feet couldn't have helped the last-place Quebec Citadelles as they were crushed by the league-leading St. Catharines TeePees 11-2 in St. Catharines.

In Toronto, St. Michael's College Majors moved from eighth to seventh place by defeating the Marlboros, who remained in the third slot.

Guelph Biltmores moved up two notches into a four-way tie for third with a 5-4 home-ice decision over the second-place Galt Black Hawks.

The two points gained by Barrie Flyers in a 5-3 victory over Hamilton Tigers in Barrie vaulted them into a tie with Galt and Barrie with Hamilton, Marlboros and Guelph.

Cliff Hockstra scored three goals to lead the St. Catharines runaway over Quebec. Brian Cullen fired a pair and Hugh Barlow, Wayne Roberts, Bob Nicholls, Jack Armstrong, Bulloch and Danny Pollinard added the others. Mike Ratchford and Jack Lynch scored for the Citadelles.

Majors rallied twice for Guelph Biltmores, who had to suppress a two-goal lead after taking a 2-0 lead into the final period. Hugh Scott, Bob Attersley and Bill McCreary replied for the Majors.

Neil McDonald scored three of Barrie's goals in the first five of the final period. John Shearer notched the other.

The Barrie victory over Hamilton was a costly one. The Flyers lost defenceman Bill Speer in the second period when he was taken off the ice with undetermined leg injuries.

Johnny Martan, Arnold Smith, Bob Wiley and Ron Robertson shared the Barrie scoring. Val Mitchell and Earl Laroche responded for the Tigers.

Guelph returns home to visit and Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts welcome Barrie in tonight's action. Hamilton Tigers entertain St. Michael's and St. Catharines plays in Quebec as Sunday doubleheader in Toronto.

KEATS RECORD AGAIN

LONDON (AP)—Sheila Lerwill of Britain bettered the women's indoor world high jumping record Friday night for the second straight night. Sheila Lerwill cleared five feet, six inches, considerably better than her 5-3¾ effort the previous night. That jump, however, was not enough to beat the women's world indoor record of 5-3¾ set by Jean Shirley of the United States in 1951.

Goodyears Trim Peterborough 6-3

Kingston Goodyears consolidated their clutch on third place in the Senior "B" group standings in Peterborough last night when they defeated the Petes 6-3 in a see-saw battle.

Pembroke proved costly for the homesters. They had reached a 3-3 score in the third period when a player was sentenced and the Goodies rammed home two quick goals to clinch the verdict.

The Goodyears have four points, one behind the second-place Petes.

Minor Hockey

Three close games featured the opening of the pee wee league at the Civic Arena last night with Rangers defeating the Canadiens 3-1 on goals by Bill Lattimer, Peter Watton and David Mez. Jim Lloyd banged in one for the losers.

The Red Wings hung on for a 3-1 victory over the Maple Leafs, Lenard Harvey and Ronnie Day giving them a two-goal lead before Barry Titterton hit the bump for the Maple Leafs.

The third tilt of the morning was a see-saw battle with the Black Hawks coming out on top by a 5-3 margin over the Bruins. Ted Hook put the winners out front but Leslie Moreau and Jack Soulter shot the Bruins ahead with two quick ones. Dick Clapp scored the deciding goal just before the end of the game after Larry Phillips had once more tied the score.

TRAIN DERAILED

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—A 10-car freight hopped the tracks Thursday night, hurling an empty coal car onto a main highway and barring a second boxcar dangling over the road from a steel girder bridge. The accident tore down a number of power lines with several freight trains and cars of all power getting into the community of camp hill for an hour and 30 minutes. There were no casualties.

Contention of hostilities is almost unheard of between a pair of determined bridge partners. One or the other of them can always find a play or bid which the other has overlooked or misplayed.

Settlement between them is never decided by rule or precedent. Result in this one case, however isolated, is the swaying factor. All other considerations are thrown back into their teeth. There was the deal shown here:

South became the declarer at a six spade small slam contract. He had no intention of being there when he started. He had made an effort to keep from going there before he reached that knife.

Opponents had tried to sacrifice and could have been doubled for a safe hunk of points. North refused to stand for it. He saw in the hodge that took them into six spades, doubled.

The opening lead of the heart king from west was won at once by the ace. Before the scuffle was over, opponents got a heart trick and a diamond trick. The small slam was down one.

Needled by south for doubling the slam, he told south the slam was easy to make if played right. Although all the other players were skeptical at first, north told them how.

The key to the situation was trusting to take the first trick in order to set up a squeeze situation. Let opponents keep the first heart trick and win the second heart with south's ace. Pull three trump rounds and finesse a diamond. Cash the diamond ace and club king and then more trumps, stuffing a dummy diamond. All four hands are down to three cards apiece by this time.

Let opponents keep what they will. Lead the last heart trump and both opponents are squeezed. Lay out the three cards in each hand and you will see this is so. Your eyes do not deceive you.

AT THE BELLE

Shane Rates as Greatest Western Saga of All-Time

A magnificent film is George Stevens "Shane", a Paramount picture which opened yesterday at the Belle Theatre. It is motion picture craftsmanship at its very best. Filmed in Technicolor, the likes of which has rarely, if ever been equalled, "Shane" boasts a starring cast whose performance are so brilliant that, if for no other reason it would rate as a top film. This stellar list of Hollywood favorites includes Alan Ladd, Jean Arthur, Van Heflin, Jack Palance and the brilliant young newcomer, Brandon DeWilde.

However, there are other reasons for "Shane's" greatness and they are numerous. It has sweep suspense, authenticity, technical detail, powerful drama. It has a haunting western flavor so real you can taste the dust. It has the longest, bloodiest, rough-and-tumble fist fight that has ever been presented on celluloid. It has an incisive insight into the real, but little known and much storied Western gunfighter. It has scenery that astonishes the eye with its beauty.

And as if this overwhelming wealth of rich and fulfilling ingredients were not enough, "Shane" also weaves a soul-stirring story as compelling and dramatic as any in our memory. As scripted by brilliant prize winner A. B. Guthrie from a novel by Jack Shaeffer, "Shane" echoes and sings the epic saga of the West.

All in all, "Shane" is entertainment at its best. It is a rocking spinning film that is beautiful in its very violence. It can enjoyed and savoured as a motion picture milestone that certainly has the imprint of greatness marked upon it. See "Shane", and you too, will think it great!

AT THE CAPITOL—Montgomery Clift, Deborah Kerr with Burt Lancaster, Donna Reed and Frank Sinatra in Columbia Pictures illumination of the James Jones' best-seller, "From Here to Eternity", now breaking attendance records at the Capitol Theatre, and holding over for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

VALUABLE MEDICINE

Quinine from the bark of the cinchona tree was first used as a medicine in Peru in 1638.

AT THE McCARTHY—The three people involved in a tense situation are Evelyn Keyes, Herbert Lom and Joel McCrea. Scene is from the adventure drama "Shoot First" which will open Monday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. 2nd feature is "The Titfield Thunderbolt" in color by Technicolor with Stanley Holloway and George Relph in the leading roles.

Burlesque May Disappear From Boston

By JAMES CALOGERO

BOSTON (AP)—Boston, a strong hold for burlesque for more than half a century, will probably never again be thrilled by the tease of the stripper.

The board of censors Thursday ordered the city's two burlesque theatres—the 150-year-old Howard and the larger Casino—closed for the rest of the year because their shows are dirty.

Major John B. Hynes, as spokesman for the three-member censor board, didn't know whether the licenses of the two theatres would be renewed in the Jan. 2 city election.

"But if they are," he said, "there'll be a whole new set of rules and regulations—more strict—and they won't be allowed to get blinted broadly that if burlesque is allowed to return to Boston, the strippers will have to do a fade-out.

STRIPPERS OUTLAWED

What's more, there's little danger that the strippers will take to the nightclubs as they did in New York where burlesque has been banned since Fiorello la Guardia was Mayor.

Strip-teasers have been outlawed in Boston night clubs for more than two years.

Hynes declared, and Casino theatre wore ordered closed as a result of a multitude of court convictions of the two strip-teasers and the managers of both theatres on charges that they presented and participated in immoral shows.

Secret 16-millimetre movies made by police from the balconies of the seating about the convictions.

CALCULATED TO AROUSE

Assistant Attorney General H. Byrne, who fought for the closures before the censorship board, said of the movies:

"They reveal a combination of indecent nudity combined with body motions of a most extreme intensity which are calculated to arouse—to arouse and excite members of the audience."

Now in the case of the strippers fined, told reporters: "It's a legitimate art, but this is not the form of musical expression."

He called out a press clipping which termed her the "Mistress of Suspense, who reveals secrets of the plot bit by bit." The plot, and unfolds it "hurth pump."

CHURCH AIDS INDIA

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian missionaries in India have helped the Indian people not only spiritually but also practically, Rt. Rev. C. H. Boddam-Whetham, Anglican bishop of Amritsar, said Thursday. Speaking to the Empire Club, Rev. Wilkinson said the independence gained by India has given the country a new sense of national pride and responsibility and an interest desire to make its contribution to the world.

PROCESSION TO SENATE. — Members of the House of Commons crossed through the course of the Parliament Building at Ottawa from the green chamber to the Senate where Governor-General Vincent Massey opened the first session of the 22nd Parliament.

CANADA AND U.S.

AGREED MEASURES

"Canada and the United States are equal partners and neither dares to waste time. There is a time to be alert and a time to rest. These days demand ceaseless vigilance. We must be ready and prepared as the threat is present. The measures of defence have been thoroughly studied by official bodies of both countries. The permanent joint board on defence has worked assiduously and effectively on mutual problems. Now is the time for action on all agreed measures."

At another point, President Eisenhower said:

"We, of our country, have long respected and admired Canada as a bulwark of the British Commonwealth, and a leader among nations. As no Soviet wile or lure can divide the Commonwealth, nothing will corrupt the Canadian-American partnership."

HAVE BUILT WELL

Canadians and Americans, two independent and sovereign peoples, had built a stage on which all the world could see:

1. "Each country's patriotic dedication to its own enlightened self-interest, free from vicious nationalistic exploitation of grudge or ancient wrong."

2. "A joined recognition that neighbors, among nations as among individuals, prosper best in neighborly co-operation, factually exemplified in daily life."

3. "An international will to cast out the bomb and the gun as arbiters and to exalt logic and search for truth and peace."

SHACKLE PROSPERITY

On trade relations, the president said:

"The free world must come to recognize that trade barriers, although intended to protect a country's economy, often in fact shackle its prosperity. In the United States, there is a growing recognition that free nations cannot expand their productivity and economic strength without a high level of international trade."

But, he added, Canada and the U. S. could not risk sudden dislocation in industry and agriculture by "hasty decisions to accomplish suddenly what inevitably will come in an orderly economic evolution."

Mr. Eisenhower mentioned Thursday's announcements that the two countries have established a joint economic and trade commission.

"I confidently believe," he said, "that out of this process the best interests of both our countries will be more easily harmonized and advanced."

Referring to the St. Lawrence seaway, the president said the project is "inevitable—sure and certain."

ATOMIC CLOUD

The president said Canadians "have been valorous champions of freedom for mankind" and "prudent and wise followers of a stout defence for the western world."

"Beyond the shadow of the atomic cloud, the horizon is bright with promise. We shall now can halt our advance together. For we, Canada and the United States, shall use carefully and wisely the God-given graces of faith and reason as we march together toward it—toward the horizon of a world where each man, each family, each nation lives at peace in a climate of freedom."

The president was thanked in French by Rene Beaudoin, Soc'ier of the Commons, and Wishart McL. Robertson, Speaker of the Senate.

MEETS SPEAKERS

After the speeches, the president conferred with the cabinet for about an hour and then went to lunch with Mr. Eisenhower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. St. Laurent.

British Plans For Private TV Are Revealed

LONDON (Reuters)—The Conservative government revealed Friday its plans for permitting private television with advertising in Britain for the first time.

But the government "white paper" announcing the plan lists a number of safeguards against "undesirable" effects of uncontrolled commercialism. Advertisers will buy only the time for their "commercial," with program production kept in the hands of separate, privately-financed companies.

Persons in touch with the industry estimate that the plan will involve initial expenditure of £20,000,000 and will put the first commercial programs on the air before the end of next year.

The central proposal is for the formation of a new government-controlled corporation to own and operate commercial television facilities. This corporation will hire out its channels to private companies, which will provide the programs and in turn sell the time for "spot" commercials to advertisers.

HACKS WIFE

CLEVELAND (AP) — Enraged because he was sentenced to jail for failing to keep up his alimony, 56-year-old Terezino Perna attacked his divorced wife Antoinette with a hatchet, in court Thursday. Mrs. Perna suffered a blow on the right temple.

Garden Notes

Autumn Reminders for Gardeners

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Now that most of the leaves are off the trees and shrubs we can beautify many of them safely. It will be a big load off the spring work if you get that hedge in now, and make the shrub border, or put in the foundation plantings. If you had planned on potting in magnolias, snowball, sumac, birch, or sweetgum you will have to leave it until spring, but most of the deciduous shrubs and trees will be all the better for having been planted in the fall.

In the first place these trees, or shrubs are freshly dug. Those offered for sale in the spring are usually dug late in the fall and stored in a basement, to retard their leafing out, and facilitate spring shipments. Then too, when the stock does arrive the gardener will be into his busiest time, and the planting condition may be any thing but good.

Many local nurseries will remain open for business on weekends, and will be glad to help you decide what is best for your particular needs. They will dig the plants and give you instructions for planting each kind.

BETTER SOIL CONDITION

The soil is in better condition for transplanting at this time than in the spring and the home gardener will have time to do a leisurely thorough job of setting out the new stock. The roots will have time to settle, and heal, and the leaves will come out at their normal time, instead of waiting for spring planting.

There is not much we can do to improve the condition of the soil after the tree, or shrub has been planted, but you can dig in a generous amount of organic material such as compost, or peat moss. These plants will be there a long time so be generous and they will repay your effort.

If you are planting a hedge, a border, or making foundation plantings dig up the whole area, incorporating the organic material as you go. If you wish to plant shrubs, or trees dig dig the holes about two feet wider than the roots, when they are spread out straight in the natural position, and eight inches deeper.

Spread a piece of canvas to receive the displaced soil, then it can be mixed with humus, or organic material, and a quart of complete fertilizer, or a peck of bone meal. If the specimen you are planting required an acid soil add a large quantity of peat moss which is slightly acid, or a cup of lime if your soil is sour, and your plants require an alkaline soil.

PLANTING INSTRUCTIONS

Set the shrub, or tree in the hole an inch or two lower than it was in the nursery, spread out the roots and fill in half the soil, water thoroughly after tramping the soil down well. Fill in the rest of the soil, tramp down again, leaving a slight depression to act as a basin, to retain and hold rain water and water again.

Remember to keep the soil damp until the ground freezes. Evergreen especially those recently set out should be thoroughly soaked before the ground freezes. Going into the cold weather in a dry condition invites winter kill. Since this has been a very dry fall in many sections of the country better be on the safe side and give all ornamental trees, and shrubs a long slow soaking in the near future. Soak the tops of evergreens, too, it will discourage red spiders.

This is a good time to feed your trees and shrubs with slow acting bone meal. With a sharp dowel make holes two inches wide and eighteen inches deep, at the tip of the leaf spread. The holes should be about one and a half feet apart. Put three to four inches of peat, or spagnum moss in the bottom of each hole, then fill to within inches of the top with bone meal. Fill to the top with another plug of moss. The winter rains, and melting snows of spring will carry the nutrients to the feeder roots, which will nourish the whole plant.

IRON DEFICIENCY

While things are still fresh in our minds, let's look back at the general welfare of our garden this summer. Did you notice a tendency in several plants to turn yellow. A lack of iron in the soil will show up in the color of the leaves, especially in new top growth. Plants become stunted and the affected leaves drop off. While iron is not a constituent of chlorophyll it must be present when it is found.

In most soils iron is the third most plentiful element, preceded by silicon, and oxygen. An acute lack is uncommon, but in small gardens iron deficiency is brought about by excessive alkalinity. This may be because the soil is naturally highly alkaline, or more commonly, because of indiscriminate use of lime. Even in cases of naturally acid soil it is not necessary to use lime more often than once in every four years.

Where there are evidences of iron deficiency apply powdered sulphur at the rate of five pounds for each hundred square feet of surface, or use iron sulphate or iron sulphate per square yard. These chemicals should be worked in well and the aluminum sulphate must be soaked into the soil.

Maples Planted By Ike and Mamie

PRESIDENT IN OTTAWA — President and Mrs. Eisenhower are welcomed to Ottawa by Governor-General Vincent Massey. The President is making a two-day state visit to the capital.

OTTAWA (CP) — President and Mrs. Eisenhower, displaying about an equal prowess with a spade, planted two maple saplings Friday in the grounds of Government House.

In a brief simple ceremony because of the damp, cold weather, the President shovelled earth around the base of a sugar maple some 20 yards from a similar tree planted several years ago by his predecessor, Harry Truman.

Moments later, Mrs. Eisenhower grabbed an aluminum spade and tossed some earth around a red maple. Both trees were said to be about 10 years old.

Half Billion Defence Works Are Undertaken

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has awarded more than $500,000,000 in defence construction contracts in the last three years and about 90 per cent of the work has been completed, the Commons was informed Friday.

Total contracts in the period November, 1950-March, 1953, amounted to $570,886,000, covering construction work on 182 sites, the Crown-owned Defence Construction Ltd., said in its annual report.

Biggest contracts were placed in Ontario and Quebec. Of the total $180,000,000 was placed in Ontario; $130,000,000 was completed by last March. In Quebec all but $13,000,000 of $114,000,000 was completed.

Ontario May Save Million a Year

TORONTO (CP)—Provincial government officials say that if the proposed federal payments to totally disabled persons are on the same basis as old age assistance Ontario stands to save more than $1,000,000 next year.

The cabinet expressed pleasure Friday that the federal government intends to follow the lead of Ontario which was first to establish pensions to totally disabled persons.

More than 5,000 Ontario residents are receiving pensions under the province's Disabled Persons Act.

Twenty Men Die As Italian Ship Sunk Off England

Collision's Cause Mystery As Weather Clear, Sea Calm

DUNGENESS, Eng. (Reuters)—Rescue craft pulled 18 survivors and five bodies from the English Channel early today, but 14 other crew members of a sunken Italian ore carrier were unaccounted for and feared dead.

The 2,745-ton Vittoria Claudia sank within five minutes of being struck by the 7,000-ton Panagia Peruo. Many of the crew were buried into the sea by the impact. Others just believed helplessly trapped below decks.

One of the rescued men died shortly after being picked up. The five others were treated in a hospital at Folkestone for shock and the effects of three hours in the cold water.

WENT DOWN QUICKLY

Farina Alexander, cook of the Panagia Peruo, said it went down so quickly there was no time to get a lifeboat away.

He said the other ship approached fast in clear weather, and all he had felt "everyone on deck was thrown into the water."

By noon today, in the hope the crew of the 14 missing men had waned, though a large rescue force still combed the collision scene in the Straits of Dover. The Panagia Peruo was bound for 7,984-ton French freighter brought three survivors from the nearby British coast within a few minutes, while the channel shipping changed course to race to the scene.

The accident occurred in a fog.

COLLISION IS MYSTERY.

It's a mystery at present how the collision occurred for the weather was clear as far as we could see," reported David Gilles, a veteran sea rescue worker.

"The sea was dead calm with no wind," he continued, "but picking up survivors was difficult because the water was covered with a large amount of oil."

Local fishing smacks, working with Dungeness lifeboat were dropped by United States air-sea rescue planes, picked up survivors' bodies.

The Perou was on a regular run from Antwerp to the Gulf of Mexico.

Democrats Close Ranks On White Case

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Some Democrats in Congress rallied behind former president Truman today as he prepared to discuss Gen. Harry Dexter White case tonight on radio and television.

The friendly party seemed to be drawing closer in a development that could spell trouble for the Eisenhower administration's program in the next session of Congress.

Attorney-General Brownell has promised further disclosures beyond the White case, in which he charged that Truman promoted White to be United States director of the International Monetary Fund after the FBI told Truman White was a spy.

WILL 'TELL ALL'.

Truman, who has said no such thing happened, reports to the country at 11 p.m. EST tonight in a speech which he says will "tell all the facts." He said in Independence last night that the director J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI attended a conference at which, White's fate was discussed.

White was named to the monetary fund position early in 1946. He served for more than a year and then, by then a Democrat, was fired by being allowed to resign. White died in 1948 a few days after testifying he was neither a Communist nor a spy.

FBI AGREEMENT.

Several newspapers have published stories from sources they did not name saying White was kept on under an agreement with the FBI to prevent Communists from learning that he was under surveillance.

That has declined comment, but authoritative sources have said there was no advance agreement by the FBI to allow White to stay in government service so that he could be watched.

Observers said that if additional charges develop to prolong the attack on former Democratic administrations, Democratic might give President Eisenhower's legislative proposals the kind of cool reception that Truman's got in the Republican-controlled 80th congress.

No major Eisenhower proposal can be expected in the almost evenly-divided Congress without some Democratic votes.

Fumes of Ether Seep Into Plane

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Quick action by Capt. William O'Connor, Capital Airlines pilot, averted a possible accident Saturday on a Cessna carrying 10 persons, including the National Football League's Pittsburgh Steelers.

Fifteen minutes after the four-engine plane left for New York where the Steelers played New York Giants, fumes from a can of ether fumes began filling the ship.

O'Connor turned the ship around and 15 minutes later landed at Greater Pittsburgh airport. No one was stricken by the highly inflammable fumes.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Cool air from northern Ontario accompanied by clear skies will spread southern Ontario up to Toronto Sunday night. Southwesterly winds will bring south of this boundary, had clear skies and scattered showers or patches of fog.

A very bisnutre disturbance passing its way eastward across the Northwest Territories will prevent any outbreaks of cold weather for the next few days. West to southwest winds circulating around the disturbance will pull back the cold air mass over Ontario today. Sunny warm weather is therefore expected to continue in the province for today and in all of Ontario Tuesday.

Trio Offers Italy Trieste But Wants Surrounding Area

By RYAN SWINTON

ROME (AP) — A new offer by Yugoslav president Tito to give Italy the port city of Trieste raised diplomats' expectations here that a five-power conference on the disputed Adriatic territory is imminent.

These circles also felt Italy and Yugoslavia now were agreed on a number of major points relative to the 800 square miles of territory inhabited by 375,000 persons which each nation has claimed.

Speaking at Belgrade Sunday, Tito dramatically waived his claims to the port city and coast ceded Italy should have it. But he repeated his demand of the rest of Zone A, the territory of farms and vineyards around the city. The city's 300,000 population is largely Italian, the rest of the zone's 25,-000 settlers are mostly of Yugo-area over to Italy.

'Would Like to Come Back' Is Eisenhower's Farewell

OTTAWA (CP)—"We would like to come back some day. We've made the most wonderful friends everyone has been so kind."

In those words, President Eisenhower bid farewell to Ottawa Saturday night, and he and his wife, Mamie, went back to Washington in their special train. They arrived there Sunday afternoon.

Some called their two days here a "state visit." But to most who saw it, it was a friendly visit, not unlike a visit to a friend's home for function to function, it seemed more like a friendly neighbor coming over for dinner.

The president solemnly laid a wreath at the foot of the National War Memorial. Five minutes after his arrival Friday. That afternoon at Government House, where they were the guests of Governor-General Vincent Massey, the Eisenhowers received a maple tree from two others, planted by previous United States presidents, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry Truman, during visits here.

Saturday Mr. Eisenhower spoke to a joint meeting of the Commons and Senate, and to a group of the cabinet. He dealt with joint U. S.-Canadian problems of North America, free world trade and the St. Lawrence seaway.

Sheriff of Nottingham Defends Robin Hood from Attack as Red

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio said a splendid new poem entitled "A New Ballad on Robin Hood" was published today by the Communist newspaper Pravda, and the news made the autumn days warmer in Sherwood forest.

The Moscow report came amid charges made in Indianapolis that the legendary Robin Hood was a kind of Communist prototype and that American children shouldn't read about him.

Mrs. Thomas White, member of an Indiana commission which advises on text books, said the story of the Sherwood forest outlaw who robbed the rich to give to the poor smears the idea of law and order, and follows the Communist line.

Today, Russian poems notwithstanding, Nottingham sheriff Will-

West Powers Reject Reds' Parley Price

Proposals by Russia 'Totally Unacceptable'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western powers told Russia today that the Soviet price for entering into negotiations on German unification and Austrian independence is "totally unacceptable."

Notes were delivered by British, American and French envoys in Moscow to the Soviet foreign office.

They replied to Russian demands put forward in a note of Nov. 3.

LEAVE EUROPE UNGUARDED

In their reply, the Western powers said the Russian demands in effect placed non-European problems ahead of even a study of urgent European issues and made "a defacto withdrawal from Europe" a basic condition for Soviet participation in a conference.

The Western powers said "the Soviet government must be well aware that such demands are totally unacceptable.

Officials said both the American note and virtually identical British and French notes were sent to the Soviet foreign office.

END OF A PHASE

The Western notes have been the negotiating with Moscow since last February's conference on Germany and Austria.

They consider that the note they received today probably closes the exchange.

The Western powers stated that while the whole affairs is over as far as they're concerned the door to a conference along the lines they previously proposed is still open any time the Kremlin is seriously interested.

Church Must Emphasize Christian Teaching Says Former City Minister

The congregation that filled Bridge Street Church to its capacity turned out on Sunday evening to bid welcome to a former minister in the person of Dr. James Semple of Trinity United Church, North Bay. Dr. Semple was minister of the church from 1933 to 1943, and his return visit was a source of pleasure to many people. The services celebrated the 138th anniversary of the church.

Taking for his subject at the morning service, "The Church: a Mind-Forming Society, the preacher answered some of the criticisms levelled at the church. He then proceeded to point out that if the Church was to be a mind-forming organization she must do two things. She must call her people to worship, and she must be a teaching institution. The Church must put greater emphasis upon the Christian faith. Dr. Semple concluded by declaring that the tendency to major on less important things, accounted for the ignorance of so many of our people in matters pertaining to the Christian faith.

MUST ENCOURAGE YOUTH.

In the evening, Dr. Semple spoke on "Youth and the Living Church," pointing out that a Living Church must demonstrate what the Christian life really is. It must cultivate the ecumenical spirit. It must seek righteousness and not safety, and must encourage youth within its ranks. The church must also be an evangelizing agency going out to win those without the fold.

A gracious feature of the morning service was the baptism of the two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Semple of Kitchener. The baptismal service was conducted by Dr. Semple, the grandfather, and he was assisted by the minister, the Rev. Duncan McTavish.

Mr. Robert Aspinall of Peterborough was the guest soloist, singing "A New Heaven and a New Earth" at the morning service, and "The Publican" in the evening. Both the intermediate and senior choirs led the congregation sang anthems. The minister of the church was in charge of the services, with Rev. Miriam Collins assisting.

Following the evening service a social hour was sent in the school room by the choir of Dr. and Mrs. Semple's visit. Solos were sung by Mr. Aspinall, Mrs. Ed. Morden gave two delightful readings and Mr. D. Lawrence covered the gathering with a violin selection. Refreshments were served by the Coronation Club.

Refused Lawyer Saying God Would Look After Him

STRATFORD (CP) — Sheriff Lorne Morgan Saturday quoted Reuben Norman, 36 year - old former paratrooper charged with murder, as saying he did not want a lawyer because "God would look after him."

The sheriff was describing an interview he had with Norman in September, after the defendant was turned here from the Ontario hospital at Penetanguishene.

Norman spent three months in the institution after being judged unfit to stand trial in the death of 19-year-old Jean Satchell of nearby Gadshill. He is to face down-town street within 30 yards of the police station here Feb. 2.

At the conclusion of a second sanity hearing Wednesday, Norman was declared fit to stand trial. The crown finished its case Friday and counsel began the defence Saturday.

Sheriff Morgan said Norman told him: "He was not interested in having counsel because, in effect, God would look after his case for him."

The sheriff had also spoken to Norman in March after the preliminary hearing. The defendant then told him: "If what they tell me was done on that day, that wasn't me, because I wouldn't do anything like that."

MORE AIRMAIL

One of the feature acts of Canadian Ice Fantasy of 1954 is the re-enactment of the fairytale "Goldilocks and the Three Bears." It is one of 20 acts presented in the big show, which has eight comedy routines included in its "entertainment for the whole family."

Canada's Biggest Ice Show Coming Here This Week

Featuring 44 top skaters and a famous team of aerialists, Canada's biggest ice revue will come to Belleville's Memorial Arena on Wednesday, November 18th, for a single evening performance.

Unique among such shows is the all-Canada performance of The Flying Wendts, who defy death high above the ice without the safety net of any kind. The Wendts tour annually with America's biggest circus and were the star attraction picture "The Biggest Show On Earth."

A fast-moving ice extravaganza in a fairyland setting, Canadian Ice Fantasy is crammed with comedy. Its eight production numbers of 20 different acts include eight comedy routines.

Among the show's stars is the superb Yvonne Broders, who has starred for four years with two top ice shows in the United States. King of the comedy is Neville Murray, an Australian, who has clowned his way around the world on skates. He comes to Fantasy after seven featured years with leading ice shows of Europe and the Middle East.

All the other players are talented young people from Canadian towns. The show's young originator and producer, Roy Lisogar of Edmonton, Alberta, says that he feels strongly that opportunities in the entertainment field should be made to grow as Canada grows. In his three years of running Fantasy he has drawn talent from every province west of the Maritimes.

On his search for Mr. Lisogar is eager to meet ambitious skaters and to give them auditions, because he wants to keep the cast predominantly Canadian and make it as representative as possible.

The young producer, who is a top notch skater himself and who has a background of 12 years producing radio programs, stage revues and graduation shows for summer fairs, describes his present venture as "entertainment for the whole family." For the children he has put on skates the famous old nursery rhyme of "Goldilocks and the Three Bears" in a wonderland setting on his 88-foot stage and including three life-size "bears."

Mrs. R. Robson Speaks to W. I. On Triennial Conference

ROSLIN — The November meeting of Roslin Women's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ira Bates, with 18 members and visitors present. The president, Mrs. F. Meeks, presided. A letter regarding Belleville Hospital Building Fund was read. Some discussion followed. No action was taken at the present time.

Plans were made to hold a euchre party on December 9.

The meeting reported on several items of importance from the recent area convention in Belleville.

The leader for the day, Mrs. K. Sharpe, gave a paper on "Import and Export of Canadian Products." An article regarding shipments of cheese bought by Britain was read by Miss A. Wilson.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Sharpe introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. R. Robson, district president of East Hastings, who expressed her pleasure at being present, said she thought this had been an outstanding year in the Women's Institute in the triennial conference in Toronto of the Associated Country Women of the World, where so many Canadian institute members were able to attend and the moving scene where the flags of all nations were placed at the back of the stage.

She said it had been her privilege to attend several of the meetings, and spoke of the wonderful exhibition of handicrafts on display, stating that many had been made by new Canadians, who had brought their skill with them.

The second big event of international interest in 1953, was the Coronation Royal Flowing Match which was held near Cobourg this year, with members from all the countries taking part, which was possibly a little seed of understanding that had been sown, and no one could estimate the benefits from co-operation in these events.

Mrs. Robson also gave an interesting reading on "Reminiscing," and spoke of November being the month in which Remembrance Day is; mentioning that it was well to look back as well as forward. She also read a poem, "A Mother's Prayer," and showed a book on A.C.C.W., which can be purchased, suggesting that it might be a good way to use the Institute grant. By studying one could learn about sister institutes.

Thanks were extended to Mrs. Robson.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants, and a social half hour enjoyed.

TRENTON (Special)—One of the most beautiful deer heads on record was brought back by hunter Owen Trumble of Trenton. He downed a 248 pound buck with 11 point antlers. The animal weighed 348 pounds.

Ottawa Visit Step Toward Defence Build-up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Aides to President Eisenhower today sized up his Ottawa visit as a step toward alerting both the United States and Canada to a need for bolstering continental defences against possible Soviet attack.

These aides, who asked not to be named, were quick to note that actual strengthening of the defence remains to be achieved. But they voiced optimism it will be done.

The president returned to the White House late Sunday after an overnight visit from Ottawa where he and Mrs. Eisenhower were guests of the Canadian government for two days.

AGREE ON DANGER

"A few hours before Eisenhower left the Canadian capital Saturday, he and Louis St. Laurent, the Canadian prime minister, announced in a communique they were in complete agreement on:

"The vital importance of effective measures for joint defence, especially in the light of evidence of increasing ability for direct attack on both countries by weapons of great destructive power."

The communique was issued shortly after Eisenhower in an address to Canada's parliament, declared Russia's "arrogant" attitude and declared Canada-U.S. defences now must be built to recognize "soviet ability to employ atomic attack on North America."

Members of Parliament thumped their desks in approval when Eisenhower said the United States and Canada "can and will" devise methods to protect the continent against surprise enemy attack by air.

THEIR FOR ACTION

The president added the threat is a present one and "now is the time for action on agreed measures."

He quite likely was alluding, for one thing, to bolstering the radar warning screen now operating in the far north of Canada.

In his speech to Parliament, Eisenhower got his most enthusiastic and prolonged applause in talking of trade.

Nothing Stands Still...

A very long time ago a wise old philosopher observed that the only thing in the world that doesn't change is change itself.

This was just his way of saying that nothing in this world of ours is permanent . . . that all things are affected by change. Of course, with many things like rocks or oceans even slight change often takes centuries, but with other things change can, and often does, occur almost overnight.

Take business conditions for example.

In business, nothing stands still. Changes occur almost daily . . . and security values and investment opportunities change with them. Sometimes these changes are minor; at other times they are of widespread significance; occasionally they take place quickly, but more often they occur gradually over an extended period.

Keeping abreast of change . . . gathering, analyzing and interpreting information which affects security values . . . and helping clients plan and follow a sound investment course, is a big part of our business.

If you think you should be planning an investment program . . . if you are considering changes in your present program . . . or if you would just like information on which to base an investment decision, we invite you to consult us. You will be welcome in any of our offices . . . just write, telephone or drop in.

HYDRO LOOKS TO THE FUTURE

It is comforting to learn that the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission has commenced a study of the possibility of using an atomic reactor to generate electricity.

This is the type of foresight we have come to expect from Hydro.

It may be added that it is also the kind of planning that we are entitled to receive. For it is literally true that the prosperity of this province—and therefore in large measure the prosperity of Canada—depends upon Hydro. Without a continually growing supply of power, our industrial growth would bestunted.

Hydro has measured up to the challenge. There was a time, in the immediate post-war period, when the balance between available supply and demand for electricity was critical. It is proper to debate whether this situation was entirely unavoidable, whether war-time shortages of men and material were solely responsible for the Hydro's failure to keep well ahead of the demand for power. After all, Hydro officials are human and it is not just possible that they, like almost every other Canadian, expected that the post-war period would be that of a boom rather than of a bust. And, if they shared this expectation with their fellow-Canadians, might this not have been a factor in planning for the future years?

Be that as it may, the Hydro has since shown energy and vision in keeping ahead of power consumption. It is of course, regrettable that to do so it was necessary to turn to steam generating plants to supplement hydro power. Cost of power from steam plants is higher.

Now, just in time, it appears that the St. Lawrence power project will at last be started, in spite of the intransigence of vested interests in the United States.

It has been said that the St. Lawrence is the last undeveloped source of low-cost hydro power available to the U.S.E.C. This statement we regard as too pessimistic, as totally lacking that vision which we generally find in engineers.

There are several reasons to take issue with such a declaration.

In the first place, while the use of small power sources may be uneconomic today, this may not always remain true. The rising costs of other methods of generating electricity, or technical advances in the utilization of water power may change the picture.

Secondly, there are surely still vast sources of water power in this northern section of Ontario that the future years may see our greatest expansion. And, even if this promise is not fully realized, it may still prove possible to cheaply transmit power generated in the wilderness.

Yet, while we may hope that the word "Hydro" will continue to have a real significance in the title of the commission which provides the life-blood for our industries, it is still true that the H.E.P.C. would not be justified to name the future of the province on a mere hope.

Thus, faced with the possibility that some alternative to water power will have to be used extensively to provide for adequate supply of electricity in the future years, the Hydro is not satisfied to depend on the alternative of steam generation. It is going to test the possibility of using uranium as a fuel in the use of an atomic reactor to generate electricity. If scientifically possible, it may not prove economically desirable. But at least Hydro is leaving no stone unturned to preserve that asset of cheap power which has proved of such great value in the industrial development of Ontario.

NEW HORIZONS IN RUSSIAN LITERATURE

Times are looking up in Russia.

First of all was the thaw and vacuum cleaners that the new Malenkov regime promised the proletariat.

Now, turning from the working hours to leisure periods, Russian authorities have discovered that the Russians are not getting enough love.

From now on there will be lots of love in novels and plays, the Socialist realism of antikup stuff.

This may be a little hard on any authors and playwrights who have clung to the traditionally gloomy Russian style in literature, but there is no need to help, UNESCO should be able to recruit some teachers from those whose products fill the piles of magazines to be seen in any Canadian bookstore.

A news report last week noted that the Communist delegation at the prisoners' truce talks had accepted 18 cents per case from a United Nations officer after paying a $22 share of the cost of identification disks for the prisoners. This is probably the first change the United Nations have ever offered that the Communists have accepted.

An army officer in Brandon, Manitoba, was acquitted of stealing more than 15,000 pounds of brass shell casings and selling them for $30,000 to a scrap metal dealer. That's a bang-up business. In any event we still think he had a lot of brass.

The British-owned Assam Oil Company has announced that it will use helicopters in a seismic, gravity, and aero-magnetic geophysical survey of 5,000 square miles of Indian territory. It certainly looks like a deal to get up in the air about.

FAILING MEMORY

I'd say that as a general rule
I gained the average marks in school
I learned enough in every class
(Or so my teachers thought) to pass.
But now my children's children show
That their "exams" I'd fail to-day.

I still remember how, to spell
Or add or subtract I did not too well.
The one agreeably I could give
Of adverb and the adjective,
But now when questioned I
I have to answer: "I forget."

In algebra my mark was good;
Work out some problems then I could.
But now when asked the way to
I meekly answer: "I don't know."
'Time was I guessed. But oh, dear me!
I've now a failing memory.

Peace by Fear Is New Theory

(By H. L. McPherson in the Windsor Star)

As World War II drew toward an end, the "peace through power" school assumed the most exalted place as security's watchdog. Basically the fundamental in that position, after a Western armament lapse, was proved and demonstrated the danger of weakness.

But now the "peace through power" philosophy may be outmoded, through an outgrowth of itself. For went of a better term it can be called "peace through the fear of power," which simply means that the martial strength of nations has got out of hand, and as a result could have become a deterrent.

Prime Minister Churchill has given evidence to that new peace theory, and indeed may stand as its discoverer, as he did of the iron curtain, through having defined and described it by that name.

At the opening of Parliament yesterday, he observed:

"I say that in spite of the continued growth of weapons of destruction and their power to force fallen into the hands of human beings.

"I have sometimes set odd thought that the multiplication of these agencies may bring us utterly unforeseeable security to mankind.

"When the advance of destructive power reaches a point at which it will kill everyone, no one will want to kill anybody at all."

The thought is not exactly new, but coming from him it carries considerable weight. It puts the forcefulness of expression mentioned above.

It should be noted, however, that the Churchill regard was not lowered at any point during this questing glance toward the future. His theme through fear" works only when everyone (at least each of the "haves") is able, to kill everyone. The fear and dinner would be just as menace raised by a bullying nation over unarmed victims.

He does concede that the ultimate in killing power has been reached, "perhaps for many of the time "when the advance of destructive weapons will make everyone to kill everyone," as though it has not already done so probably it hasn't.

Hence the road to "peace through fear," if his surmise is correct, leads through more intensive missile research, toward the goal of absolute destructiveness.

It won't be reached quickly, or

Taxpayer Wants More Courtesy Shown

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

As a taxpayer at Rossmore, I would like to file a complaint and am well backed by several employees in industries in Belleville.

During the noon hour why is it that different departments such as government, provincial and civic employees have to be so inconsiderate as to delay noon hour traffic to and from homes.

Just today (Thursday) the Air Force decided to move an aeroplane across the Bay Bridge at 12 o'clock. Instead of waiting at Zwicker's they should have had ample room to park said vehicle, they kept workers waiting from until 1.00 o'clock, as they could cross the Bay Bridge.

Some workers were forced to turn around (if they could on the Bay Bridge Road) return to their work.

Others had to walk home and for economy and they were late returning to work. Then, after the aircraft had been safely deposited on the bridge the drivers were leisurely drive into Tobes for their dinner which took quite the time needed to consume same.

Another time the railway tracks had to be crossed, and as a result all the workers on their way home for noon hour were delayed before they their lunch in town within the half hour left or do without.

Is it right that the municipal Police would have more consideration for the noon hour classes and help the aircraft up at Zwick's Island, rather than the 50 odd workers employed just the bridge plus losing pay upon being late on returning to their respective jobs.

without cost. But whatever the ultimate results, that's the direction in which the cold war leaders of East and West are trending. Remember that out of gas in one war led to non-use of deadlier fumes in a later one, but that preparedness for the last war has risked at all. Sir Winston has always been prepared for his half-wishful assumptions.

English School Methods Work

(Edmonton Journal)

An Edmonton supervisor whose job takes him to different parts of the world is used to changes. But his latest move has hunted him to the other side of the globe. He has gone to Thailand and there one has occurred that has left him "strictly speechless." He has his own school.

What has so surprised him is the change that has come over the children attending it. Here in the U.S. and Japan, the boy's opinion of teachers seems to be rather complimentary, despite the fact that they encouraged him and fellow students to express their individualities in any way they saw fit, and always to speak their minds. While visiting his son's school in New York, for instance, the American head noticed that when the classroom than a book was thrown at him, and he said, all the children were standing up screaming!

But now, after little more than two months at a school in a London suburb, screaming, throwing up late and similar manifestations of his son's ego are things of the past. His manners have improved, with to stand up when as three to five hours' detention in the evening are the punishment for failure for a term, help to ensure that the student's ego stays within reasonable limits at the school. No doubt, too, the boy is finding it fun to be living in the challenge of hard study.

Although the case, cited in Time Magazine, is by no means unusual one, it does serve to underline the dangers inherent in U.S. "progress" that the methods best suited to one nation are not confined to the United States. Education in Canada is to a considerable extent derived from the modern American system. Could profit by more borrowing from British education?

Here and in the U.S., perhaps "six of the best" would help to decrease the hooliganism and the manners and undisciplined behavior of some "teen-agers. Failure should have the first opportunity.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

DO YOU HAVE THE NERVE?

Do you think you are courageous? Well, I venture to suggest a surprise test. If I am pretty sure, you would not have the courage to undertake.

Do you have the nerve to go upstairs right now and start cleaning out the attic? I doubt it. There are tons and tons of sentimentality spread all over the attic floors of this country—grandpa's picture, grandmother's wedding dress, pottery of a home built at the turn of the century, chairs that are falling apart but are saved because they belonged to a deceased loved one. There are vases and barrels of china stored away, to which the kids and the grandkids will give a royal heave-ho within a week after somebody's will is read. The managers of a storage house once told me that he and his associates made their living out of the disposition of people to hold on sentimentally to things that should have been thrown out twenty years ago.

Now of course all this is a parable. Up in the attics of our minds you and I have a lot of sentimental old junk; and we just don't have the nerve to clean out the place. I am referring of course to our prejudices, our fears, our inferiority complexes, and our pathological selfishness.

If you want the Lord to pin a hero medal on you, start cleaning out that attic.

A goat will remain in milk for two years or more during the life of a normal goat. A cow will taper off after about nine months or so, and then production of milk freshens with the birth of another calf.

Thus Captain Cook's goat could be depended upon during the lengthy voyage of the Endeavor, without the necessity of taking care of a female companion to encourage and replenish her productive processes. Even if Endeavor had no such purpose well, as the Admiralty well knew, the silver collar made it for her. She spent her latter years in the environs of Greenwich Hospital, but what happened to the valuable collar?

Hunt Collar Of Noted Goat

(Windsor Star)

In England inquiries are being made as to the whereabouts of a silver collar made for a goat which sailed in 1772. She was quite a famous nanny, as she had sailed the vast Pacific on the Endeavor with Captain James Cook. Her purpose was to provide milk for sick seamen. She previously had sailed around the world with Captain Samuel Wallis on the Dolphin.

There was a reason why a goat, rather than a cow, was taken on these voyages. A goat will eat

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WHAT WILL PEOPLE SAY?

There are those who seek to frighten us by saying: "What will people say?" What will people say when, where? As a matter of fact, the people I meet never once concerned about us. What do we know about them? There is a story told by Jan Hal saying: "What is everybody's business is nobody's business."

I came across an interesting article in Reader's Digest called "Table Talk" essay. He said: "The idea of what the public will think is responsible for more than every thinking at all, and acts as a spell on the exercise of judgment, or that, in short, the public opinion is the first foe of the private pretender who chooses to fill it with noisy assertions, or false affectations, or vain displays of himself."

During the life of the late Robert Taft he used to go to his charming Roycroft Inn for a quiet spell. All the rooms were dedicated to some famous person, like the Emerson Room, or the Poe Room, and there were mottos, neatly printed and hung from the ceiling of the dining room and other places. I recall one that gave me a smile. It was: "They Will Talk Anyway." That was Hubbard's tribute to the public.

MARMORA — Marmora Minor Hockey Association came into being at a meeting held for its organization on Friday, November 6. It will sponsor hockey for boys from the age of nine upward. An executive was elected to consist of: president, George Brooks; vice-president, Leonard Begley; secretary, Eric Keeble; treasurer, Alex Fraser.

Local organizations have been contacted to support the enterprise and such groups have made a donation to be used in securing equipment and registration of the four classes now in use, bantam, midget and juvenile.

Thomas Coulins was appointed referee. A district league has been formed with Norwood, Havelock, Stirling, Flinton, Coe Hill, Madoc and Marmora entering teams in one or more of the classes.

Bucket Brigade Saves Farm Home In Tyendinaga

A strong bucket brigade quickly formed by district farmers called from a nearby auction sale saved the farm home of Francis Callaghan, of Melrose, 3rd Concession Tyendinaga township, Saturday, as two upstairs rooms were damaged by a blaze apparently starting from a defective chimney.

The blaze caused approximately $1,000 damage to the home.

Mrs. Callaghan discovered the fire when she smelled smoke coming from upstairs. With the aid of her sister-in-law she shut the side door and cut off the draft with wet blankets, then notified farmers at the auction sale a mile away.

While a bucket brigade poured water onto the flames other farmers carried the Callaghan household effects to safety.

The Belleville Fire Department answered the call but the blaze was nearly out by the time firemen made the 13-mile run. Two families lived in the Callaghan home.

Alberta Receives Awards at Winter Fair

The province of Alberta "stole the spotlight" at the opening of the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto when two top awards were presented to two Alberta farmers. For the second time in a row, 20-year-old Ronald R. Leonhardt (left), a 4-H club member, Drumheller, won the world wheat championship with a sample Marquis wheat. Second Alberta honored was 25-year-old Bruce E. McDonald, seen above with Mrs. John David Eaton, who presented a scroll to the young man from Manville after he won the $5,000 Eaton Agricultural scholarship, good for four years at colleges. Bruce was one of nine candidates selected from nine provinces for the award. (Newfoundland didn't have an entry.) The nine were chosen by the provincial departments of agriculture on the basis of school marks, potential citizenship and their plans in farming.

Melrose Farmer Shoots Bear Cub As Dog Trees It

Each week it seems bears are being seen further south.

Last week Joseph Forsstell, Melrose, shot a black bear cub on his farm on the 3rd concession of Tyendinaga. He said it was the farthest south that any bear had been killed in that particular area.

Mr. Forsstell said that his dog treed the young 75-lb. cub back one morning while they were out rounding up the cows. He returned to the house, got his gun, and shot the bear. Signs of other bears have since been seen in the district.

Another Paper Joins Criticism Of Duke's Speech

LONDON (Reuters)—The left-wing newspaper Reynolds News Sunday criticized the Duke of Edinburgh for speaking publicly on the controversial subject of conscription.

It voiced last week by the Scottish Socialist weekly Forward which called the duke "the latest meddler."

Both papers referred to the Duke's recent speech when he was installed as chancellor of Edinburgh University in which he said army service is or can be "very important character-forming experience."

Reynold News says that "whether or not the royal consort advocates conscription, he should not express his views in public on a subject so full of political dynamite."

Bill Leeming Gives Interesting Talk to W.I.

The regular meeting of the Quinte Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. E. Leeming. Mrs. Sandercock paid tribute to the late Mrs. Parrott, an active and valued member of the Institute, and who will be greatly missed.

Business was discussed. It was decided to give a donation towards the new hospital project. All agreed to endeavor to make money in order to equip one room in the said hospital when completed. Mrs. Denyes suggested one way to make money was by catering to the Jr. Farmers' the their banquet in Bridge Street Church, and was agreed to unanimously.

Mrs. Sandercock turned the meeting over to Mrs. D. Leeming, program convener, who called on Mrs. Denyes to give the motto "Self Help and Community Betterment." Mrs. Denyes gave a fine talk on this and had many suggestions to offer in connection with community betterment. She also spoke on the hospital building fund; the "Friendship Links"; "Manners In Public"; "Children's Aid;" and "Old People's Homes," where magazines could be sent; also needy children and old many hobbies, for making money for relaxation, and of the value of reading suggesting some good books as well as ways of making money for different projects.

Mrs. Denyes' talk was most enlightening and profitable.

Mrs. Manly Mitchell entertained with the musical portion of the program, which was much enjoyed.

SPEAKER

The speaker for the day was Mr. Bill Leeming, who is a busy worker in the Jr. Farmers' clubs. He spoke on "Public Relations and Activities of Jr. Farmers," outlining the difference between Jr. Farmers and the 4-H clubs. The Jr. Farmers are self-governed, with an executive set-up of girls and boys, county, district and provincial.

He also spoke on service work, public speaking, drilling, square dancing, bus trips, spring banquet, organized church services performing all duties, conducting dances for money in hopes of having community hall in future, and skating parties. Bill enlarged on all these in a most interesting manner.

Mrs. Vanderneck read the ever popular poem for Armistice Day.

Refreshments were served by the luncheon committee.

Panel Discussion Held by Group

Panel discussion entitled "The Thing in the Night," compiled and arranged by Rose Mills, was presented by the Belleville Baha'i Assembly at the Y.M.C.A., Friday evening.

Mr. White acted as chairman and others taking part in the panel included Mrs. Helen White, Miss Margaret Mann, R.P. Creery and Charles Jardine.

Following the panel discussion and question period, the audience and panel members broke into small groups under the chairmanship of John Campbell, and in a section of group dynamics evaluated the panel discussion, the results of which offered encouraging comments and constructive criticisms. Many expressed gratitude for this opportunity of audience participation and the informal atmosphere in which it was created.

After the closing prayer, the Baha'i and their friends proceeded to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hills, where a surprise, first wedding anniversary "at home" party was held in honor of the young couple. They were appropriately presented with a super gift, one of Shakespeare's books, autographed by the assembly and beautifully encased with a single, fresh red rose. Among the many gifts was a framed print of Hindu bride in oils by the local artist, Elwood Hill.

Refreshments were served, including a special anniversary cake topped with miniature bride and groom, and the couple expressed their appreciation to the Assembly as the happy occasion concluded.

YOUNG—FORD

A charmingly appealing, of local interest, was solemnized at Knox presbyterian Church, Toronto, Saturday afternoon, November 7, when Isabella Duncan Ford, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Ford, of Toronto, became the bride of Robert J. Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Young, of Oshawa.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white imported lace over gleaming satin, featuring a slim bodice and a full skirt. Long pointed sleeves and a portrait neckline appliqued with lace match the styled the bodice. A tiara of seed pearls held her fingertip veil of tulle illusion and she carried a white Bible created by a white orchid with stephanotis.

Mrs. William Way, a cousin of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing ballerina-length pastel mauve lace. Little Miss Linda Way, also cousin of the bride, was flower girl, in a full length frock of pale green taffeta.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. HEDDERMAN

RULES FOR NAMES ON CHRISTMAS CARDS

You Should Know . . .

1. That: If you want your Christmas cards to be informal . . . and, naturally, most Christmas cards are informal . . . your name on them must be your informal name. Your informal name is your signature after the words, "With Merry Christmas and Happy New Year . . ."

Ruth and Peter Starr

2. That: It is absolutely incorrect to use your formal name . . . imprinted or written . . . at the end of the message. This is incorrect: "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year . . ."

Mr. and Mrs. John Frost

3. That: When the wife signs the Christmas cards to be sent by her husband and herself, she should correctly sign her name last:

Peter and Ruth Starr

(If the husband signs some of the cards, perhaps for business friends, he correctly signs his name last: Ruth and Peter Starr.)

4. That: The full names of husband and wife are imprinted at the end of the message, the wife's name comes first:

Christmas greetings
Ruth and Peter Starr

5. That: When children's names are included, the daughter's name, either hand-written or imprinted, the father's name comes last:

Anthony and Beatrice and Michael

The names of several children may be included in this informal way: The Clarks—John and Mary, and Polly and Joan and Johnnie.

Or:

John and Mary Clark and Polly, Joan, and Johnnie

(Never should cards be signed or imprinted "Mr. and Mrs. John Clark and family." And never should cards be addressed to "Mr. and Mrs. John Clark and family.")

A FRIENDLY HANDCLASP

Dear Mrs. Heddeman:

The mother of a girl who works next to me in my office was recently killed in an automobile accident. I wrote this girl a letter of sympathy, telling her of my deep sympathy and understanding, and asking her if there was anything I could do to help. I also sent flowers to the funeral. She is soon to return to the office, and as she is a very high-strung girl and was extremely devoted to her mother, I don't want to say anything that will upset her. What should I say under these circumstances?

. . . Old M.

If I were you, I would write her a warm, friendly handclasp to express "I understand," and would not say anything until later, whenever she may indicate that it would be, or might be, a relief for her to mention her sorrow.

When your spouse is out of sight, keep grounded to remember he left, but don't try to call him back. Don't call after him, don't run and don't call after him. It is important to keep the tail straight to remind the cops if there is any noise left.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HER CHILDREN ARE ALL SHE CAN CALL HERS, SAYS THIS WIFE

Mrs. C. has been married five years, and has one son and one daughter.

"And they," she declares, "are about all I can call my own. Everything else belongs solely to my husband because he says it's his money that buys everything, and he can do as he pleases with it.

"Almost every payday he gives money to his mother to pay her bills, even though she doesn't need it, while our own family has to wait and can never make ends meet. His mother has money in the bank, and also gets money from the government because one of her sons died in Korea. Besides this, my husband forces her money, too. What she does with her money is to put it in the bank and leave her bills to be paid by my husband.

"She other sons are always borrowing money from her instead of giving her any, and that's why I think she's so rich. I don't think it's fair. I can't get my husband to see this, however, if I say anything like that he gets angry and calls me names, and says that I didn't have anything when we got married and that if I don't like it, to get out.

"I have been trying to see a doctor about my ears for a long time, but he says we can't afford it. We have too many other bills to pay. Our children need clothes and shoes, and I can't get them for them because my husband says he can't afford it. He says that I'm extravagant, but I'm not. I'm economical.

"As I see it, there can be only two reasons why a son would hand over to a mother every month the money that he ought to be spending on his own family:

One is that he wants his mother to believe he is making more money in his business, or his job, than he actually is, so as to build himself up in her eyes as a man who has achieved financial success. The other reason for depriving his wife and children while handing over money to his mother is that he knows he has been a Mama's boy all his life and can't or doesn't want to, get out from under her thumb.

Whichever may be true in this case, the answer might be for the wife to start building herself up by earning some money on her own and using it as she pleases.

There have been women in situations like this who have taken jobs outside the home and earned money that way. There have been other women who have found it possible to make the money they needed while staying right at home. Neither of these plans may be easy, But they can be put through, for hundreds, even thousands, of emergent women have done it.

I suggest that Mrs. C. should give this idea a real thought, and see if it might not be worth something in her case.

If she wants to work outside the home, there must be plenty of opportunities for her in the big city where she lives. If she has any kind of skill she could put it to work to earn money at home, there are a number of books that will tell her how to do it, and how it has actually been done by others.

I have a list of such books and will be glad to forward it to her if she cares to send me a stamped self-addressed envelope. —

Soup Weather

By Mary Moore

If I know my Canada, by the time this reaches print all of this bedrowned summertime will be a memory and soup time will have arrived with snow in the air and mists to come.

I am fairly itching to make a great big pot of soup, but had to decide myself in short until enough of the family would be home for the week-end to make it worth while. You know who "enough" is by now, so another name for Pete.

Although our women do not have bird-like appetites one bouillon cup of soup is plenty. We—and you—need trencherman for this

OXTAIL SOUP

Cut the oxtail into sections between each joint or ask the butcher to do this for you. Wash 1 1-2 cups large dry lima beans. Put them both in the soup kettle with 2 cups of water and 2 tablespoons salt and—if you have some on hand—1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate. Cover, bring to boiling, reduce heat and simmer until meat is tender and will easily fall from bones. Dice 2 medium carrots and 1 small onion and very thinly slice 2 stalks celery and their leaves and add them and simmer 1-3 hour longer. You have to remove the bones and any excess pieces of fat before serving this. Serve in large soup bowls sprinkled with parsley or do as the French do—float pieces of toasted French bread on top and sprinkle it with grated old cheese.

The main dish—lima beans and is sufficient for the main course. Serve a lavishly finely shredded Savoy cabbage and tomato salad with it and some rib-sticking cake such as mince pie or apple dumplings.

I have so many letters from you that I am going to have to use them wherever I can find it to answer you, so will append a letter and an answer to each column this week when I have room.

QUESTION:

I've just come from the bakeshop; now I'm wondering if you might help me. I bought some of the most delicious little cakes. They were little chocolate balls rolled in coconut. The girl at the store said they were like uncooked brownies. I had never eaten them before. I'm keeping my fingers crossed. . . I love your column.—Mrs. Glenn W.

ANSWER:

What you describe are

COCOA QUICKIES

(This recipe was sent to me by Mrs. C. W. and is delicious.)

Put in a heavy saucepan the following: 1-2 cup each milk and margarine, 4 tablespoons cocoa and 2 cups white sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil stirring. Remove from fire at once and add 3 cups rolled oats and 1 cup coconut. Cool and add 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Now these may be dropped from teaspoon on to waxed paper immediately and cooled when they will set or may be pushed from tip of spoon, formed into balls, and dropped into fine coconut, rolled around until it covers them, then carefully placed on waxed paper to harden.

QUESTION:

This is my first letter altho' I am an avid reader of your column . . . please forward your valid receipt for colored taffy apples and popcorn balls . . . keep all your wonderful recipes coming.—Mrs. W. S. I.,

ANSWER:

I hope you saw the recipe for taffy apples on November 9. In the event you have not I will send it along.

POPCORN BALLS

Have ready 20 cups popped corn from which you have discarded all hard unpopped kernels. Put 2 cups sugar, 2-3 cup water, 1-4 teaspoon cream tartar in saucepan, bring to boiling point, but, without stirring to 280 deg. Fahr. (or until syrup will form a hard ball when cold water). Remove thermometer and add 1-3 cup molasses, 3 tablespoons butter and shake of salt and boil, stirring, until candy is stalky when very little when tried in cold water, being careful not to burn it. Drizzle this syrup over the popped corn, mixing it in as you pour. With buttered palms make balls and let harden on wax paper. You must work quickly.

Goats Make Good Pets

WESTON, Ont. (CP)—A goat that "bulged a bit" was given to Mrs. Donna Skalding of Weston and two weeks later she had four goats.

Now she has 25 purebred goats on her two-acre hobby farm and is secretary of the Ontario Dairy Goat Breeders.

Mrs. Skalding says they're ideal for persons with holdings too small to support a cow. Especially suitable are the ambiens—Ethiopian goats, which give two to four quarts of milk a day with a high butterfat content—and don't eat the bark off trees.

Goats make good pets, she says. They are easy to look after, and a child can milk a goat.

Mrs. Skalding feels there should be a great future for goats in southern Ontario, where many farms are being broken up into small holdings.

SEED FOR GERMANY

CORONATION, Alta. (CP)—A total of nearly 35 tons of bromegrass seed was shipped by the Alberta Seed Growers Association to Montreal for trans-shipment to Germany. The seed was all grown in the Coronation district.

Skirts Stay 'Put' Say N.Y. Manufacturers

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—Girls with bowlegs can stop worrying. They won't have to show their knees next spring.

As store buyers poured into New York for the opening of spring market week in the wholesale garment district, it became apparent that the brief threat of knee-length skirts launched in Paris was a false alarm.

Perhaps the storm of protests from women had something to do with it. Perhaps New York manufacturers decided not to be pushed around any more by Paris "decrees." Whatever the reason, next spring's coats, suits and dresses shown by leading wholesalers are about the same length as those of this fall. In some cases skirts may be slightly shorter, but the difference is not perceptible.

Biggest news so far in the early showings is the return of the black or navy fitted dressy coat, in silk or wool-and-silk mixtures, for spring town wear. Many of these have wide white linen collars. Some are designed to be worn as coat dresses.

WHITE USED

Also important in the spring coat picture are little white cardigan toppers in pastel fleece, some spangled with jewels, to wear day or night. White and off-white is used widely in the new fleece coats; most of which are fit-and-flare in fabrics.

Suits are slim, fitted and mostly understated. Fabrics provide the drama. There are many silk tweeds, alpacas and silk-and-wool mixtures in the spring suit line-up. Lightweight fabrics are the new order.

Suits are made with dressmaker touches, soft tailoring and rounded, feminine lines. Width at the top is achieved by rounded upper sleeve lines instead of shoulder padding.

Bay of Quinte W.I. Holds Remembrance Day Service

The Bay of Quinte Institute held their November meeting at the home of Mrs. Ernest Curtis on Wednesday evening, with a large attendance of members.

The roll call was answered with each person's idea of "What can I do to promote World Peace." Some said they would mind their own business; others that they would not tolerate racial segregation—and still those who would promote better feeling between those of different religions, and those who said they would have the home to be what it should be as they felt it all started there and after all if people can not agree in their homes, what chance do nations have towards world peace?

The report of the W.I. convention, held at Belleville, at the Masonic Temple on Monday and Tuesday of last week, was given by Mrs. Ross Stickle and Mrs. Alva Meyers.

The Belleville hospital is building a new wing and the Bay of Quinte Institute has been asked to canvass this district for it.

The Bay of Quinte Institute is sponsoring a card party and dance at Acme Hall on November 27th, all money made by the Institute is used for charitable purposes.

The program was then handed to the convener of the evening, "Come Home", and "The Rose of Tralee" was sung by Mrs. Harold Reid. As it was a "Remembrance Day" program, it was opened with a sing-song of "Till the Boys World War I songs, "Till the Boys Come Home", "Smilin' Through", "No Man's Land." Two poems were read, "Sacrifice" by Mrs. John Reid, and "Remember Us," by Mrs. Benson Bonisteel. A reading was also given on "Remembrance Day" by Mrs. John Reid.

There was a contest. The one making the most words out of the word "Remembrance" won a prize with Mrs. Hitchie Ketcheson being the lucky lady. Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. E. Curtis, and conveners, bringing to an end an interesting evening.

CARRYING PLACE

Victoria Church Sponsors Turkey Supper

CARRYING PLACE — Victoria Church on the Rednersville charge, was the mecca for hundreds of turkey lovers on Wednesday evening. Before 5.30, the supper hour, which had been set, a crowd had gathered and the ladies of the W.A. started serving. Five times the tables were re-set and re-filled with hungry people. Although such a crowd had not been anticipated, so generously had the church folk prepared tasty viands that there was plenty for all and to spare.

APPRECIATION VOICED

Hearty appreciation goes to Mr. W. McFaul, who helped to while away the time for those who had to wait for their supper, with music. Appreciation also goes to some children who turned in and helped to clean and relay the tables.

The church folk, both men and women, worked hard and long, but felt amply repaid for their labor when it was announced that the evening's proceeds amounted to $775.

Much credit is due Mrs. Clifford Calnan, W.A. president, and her executive, who were responsible for the planning and management.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma stopped doing the bridge problem in the paper and said to pop, William, I dont care what the proverb says, revenge is not sweet.

I agree, she says; it's one of the most sour of the hunny foods, pop said, and ma said, So if I can get Thelma Gasper on the telephone I'm going to have a nice long friendly chat with her, just as though nothing had happened.

That's nice, pop said. Who she done is Thelma Gasper and what did happen? he said, and ma said, I used to play bridge with her, I dont think you ever had the misfortune to meet her.

At least I'm going to have the luck to hear about her, pop said. Did you say she said you a poison pen letter? he said, and ma said, Oh goodness, she's not that vicious, she's just petty in a mean underhand way. She's her own worst enemy, not that I ever heard of her having any actual frends. Anyway, what actually happened was, I had a stunning new hat, a real Sturnbacker Paris model, which means there wasn't another one like it on this whole side of the Atlantic as well. Thelma Gasper gave it one services glance and remarked that she had had one exactly like it the year before, and she loved it, ma said.

And you haven't spoken to her since? pop said, and ma said, No but I've decided it's beneath frendship for me. It happened about 7 years ago, and I hear she's moved out of town, but just the same I'll look up her telephone number in my old adress book, and if she's not there any more, so much the worse, or so much the better, ma said.

It's a woman's world and it's terribly sad wonderfully made you said.

Being the result of the subject.

SECOND SECTION — BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, NOVEMBER 16 — PAGES 11 to 20

Substantial Crime Increase Is Blamed on Drug Peddlers, Yeggs and Drinking Drivers

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCMP reports a "substantial increase" in crime in Canada.

The force's annual report blames the rising crime rate on greater activity by narcotic peddlers and safecrackers, and on a sharp increase in the number of motorists charged with impaired or drunken driving, or criminal negligence charges.

The report, issued today, also says:

1. There is little hope that British Columbia's Doukhobor problem will be solved by emigration of the fanatical Sons of Freedom.

2. A danger exists that "more conservative Doukhobor groups" may take part in outbreaks of violence in B.C.'s Kootenay-Grand Forks area.

3. Canadian smugglers have started to use counterfeit United States currency to pay for contraband brought in from the United States.

4. Smuggling of United States cigarets has declined following the cut in price of the Canadian product early this year.

5. There is no indication of any trend toward narcotic addiction among juveniles in Canada.

6. The force is making plans for the construction of a permanent headquarters in Ottawa.

MORE INVESTIGATIONS

The report says criminal investigations by the force in the 1952-53 fiscal year ended last March 31 totalled 57,915, an increase of 20,450 or 13.9 per cent over the previous year. Of the cases investigated, 113,453 or 67.8 per cent resulted in convictions; 3,161 cases ended in dismissals, 1,202 awaited trial and 8,631 were still being investigated.

During the year, the force investigated 46,899 infractions of the Criminal Code, an increase of 5.67 per cent over the previous year. The number of murder cases total led 34, a decrease of six, but attempted murders rose to 23 from 17, manslaughters to 105 from 104 and assaults to 3,459 from 3,347.

The report says there has been "no indication of any lessening of the illicit traffic in narcotics drugs." It says 405 Canadians were arrested during the year for violation of the opium and narcotic drug act.

PRICES SPREAD

Heroin continues with few exceptions to be the only narcotic encountered in illicit traffic, the report says. The price to the addict ranges from $3 to $3.50 a capsule in eastern Canada to $5 on the West Coast and $15 in Edmonton.

A sharp increase in the number of safe-crackings is noted in the report. The total increased during the year to 180 from 122.

The report says 67 safe-cracking occurred in Alberta, 51 in British Columbia and 37 in Saskatchewan.

The report says 4,253 motorists were charged during the year with driving while intoxicated or while their ability to drive was impaired by alcohol. This was an increase of 2,111 over the last nine months of the fiscal year ended March 31, 1952. The impaired driving charge did not become law until June 30, 1951.

Elderly Man Dies In St. Thomas YMCA Blaze

ST. THOMAS (CP)—An elderly man lost his life and several others were injured in an early Sunday fire which partially destroyed the top two floors of the 35-year-old YMCA building here. The main floor and gymnasium of the three-storey building were saved.

One of two men reported missing after the blaze was brought under control turned up in Toronto.

Thomas Dunn, 73-year-old First World War pensioner from London, Ont., lost his life when he was overcome in an attempt to get from his top floor room to a fire escape.

ONE VANISHES MYSTERIOUSLY

W. A. Attaman of St. Thomas and G. Russell Grimmon, 58, of Port Stanley, were reported missing but later it was learned that Attaman wasn't in the 40-room building during the fire. He was in Toronto on a week-end visit.

Grimmon, a restaurant worker here, failed to appear for work Sunday and still is unaccounted for. His sister, Mrs. W. Sandborn of Port Stanley told police she had been speaking to him on the telephone late Saturday night and he said he was hurrying from the YMCA building. After the fire his third-floor room was found intact but the adjoining one had been burned away.

CARELESS SMOKER

The fire, believed started by a careless smoker in the second floor sleeping section, is estimated to have caused between $150,000 to $200,000 damage.

More than 80 persons escaped. Some were carried down aerial fire ladders. Several were injured but only two seriously, Percy Woods, 48, and Elmer T. C. Webb, 63. Woods suffered burns on his face, neck, chest and arms and Webb was burned on the hands in addition to suffering smoke affects.

The blaze was discovered shortly after 5 a. m. by Lawrence Marshall who said he was awakened by the crackling flames and then warned other occupants.

NEW GAME FOR DEACON

TORONTO (CP)—Jack (Deacon) Allen, 62-year-old Toronto night matchmaker and boxing manager, was arrested Saturday on charges of taking part in and keeping a common betting house. He was remanded until Nov. 25 after he was seized on a sleuth-wide $1,000 in bets on horses running in the United States when they raided his apartment.

Seeking Funds To Save Abbey

LONDON (Reuters)—City officials, church dignitaries and choirboys walked in stately procession to Westminster Abbey Sunday to launch a new campaign to raise money for the repair of the ancient shrine.

During a special service, Dr. Alan Don, Dean of Westminster, read an appeal by Sir Winston Churchill opening "Save the Abbey Week."

The prime minister urged Britons to contribute £1,000,000 this year towards the cost of repairing the Abbey.

The money is desperately needed because inspection has revealed that the ravages of time, the death-watch beetle and atmospheric pollution have reduced the Abbey to a serious state of decay.

Laszlo Marothy (top), 25, resting in a British zone hospital in Austria, and his wife, Elizabeth (bottom), are shown after hitchhiking to freedom. This summer Marothy escaped to Austria from a slave labor camp in Hungary. Recently he secretly returned for his wife. Walking by night and hiding by day, they travelled 200 miles from her home. Crossing the border, Marothy stepped on a mine. His foot had to be amputated.—Central Press Canadian.

Death-Dealing Smogs Near, Worried Londoners Demand Action to End Air Pollution

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP) — Winter, the time of death-dealing smog, is coming.

Worried Londoners, who remember last December's doubled death rate, are flooding newspaper offices and Parliament members with letters. They demand quick action to end pollution of the air before winter's fog turns it into throat-catching yellow smog.

Last week the government announced that Britons with heart or lung diseases would be supplied with free smog masks through the national health service.

Medical men say last winter's smogs killed around 12,000 persons, most of them infants or old people.

The government is probing these deaths with "gravest urgency."

But some critics, however, say the government, after announcing it would set up an inquiry commission, took six months to name its members.

Up to Sept. 30, they charge, the smog inquiry commission had held only one meeting.

Any attack on smog must be a slow, and costly, business.

Atmospheric pollution in a big city comes from three main sources: factories, homes and vehicles.

London is trying to cut down chimney or office block by block.

1. It is encouraging factories and householders to install efficient heating systems using smokeless fuel. That's not easy in Britain where a blazing coal fire is part of the household tradition.

2. "Smokeless zones" are being set up in industrial and commercial areas. Inside these zones, no factory or office block is permitted to belch smoke.

The vehicle problem is much trickier. A vast upsurge in road traffic followed the end of gasoline rationing in 1950 and it hasn't stopped yet. Exhaust fumes hang in narrow city streets and no one has yet thought of a way to shift them.

U.S. Recognized Russian Regime Two Decades Ago

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States recognized Russia 20 years ago today with official hopes for friendly co-existence.

Now, after two decades of formally correct diplomatic relations, Washington and Moscow are probably as antagonistic, suspicious, distrustful and bitter toward each other as two capitals can be and still remain on speaking terms.

The beginning of recognition Nov. 16, 193, under the foreign policy direction of the late president Franklin D. Roosevelt and his secretary of state, Cordell Hull, was regarded by many persons favoring the move as the start of a new and happier era in world affairs.

Today President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles still are working for such an era, with a minimum hope that at least a way can be found to prevent the extreme tension that between the United States with its Allies and Russia with its satellite nations from flaming into an atomic war.

Pilot Crash-Lands

SARNIA (CP)—An RCAF Pilot, who lost his bearings on a homeward flight from Oshawa to Windsor Saturday night, crash-landed his light plane in a grazing field south of Courtwright.

P/O. Robert Davey, 3, of Picketing, brought his Chipmunk down on the farm of Eldon Lumley. Davey was not injured.

Invented Tale of Torture To Show Power of Faith Is G. Dupre's Explanation

NEW YORK (CP)—A Calgary man invented a parable as an example of religious faith. And the story mushrooned into what a rueful publisher described as "the greatest hoax in the history of journalism."

George Dupre, a Second World War veteran whose story of wartime intelligence experiences led Quentin Reynolds to write "The Man Who Wouldn't Talk," admitted in a, week-end interview that he had invented his tale of forthude under Nazi torture to prove the value of faith in God.

"I felt that a story of tremendous self-sacrifice was a means of leading youth, and grown-ups too, to a new insight into what men can be capable of."

The story, told and retold at church group meetings and service club gatherings, gained circulation in Canada and attracted the attention of the publishers of Reader's Digest, who assigned Reynolds to write the story for the magazine's November issue. An expanded version subsequently appeared in book form.

WILL REFUND PRICE

Random House, publishers of the book, offered Sunday to refund the $2.75 purchase price to its 10,000 purchasers and said they are reclassifying it as fiction. Reynolds likewise will carry a detailed explanation of the hoax in the January issue.

Doug Collins, a 32-year-old reporter for the Calgary Herald who spent eight years with British intelligence, uncovered the 120-page hoax when he spotted technical flaws in the story, confronted Dupre with them and got him to admit the falsehood.

HAS A MESSAGE

"I honestly felt I had a message," Dupre said in his week-end interview. "I guess the story just got bigger than it was. I told it and then told it again, always adding a little, always making it a better story."

Dupre, shaken by the effects of his deception, is under a doctor's care in Calgary.

Reynolds said he was shocked and saddened to discover that the story was "a fantastic hoax."

DeWitt Wallace, publisher of Reader's Digest, said he met Dupre only once and was struck by him as "a man of integrity." He felt the story would have been accepted by "any reporter in the land."

Suggests Selective Attack On Trade Barrier Problem

NEW YORK (CP)—A selective approach to the tariff problem, by breaking it down into smaller components, was suggested today by E. M. Fowler, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association.

This method of dealing with Canadian-U. S. trade, "the largest single segment of international trade in the world today," was outlined by Mr. Fowler in an address prepared for delivery before the 40th foreign trade convention of the National Foreign Trade Council.

"It should be possible to build up Canadian exports to the United States in many goods that American consumers will need and to do so without damage to existing American industries," he said.

"We do not ask to take markets away from your producers, but instead of attempting to provide for increasing demands of your people by developing new and costly methods of expanding your capacity, could you not let those industries for which Canada has a natural advantage provide for your growth in demand?.

"Perhaps we could make some products you need from our ample supplies of aluminum and base metals. Perhaps the many new chemicals that are obtainable from our Alberta oil and gas could, if tariffs are changed, find and make new markets in this country."

ECONOMIC FLAWS

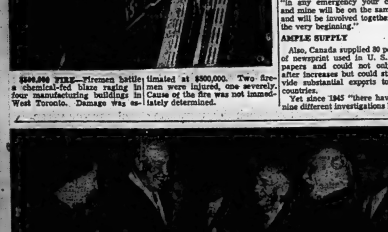
There are flaws to be found in a theory of independence and self-sufficiency, Mr. Fowler said, devices which can become expensive and uneconomic.

Neither Canada nor the United States had a domestic supply of bauxite, the raw material for aluminum, but Canada had the essential low-cost electric power and had built a great aluminum industry.

Negotiations for a new contract by which a Canadian manufacturer would supply aluminum to the United States failed, he said, because of "an outcry against dependence upon a foreign source of supply for this strategic material." Local sources of manufacture were developed with U. S. government financial assistance and tax concessions because "a vital defence material should be produced at home."

But Mr. Fowler questioned if U.S. defence strategy is seriously weakened by the fact the U.S. depends on Canada for most of its nickel, another strategic metal. Further, "in any emergency your country and mine will be on the same side and will be involved together from the very beginning."

AMPLE SUPPLY



Also, Canada supplied 30 per cent of newsprint used in U. S. newspapers and could not only look after increases but could still provide substantial exports to other countries.

Yet since 1945 "there have been nine different investigations by various committees of Congress." Legislators, arguing independence and self-sufficiency in newsprint, advocated use of government funds and special tax concessions to build new domestic mills.

Mr. Fowler viewed this as "economic isolation" and said that "of the dollars we use to buy your goods, one out of every four comes from our newsprint exports to you."

In approaching that "immensely complicated subject" of world trade in general, Mr. Fowler suggested it is "common sense to start with the largest single segment of your international trade, which happens to be with your closest neighbors and best friends in the world and which should be easiest to deal with."

"Perhaps we should adopt the classical military technique of 'divide and conquer.' Perhaps the defeat of world trade problems, like the defeat of armies, can be accomplished by breaking them down into separate parts of manageable proportions."

Court Rules It Is Competent To Try Mossadegh

TEHRAN (AP) — Ebe military court trying ex-premier Mohammed Mossadegh for treason got down to the main issues today after ruling against his contention that the tribunal was not competent to hear the case.

The court-martial's five judges declared it is empetent to hear the case Sunday after a week of preliminary hearings, during which the 73-year-old Mossadegh held the floor for many hours with bitter, emotional arguments in his own defence.

Following the court decision, chief prosecutor Brig. Hossein Azmoodeh read the indictment charging Mossadegh with plotting against the shah and illegally dissolving the lower house of Parliament. The death penalty was asked.

Presentation of evidence in support of the charges was due to begin later today.

DEMANDS JURY

Mossadegh contended the shah had no authority to dismiss him. He also demanded a jury trial on grounds that the army court could not try him because he had abolished it before his ouster as premier Aug. 17.

The court also ruled itself competent to pass judgment on Gen. Fazlollah Zahedi, former military chief of staff who is being tried with Mossadegh.

Prior to the ruling there had been reports the court was split on the question of whether it was qualified to hear the case.

When the shah's messenger tried last August to deliver the royal decree firing Mossadegh, bloody rioting resulted, and the monarch fled the country. The shah's supporters overthrew Mossadegh two days later. The aged premier was jailed, and the shah returned to the country in triumph.

French Farmer Held as Slayer Tries to Suicide

By JOSEPH R. DYNAN

DIGNE, France (AP) — Gaston Dominici, gnarled old mountain farmer who has confessed the triple slaying of an English family 13 months ago, tried to throw himself over a railroad bridge today during a re-enactment of the crime.

Police grabbed the bearded, 76-year-old farmer before he could carry out his apparent attempt at suicide.

Accused by two of his own sons, the old man was charged formally today with the slaying on Aug. 7, 1952, of British nutrition expert Sir Jack Drummond, 61, Lady Drummond and their 11-year-old daughter.

The Drummonds, holidaying in France, were slain at their road side camp site 200 yards from Dominici's stone farm house near here in southeastern France.

FINALLY CONFESSES

Police said the old man broke down and confessed the killings after his sons' accusations and 48 hours of police grilling.

Agence France-Press, in a new version of the farmer's alleged confession said he killed the Drummonds after Sir Jack surprised him in an attempt to rape Lady Drummond.

Earlier detective George Harzig had told a press conference Drummond caught the old man watching Lady Drummond undress.

Harzig gave this version:

The old man, out hunting, walked near the Drummond camp and saw Lady Drummond undressing. He went closer to spy on her. The woman saw or heard him and screamed, arousing her husband. The two men quarreled, traded blows, and Dominici fired, first at Sir Jack, then at his wife, killing them both.

CLUBS CHILD

Then the old man fired at the child, Elizabeth. The bullet only creased her and she ran screaming toward the nearby Durance river. Dominici chased her and she fell. As she begged for mercy, he clubbed her fatally with his rifle stock.

No Progress Made In Mine Strike Negotiations

TIMMINS (CP)—Further talks between union and Hollinger mine officials were held Saturday but no progress was reported in the settlement of the seven-week strike of the mine's 2,000 workers.

The session broke up with the negotiators agreeing to meet again today. Negotiations to break the deadlock first resumed last Tuesday.

The Hollinger mine is one of several in northern Ontario and northwestern Quebec closed by strikes. The wave of strikes has left 15,000 miners idle. They went out to back up demands for higher wages, checkoff of union dues and other benefits.

C. H. Millard, national director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) speaking Sunday night to a meeting of 1,200 persons in a Timmins theatre, said that bread and butter issues are the real stumbling blocks in Hollinger negotiations.

CHECKOFF A SMOKE SCREEN

Mr. Millard said the checkoff had been built up by the mining companies as a "smoke screen" to hide resistance to higher wages, shorter hours and other working conditions enjoyed by most Canadian workers.

He said the mine management here had been stripped of their bargaining power by the union's officials in Toronto.

Mr. Millard told the meeting that negotiations with Hollinger to date "appear far from promising."

"We must be prepared for a long strike," he added. "We must make it clear to the mine operators that we will not be starved into submission."

Turow Named President Of Intercounty Loop

KITCHENER (CP)—Tim Turow of Preston, Ont., was elected president of the Intercounty Baseball Association Saturday at the 34th annual meeting. He succeeds Otto Mauldin of Waterloo.

Other officers: Goldie Whitfield, St. Thomas, first vice-president; Charley Wagar, Brantford, second vice-president; Norm Parker, Waterloo, treasurer; executive members, Marv Aitchison, Don Held, Kitchener, Alex Potter, London, and Ernie Green, Galt.

Jack Blakney of Brantford resigned as secretary and appointment of a successor was left in the hands of the incoming executive.

His report showed that 67 clubs embracing 1,173 players were registered with the association in 1953. The treasurer reported receipts at $4,836.

CAUTION SUGGESTED

Frank Gleason, Toronto Maple Leafs' coach, cautioned the Intercounty League to stay away from pro ball.

The Intercounty league, a semi-pro outfit, has been considering making a franchise in organized baseball for several years.

Wednesday officials will interview a representative from the office of Frederick Hutchinson, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, seeking information in the matter.

Coleman told the gathering that the league would be welcome to join a minor circuit because of the proximity of Buffalo, which he predicted would have a major league franchise in the near future.

The Leafs' coach, who started his career in the Intercounty at London, also urged the minor club operators to halt the importing of high-priced U.S. imports and devote the money to hiring competent coaches with professional experience.

SIR GORDON STILL CHAMP

LONDON (AP) — Sir Gordon Richards, 49-year-old king of the saddle, became England's champion jockey for the 26th year Saturday.

He booted home 19 winners during the flat racing season which ended Saturday at the Manchester Back, and raised his total of winning mounts to 4,816, most of any jockey in the world.

Richards missed the 300 mark for the first time since the war but 1953 was one of his most memorable in 25 years of riding.

Queen Elizabeth made him a knight, with Titus he won the Derby for the first time in 38 attempts, and also took the valuable Ellor George VI and Queen Elizabeth stakes at Ascot with the same three-year-old colt.

Sir Victor Sassoon, owner of Titus, topped the owners list as his horse earned $164,078.

A left to the jaw by Gagnon dropped O'Berro to the canvas for the mandatory eight-count. A minute later, Gagnon landed a right to the jaw and O'Berro rose at the count of nine. Ten, one second before the bell, Gagnon knocked down O'Berro for the third time with a right and the referee halted the scheduled eight-round bout.

NEW RING CHAMP By Alan Mavor

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—It isn't quite time for the annual polls, but we would like to jump the gun somewhat and enter in the quote-of-the-year section the statement of Art Ehlers, new general manager of the Baltimore Orioles, that Marty Marion had a "defeatist attitude."

Ehlers made his prize observation in the course of explaining why he was not retaining Marion as manager of the transplanted Orioles, but was, instead, swarding the job to his pal, Jimmy Dykes. Marion had managed the team last season when it was called (among other things) the St. Louis Browns, and his contract still had a year to run.

There is no intention here of going to bat for Marion. Marty was the greatest shortstop we ever saw and there is no more likeable fellow in the game, but whether he is a good manager we have no way of knowing. Our only concern is with the expressed reason for sacking him.

Specifically, what sort of attitude did Ehlers expect Marty to project after he had spent a year managing what is generally conceded to be the worst collection of players in modern big league baseball, the American League cellar?

HARD LUCK

Did he expect the strugglebus to be honest with him, or was he looking for Marty to come in during a buck-and-wing and yelling "we'll get 'em next year, boss—all we had was a little hard luck." Anyone who knows Marion at all knows he isn't the type. He'll level with you, and he's apparently did with Ehlers.

If displaying a "defeatist attitude" means that Marion declined to paint a rosy picture but insisted instead upon telling the new owners that they had better get themselves some baseball players quick, then we submit that he did credit to himself and extended a great favor to the Orioles.

Actually, though Ehlers might not have received specific instructions, the new owners never did regard Marion as the type of manager they needed. It was common knowledge in baseball circles that they preferred to pay him off, so Marty must have known when he left that his chances of keeping the job were virtually non-existent. It serves no purpose to pin the "defeatist" tag on a fellow who was going to get it in the neck, anyway.

Windsor Meets Saskatoon For Jr. Grid Title

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Windsor AKO and Saskatoon Hilltops will carry the banners of the East and West when they clash Saturday for the Canadian junior football championship.

They'll tangle in Saskatoon and Windsor will be fighting to defend the title they won Edmonton last season.

The AKO won the Eastern crown at Windsor Saturday by whipping Verdun Sham-cats 26-11 on a great running and passing offensive. At Saskatoon the same day, quarterback Bob Adam spearheaded the Hilltops to the Western title with a brilliant individual performance as they drubbed Vancouver Blue Bombers 50-6.

A crowd of 4,000 saw Windsor take a 12-0 lead in the first quarter over the Sham-cats and then go on to score their 10th straight win without defeat. Most of them booted in their regular Ontario Rugby Football Union schedule.

Halfback Bob Brisbin scored two touchdowns, one of them on a 99-yard romp off a kick-off, and three singles. Flying Wing Jack Forrest and end Pete Murphy tallied one each for Windsor. Dave booted converts on three of the four majors.

End Dermot Murphy and half Eddie Simms went over for Ibbors for the Sham-cats and Harry Haukkala converted one of them.

Blue Bombers Defeat Edmonton Eskimos 30-24 For Western Grid Title

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

AT LAST!

It was a tough week-end on unbeaten, untied teams. No less than four United States college elevens, which had yet to taste the dregs of a setback, bit the dust while in the city the hitherto undefeated Albert College senior "B" gridders ran into a tough snag up in Grimsby in quest of their second consecutive OBSAA title. The gold and black went up against a smart team that knew all the answers and emerged on the short end of a 40-0 score. The Grimsby victory ended Albert's winning streak of eighteen games and rang down the curtain on the 1952 football picture.

Along senior "B" hockey trails, the hitherto invincible Quinte Truckmen with string of five straight victories to their credit, finally met defeat. And it came at the hands of the Belleville Memos, who shocked and thrilled nearly 1,000 spectators at the Bowmanville Arena Saturday night when they edged the Truckmen 4-3 after a close, hard-fought battle.

And according to reports from the scene, the Memos were 100 per cent. value for their win. They were minus the services of Keith MacDonald, who was injured in the Peter' game and shortly after the beginning of hostilities had dealt Semark for the rest of the battle when he received a painful gash in the face.

The Memos picked up where they left off after their spectacular exhibition against the Peten and again came up with a collective outstanding performance. They held the Truckmen in a one-all score in the first period, overcame a 3-1 deficit in the second to make it four-all going into the third and then outskated the Truckmen 5-1 in the last bout to skate off with the nod.

It was another battle of the goalies with both Les Colvin of the Truckmen and Rolly Sarault of the Memos, standing out with brilliant efforts. Sarault was exceptionally good in the third stanza when the desperate Truckmen, with defeat staring them in the face, tossed all they had at the Memos in an effort to snatch the game out of the fire.

The victory in Bowmanville Saturday night has caused other teams in the loop to "sit up and take notice". They all had a "whack" at the Truckmen and all had failed. Apparently the manager of the Oshawa crew meant what he said when he uttered "The toughest team we have met yet," after the Truckmen had edged Gar side 4-3 in an overtime battle on the occasion of their first meeting.

Coach "Ted" Doran has the crew rounding into shape after the slow start and checks at the start of the season, and the Memos' two victories last week over the Peten and the Truckmen establish them as being on a par with the best in the group. At least they did what no other outfit has been able to do thus far and that is to make the Truckmen say "uncle."

They meet the Kingston Goodyears in Kingston Wednesday night and that should be a dilly of a battle. The Goodies took the measure of the Orillia Pontiacs 11-7 Saturday night to vault into second place over the Petes. A win for the Memos Wednesday will give them a second place tie with the Kingston crew.

Incidentally, the OHA at a sub-committee meeting Friday night, refused the transfer of Bruno Francis, Orillia playing coach, who was slated for the Owen Sound Mercurians. The Pontiacs put a $500 bid on Favero but the Mercurians "Nix" and took it to the OHA. Now Favero will be back with his old buddies and he should strengthen the Pontiacs no end.

R.I.P.

Sportdom in general and softball in particular noted with sincere regret the passing of Dick Cornell, well known figure of Queen Victoria School and the Alemite Field. Dick was caretaker of the athletic field and his efforts in assisting softball and taking care of the kiddies will not soon be forgotten. His familiar figure and mannerisms around the Alemite Field were part and parcel of softball games. Rest peacefully, old comrade.

A THRILLER!

From the way the family five-tube was dancing on the table Saturday night, the Grey Cup final will be a mere anti-climax. It was all the danged radio could do to keep up with the thrills and spine-tingles that emanated from the Blue Bomber-Edmonton Eskimos terrific tussle. First one, then t'other took the lead, but finally Jake Jacob's trusty pitching arm came through and with Tom Casey doing a ball-clutched 100 in nothing flat, the Bombers ripped through with a 30-24 victory to cop the title. Frank Merriwell backed into the times medieval. During the last hectic quarter, the boys in the back room forgot the beakers. They budged over the living room to the spectators' convention and when Case scooted down the side lines in that last triumphant charge, the "Peg" supporters of the crowd let out a yowp than jangled the windows in the Corbyville town hall. Meanwhile down east, the Larks trilled a sweet victory song over the Toronto Argos while the Ti-Cats clawed out a neat victory over the Ottawans. From here it looks like Ti-Cats and the Bombers for the big classic, but Edmonton fans, who witnessed the Bombers-Takys battle should not worry about winning the G.C. cup. It is doubtful if a more thrilling, more spectacular game of football will ever be played on a Canadian gridiron.

Jacobs' Sensational Effort Swings Pendulum of Victory In Thrilling Uphill Battle

By GRAHAM TROTTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—Poker-faced Indian Jack Jacobs, a defensive standout whose passing magic was supposed to have left him after an in-and-out four-year career with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, has silenced his critics.

The tall Oklahoman did it Saturday night in a 25-minute second-half performance that gave Bombers an uphill 30-24 victory over Edmonton Eskimos and their first Western Interprovincial Football Conference title since 1950. It was a tremendous comeback show that will rank as one of the most dazzling in WIFU history.

WAS FANS DUMBFOUNDED

Galled into the breach in the third quarter, Bombers trailing 17-6, the 26-year-old Jacobs threw—the16,000 fans with a piece of wizardry that banished him as the best passer in the Western Conference.

He sprang 22 plays between the time he took over and the breathtaking drive ended. Which assured victory on a pass interception and Edmonton's Sandhogs run. All but two of those plays were passes.

In that brief period Jacobs threw 20 of Winnipeg's 28 passes, made 14 of their 16 completions and accounted for 228 of their 296 yards gained through the air. All this produced three converted touchdowns on passes alone, for half of Bombers' point total.

BLOW TO PRESTIGE

While the 195-pound Jacobs revelled in his other fall-time Hiawatha role, many thought the crowning blow to his prestige was a fault in the opener of the final series when coach George Trafton had him handle the ball at quarter to take off plays called by Joe Zaleski.

Zaleski did the calling through the first two games of the series and most of Saturday's deciding contest. But when Bombers got desperate early in the third quarter, Jacobs was turned loose.

The turning point of the game arrived with two minutes to go and the score tied 24-24 after Bombers had closed a 12-point gap in the last quarter. Quarter Claude Arnold passed Kellow Beckett down from their 30 to the Winnipeg 21. Dave Skrien intercepted an Arnold pass on the Winnipeg 10. At the Edmonton 40 Jacobs hit Bombs veteran Negro Tom Casey and the 170-pound half romped for the game-winning score.

EDMONTON STAR

All-star half Rollie Miles, an offensive star all night, took Arnold pass for one touchdown and passed to end Tom Hollandaka for another, besides helping to account for almost two-thirds of Edmonton's 469 yards rushing and passing. Halfback Billy Vessels from Oklahoma, 21 pounds underweight after a serious back injury, and fullback Norm Wood accounted Edmonton's other two majors on running plays.

Tackle Shuber Snyder of Edmonton and Bud Korchak of Bombers converted the game's touchdowns.

Bombers now meet Toronto Balmy Beach, Ontario Rugby Football Union champions, in a sudden-death Grey Cup semi-final game in Winnipeg Saturday.

Bombers' triumph before a sellout 16,000-crowd at Clarke Stadium was the highlight of a week-end that decided the fate of the favored Ottawa Rough Riders in the Big Four, Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in the ORFU and Queen's Golden Gaels in the Intercollegiate Union. All were shunted to the sidelines for the season.

The wake for the Riders was held at Hamilton where the underrated Tigers whipped them 15-5 and advanced into the Big Four final for the second straight year. Ottawa's loss, coupled with an easy 27-6 Montreal victory over Argonauts at Toronto, scuttled Riders' playoff hopes and sent Terry-Cats and Alouettes into the four-game final.

The Dutchmen carried a three-point lead into Toronto Sunday for the second game of their home-and-home total-point ORFU final and lost 36-12 before a 7,000 crowd. The largest of the season in the league. On the round, it was Dutchies 61, Kitchener 21.

BLUES ON TOP

The Gaels, fighting for a college playoff berth, posted a 6-4 decision to University of Toronto Blues at Kingston while University of Western Ontario Mustangs were upset 15-13 by McGill Redmen at London. The Gaels closed out the regular college schedule with first place on top with 10 points, two up on Mustangs and four ahead of the Gaels.

Rough Riders failed to get untracked at Hamilton and trailed 15-0 before the final quarter. It may have been a different story had Ottawa's Jim Simpson of Riders gave Tiger-Cats a second-quarter touchdown when he fumbled on the Hamilton 1-yard line and Don Beatty of the Cats picked it up on the first bounce.

KROL FETED

They celebrated "Joe Krol Day" at Toronto to honor the veteran Argonaut player's retirement after a 10-year career with the club. The half-time gift-giving ceremony was the only thing Argonaut fans had to cheer about. The Als and the Scullers around and built up a 12-0 lead at the half.

Toronto's last-place finish on a 2-8 record is the poorest in Argo history since coach Frank Clair took over in 1952. The 1952 Grey Cup champions now have the doubtful honor of job for 1954.

The ORFU title was Beaches' 20th since 1924.

Quarter Bob Schneidenbach and halfback Dick Gregory, both imports, paced the Beach offensive. Schneidenbach scored a touchdown and passed to Harvey Singleton for another; Gregory kicked two field goals and three converts. Al Chard got the other Beach major.

Playing coach Kenny Preston, let loose by Beaches this year, scored one Kitchener touchdown and pass Mancos went over for the other. Stu Thompson kicked a convert and scored a touchdown.

American Hockey League Race Tightens Up

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The American Hockey League race tightened up during the week-end although Buffalo Bisons continue to show the way.

The Bisons picked up two points, downing the last-place Syracuse Warriors 3-2 Saturday night.

Providence Reds defeated the Warriors 5-2 Sunday to move into a four-way tie for second place with Cleveland Barons, Hershey Bears and Pittsburgh Hornets.

At Providence Sunday, with the score tied 3-3, the Reds scored two goals within 14 seconds late in the second period and added another in the finale.

Pete Kapuzia, Chuck Schiera, Zellio Toppazzini, Al Baccari and Paul Larivee scored for the winners and Leo Curtick and Rocky Hogg scored for the Warriors.

At Cleveland Saturday, the Barons scored three times in the third period to defeat Pittsburgh 4-3 while Hershey Topazzini scored twice in slightly more than a minute to give Hershey a 3-1 decision over Hershey.

Married 'Gag' Worked for Joe

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Former heavyweight champion Joe Louis says all that talk about him being married was just talk.

It was part of a ruse, Joe said Sunday, to help him and a lady friend get two choice seats for the Kid Gavilin-Johnny Bratton welterweight title bout in Chicago Friday night.

Louis said he telephoned Truman Gibson, the Chicago store manager of the International Boxing Club, and asked for two fight tickets—for them. "For my wife."

The gag worked. Louis and Greta Starks of Detroit watched the fight from the third row.

Louis was in Buffalo visiting friends.

Memos Hand Oshawa Truckmen First Defeat Of Season With 6-5 Win

Score Brace in Third Period After Teams Tie 4-All in Two To Notch 2nd Straight Victory

BOWMANVILLE — The Belleville Memos, matching their powerful opponents stride for stride, thrust back the Oshawa Truckmen's bid for their sixth straight victory here Saturday night, edging the group-leading Motor City crew by a 6-5 score.

The win for the Memos was the first for the Trenton crosstown rivals and the second consecutive victory for the upsurging Belleville crew. The Memos strengthened their hold on fourth place in the group standings.

The teams battled to a one-all stalemate in the first period with each scoring a tide in the second. The Memos forged ahead with two goals in the third best with Oshawa cutting the margin to one with three minutes to go. The Memos stayed off a desperate Oshawa offensive in the dying minutes with Rolly Sarault, in the nets, coming up with a sensational effort.

DREW MISCONDUCT.

The officials handed out some fifteen penalties to the hard-skating hard-hitting teams with the Memos drawing eight. Playing coach Cecil Dickens of the Truckmen drew a misconduct after twelve minutes of play in the third period. The penalty was rather too long and too forcibly over the stick for Referee Ken Holmstead claiming the Oshawa forward was in the crease. The arbiter didn't see it that way and the goal was disallowed, leaving the count 5-4.

Samolenko drove in a waist high blueline shot with three minutes to go to put the Memos one goal in the clear and the Truckmen threw all their offensive power at the Memos in an effort to knot the game from the fire. Les Colvin, Truckmen goalie, was yanked from the nets and Truckmen Gerry Moore defence hurled back all efforts to score.

Elwin Duncan skated out from the penalty box after six minutes of play in the first period to pick up a loose puck at centre ice and deked in the first goal of the game on a pretty effort.

Play was fast and ripped from end to end with Oshawa and the group's top scorer, evened the count at the twelve minute mark on a close in play with Berwick. The Memos aimed four times and the Truckmen three in the period but no damage was done.

SCORE TWO QUICKIES.

The Truckmen struck back fast in the second period to add a hopper nothing his second goal of the game on a lightning-like thrust with Sloden and Berwick. Yourth gave the Memos a 3-1 lead a minute later when he drove in with Berwick and McBeth to give Sarault no chance.

The Memos stung by the setback gained back into the contest and Goyer cut the lead on a pass from Davy Jones. Midway through the period Elwin Duncan tobbed a clearing shot from McBeth into the net behind a surprised Colvin to knot the count at three-all. Taylor came up with a picture goal when he took Scott Doran's pass to zip around the Truckmen defence and flip the puck over a prostrate Colvin. Dickens got that one back seconds later on a neat three-way play with Samolenko and Jago.

Duke Horne spearheaded the Memos offensive with four minutes of play in the third period driving home his work with assists by Vern Goyer and Erwin Duncan. Wardhaugh tip-toed in a flying puck eight minutes later and that started the verbal rhubarb with Dickens getting the gate. Samolenko whistled the lead to none and the Memos staged their desperate but ineffective offensive.

TWINS TWINKLE.

Elwin Duncan scored a pair for the winners with Goyer getting one and one, and Taylor, Duke Doran and Wardhaugh scoring the rest. Frank Hooper was the Truckmen chief sniper with a brace, with Dickens and Samolenko got the others. Berwick was crediting with three assists.

The Memos will be invite down when eight miles out of Bellevile, and they were forced to wait for another. They arrived at game time, but Semarz was painfully injured in the early minutes of the game and did not return. Keith MacDonald was sidelined with an ankle injury, but Davy Jones came through with a fine pinch-hitting effort.

KERRY BLUES WIN

TORONTO (CP)—St. Michael's Kerry Blues won the Ontario Catholic Athletic Conference Senior A football championship Sunday for the fourth successive season by defeating St. Jerome's College of Kitchener 29-16 in a sudden-death final.

Tony Roman and Jack Fenn both scored two touchdowns for St. Mike's.

Bernie Fritz went over for three touchdowns for St. Jerome's, one of them on a 90-yard runback of a kickoff.

Lakeshore Blanks Petes Orfuns For East. Title

MONTREAL (CP) — Lakeshore Flyers defeated Hanlan's Peterborough Orfuns 21-6 to win the eastern Ontario intermediate football championship and the right to meet Fort William in a total-to-death Dunlop championship final here next Saturday.

Halfback Wilf O'Hagan was the Flyers star, scoring two majors and gaining most of their ground. Kevin O'Neill's convert completed the Flyers' scoring.

Lakeshore's powerful line-plays made the difference as they outcharged the Orfuns' forward wall and broke up many of their plays before they were started. Lakeshore ough threatened only once when they advanced in the first quarter to the Lakeshore five-yard line on a series of line plunges, only to lose the ball on downs.

ORFUNS FUMBLE

Flyers recovered a Peterborough fumble deep in the Orfuns' zone to set up their first-quarter major. Don McDonald cut off tackle to the Orfuns' 15 and Jim Stanfield and Ron Lee added 10 yards on line plunges. Then two fifty-pounders, O'Hagan went around end behind some expert blocking and landed a diving pass from Joe Stirbucks.

Minor Hockey

The bantam section in the minor hockey leagues got under way at the arena on Saturday morning with the Canadians, led by Ron Keller, downing the Rangers 3-1. Frank Chick scored the first goal of the young season to give the Rangers a one goal lead, but Keller got that one back and also fired what proved to be the winner a short time later. Ronnie Hall put the game on ice with an insurance markey before the bell singing the end of the game.

The Maple Leafs came up with a powerful scoring line consisting of John Brennan, Earle MacDonald and S. Boulder. Each claimed a goal as the Leafs scored a 3-1 victory over the Red Wings. Boulder also had a pair of assists while his linemates had one each. R. Plane netted the lone Wing marker.

In the final game of the morning Gary Rowbottom had the hat trick for the Black Hawks as they romped over the Bruins 4-1. Rowbottom sent the Hawks into the lead with the opening goal and notched his second after DeCarlo had scored for the Bruins. Gary Lewis sank the winners third goal and Rowbottom completed the scoring near the end of the game. Lewis and Murphy had assists.

A squeeze shows no mercy on opponents. It forces them to give up cards that looked as if they must be able to take tricks. This operation is seen better when each hand is down to three cards. South was declarer at a contract of six spades. He gave up the first trick and then took the next nine tricks. This left each hand with three cards.

You see the remaining cards here:

♠ None
NORTH

♣ A 5

WEST

♣ 3

At this particular moment the south hand of declarer is on lead. He has left a spade trump, a suit in which the other three hands have none. He simply leads this last trump and waits for West to play.

The card to be thrown from dummy will depend on what suit West flings. In such a situation the dummy becomes a combining threat. The main thing is to have dummy fire from a suit that never hangs onto.

If west gives up the heart jack, dummy lets go of his small club. This makes dummy's ten of hearts as big as an ace for taking a trick. This and club ace will take the two last tricks.

Seeing the threatening heart ten in dummy, west will hold onto his heart jack. So, west chucks away his club ten and hopes that the east hand can protect that suit for their pals. With west holding heart jack the dummy heart ten is now useless. So, dummy casts heart ten in order to retain clubs. This is now the suit that will dominate the final throes of battle.

Now it is the turn of east to play on the third last trick that started with the south last trump. East has two clubs and a diamond, top. Which will he abandon in this ending?

If he sheds a club, both dummy clubs are good. If he discards his diamond king, the south diamond deuce is as good as any ace you ever saw. Club ace is all that is at the windup. I surrender, dear.

AT THE McCARTHY—Evelyn Keyes is cast in the starring role of Joel McCrea's wife in the suspense drama "Shoot First" starting today at the Odeon, McCarthy Theatre, the added feature is "The Titfield Thunderbolt" featuring Stanley Holloway and George Relph.

AT THE BELLE—Gun-slinging stranger Alan Ladd, is befriended by a young farm boy, Brandon De Wilde, in George Stevens Paramount production "Shane", now entertaining large crowds at the Belle Theatre. Filmed in color by Technicolor, this epic western stars Van Heflin and Jean Arthur with Jack Palance and young Brandon De Wilde in featured roles. A funny Popeye color cartoon is an added attraction.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Happy birthday to Hollywood. It's officially 50 years old today.

Fifty years ago the voters—all 185 of them—streamed to the polls to vote on whether the city of Hollywood, Calif., should be incorporated. On Nov. 18, 1903, the votes were counted. Incorporation had won, 86 to 71.

This month Hollywood is celebrating its golden anniversary with a historical exhibit, banquets and special TV shows. Hollywood's only daily newspaper, the Citizen-News, put out a special edition for the event, filled with interesting notes about the town's history.

Hollywood's incorporation didn't last long. In 1910, citizens voted to annex Hollywood to Los Angeles. The principal reason was that Hollywood couldn't provide adequate sewers and water for itself.

The first movie studio was established in the Blondeau Tavern (now the site of CBS) in 1910. Within three months there were 15 other film companies in the area.

FIRST TV STATION

The first TV station in the United States was Don Lee's experimental WYXAO, which went on the air in Hollywood Dec. 23, 1931. Among the flgts recorded by the station: First reception of TV in an airplane, 1932; first full-length movie on TV, 1933; first coverage of a disaster—the Long Beach earthquake of 1933.

In September, 1933, 36 "teasers" met in a store room which was the beginning of Hollywood High School. Among the school's distinguished alumni were Lana Turner, Joel McCrea, Judy Garland, John Wayne, Carole Lombard.

REPORT ON PUBS

LONDON (AP)—The British government's "annual abstract of statistics," published Sunday, says this country has 62,000 pubs. Last year these pubs sold about nine gallons of beer a head to the 50,000,000 population.

CATTLE FEED

Oil-cakes used for cattle feed in Britain are made mostly of linseed, cotton seed or soy beans.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your method is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, NOV. 11, 1952

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — There may be a tendency to calculate minor incidents or reverses into major problems. Don't. Take things with some optimism. You may be right but don't be too out spoken or opinionated.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Stars denote a period of caution in most business and personal matters. Everyone, everything has a vulnerable spot; find yours before someone else does.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Don't blame all reverses on others. Check when you could have helped where you erred. Many successes have followed reverses after one has corrected his own mistakes.

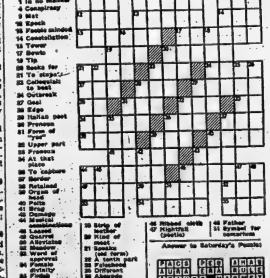
June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Curb unruly emotions; state calm, agreeably persuasive as possible during this uncertain period. Eagerness to co-operate won't harm your advancement, can make good friends instead.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Be particularly cautious about transactions where immediate monetary returns are expected. However long-term matters can show some fine gains. Individual initiative favored.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Work at your natural charms, display that kindly smile and you will get better results. Think twice before acting. Protect valuables.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Your planet is mildly in auspicious aspect. Extra effort, smart thinking needed today. Take pains in subtle matters, shipping, handling chemicals, oil, in mining products.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—You may find the first few hours befuddling if you are over-ambitious or over-aggressive. Take it easy if you would avoid stress, upsets. Stick to firm, honest resolutions.



November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Sound discretion, which is one of your innate qualities in both heart and business affairs, will keep you in favor with others and help you to accomplish plenty now. Be ever hopeful.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Plan carefully, within your budget, safeguard your principles and personal affairs. Distinguish carefully, between right and wrong.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Some irritating conditions, so be alert; awaken to better means of methods. Stabilize plans, know what you are about; don't rely on second-guessing.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Avoid getting involved deliberately in others affairs. Take the straight and sure path, and do not rely on hit-or-miss methods. Avoid speculative persons, propositions.

YOU BORN TODAY are a natural leader, possess a lot of strength and talent, and are always seeking to better yourself. You can handle routine positions, do best in harmonious surroundings. Be tolerant, considerate, especially when you have the upper hand. You are ambitious, full of ideas, wit; can visualize possibilities quickly. Seldom do you deliberately hurt others or are you unfair. Don't worry or lack confidence; you can make grades easily. Birthdate of: George Grote, English historian, author of "History of Greece," etc.

Testifying in Washington, D.C. Harry Vaughan told a senate investigating committee that all military aids for former President Harry S. Truman, "always have gone" Truman all reports marked for the chief executive's attention. Vaughan said he had "no recollection" of any FBI reports dealing with the alleged espionage activities of the late Harry Dexter White but he did say that such reports might have crossed his desk and asked about a memo on White. Vaughan said he couldn't remember that one either. But he said that if Attorney General Herbert Brownell said such reports came to him he would "act" upon the statement. The general was called by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee in its probe of Brownell's charge that an FBI report handing White a Russian post had been sent to the White House at the time Truman was in office and that Truman had promoted White in spite of these charges.—Central Press Canadian.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

Unrecognizable

Seldom does the amateur bird watcher find identification really easy, and after the summer moult even more complications arise. We are perplexed by the difficulty of telling the sexes, or certain peculiarities belonging to a few of the species.

Males and females of many kinds of birds are quite different in coloring. The female scarlet tanager is green and the indigo bunting's mate is brown. The male Mallard is conspicuous with his green head and light body; his wife is a speckled brown. Even the robins are not identical, as his breast colors are considerably brighter than hers.

Young birds of both sexes often resemble their mothers rather than their fathers; little orangeriers have red heads, not green. Again, some young are smiths either parent; juvenile starlings are grey brown rather than iridescent black, and owl babies are pure white. Occasionally little boys look somewhat like fathers and little girls like their mothers, as is the case with robins, but even then there is a point of difference between the ages, for young robins have speckled breasts.

If you are accustomed to see the male bobolink only in springtime, you will never recognize him in his autumn costume, his attractive yellow, black, white feathers have disappeared, and with them his individuality. Now he is rather like his wife. The gorgeous rose-breasted grosbeak, whom we know in his breeding plumage of black and white with rose patches, has changed to a somewhat sparrowlike costume. However, he has kept his same wing and tail feathers, and his rose breast and black throat have merged so that they are both rose with black flecks.

The male Oriole's first breeding plumage is less brilliant than when he is two, three, or four years old. Experts can tell the age of a male purple finch because of the degree of brightness.

A male redstart takes several years to acquire his striking black and flame-costume that we know so well. At the time of their first breeding season it is difficult to distinguish them from adult females. All nesting Gulls are dusky brown for the first year, the next year they are whiter, with dark tail feathers. Adults have grey mantles and black tips to their wings.

Birds are found to have a light and a dark phase, or are either red-dish or greyish, as Screech Owls may be, we conclude that the repetition of birds is truly difficult.

SAFETY MARK

Divers in Venezuelan pearl fisheries are restricted to 65 feet and llama-costumes that we know depth, although the beds extend to 120 feet.

WOMAN KILLED, 3 INJURED NEAR PICTON

Retained White To Assist FBI Truman States

Took Only Course Possible To Aid Probe of Subversives

By CLARENCE A. JOHNSON

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Harry S. Truman's reply to the now-famed Harry Dexter White case was summed up well today.

He knew the high United States government official had been accused of disloyalty, but decided to retain him in order not to endanger an intensive investigation of subversives both in and out of the government service.

It was the former president's answer before a nationwide radio and TV audience Monday night to the charges stemming from a speech 11 days ago by Attorney-General Herbert Brownell who said the late Harry Dexter White had been retained in an important post "though he was known to be not a Communist spy by the very people who appointed him."

Truman, large and confident, made a step-by-step summary of the White case, and reviewed and followed it by blasting Brownell's charges as "phony," "false" and "shameful scaregovery."

Crisply and scornfully, Truman said that when he appointed Harry White was known to be a Communist by those who appointed him, the attorney-general "lied in the American people."

"In backing away from his charge with the measly-mouthed statement that he had no intention of impugning the loyalty of any high official of the prior administration, he lied to the American people again."

POLITICAL PROSTITUTION

"The manner and timing of what has been done makes it clear that the purpose of the new administration have been prostituted for hopes of political gain. No attempt to cover so much."

Truman's first answer to Brownell's charges was that the Republicans were "desperate" because of their recent defeats in elections in New York and New Jersey.

At one point in his speech, he lashed out with this:

"It is now evident that the present administration has fully embraced, for political purposes, McCarthyism. I am not referring to the Senator for Wisconsin, he is only important in that his name has taken on a dictionary meaning in the world."

As to his action he took in the White case, he said, he wanted the "American people to understand that the course we took protected the public interest and security and, at the same time, permitted the intensive FBI investigation then in progress to go forward. No other course could have served both purposes."

WHITE REPORT

At best he could determine, an FBI report on the espionage-abetting activities of Harry Dexter White was brought to his attention by Brownell in February, 1946. It was delivered to him by Brig.-Gen. Harry Vaughan, then military aide, and also "brought to my personal attention by Secretary of State Byrnes."

LIBERAL POLICY IS SOCIALISM IN TOP HAT—DREW

CPA Licence Denial Assailed in Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Drew says Liberal government policy is "socialism in a silk hat."

Prime Minister St. Laurent says the government isn't wearing any such headgear.

The exchanges to the hat highlighted an argument between the two leaders in the Commons Monday as the throne speech debate moved into its second week-long run.

Mr. Drew said last week's cabinet decision denying Canadian Pacific Airlines permission to fly Vancouver-Montreal cargo service indicated a policy "which means the end of free competition where the government has entered any field."

Mr. St. Laurent replied that the government believes in competition "when competition is apt to provide what it normally provides a stimulus to better service."

The cabinet had decided, he said, that the government-owned Trans-Canada Air Lines was carrying efficiently all air cargo available and would be able to handle any increase in the foreseeable future.

SOCIALISTIC TOPPER

Mr. Drew said: "The policies being followed by this government and now enunciated so clearly do constitute socialist doctrine. This is socialism in a silk hat."

Express Angry Britain Ignored At Defence Talks

LONDON (CP)—The Daily Express reacted angrily today to Britain's exclusion from last week's defence talks between Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill and President Eisenhower of United States.

The right-wing newspaper, a constant booster of Commonwealth unity, said editorially:

"What would be the response of the Commonwealth if Moscow threatened with war? No one in this country has ever consulted all the resources of the land would be at once thrown into the conflict.

"In those circumstances you would automatically be a member of Canada would automatically be a matter for consultation with Britain."

Polio Vaccine Will Be Given To One Million School Children

NEW YORK (AP)—A hope-laden polio vaccine—most of it to be made in Toronto—will be given to probably 1,000,000 American school children next spring, it was learned in an effort to learn whether polio has been conquered.

Official details of a unique country-wide medical test were announced Monday by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The children will have three successive shots of 0.1 cubic centimeter of killed polio virus, triple tested for safety. Most of the virus will be made in Toronto—chiefly at the University of Toronto's Connaught laboratories.

The vaccine will be produced by Dr. Jonas E. Salk of the University of Pittsburgh. It will be given to second-graders in some 200 counties—none officially named as yet—across the United States.

What happens to these youngsters during next summer's natural exposure to polio is expected to tell whether the vaccine is a success. Their polio rate will be compared with unvaccinated children in the same areas and third graders in those same counties.

The answer won't be known until some time in late 1954, when the scientific check-ups have been completed, says Basil O'Connor, the foundation president.

If the vaccine does really protect, then large amounts can be made available for children of all ages in 1954.

Those selected for the test will be areas which have had high polio rates in the past five years, especially among young children, and which give a good cross-section of the U. S. geographically, economically and socially.

Vaccinations will be confined to children in the second grade because youngsters of that age—6 to eight—have the second highest incidence of polio among all age groups.

County health officers will direct the vaccinations, given at school clinics. Parents must give written consent.

All vaccinations must be completed by June 1, before the new polio season starts. The first two doses will be given a week apart, with a third booster dose injected four weeks later.

H. P. M. CANE, chairman of Men's Division of Hospital Building Fund.

FRANK DOMENICO, chairman of Special Men's Committee of Fund.

H.P.M. Cane and F. Domenico Direct Canvassing of Men's Division for Hospital Fund

H. P. M. Cane, has been named chairman of the Men's Division of the Hospital Building Fund and F. Domenico has been appointed chairman of the Special Men's Committee, it was announced today by E. P. Bernstein, chairman of the Belleville Executive Committee.

Mr. Cane said that every advance canvassing in the men's division has been under way for some time and should be cleaned up prior to the opening of the public intensive phase of the campaign which begins next Tuesday.

"The overall objective of the men's division is $180,000", Mr. Cane said. "The division is divided into four committees; special men, which is responsible for the solicitation of key individual men in Belleville, has an objective of $50,000; the doctors' committee, which is responsible for soliciting the medical staff at the hospital, has an objective of $20,000; the professional committee, which is responsible for the solicitation of individuals in professional fields, has an objective of $30,000; the general men's committee, which is responsible for the solicitation of approximately 900 other individual men in Belleville has an objective of $25,000;

Mr. Cane said that reports to date indicate that generally men on all income levels are responding generously to provide this desperately needed hospital expansion. "It is the responsibility of each of us to realize this urgent need. We will not be called upon again for the foreseeable future at least and without the participation of everyone the public objective of $600,000 can not be obtained."

In accepting his appointment Mr. Domenico said that most large gifts to date have been pledged over a three to five year period. It is important that this pledge period be changed, for only the amount of money required can be raised only on this basis. Canvasing of Special Men prospects has now been under way for some time and it is expected that this canvass will be completed by November 24."

Confession in Greenlease Kidnap-Slaying Shocks Jurors

By AL DOPKING

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The United States government today pressed its demand for the death penalty for the kidnap slayers of Bobby Greenlease as their trial moved into its second day.

Monday, 41-year-old Bonnie Heady, once a respectable housewife who turned drunkard, told of how Carl Austin Hall, dope addict and sex pervert, shot the six-year-old boy soon after his abduction.

NO SEAT FOR U. K.

Mrs. Heady's confession shocked jurors, many of them in front seat in the crowded courtroom.

Only a short time before, he had been in the witness chair to identify Bobby's photograph and some of the belongings he had with him the day of the kidnapping. He swallowed hard. Sometimes it was hard to look at.

It was the first time the public had heard the full story of the confession.

Federal district attorney Edward Scheufler, in his opening statement for the government, had described the death penalty for both Hall and the woman "because of the nature of the crime."

Hall and Mrs. Heady pleaded guilty at their arraignment and Scheufler told the jury of 12, all business men, that their sole job is to determine whether the couple should pay the supreme penalty. Under the federal statute, a kidnap law a jury must recommend the death sentence before it can be imposed.

Counsel for Hall and Mrs. Heady said they reserved the right to make insanity pleas.

Roy Dietrich, court - appointed lawyer for Hall, and Harold Hull, appointed for Mrs. Heady, said the defendants would not be placed on the stand.

Mrs. Heady's confession told how Hall shot the boy when he found a cord he had planned to use to strangle him was too short and how the two couple earlier had been frustrated in an attempt to abduct the boy's 11-year-old sister, Virginia Sue.

Mrs. Heady appeared almost calm as Scheufler read the confession. Only once in the 44 minutes it took to read it did she appear affected. That was when Scheufler reached the point where she told how she drank herself almost into insensibility following the kidnap-slaying Sept. 28.

"I wanted to stay drunk so that my conscience wouldn't bother me," the confession read.

The confession related how Bobby, abducted by Mrs. Heady from a private school on the ruse that she was his aunt, accompanied her and Hall willingly to a wooded area the state line into Kansas, where Hall and Mrs. Heady chose to kill the boy.

Bobby had noticed some hedge balls—apparently like horse-chestnut burrs—and had mentioned them to Mrs. Heady.

The boy had stopped Mrs. Heady's station wagon he spread a plastic cloth on the ground in preparation for Bobby's slaying.

Mrs. Heady's confession said she then walked about 75 or 100 feet when she heard two shots.

"I knew Carl had had actually killed the victim by shooting him twice behind the station wagon.

"As I approached the station wagon, Carl was wrapping Bobby in a piece of blue plastic on the ground behind the station wagon.

"I noticed that Carl had blood on his face, coat, hands and shirt. He helped me take off his coat which we folded inside out and placed in the back of the station wagon and then Carl rolled up the sleeves of his shirt because they also were covered with blood.

I recall asking Carl at that point why he had shot the victim and he told me he tried to strangle Bobby with the cord he had cut and since the boy started to struggle he had to shoot him to dispose of him by shooting."

The confession went on to tell how the couple stopped at a tavern for some drinks on the way to Mrs. Heady's St. Joseph, Mo., home where a grave had been dug for the body the day before.

Mrs. Heady said the couple finally decided the day before the kidnapping to kill Bobby had to be killed to shield them from positive identification.

SOFTEN STAND ON NEUTRALS AT CONFERENCE

Will Accept Neutrals Under Same Conditions

By SAM SUMMERLIN

PANMUNJOM (AP) — United States envoy Arthur Dean today told the Communists that the United States would be willing to invite neutral powers to the Korean peace conference under certain conditions, a sharp reversal of his earlier stand.

At the same time, Dean rejected as "totally unacceptable" a Communist proposal to hold the conference at Panmunjom, with Russia, India, Burma, Indonesia and Pakistan attending as non-voting observers.

The United Nations delegate to preliminary peace talks told the Reds the U. S. would ask its allies to accept neutrals to the full-dress conference if:

1. The neutral nations reach agreement on the Korean question and want to move on to broad Asian questions.

2. The conference bogs down and the prospects for an Korean problems is impossible.

PROPOSALS COMPLICATED

Dean said the Communist proposals were complicated, and negotiators said they would study them overnight. Answers are expected when the talks resume Wednesday.

Meanwhile, Communist interviews with Chinese and Korean war prisoners who refused to go home were called off again today when the Reds called for POWs assigned by persuaders Monday.

And the neutral nations repatriation commission called off interviews for Wednesday when the Reds did not give a request for prisoners from a new compound by the 10 a. m. deadline.

PEACE PROPOSAL

UN and Communist proposals for setting up the Korean peace conference came after three weeks of manoeuvring, and Dean told correspondents afterward: "This is going to be a long horse trade."

Textile Workers Ask Restrictions Upon Imports

OTTAWA (CP) — Delegates of the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO-CCL) presented a brief to the cabinet Monday and then heard J. Richard d'Aoust, the labor minister, declare that cheap import restrictions on textiles.

The brief said that the nearly 200 delegates that the government could not afford to be called the present depressed state of the textile industry and the resulting unemployment by imposing restrictions on imported textiles.

It urged the government with discrimination against the textile industry. The brief also called for import restrictions on textiles.

Winter's First Fog Smothers Britain Cities

LONDON (AP) — The season's first major fog swirled over Britain and western Europe today, disrupting air and sea traffic and blotting out almost all light in many areas.

A deep twilight prevailed in London at midday but Londoners used to this sort of thing, regarded it as merely a curtain-raiser for the heavier fogs December 5 yet to come.

Only a few Londoners turned up with "smog masks"—as recommended by some doctors — tied around their noses and mouths, preferring apparently to hold their breath for short spells.

KILLED 12,000 IN '52

Last autumn acrid fogs polluted with smoke and industrial fumes from coal-fired heated 12,000 persons to their deaths.

Doctors suggested the square masks covering the nose and mouth might save some of them next year.

London and Northolt airports were closed, delaying plane traffic with the United Continent, Africa and the Orient.

Passenger ships crawling through the Thames estuary finally came to anchor when the fog made it impossible for them to feel their way to sea. Rail traffic was delayed.

Los Angeles Fears Entertainment Was Much Too Risque for Royalty

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Was the entertainment for the king and queen of Greece at a civic banquet here Saturday too risque for royalty?

The mayor, some city council members and several society leaders think so, and the corridors of City Hall are buzzing about it today.

Mayor Norris Poulson said he was shocked, particularly by some of the songs of sexy Eartha Kitt. Other politicians-critics found fault with some of the patter of actor Dick Powell, master of ceremonies at the black-tie, $15-a-plate affair.

Poulson's executive secretary, Herbert Aller, said the mayor, "I personally said some of the lyrics offensive. I feel, the Hollywood co-ordinating committee owes an apology to the king and queen."

The co-ordinating committee arranged the entertainment, in which Frankie Laine and comedians Danny Thomas also took part. Miss Kitt sang a number called "To Be Evil" and "Santa Baby."

Poulson added that "generally speaking, it was far from the high-type program that the occasion demanded."

Said Miss Kitt: "I can't understand it. I'm just an innocent little girl. I don't think it was possible to shock politicians.

And said Powell: "What did they expect, church hymns? It was only a little bit sophisticated."

Comedienne Dena Dale found fault with the Andrews Sisters.

MOSCOW (AP)—Thousands of people marched across snowy Red square today to file through the Lenin-Stalin tomb and get their first look at the embalmed body of Joseph Stalin. It was the first public opening of the tomb since the Soviet leader died in March.

Billboard Will Indicate Progress Of Building Fund

People of Belleville will be kept up to date on the Hospital Building Fund Campaign progress through the medium of a large billboard which was erected over the week-end on the Armouries grounds, corner of Pinnacle and Bridge Street East. The board was made and erected at no cost whatsoever to the Hospital Building Fund by the R. L. Ruddy Company. It was built and painted in sections in Toronto and brought to Belleville for erection Saturday.

To indicate campaign progress a bed will be painted on the board for every $15,500 raised. As the new wing will contain 100 additional beds this will indicate progress when the board is divided by 100 so that soliciting progress could be indicated almost daily.

The board will remain up for approximately two weeks, during which time intensive canvassing in Belleville and the County of Hastings is taking place. Advance solicitors of the Fund are scheduled to make their first report on canvassing at 4 p.m., Wednesday, November 18, in the Recreation Hall of the Nurses' Residence. Stencilled beds will begin to appear on this week-end target day which will mark the beginning of the most intensive phase of the Hospital Building Fund.

Rotarians Hear Of Urgent Need Of New Hospital

Malcolm Robb, Q.C., addressed the Rotary Club at the Hotel Quinte in support of the hospital campaign. Mr. Robb said the city "desperate" need which exists, he indicated no argument or criticism is made, but to appreciate the fact a new wing is required for the Belleville General Hospital.

The speaker listed some of the advances in medical science during the past decade and said that the greatest advance is during the field of humanity during that period has been made in medical science. "We have nothing to do with these marvellous medical strides," he said, "but here is our chance to play a part in these developments. We are the fortunate beneficiaries of these developments."

Mr. Robb advised forgetting any complaints against the hospital and to help during the campaign for funds. Old grievances, he pointed out like mud to do with whether or not a new wing at the hospital is necessary. He spoke of disasters and serious illnesses and what a hospital means in the saving of such tragedies.

Art Francis introduced Mr. Robb and Club President Cole who was sentenced Monday to 21 months in reformatory after pleading guilty to stealing $1,000 in cash of an insurance company here. He also was charged with two other break-ins and thefts the same night.....

Neville Murray, formerly of Australia, is the smallest performer but one of the biggest stars of Canadian ice Paradise of '54, the Canadian ice review which plays a single engagement in the Memorial Arena Wednesday night.

The pint-sized Mr. Murray, whose home is in Sydney, New South Wales, is 34 and in his tenth year in show business. His bicycle act on ice has been a favorite with audiences all over the world.

He has played in England, Germany, France, Italy, Hong Kong, Switzerland, India, Turkey, Malaya, Trieste, and Egypt since entering the top bracket of ice performers.

Mr. Murray came to Canada a year ago after starring with ice shows in Europe and the Middle East for the past seven years.

He learned his amazing tricks from his father, the late William Murray, who for years was the trick and fancy skating champion of Australia.

Albert College W. G. Enjoys Descriptive European Trip

The regular meeting of the Albert College Women's Guild was held in the ladies' parlor of Bridge Street Church on Friday with the president, Mrs. May presiding.

Mr. Don Weir, of Albert College, accompanied by Mrs. Egerton Boyd, played a violin solo which was much enjoyed by all those who were present.

BREAKFAST

The speaker of the afternoon was Miss Jessie Tuite, who gave a delightful account of her year's visit to Scotland, England and Ireland.

When she reached England in the summer of 1952, the period of mourning for King George VI was over, and preparations were already being made for the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II.

"An annex was being built opposite Westminister Abbey to accommodate very important people, who could not be seated in the Abbey itself. Buildings in London were being painted, many of them for the first time in years and, in short, London was having its face lifted in preparation for the great event.

After attending the garden party at Buckingham Palace, Miss Tuite went to Scotland where she visited different places of interest, among them, Balmoral Castle, the Scottish home of the Queen mother Elizabeth.

DICKENS' ATMOSPHERE

Miss Tuite spent Christmas in England, and she found that the old time Christmas festivities as portrayed in Dickens' stories were still observed in a very real way. The Scottish people hold their festivities at New Year's and observe Christmas as a religious day only.

Miss Tuite returned to London for New Year's, and she and her friends went to a hotel for the celebration. The big dining room hall tables arranged around the walls, the centre of the room being reserved for dancing. At 12 o'clock thousands of balloons were let loose and pipers came in and played Scotch airs. Everyone, both in the centre of the room, and at the tables joined hands and sang "Auld Lang Syne."

When Queen Elizabeth was crowned the Scottish people refused to call her "The Second", they loved and honored her, but refused to acknowledge Elizabeth 1st as having been a Queen of Scotland. Riots took place, which had to be quelled by orders from Parliament.

SECURE CORONATION SEATS

For the Coronation, Miss Tuite and a friend from Canada, Miss Ina McCauley, had been fortunate enough to secure seats next to the annex and almost opposite the Abbey. They had to be in their places at 6 a.m. All guests had to be in the Abbey at 8.30 a.m. London looked most beautiful with flags flying and with window boxes in full bloom.

The procession was colorful. The Horse Guards were magnificent and the Canadian Mounted Police drew forth a great ovation, second only to that received by the Queen.

While in England, Miss Tuite toured the Dickens' country and saw the green from which Miss Betsy Trotwood, David Copperfield's aunt, had driven away the donkeys.

TOURS KENT

She toured Kent and saw the cherry blossoms in bloom, visited Sandringham, the favorite home of King George and Queen Mary, and attended the Dorset Hunt Club.

She then returned to Scotland for the final week of the festival had shortly after boarded her ship for return to Canada.

Miss Tuite greatly enjoyed her year's visit to Scotland and England, but when she found herself on her return, she realized the truth of the old verse:

"East, West, Home is best."

Mrs. W. J. Morrison moved a vote of thanks to Miss Tuite for the great pleasure she had given her audience in telling them of her visit abroad.

Q. V. Students Pay Tribute To Their Friend

The little man in the police uniform, who stood at the corner of Pine and Lingham Streets, is dead. Richard Herbert Cornell, known to the children of Queen Victoria School as "Dick," was the traffic officer who guided 400 students across Pine Street each noon hour for the past years.

Throughout the many years he worked as traffic officer, the younger children especially, became extremely fond of Mr. Cornell. He was always good to them and took special care in ensuring they got across Pine St. in an accident free manner during that period he was ill. The children didn't know, but their beloved friend was dying of cancer.

When he became too ill to work he was sent to hospital. According to Principal Everett Fairman, of Queen Victoria School, the children were heartbroken. They gathered together and sent him some flowers, along with their well-wishes through Mr. Fairman.

But, on Saturday morning, November 14, Dick Cornell died in his 77th year at his home. At school on Monday, a memorial group of children lowered the flag to half mast, where it remained all day. Before the beginning of classes the pupils organized a remembrance service. Entirely under their own direction, they read the Scripture lesson, said the Lord's Prayer and Mr. Fairman spoke to them of his last visit with the traffic officer. From his sick bed Dick Cornell had told Mr. Fairman how fond he was of the children of Queen Victoria School and the principal carried back his words.

Two minutes of silence was observed and the school choir sang "Abide With Me." Thus did 580 students of Queen Victoria School pay tribute to their friend, the late Dick Cornell.
